A matrimonial event of more than usual interest took place at the George Street Methodist Church parsonage yesterday afternoon when a double wedding was celebrated. The contracting parties in one case were Mr. John Wesley Johnston, of Lakefield, son of Mr. Robert G. Johnston, and Miss Violet May Trennum, of Lakefield, daughter of Mr. Frank Trennum. In the other wedding the groom was a brother of the bride in the first case Mr. John Jas. Trennum, of Lakefield, while the bride was Miss Mary Luella McClure, daughter of Mr. Mitchell McClure, of Dummer Township. The happy young couple were unattended and the dual wedding was a very quiet affair, the ceremony being performed by Rev. E. A. Pearson, of the George Street Methodist Church. Both couples will take up residence in Lakefield.

PIPES CAUSE THE LOSS OF BPS TOWNSHIP FARMERS' RESIDENCE

Lindsay, Oct. 22.—Special.—The residence belonging to Mr. Frank Finnigan, who resides about five miles from town on the Little Britain road, was totally destroyed by fire at noon on Tuesday.

Mrs. Finnigan was starting the fire to prepare dinner and filled the stove full of cedar wood, with the result that a spark from the chimney set fire to the roof, and in a few minutes the entire building was in flames.

Part of the contents were saved, but Mr. Finnigan had 500 bushels of potatoes in the cellar that are a total loss. There was very little insurance on the building.

ROGERS IS IN FINE CONDITION

Has Been Meeting With Great Success in His Eastern Tour.

Word comes from Yankee Rogers that he is meeting with phenomenal success on his eastern tour and that he has defeated a number of good men. To-morrow night he has a match at Manchester, N.H. He says he is in the best of shape and feels confident of defeating young Haakenschmidt when the two meet here a week from to-morrow. He realizes that Haak is a most formidable adversary and will take a lot of beating, but feels supremely confident in his ability to take a fall out of the cousin of the ex-world's champion. Local fans are displaying much interest in the bout, which is under the auspices of the newly-formed Crescent A. C., of which Mr. C G Graham is president.

T. A. S. WILL PRACTICE TO-NIGHT

A Full Turnout is Expected at the Brock Street Rink.

There will be a full practice of the T.A.S. Rugby Club to-night at Brock street rink at 7 o'clock when both senior and junior players are asked to be out. Lights are being installed at Riverside Park, and to-morrow night the team will be able to get out in the open air. To-night they will have to fall back on the rink, and there will be a run outside afterwards.

The first game in the consolation series will be played to-morrow night at the Peterborough Bowling Club alleys between Hempstead's Uniteds and McCarrol's Franklins.

THE WIFE OF TWO MEN AT ONE TIME

New York, Oct. 22.—Two men in this city are pondering today upon the ingenious duplicity of Mrs. Catherine Stroebel, a dashing brunette who for many years led each to believe that she was his true loving wife.

The revelation that the woman kept house part of every 24 hours for each, came with the granting of a divorce to Philip Stroebel by Judge Aspinwall yesterday.

The evidence adduced convinced the court that Mrs. Stroebel was the spouse of Stroebel during the day and the wife of Jacob Valuse, a clerk, when his day's work was done. Stroebel was employed as an engineer and worked at night. By clever excuses and manipulations, the woman was able to fool the two men on Sundays, the only time when both were not working.

Stroebel owes his enlightenment to the observant habits of his sister Mrs. Matty Myers. The latter became suspicious and was able to verify her doubts, which resulted in the exposure of Mrs. Stroebel.

A STRONG CONDEMNATION.

The Review, Mr. Burnham's personally-conducted organ has been quoting freely from the Montreal Star, which has been a tower of strength to the Conservative party, whose proprietor, Mr. Hugh Graham, has spent money like water to secure the triumph of the "honest" (in Mr. Burnham's style) Conservative party, and in the election of 1904 was the disturber-in-chief of Conservative corruption funds. The Review will hardly quote the following from an editorial in the Montreal Star. The Star says:—

"Before Mr. Borden lined his party up on a platform of 'scandal' it would have been well if he had seen to it that they themselves could stand the rays of the searchlight; and if he found that some of them could not, he should have relegated them to the rank-and-file of the party. It is the simple truth that to-day the Conservative campaign fakers, and its appeals fall upon ears that are not too open, because the public cannot forget that it is preaching the sacredness of a public trust with Mr. Foster in the second place in the party, that it is denouncing land deals with Mr. Fowler and Mr. Leturgey as prominent candidates, that it is assailing the Militia Department and the Ross rifle with Col. Sam Hughes as the possible 'Minister of Militia,' that it is calling down vengeance on the Dark Lantern Brigade with the champion obstructionist of 1891—Hon. T. M. Daly — resurrected to run in Brandon, that Hon. Mr. Haggart is still in the field, that it is finding other candidates in the bosoms of other scandals, that the big corporations have servants to the left as well as to the right of the Speaker, that it joined in the looting conspiracy of the indemnity Grab, and that it possesses a thriving branch of the Plum Tree Club, though the 'plums are all grown on Government soil."

What consummate "cheek" for Mr. Burnham to appeal, in the outraged name of "honesty," to "honest Liberals' to vote for him and through him for the return to power of a group of politicians, characterized as above by the most intluential and widely circulated Conservative journal in Canada! The Star has stood a good deal in the way of party loyalty, it has stood crookedness, but it can't go a lurid combination of crookedness and incompetency.

THE "HONEST" CANDIDATE.

What does Mr. Burnahm expect to make out of the Dennistoun "colourless" telegram matter? Why does he want to raise heaven and earth to show that Mr. Dennistoun, as a dyed-in-the-wool Tory, the product of generations of Tory ancestry, would not, when asked, stand up for the party with which he is allied — in which all his interests are centred? What does Mr. Dennistoun's telegram amount to; what does it show?

If he were here in Peterborough he would doubtless be, as he has always been on other occasions, on the platform in the Conservative interests, giving the campaign a weight, dignity and respectability it is sadly lacking in the present contest.

If he were here at present he would doubtless be found supporting the Conservative cause, and incidentally because necessary, the candidate of his party, even though he was, as members of his own party assert, pitchforked into the nomination by imported and subsidized delegates. He would be moved by party loyalty, not by love for the man whose hand he refused to take on leaving Peterborough; the hand of the man who had clouded Mr. Dennistoun's happiness in the civic and social crisis of his life, by his dog-in-the-manger efforts to prevent a public demonstration of the respect of the citizens for one of its most worthy sons.

Everybody knows the terms on which Mr. Dennistoun and Mr. Burnham stood at the time of the former's leaving Peterborough.

But one can't know — only surmise—what means were adopted to induce Mr. Dennistoun to send his colourless telegram, undated, and too gushing by half, Mr. Burnham states a deliberate and distinct untruth, calculated to mislead the public. He says:

"Mr. Stratton, as well as the electorate, is reminded that at the time Mr. Burnham made his remarks (quoted in the 'out-of-his-mouth" poster), the Gamey inquiry was not completed."

The "electorate is reminded" that, in making this statement, Mr. Burnham is deliberately stating what he must know is untrue. It is a matter of record that the Gamey inquiry was completed, and the report of the judges—completely exonerating Mr. Stratton of the charges laid — was made public months before the remarks made by Mr. Burnham in eulogy of Mr. Stratton on November 20, 1903.

The merits of the matter are not important; but the importance lies in the fact that if Mr. Burnham misrepresents, and makes false statements about, Mr. Stratton in one thing, he will misrepresent and make false statements about him, as he doubtless has done, in other matters.

The Conservative candidate advances only one argument to show his fitness for a representative — that he is "honest.". Is it honest to use the paper he controls to print on the eve of polling day a deliberate false statement, intended to injure an opponent, and advance his own interests, by falsehood.

By what right does Mr. Burnham dare to appeal to the "honest Liberals" of West Peterborough for support? What right has he to present himself with his party identification as a model of honesty, uprightness and political virtue, and appeal to the honest Liberal to vote for him? It is the height of absurdity and impudence.

A RUINED INDUSTRY.

The Review quotes from the "American Protectionist" an article to show that the Canadian Woollen industry is ruined. By the way, how fond our loyal Conservative friends in this campaign are of quoting Yankee journals to help their cause. This yarn is not new. Mr. Kendry, who is taking an active part in this campaign, has been spinning blue ruin yarns for a dozen years, while his factory has been spinning woollen yarns night and day at times since he first prophesied in 1896 that if the Liberals came into power the Auburn Woollen Mills would go to smash at once. Mr. Kendry repeated this discredited prophecy in 1900, and again in 1904, he is telling the same story in 1908, and still the woollen mills are rattling away and at this present minute are busy and many other woollen mills are busy too. The Trent Valley Woollen Mills, at Campbellford, are running at top speed, working on large orders.

If the woollen mills industry has not been killed by the Liberal tariff aided by the British Preference after 12 years, it must be in a pretty robust condition. If an industry gets a "protection" of 30 per cent. and 60 per cent. against Germany, it should not complain, especially as it gets its raw material almost duty free. When Mr. Borden was in Peterborough he convicted Sir Wilfrid Laurier of a dreadful insult to Canada, because the latter suggested that woollen mills might produce an article by using shoddy that would meet a popular demand—he called it shoddy politics. Yet the woollen mills of Canada do not invariably produce goods "all wool and yard wide." Last year their were imported into Canada five million pounds of shoddy at 71-2 per cent. duty. The woollen industry gets a pretty good measure of protection under the Liberal tariff; more than many other lines of industry. Nobody wants to see any idnustry injured, but on the other hand, nobody, except those financially benefitted thereby, wants to see the consumer unduly taxed to create big dividends for any special industry. The policy of the Liberal Government is to adjust the tariff fairly—to give the manufacturer as much benefit as possible and impose as little burden as possible upon the consumer. Fair play to all interests is a good wholesome policy.

The woollen industry is like the burning bush of Moses, nec tamen consumebatur—always being ruined bu tnot ruined yet. Does it not seem a little peculiar that the woollen industry is the only one that has a fairly reasonably ground of complaint—and whether its grievance is due to the tariff or to the methods of the industry remains an open question.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS.

Vote for Stratton.

The Conservative party has too many leaders and not enough electors.

Liberal workers, you have done nobly. Now buckle down to work in the districts assigned. Leave no stone unturned, no vote unpolled, to win the day.

What we have we'll hold, /Liberal Government, progress and prosperity

Mr. Borden cries loot of timber because of the scarcity of timber for a good platform.

In 1896, Mr. Kendry, who is now preaching blue ruin on behalf of the Little Canadian candidate, said that Liberal Government tariff meant the closing of the Auburn Woollen Mills. Yet, after twelve years of closing—with an enormous bill for gas for night work—the mills are doing business at the old stand, and Mr. Kendry is still preaching blue ruin.

Will Mr. Burnham kindly tell us whether he is a Borden or a Foster Conservative?

Again in 1900 Mr. Kendry said the Liberal tariff would ruin the woollen industry; the Auburn Woollen Mills are still at work.

Mr. Burnham can boast of one vote—by wireless telegraph from Winnipeg.

In his "manifesto" Mr. Borden sets forth the "aim" of his party. If his party wants to "aim" to hit, it should use a Ross rifle, the best arm of precision—"made in Canada," and the arm of the Canadian militia.

Mr. Osler denies the Crow's Nest Railway graft. He says the C. P. R. will have to spend two and a half million dollars to make the line right.

That's too bad; but the Liberal Government saw that reduction of freight rates was made right in the interests of Northwest farmers.

The Canadian Northern freight trade between Port Arthur and Winnipeg is the heaviest in the company's history.

VOTE FOR STRATTON.

COMPARISON IN EXPENDITURES

In the News of Sept. 25th the statement was made that Conservative Governments had "handled" 438,000,000 in the twelve years preceding 1896, while the present Liberal Government "handled" $742,000,000 in the succeeding twelve years. Thus, according to the statement, there was $304,000,000 more to account for in the same period than in the first.

The Star, in commenting at the time on the assertions made, assumed —and the assumption was justified not only by the main statement, but by the argument based upon it by the News—that "handling" in this case referred to the money spent in the two periods. Accepting this as the correct interpretation, the Star pointed out that the News had understated the sum passing through the hands of Conservative Governments by nearly $100,000,000.

The News now gives us to understand that it was speaking, not of expenditures, but of receipts. This puts the case in a new and altogether misleading light. The ordinary receipts during the last twelve years of Conservative rule were substantially as the News states them, save that the fiscal year of 1896 should have been included by it in the Conservative period, since that financial year closed shortly before the Tupper Government went out of power. But there is this very material fact to be taken into account. During the time between which the Liberals came into power and the end of the fiscal year of 1907 the receipts were sufficient to meet practically the entire disbursements of the country, only a trifle over $5,000,000 being added to the public debt in that period, while in the previous eleven years the receipts came many millions short of meeting the outlay, and the national debt was largely added to in consequence.

The only comparison that means anything is one, not between the ordinary receipts in the two periods, but between the total disbursements. In making this comparison, the Star will take the expenditure for eleven year periods because eleven years are all for which we have the official figures, in the case of the present Government. These show that in eleven years ending with June, 1896, Conservative Governments spent $487,590,398. In the eleven years ending with March, 1907, the Liberal Government spent for all purposes $676,382,337. If we add on another $21,000,000 to make up the full twelve months of 1907, we have a grand total of $697,382,337. Thus during the eleven years of Liberal rule the total disbursements, the entire sum "handled," was only $209,791,939 in excess of that "handled" in the Conservative period—something very different as

Total disbursements from 1886 to 1896, inclusive:

1888	45,064,124
1889	43,518,198

1893	40,855,727
1894	43,008,233
1895	42,872,388
1896	44,096,383 — $487,590,398

1897	42,972,755
1898	45,334,291
1899	51,542,635
1900	52,717,466

1906	83,277,641
1907	65,778,138 — $676,382,337
Add three months from March to June, 1907	21,000,000
	$697,382,337

Furthermore, for every dollar of the excess, as the Star has shown over and over again, the country has received full value. The St. Lawrence canal system has been so improved that Canada is capturing the grian trade of the continent; the Intercolonial has been extended to Montreal, thus making it one of the great trunk lines of the country; a third transcontinental line has been put well under way; the West, as a result of a liberal immigration policy, is being filled up; and, partly as a result of our immigration policy and partly owing to the improvements in transportation facilities, our agricultural exports have increased with a bound. When the facts are honestly and intelligently stated, the Government has no reason to fear any comparison which may be instituted in regard to its financial record.—Toronto Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Conservative candidate, Mr. Burnham, has been denouncing Mr. Fielding as an extravagant and incompetent finance minister; but like all wild and irresponsible critics, he suggests no remedy. He hasn't had a word of praise for Hon. Geo. E. Foster, the brood hen of the "nest of traitors," and the deficit-maker through twelve years of Conservative "frenzied finance," who is slated as the future Finance Minister of Canada. Mr. Burnham is so truly moral that he won't even swear, "by George."

Unfortunately, the present campaign cannot boast of its elevating effect. The general feeling seems fittingly expressed in the language used by one gray-haired veteran in our ministry last week. He said: "I have been acquainted with Canadian politics for over sixty years, but I never remember such a mud-slinging campaign." Now, making all due allowance for human forgetfulness, and giving the present the benefit of every doubt, we fear it will still be found, by every unprejudiced observer, that the present campaign, if not a record-breaker in "mud-slinging," at least has given us so much of it that most of us are weary and heartily ashamed of it all.

ART CLASS TO BE OPENED

Luella W. Thexton, honour graduate in Fine Arts in the Gold Medal standing of Albert College, Belleville, will open a class of instruction at the well-known institution, the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, in Oil, Water Colour and China Painting, also miniatures on ivory; crayon, encil, charcoal drawing and designing. She will be pleased to receive upils at the above address for instruction in any of the above branches.

A LETTER ON LOCAL OPTION

Written by Bridgenorth Man to the Citizens of the City of Peterboro'

To the Citizens of Peterborough:

Some one has said "Once to every man and nation comes a moment to decide," but if the people of the twentieth century are going to hold their own in the rushing world of to-day, they must make every moment a moment of decision.

Now the eyes of the world will be upon you in your coming contest, against the Licensed Saloon. They will watch with interest the fight which you put up, and will know by your actions whether you are in earnest or whether you really believe in the fact that "Truth crushed to earth shall rise again."

Sentiment is sentiment, business is business; and if you really are in earnest "What has been done can be done, and more than has been done shall be done."

Now no really honest temperance man wishes any man any ill whatever, because that in itself is a sin, and sin surely is intemperance, but these saloon men knew, when they started their business, that they were dealing in precarious stock, and were liable at any time to be placed in a position which to say the least, will not be comfortable.

We read in Job where a young man said "Since year old I was afraid to show my opinion, now fear nothing," but Truth, sooner or later, must conquer, and if you can instill into the minds of these liquor men the fear that they are going to lose, you will have fought half your battle.

For your encouragement some of the hotel men are reported having said that they believed that Local Option could be carried in Peterborough if well tried for.

But you must also remember that half hearted service never amounts to scarce anything, and if you would win you first must fight, and fight in the most honourable way possible. I am sure you will.

There is no better service which you could render to the wives and families of a certain class in your far famed city, than to remove the temptation of drinking intoxicating liquors from the young men of your city. Some may say that they would get it anyway, but tell me, if you win shall not some one else win also and, in consequence, some day in the near future our fair Dominion shall be rid from this curse which holds in bonds so many of her citizens. Cast iron shall never win, but you must grasp the situation with a grip which will not let go until you have accomplished your aim, and no thought short of victory must stay in your minds until you have won, be it sooner or later.

Lives of great men all remind us:
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.
—Longfellow.

Now is your day, now is your opportunity to prove to the world that "men can be men," and that you are nothing short of any of your fellows in your struggle against wrong, and a power which will spare no expense or time to hold what they claim to be legally theirs. But can a house divided against itself stand? Neither, I say, can a country stand run by a liquor party.

It has been proven time after time, in both city and country, that municipal affairs prospered far above the past records by the passing of prohibition.

There are many things which might be said, but talking is cheap. Actions are louder than words; put your whole soul and mind into the work and know they labour not in vain who work for a good cause. Neither shall a cup of cold water go unrewarded given in His name.

Wishing your city every prosperity and no man any ill will or loss, but as right is right and wrong wrong, and must be shown its place.

I am, your humble servant,

RUSTIC.

HON. MR. STRATTON'S WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN; SPLENDID MEETING LAST NIGHT AT BUCKHORN

Enthusiastic Demonstration of Harvey Electors Proves Liberal Candidate's Old-Time Popularity Unabated —Telling Speeches By Messrs. J. Barnard, W. H. Meldrum And The Coming Member For West Peterborough.

It is a gratifying fact for the friends of the Liberal candidate that the campaign has grown, as the days advance towards its termination, more and more favourable for the return of Hon. J. R. Stratton as the next representative of West Peterborough in the House of Commons. If ever a doubt had been as to this result the splendid manner in which the citizens everywhere, from the extreme south of the division to its most northern point, have rallied to the support of Mr. Stratton has been resolved into a certainty that that gentleman will sit in the new Parliament of Canada to carry on there in a wider field, the splendid work that for eighteen years he conducted for this county in the Legislature of the province.

The public hall at Buckhorn, on Wednesday night, was crowded to its fullest capacity with a large and intelligent audience, and it was noteworthy that here as elsewhere, the ladies of the locality were conspicuously in evidence.

The meeting was organized by the election to the chair, on motion of Mr. Spencer, of Mr. Robert Shaw.

Mr. Robert Shaw.

On taking the chair, Mr. Shaw addressed a few earnest words to the electors present, in which he said he expected that by their votes they were going to send J. R. Stratton to Ottawa to carry on in a larger sphere of influence, the grand work that he had done during the past twenty years for all the people of Peterborough, but more particularly for the people of that district. By his energy and persistence he had provided the people of the country about Lakehurst with a means of communication with the Peterborough market that shortened the distance from six to 15 miles, accordingly as thy were situated. That in itself was a good reason why they would vote for him in the present contest, but in every other way they had found him a good representative, who was constantly and earnestly seeking for new ways by which the farmers of this county could be helped. (Applause). And they might be sure that when Mr. Stratton went to Ottawa they would have a good live member there to represent their interests. (Great applause).

Mr. Joseph Barnard.

Mr. Barnard, of South Monaghan, said the present was in many respects the most important election they had ever had in West Peterborough. In choosing between the two candidates it was for them to say which of the gentlemen before them, Hon. Mr. Stratton, or Mr. Burnham, was the more progressive, the more capable, and the more reliable man to represent their interests. What this county wanted was to get all we can, in a legetimate way, from the Government at Ottawa. He (Mr. Barnard) had just returned from a tour through the townships in this division, and he was proud to say that he had scarcely met a man from South Monaghan to Harvey, who was not a Stratton man. (Loud applause). They (the electors) had no right to deal with matters that affected the private business of the candidates, but when a man came forward asking to be sent to Parliament in their behalf, it was not only their right, but their duty to carefully scrutinize the claims he presented to them for their support. They were the men who paid the taxes, and it was upon them that the responsibility devolved. Now they had known or rather know of Mr. Burnham for the past twenty years. Mr. Burnham had been born with a silver spoon in his mouth. He had inherited wealth and he had always taken such good care of it that he had not even taken the responsibility of procuring a marriage license and setting up a house of his own. (Cheers and laughter). Had he ever put one dollar of his money into any enterprise that would provide employment for labour or build up the factories that made the local market for the farmers of the county? They knew he had not. Now turning to Mr. Stratton, they all knew that during the time he represented them, he had done more for the country and caused more money to be expended for their progress and prosperity than all the other members who had preceded him. (cheers) and if sent to the House of Commons he would be enabled to do more than ever for them. He (Mr. Barnard) had in years past been known as a Conservative, but when Mr. Stratton came to represent them, he had shown so much zeal for their welfare, had given such substantial proof of the sincerity of his desire to help the county, and had shown so much capacity and the kind of ability that accomplished results, that he (the speaker) was compelled to the conclusion that, aside from all politics, J. R. Stratton was the best man for Peterborough interests, and he had never had seen any cause to regret or to change that conclusion. (Cheers). He had known that gentleman, he might almost say, since he was a child, and as they would all admit, Mr. Stratton was one of that type of man whom no prosperity could spoil, for whom political or public eminence made no change in his intercourse with his neighbour; who was always the same kindly, unaffected, unassuming gentleman whose hand was always out to a neighbour, rich or poor; who had always the same cheery smile, the word of encouragement, and as many knew to their benefit, a kindly regard that was often put into more substantial form than mere words. Applause). In private or public concerns, when a difficulty arose, for the past twenty years, they had never failed to find in Mr. Stratton a trustworthy counsellor and a helpful friend. And therefore they were going to elect him in this contest, as he felt assured, by a larger majority than he had ever been given before. (Great applause).

Mr. W. H. Meldrum.

Mr. Meldrum received a warm greeting from the meeting as an old time friend, well known to many of the farmers. He paid a graceful compliment to the ladies, who were present in such numbers, and whose influence in the homes of the county was not only to be recognized, but gratefully acknowledged, for the influence of the ladies was always for better things. And this fact showed why they were ranged on the side of Hon. Mr. Stratton in this election. (Applause). It had been the general remark among the voters that he had met, whether they were of South Monaghan, or of Galway, or of Harvey, that they had never had the services of a representative who had done so much practical good for the county as Hon. Mr. Stratton. (Cheers). They had in past times, and he wished to speak with all due respect of that gentleman, elected to Parliament Mr. Conger, who had appeared before them and given them reason to expect great things were going to result for their benefit. But his efforts had ceased with the promising of them, and when they heard of him again he was comfortably ensconced as sheriff of the district. They had then had, Col. Haultain, a gifted gentleman from whom much was anticipated as a means to helping forward the progress of the county. But their expectations had been again doomed to disappointment, and Col. Haultain also gracefully retired to the fat seclusion of a profitable Government job. And others had followed who had been of less account, and their people had begun to despair of ever securing a member of Parliament who would take a real live and practical concern for their welfare. But it was a bright day when Hon. J. R. Stratton had been sent to their aid, and they had elected him to the Legislature. From that day on the people of Galway, of Cavendish, or Otonabee of Smith, and of every section of the county were compelled to recognize that they had at last secured a man. Things began to be done throughout the county. The roads began to be improved; neglected works were repaired and new works instituted; bridges and wharves that gave them a closer and cheaper and more profitable means of communication with their market town of Peterborough, were constructed, and a new life was infused into the development and progress of the county. Mr. Stratton had gone about among them, had enquired into their needs, and with that rare business acumen with which he was gifted he had brought influence to bear upon the Legislature that had made substantial realities of what before his time had been left to the realm of promise and conjecture. And he had not only shown his warm interest in their behalf by these means, but he had sought out in every quarter of the county where there was anything that might be provided for the farmers for their benefit, that might with reason be asked of the Legislature, and he went out after that thing and got it. (Applause). Mr. Meldrum went over the ground of the tariff policy of the Government, and compared it with that of their predecessors. Under the old "National Policy" the manufacturers had got all, and the farmers nothing, and as a result even what the manufacturer sought in an increase of his prosperity failed of accomplishment, because nothing was done for the welfare of the farmer upon which the factory was really dependent. He recounted what had followed the application of common sense to the tariff, the equalization and adjustment of duties that had benefited all the interests of the country with no unreasonable special privilege to none. Prosperity flowed in upon the farmer, and as the inevitable result, the manufacturers began to flourish. The unexampled career of business, manufacturing, and agricultural prosperity that was introduced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1896, and that year by year had grown in volume, was something that as patriotic citizens they could point to with pride, and which effectually appealed to the more selfish instinct of self-interest. Mr. Meldrum quoted from public statistics showing the extraordinary growth that had followed the fair tariff policy, in every avenue of national progress. The Government of this country was what the people made it, and it was in the power of the people, if they chose, as he believed they would, not to elect to go back to the methods that had preceded 1896, but they would give the seal of their approval to the work that had been so wisely and so well performed, and that had so greatly benefitted the nation, the county of Peterborough, and every citizen in it. (Applause). He dwelt upon the splendid results of the administration of the Department of Agriculture under Hon. Sidney Fisher, under which a million settlers had been sent into the West within the past few years, and by whose means they had seen this year a crop that would realize not less than $125,000,000 of absolutely new wealth wrought out of the soil and whose economic distribution would in some measure reach every community and every individual in Ontario. He went over the splendid progress that had been made in the transportation facilities of the country—the Grand Trunk Pacific, the St. Lawrence Channels enlargement, the Welland Canal improvements, and the now rapidly approaching completion of the Trent Valley Canal; the cold storage system that had so enormously advanced the dairy interests of the country, and in whose benefits they had so large a share. (Applause). Reviewing the candidates he believed that no candidate had ever done more to merit the favour of a constituency than Mr. Stratton had done, and he would ask them to turn to their experience for guidance. Was there a single public enterprise or a private industry in Peterborough to-day with which the name of Mr. Burnham could be associated? None. But they could hardly point in any direction, whether in city or country, in the field of moral progress or of material enterprise, where they would not find the name of J. R. Stratton associated with their progress and with everything that tended to help them onward and upward. (Applause). He hoped that for these reasons, and for other reasons he need not recount. They would on Monday next place their foremost citizen, where he ought to be—at the head of the polls by a very great majority. (Great applause).

Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Mr. Stratton, who was enthusiastically greeted, thanked the people of Buckhorn for the friendly interest they had evinced in his candidature. He had opened his campaign and was now closing it in that quarter of the county. He felt especially encouraged by the presence of so many ladies in the audience. And this support of those who ruled in the homes in the county had, he was grateful to say, been given him during this contest from South Monaghan to the Monk road. Though the ladies had no votes they were as much interested in the cause of government as the sterner sex, and they were never very far wrong in their sympathies. (Applause). He (the speaker) had been before the riding on many occasions, and had been always accorded a confidence which was his greatest pride, but he had never solicited the vote of an elector on the only ground that he was a Liberal. He had always sought to maintain the position that gave him a free hand to give support to any measure that promised benefit to the people who entrusted their interests to his care, no matter from what source it proceeded. As their representative the interests of West Peterborough occupied the first place in his mind and controlled his every action in their behalf. And he presumed that it was because he had enquired into their needs, had familiarized himself with all the conditions that affected them, and had so been able to do things of a practical character of which they had felt the benefit, that he had always had the people behind him, so that his majority, in the first instance of thirty-four, had been increased from term to term to 1,200. And it had been because it was recognized that the people had been behind him, that he had been enabled to exert a stronger influence in their behalf. When he had been elected to the Legislature he had always borne in mind that he represented the whole people of the county and the interests of all, and not of any section or of any party among them. (Cheers). In this Canada of ours we were building up a nation in which all creeds and nationalities united in a common effort for the common good. The settlers who came among us from abroad might be English, or Irish, or French, or from guid auld Scotland, it mattered not. Here they were welcomed by a broad, noble and generous immigration policy, and while they might not lose sight of some natural prejudice in favour of the land of their nativity, they were still true Canadians by whose efforts, and by the efforts of their children after them, this nation was being built up to be the brightest and best country under the sun. (Applause). When he had first visited Harvey twenty-three or twenty-four years ago, they did not have the advantages which they now enjoyed. They had witnessed the means of communication improved and developed so that they had been given quicker and cheaper means of access to their markets. They had had churches and buildings for public convenience, toward which he had been glad in some measure to aid, and all the conditions of their lives had been bettered. The public highways had been improved so that when he left them there were none superior in the province, and bridges, dams and slides of a permanent character had been provided. As Mr. Shaw had mentioned, the work at the Narrows had been started and completed, and those at Bobcaygeon, Pigeon Creek and Chemong Lake, that had been a bone of dispute and contention between the adjoining counties, had been settled for all time to come. In all the local works that had been provided or extended during the past eighteen years, he had been in some measure the instrument by which results had been obtained. (Cheers). He had never obtruded whatever claims to credit might be fairly conceded to him, because he regarded it in the line of his duty to the people, and he had always been satisfied that the people were appreciative of anything accomplished in their behalf. His opponent had even sought to deny him credit for the Bensfort bridge, one of these works that had been provided for the advantage of the farmers of South Monaghan, bringing them twelve to fifteen miles nearer their market town, just as similar works in the north had brought the people of Harvey closer and more profitably in touch with the City of Peterborough. He had never sought all the credit of any of these undertakings, but he believed they would recognise that he had been of some help. (Cheers). All these works that had built up, up and down the river and on the highways, might have been done years ago if they had only had anyone to push their claims. It always required some man who had the grit and determination to get in behind these projects and push them forward, and to demand and insist that things be done, and he (the speaker) had been that man for West Peterborough, though he did not want them to give him any more credit than that he had endeavoured faithfully to perform his duty, to be worthy of their generous confidence and to accomplish some good for their welfare. (Loud applaus). Coming to his opponent in this election, he desired to say no unkind word of him; his own record as their public servant for nearly twenty years past was known to them all, and he could moreover point to his share in pushing forward the private business enterprises by which both the City and County of Peterborough had so greatly benefitted. But he might reasonably be permitted to enquire what had Mr. Burnham done for the public in that time? (Cheers and laughter). Mr. Burnham had enjoyed some fifty years of this life, and he had not only had the same opportunities that he, (Mr. Stratton), had been afforded, but even greater, for while he had to work for any means that he had been enabled to employ in public enterprises, Mr. Burnham had inherited his wealth. Had his opponent in this election ever risked a dollar of his possessions in any business or manufacturing project that promised to give employment to labour, or to benefit his neighbours? So far from that, he had not even developed enough of enterprise to provide a home for himself, and had resolutely refused to even invest the small amount of capital that was required to take out a marriage license. (Cheers and laughter). They had been favoured with a good deal of foolishness about Home Life matters, but he would leave it to the ladies to decide whether a confirmed old bachelor was in any position to set up as a judge of home life affairs. (Cheers). Leaving the candidate he would endeavour to give them some reasons why the present Government should be sustained and the first and most important was that great national enterprise, the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, that great transcontinental line that was to open up a new Canada, and contribute so much to the development of the destiny of greatness that he and they believed was before this country (Applause). They knew what magnificent results had flowed from the building of the Canadian Pacific railway, how provinces and cities, population, progress and prosperity, had been spread over the vast expanse of territory which was traversed by that gigantic railway system, acknowledged to be the greatest in the world to-day. (Cheers). But, as they had received proof, that road with all its resources, was not equal to the task of delivering to the markets of Europe the product of the ever-widening wheatfields that were making our western prairies the recognised granary of the world. Already on the new transcontinental line over 700 miles of completed road was moving the grain from Edmonton to Winnipeg, the product of a virgin soil that could not have been made available but for the splendid foresight and the energetic enterprise of their great Canadian premier, who had the genius to conceive and the courage and wisdom to realize the means by which the destiny of our country is to be attained. (Applause). And when that great undertaking was completed from Halifax to Prince Rupert, it would place under tribute to the expanding prosperity of the nation untold sources of wealth, from the vast mineral resources and forests of a new Quebec and a new Ontario, and a great fertile belt of the most productive soil of the world stretching across the continent (Loud applause). And he believed that in a short time indeed, the wonderful awakening of this vast country, extending its arms of comfort and happiness to millions from the old world whose future is to be made secure on the broad basis of this Canada of ours, there will be required to transport the product of that land, a third and perhaps a fourth transcontinental line. And though we might not all live to see it, yet doubtless many now present would be able to witness this Canada a nation not of eight millions but of eighty millions. (Great applause). And looking at this march of progress from a narrower and more selfish view, see what the vast expenditure upon the great work involved, does for our own immediate welfare. The factories and furnaces of Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario furnished every material that entered into the work of construction, and even the labour that was utilized, by its wages spent in supplying the needs of the toilers, came to the eastern provinces and helped to build up their prosperity. It was in a very large measure indeed owing to these conditions that Canada had so lightly escaped the disastrous consequences of the world-wide business depression that had stricken and prostrated their great neighbour, the United States. (Cheers). Mr. Meldrum had pointed them to the $125,000,000 of new wealth that was in this single year produced from the fertile breast of the Great West. Let them consider that of this vast sum not less than $60,000,000 would come directly back to the manufacturing industries of the older provinces, and principally of Ontario. (Applause). And in the impetus that this expenditure gave to the factories, and the necessary enlargement of the field of labour, a local market was built up in Peterborough as in every other centre of industry, which was the very best and most profitable market for all that they produced. So that the progress and development of the West was reflected in the most direct and beneficent manner to the East. (Cheers). And in five years not $125,000,000, but $400,000,000 would be thus added to the annual creation of wealth, and would in the same way benefit the manufacturers of Peterborough and the farmers of Harvey. (Applause). Now they had heard complaints that the Government was spending money. Well, he thought they had the good sense to realize that these great results of which each of them in a measure had felt the benefit, could not be attained without spending money. Our only concern was to know that this money had been wisely, prudently and judiciously expended, and of that they had the most ample proof. It was by this progressive policy of the Government that they had been able so successfully to develop the industries that had advanced Peterborough from a town of 9,000 to a city of 17,000, and had made a market there that had increased the values of farm lands by at least 40 per cent. (Applause). Again, let them compare the cost to the country of the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk Pacific, and though the Canadian Pacific was a costly bargain, comparatively, yet no sane man in the country to-day could fail to acknowledge the wonderful benefit that it had been to all our people. The Canadian Pacific had cost in cash and lands that represent cash to-day $150,000,000, and the nation does not own a mile of that great system. The Grand Trunk Pacific would cost at the outside not more than $15,000,000, that represented the interest in the outlay on that portion of the line from Winnipeg to Moncton, and the country would own one half of a great transcontinental system of railway, whose great benefit to the nation it was almost impossible to conceive. (Applause). Mr. Stratton reviewed the history of the Trent Valley Canal, that for years had been used as a sop for the votes of the district, and with no evidence of any sincere intention to ever build it, but that was to-day, thanks to the vigorous, honest and conscientious statesmanship of the Government, an almost accomplished fact. And in a brief time the traffic of the great western empire, not of Canada alone, but of the States of the adjoining country would be passing by their doors to a great seaport at Montreal that would one day overshadow the proudest Atlantic cities of the neighbouring republic. (Great applause). And this canal and the improvements that would attend it, would do much to develop the advantages from which even to-day they derived so large a source of profit. There were many things that to his mind a representative in Parliament might devote his attention to; that push and energy might successfully urge upon the administrative departments, and the result would be of advantage to them all. For instance, if greater enterprise were employed in making known the scenic beauties with which nature had so bountifully endowed North Peterborough, and the incomparable realm of sport which was at our doors in the streams and the forests, the millionaires of Chicago, of Buffalo, of New York, and of Pittsburg, who were looking about for new fields to exploit their wealth, would be brought in among them, and become an important source of income to the district. To maintain those advantages they should see that fish hatcheries were erected so that by scientific restocking this great source not only of pleasure but of wealth, might not be allowed to become exhausted. (Applause). Mr. Stratton reviewed the progress of the various departments of the public service, and particularly the Post Office Department that was now about to make a daily delivered mail available to the farmers along their mainly traversed highways. He concluded by saying that oratory was not his forte. He claimed no skill in the art of word painting, but if he possessed that skill he would not employ it, as his opponent was doing, to traduce and decry the men who today were building up the greatness of Canada, but would rather wish to present them with some faint view of the splendid destiny toward which our country is making such rapid strides. (Cheers). He had always been something more of a doer than a dreamer, and when they sent him to Ottawa, as it was their manifest intention to do, he would make their concerns his own, and no matter what bore upon their welfare nothing would be too great or too small to command his earnest attention. He hoped to see many of his Harvey friends in Peterborough on Monday night to join the other friends of good Government and progress in the victory they were going to achieve. (Loud and prolonged cheers).

After cheering the ladies for their presence, and paying their loyal duty to His Majesty, the King, the meeting concluded with an enthusiastic "hurrah" for Hon. J. R. Stratton.

COLPORTEUR'S ADVENTURES.

British Bible Man Nearly Lost His Life In Lower Egypt.

According to the annual report of the British and Foreign Bible Society, the Bible—or portions of it—is now printed in 418 different languages. During the past year sections have been printed in Lengua, a language spoken by the Indians of the Paraguayan Chaco; in Lu-Nyankole, the speech of a tribe inhabiting the region southwest of Uganda; and in Hindu-Sindhi, a dialect current among the Hindu inhabitants of Sindh.

One colporteur entered an out-of-the-way village in lower Egypt, and offered his Gospels to a number of the fellaheen. He was greeted with the words, "Oh, you kafir (infidel). Do you sell the Bible to us, the true believers?" A man with a gun came along and joined the others. "Let us take him and shoot him — the dog!" they cried. Then they led the colporteur to a large shed. The latter laid aside his bag of books, and took off his turban. "Before you shoot me, let me drink from that jar." The request was granted.

The jar stood close by the man with the gun. As the colporteur, who is noted for his strength, passed the man, he knocked him down and wrested the gun from him. The others, thinking that he would shoot them, ran away, and hid among the tall Indian corn growing nearby. Shortly afterwards the colporteur handed the loaded rifle to a company of men he knew, and passed on his way.

STRAIGHT TALK.

Sir Christopher Furness Makes Some Propositions to Striking Workmen.

A memorable conference between capital and labor, summoned by Sir C. Furness, head of the shipbuilding firm of Furness, Withy & Co., and also of the Furness line of steamers, has been held at West Hartlepool. Sir Christopher told the delegates that it was impossible to carry on the shipbuilding business of the firm unless the incessant friction with the employes be stopped. He, therefore, invited the representatives of all the trades unions connected with the industry to meet him to hear certain proposals.

These, briefly condensed, were:

First, that strikes must cease or the works would be closed.

Second, if the trades unions thought they could carry on the business themselves the firm was willing to sell out at a price to be fixed by assessors.

Third, if the unions would not buy the firm was willing to admit its workmen as partners on a profit-sharing basis.

Fourth, that a council be formed to settle all disputes, or refer them to accredited arbitrators.

Sir Christopher's address embodying the foregoing proposals was a lucid and able defence of the capitalistic and an attack on Socialism. His hearers were attentive. They declared that they must examine the proposals in detail before expressing an opinion. The meeting then adjourned.

Obliging Jordan.

By W. F. Bryan.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"Well, sir?"

"I though I told you not to bother me again about Vera until you had money enough to support a wife."

"You did," assented Sidney, "but, you see"—

"I don't see you," broke in Jordan, "and I have had an eye on you, too, sir. You have some $3,000 in the bank, drawing 3 per cent. I offered you an opportunity to invest it at 10 per cent, and you refused."

"But, you see, I thought"—

"That's the trouble. You don't think right!" thundered Jordan. "You are afraid to risk it in a speculation which, I believe, will do better even than the 40 per cent I prophesied. Then you hang on to that absurd farm which is 'bound to be valuable some day' because it is on the water front."

"It is valuable already," interrupted Sidney. "In a year from now"—

"It will be worth just as much as it is worth today and will be the same five years hence. A paltry bank account and a hundred acres of your farm, and yet you insist that you are entitled to come here and bother me about Vera every six months. It's absurd. It wastes my time."

"But this time"— broke in Sidney pleadingly.

"Last time it was the rumor that a trolley line was to be built, and you wanted to cut your farm up into building lots. You're dippy about the value of that land. I've got 200 acres more than that I'll sell you for your $8,000 cash. That's about $40 an acre."

"I'll take you," agreed Sidney as he drew out his check book. "Will you have the transfer made out at once?"

Jordan stared incredulously. It seemed too good to be true. Though he was a rich man, Jordan was terribly pressed for ready cash with which to swing certain deals, and this $8,000 would solve several financial problems.

Rising, he led the way across the hall to the offices of his lawyers, instructing them to make out a deed to Harlan, and the latter sat down to wait for it, being assured that it would require but a few minutes.

The clerk did not explain that a similar deed had been drawn up only a few weeks before, when Jordan had sought to sell the ground for half of what he was getting from Harlan.

The deal had fallen through, and it only remained to recopy the document with the new name and terms. In twenty minutes Harlan owned the property and an office boy was on his way to the bank with the check for Jordan.

"If you think you have won my admiration with any such grand stand play as this," he said brutally, "you have made a mistake. You're paying twice what that land is worth just to call my bluff. That's not the sort of man I want for a son-in-law. I want a man who can drive a bargain, not one who can be fooled the way you have been."

"If you will let me explain"— began Harlan; but, with a laugh, Jordan shut the door between them. He was still chuckling over the incident when a card was brought in, [illegible] followed by a sharp, eager looking man, a local real estate agent.

"Uncommon cheerful you look," commented the newcomer as he took a chair uninvited.

"Just been turning down my daughter's suitor and getting rid of a lot of useless real estate by loading it on him," responded Jordan, with a chuckle. "That's the seventh time I've told Harlan that he couldn't marry Vera."

"And you sold him that parcel of land out by the lake?" asked the other man.

Jordan nodded. "And at forty an acre," he said, with a grin. "Got rid of the whole 200 acres. He's an idea that some of these days the land is going to be worth something. I knew he had $8,000 in bank, and I let him buy the lot for just what he had. I bet he can't even pay the taxes."

"You haven't delivered the deed yet, have you?"

"Did you think I was going to give him a chance to cool off?" demanded Jordan. "That's not my way of doing business. I just took him across the hall and had the deeds drawn and turned over to him. The money is in the bank by now."

"I couldn't be forced to take it back," was the answer, followed by a rumbling laugh. "I've put that parcel on poor Harlan so tight that it's going to stick. What's worrying you about it?"

"Jordan, Harlan didn't tell you that he had given forty acres of his land to the Mower and Reaper people, did he?" asked the agent.

"They're going to take a site on the other side of the river," said Jordan. "I picked up a few acres cheap just the other side of their plant. They employ several thousand people, and there will be a fortune in sites for homes for the workmen."

"They were planning to build over there," said the visitor slowly, "but the cost of the land was run up when it was discovered who wanted it. Then Harlan came along and heard of the deal and gave them forty acres outright and looked to the other sixty to make his profit. Now you've made him a present of 200 acres for $40 when I came to offer you an even $100 an acre."

For a moment Jordan's face purpled. He knew the ground, and he knew that the 200 acres were about all that could be used by the factory and the town that would arise near by.

It would be impossible to pick up any more land, for Harlan's holdings were on a peninsula, and the Jordan tract was immediately behind that. On the other side of the road was a marsh that it would scarcely pay to fill in. Harlan had the game in his own hands.

The visitor took his departure when he found that Jordan had no land to sell, and the old man was left alone to think things over. As the result of his cogitations he reached for the telephone and called up his house.

"Is young Harlan there?" he asked when he heard his daughter's voice in answer. "Tell him to wait," he added. "Ask him to stay to dinner. We might as well settle when you two are to be married."

"I wanted to let him in on my information," explained Sidney when Vera demanded light on the peculiar message. "It seems that he wants his son-in-law to be able to do him, and—I did him—just to oblige."

"Not a bit of it," asserted Harlan. "He wouldn't really like me if I did."

Effect of an "H."

A cockney whose name was Ogton, which he, following the usage of his class, pronounced Hogtown, settled at the beginning of the last century in the city of New York, where he did business as a trader. His prefixing of the "h" was the occasion of a postoffice story which Dunlap, the author of the "History of the Arts of Design," tells.

Before the clerks of the postoffice knew Ogton he called day after day to inquire if there were "any letters for John Hogtown."

"None, sir," was the invariable answer.

"Very strange," said he, feeling uneasy about the goods he had ordered from England and the bills of exchange he had remitted.

One day after the usual question, "Any letters for John Hogtown?" his eye, following the clerk, noticed that he was looking among the letters beginning with H.

"'Ollo!" cried he. "What are you looking there for? I said John Hogtown."

"I know it, sir, and I am looking for John Hogtown, and there's nothing for you."

"Nay, nay!" shouted John. "Don't look among the hatches. Look among the hoes." And among the O's were found a pile of letters addressed to John Ogton, which had been accumulating for many a week.

He Obeyed Orders.

Years ago when Clemenceau was the mayor of Martre and at the same time a deputy he opened a dispensary in the quarter, where advice was given free, for Clemenceau is a specialist in skin diseases. One day he noticed that he had just one hour in which to get his luncheon and go down to the chamber, where he had to interpellate the government. He called his assistant and said, "How many more patients are there waiting?"

"Six," replied the man.

Four of these six had their cases diagnosed, and Clemenceau, after another glance at his watch, said, "Tell the other two to undress at once, as I have only two more minutes to wait." One entered, and Clemenceau wrote out a prescription in the twinkling of an eye.

The last man came in as naked as the day when he was born. Clemenceau eyed him for a minute and then said: "You are suffering from no skin disease. What have you come here to worry me for?"

The man looked at him aghast for a minute and replied: "Skin disease? I never said I had a skin disease. Your man came in and told me to undress, M. le Deputé, and I did so. All I wanted to ask you was to use your influence to get my sister a place in the postoffices in Algeria."

CITIZENS INTERESTED IN SHEFFIELD CHOIR

Evidence is daily forthcoming that the visit to Canada of the Sheffield Choir is being awaited with the keenest possible interest in musical circles and by business men also throughout the country. That both parties will be well satisfied is a foregone conclusion. The great music publishing firm of Novello and Sons, of London are sending out their head, Mr. Littleton, who, with his wife and child, leaves for this country by the S. S. Tunisman. He will enjoy a visit to the Pacific coast before the Sheffield choir arrives, and return in time to take part in the various functions that are being prepared for their reception. Dr. Littleton, while here, will arrange for the establishment of a branch of his firm in Canada, so that already practical outcome of this scheme of music reciprocity is assured. The great musical organisation comes to Peterborough on Nov. 12th, and those in charge of the guarantee list report that seats are in demand by twos, fours and even sixes.

Music and Drama

Gus Rogers of the stage comedy team of Rogers Brothers, died in New York on Monday of appendicitis. Rogers had an attack of appendicitis in Chicago in 1902, but he deferred the operation. He improved and resumed his work on the stage. He was taken sick in Utica three weeks ago while touring with the "Rogers Brothers in Panama."

Gus Rogers was one of the best known low comedians on the American stage. The brothers, Gus and Mac started their stage career in Austin and Stein's Music Hall in Boston in 1889. They did a German dialect and knock-about act.

Ten years ago they were signed by Klaw & Erlanger. They appeared first in "The Round of Pleasure," and later started in the "Reign of Error." "The Rogers Brothers in London," and later "In Paris," "In Ireland," "Washington," "Harvard" and other pieces written for them. Gus Rogers was said to be worth $300,000. His wife, Maude Raymond, a vaudeville player, and two children survive him.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

This production far surpasses that of last season in every particular and will be the best ever seen here. Special attention has been given to the staging of the drama and the new scenic effects are said to be magnificent. The thrilling floating ice scene on the Ohio river, the realistic moonlight scene of the St. Clair plantation with house, garden and cotton fields beyond, and the superb transformation scene at the end of the last act are some of the greatest. One of the largest organisations ever gathered together in one combination has been engaged for this season. The company numbers 50 people white and colored. A clever quartette of singers and dancers who add materially to the program by a number of high-class specialties, are also with this great company. Taken as a whole, it is an engagement that can be enjoyed by both young and old. This big company travel in their private Pullman Palace cars and have two bands of music, a number of ponies, donkeys, dogs, little carts, carriages, floats, etc., and give a grand, glittering street parade at noon.

The slight trouble of looking for the name "Salada" on a package of tea is well repaid by the satisfaction you have in drinking it. 48

Vast Work Awaiting Y. W. C. A. In Providing Homes For Women

Rev. Dr. Elmore Harris Emphatically Points Out That There Are Vast Numbers of Young Women Working in Cities Away From Home.

ADDRESSES TO BE GIVEN

Although he only made a passing reference to the work which can be done by the Young Women's Christian Association in his address on "The One Body" at St. Paul's Church last night, Rev. Elmore Harris, D.D., of Toronto, certainly emphasized the capabilities of the Association and the necessity for radical advancement of the work by the few facts which he mentioned. It is estimated, he said, that one-tenth of the inhabitants of Toronto, and even of Canada, are young women who are engaged in some manner of service. That is to say, they are working in offices, schools, stores, factories, etc., and in this way many of them are supporting themselves. Considering only the city of Toronto, there are, then, thirty thousand young women in these occupations. Ten thousand of these are from the outlying country and other towns, and are without homes.

"If you could examine the conditions in this city of Peterborough," Mr. Harris said, "you would be amazed by the number who are living here in boarding houses with all their loneliness and without the helpful sympathetic environment of home life." In the factory town of Fall River, Mass., 45 per cent. of the population are young women in this condition. Continuing, Rev. Mr. Harris mentioned the story of the invasion of Women, which is found in this months issue of Everybody's Magazine, the cover design of which is a sea of faces of young women. One of the great problems of to-day is the proper care and protection of these girls, and the Y.W.C.A. offers the solution. No agency can handle this work as well as this institution. Mr. Harris stated, and he enumerated several reasons substantiating his statement. First, because of the concentration of the work—young women between the ages of 18 and 30 years, who live in Y.W.C.A. buildings have social and educational facilities, not forgetting the attention which is given their physical development, that can scarcely be obtained elsewhere, that is, excepting at home. The ultimate aim is to lead them to Christ, to assist in building up that true character that is so admired and so necessary in young women.

Another reason is the comprehensiveness of the work performed by the Y.W.C.A. The physical, mental and spiritual welfare is looked after. It would pay a city, Mr. Harris said to give this institution its sympathy and support. It would pay the business men to invest thier money in it. The work needs concentration of money. Lack of funds is crippling the work. Toronto, with ten thousand young women without homes, is able to accommodate, through the Y.W.C.A. only 200. A project is on foot, Mr. Harris said, to provide $100,000 to adequately attend to this work, and this sum will scarcely prove sufficient.

First of Series

The series of Biblical addresses which began last night are under the auspices of the Y.W.C.A. and will be continued until Sunday evening next. The programme for the rest of the week is as follows:

A PROMINEMT WOMAN EVANGELIST COMING

To Lecture on Work in Prisons and Charitable Institutions.

On Thursday, Oct. 29th Mrs. Barney the eminent prisoners' evangelist, comes to Peterborough to lecture under the auspices of the W.C.T.U. The lecture will be given in the George street Methodist church.

This is a rare opportunity to hear a remarkably gifted woman. Mrs. Barney has an international reputation as a Gospel preacher and temperance lecturer. The London Times, England, in commenting on her work describes her as the "Elizabeth Fry of America," because so large a part of her life has been spent in religious work in prisons and jails. For many years she has been superintendent for the National and World's Women's Christian Temperance Union for Prison, Police, Charitable and Reformatory work. There is scarcely a prison in America and Canada which would not open its doors to her kindly presence, and the number of those whom her influence has bettered cannot be tabulated.

HAIR SLAUGHTER; KILLED BY NEGLIGENCE

Hair must have nourishment or die. If it does not have proper nourishment it will lose its vitality, grow weak and become an easy prey to the ravages of the vicious and destructive germs of dandruff.

It should be used regularly as a hair dressing by everyone with healthy hair, because it never fails to prevent dandruff, falling hair, or any scalp disease.

But Parisian Sage is not only a preventive it is a certain cure for dandruff; it stops itching of the scalp instantly; it makes hair grow thick and luxuriant. It is especially in demand by ladies, because it makes the hair beautiful, soft and fluffy. Wm. Madill, the druggist, sells it under a positive guarantee to do all that is claimed for it, or money back. 50 cents for a large bottle.

GREAT PROGRESS MADE ON GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC

track will run parallel with the sound, and six feet above high water mark. It is learned that the company contemplates calling tenders in the very near future for the next hundred miles.

On the return journey the party again rode over its own line from Saskatoon to Winnipeg, and in the short interval since they had been gone the construction of some new elevators had been started.

In Winnipeg last night the president was in consultation with Timothy Foley, of the firm of Foley, Walsh and Stewart, contractors, and also met C. A. Young, one of the Transcontinental Railway commissioners. The party leaves for the east this morning.

OBITUARY.

MR. J. CARR

Mr. J Carr, a former resident of Peterborough, died in Toronto yesterday. He was employed in the Toronto Railway Car Chops and on Monday night was taken ill with apoplexy and removed to St. Michael's Hospital. The body will arrive in Peterborough to-morrow on the noon train for burial.

AUTUMN

And through the valleys in between, the sluggish rivers flow.
Along the ridge the early frost has changed the maple's green,
And the flowers have lost their dewy gloss, the grass its emerald sheen.

Climbing down the rugged slope one eve to see the sunset glow,
I sat me down at length to rest—the walk was long and slow—
And as I sat there dreaming long, out of the western skies

No earthly vision I beheld—those walls of jasper clear
By the Tree of Life a river ran, its waters clear and cold.

I looked, and as I looked, a mist came o'er my longing eyes,
As the Fox creeps down o'er the possum's breast when the seething billows rise.
And in my heart rose a newborn light as I listened there so long.

'Tis the song of the angels in heaven to the Lord whom they adore.
And that night as the sunset faded and the western sky grew dim
All around me rang the echoes of that holy, heavenly hymn.

And when the long arrows of sunset on the day of my life shall shine,
I shall think of that night on the hilltop with the music so divine.
And its echoes round me stealing will cheer me through Death's cold wavve.
Till I reach the home of celestial song in the world beyond the grave.

—L. E. C. Moray.

IS ON A TOUR OF INSPECTION

The Edmonton Bulletin says:—Col. Steele, District Officer, commanding District No. 12, arrived in the city yesterday and is the guest of Dr. de L R Harwood, corner of Victoria avenue and Fourteenth street. He will remain here for several days inspecting the stores and consulting with the officers of the squadrons with reference to the needs of the service.

Speaking to the Bulletin representative of the new infantry regiment, Col. Steele said the officers would be gazetted shortly with Col. E B Edwards in command. Some delay was occasioned in making the selection of a commanding officer as Col. Edwards was undecided as to whether he would resign the command of his Ontario regiment, but he finally decided to do so.

The district commanding officer said that work would be started early next spring on the $100,000 armoury and drill hall which is to be located on a corner of the exhibition grounds. The site had not yet been formally approved by the department, but an inspector would be here shortly and he had no doubt but that it would be acceptable. It is also the intention to erect a smaller armoury in Strathcona next year for the use of the squadron of Alberta Rifles and the infantry companies. A grant has already been made for this purpose.

THE CURIOSITY OF SLEEP

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, a celebrated physician, writes an article of surpassing interest on "The Curiosities of Sleep," in the October American Magazine. He tells why shoes fit tight in the morning, why one curls up for a nap, why one grows drowsy in a stuffy room, why great men recuperate quickly, and why various other interesting things are true. On the subject of the painlessness of death, he says:

"This opposition between death and sleep does not, however, destroy one consoling analogy which has been drawn between them, and that is that they are both painless, and cause neither fear nor anxiety by their approach. It is one of the most merciful things in nature that the overwhelming majority of the poisons which destroy life, whether they be those of infectious diseases, or those which are elaborated from the body's own waste products, act as narcotics and abolish consciousness long before the end comes. While death is not in any sense analogous to sleep, it resembles it to the extent that it is in the vast majority of instances, not only not painful, but welcome. Pain racked and fever scorched patients long for death as the wearied toiler longs for sleep. The fear of death which has been so enormously exploited in dramatic literature, sacred and otherwise, is almost without existence in sickness. Most of our patients have lost it completely by the time they become seriously ill.

"While many of the processes which lead to death are painful, death itself is painless, natural, like the fading of a flower or the falling of a leaf. Our dear ones drift out on the ebbing tide of life, without fear, without pain, without regret, save for those they leave behind. When Death comes close enough so that we can see the eyes behind the mask, his face becomes as welcome as that of his 'twin brother,' Sleep."

ASKING INCREASE TO GRANT

From The Canadian Dairyman.

In view of the fact that the Ontario Association of Fairs and Exhibitions has decided to ask the Ontario Government to increase its yearly direct grant to the societies from $70,000 to $100,000 a year, or by over forty per cent., it is advisable that the whole question shall be looked into very thoroughly.

The first agricultural societies were formed over 100 years ago. Most of them were established in the days when most parts of the province were just emerging out of the woods and out of the wilderness. At that time there were few railroads and the common roads of the country were so bad it required a day to travel only a few miles. In those days the county or local fair was the great event of the year. The settlers used to throng to it from all directions. Many of them took three days to attend the fair, including a day going and another returning. They attended largely with the object of meeting friends whom they were able to see about only once a year. The lack of railroads and the poor roads made it impossible for people to attend from any great distances. The result was that societies sprang up in all parts of the province until there were some 400 of them.

During the last thirty or forty years conditions have changed completely. The country has become gridironed with railroads. Immense swamps have been drained and millions of dollars have been spent improving our country roads. The result is that it is now easier and cheaper, owing to the low excursion rates given, to go 100 miles over the railroads, to attend our large exhibitions than it used to be to drive 25 miles to a local exhibition. For the most part, however, our small local societies continue to exist although the need for many of them has long since disappeared. There are many small exhibitions that are doing splendid work. There are others at which almost nothing but grade stock is shown. That stock, often, is of the most inferior character. The prizes offered by the societies are so small that it does not pay either farmers or breeders to exhibit. They do not encourage improvement.

What we want is fewer but larger and better exhibitions. Ontario would be better off if it had about only one half the number of agricultural societies that now exist. Even then there would be about three exhibitions for each county. The remaining societies would then represent larger districts, they would—on the present appropriation—receive about double their present government grants, they would be able to offer larger prizes and there would be a general improvement in the character of the stock and articles shown. This would all tend to make the exhibitions of greater educational value.

Instead of increasing the total grant to the agricultural societies, the government will do well to encourage the holding of fewer but larger and better exhibitions. Our agricultural societies now receive grants in proportion to the amounts they expend for agricultural purposes. At present, none are allowed to draw a grant exceeding $800. By increasing the maximum grant to $1,500 or $2,000 it would enable our larger and better societies to expand and improve, and in this way the poorer societies would gradually die as they failed to do enough work to justify their existence.

The Eye is such a delicate organ that it should never be trifled with. This is why our optician has followed the teachings of only recognized authorities on the eye.

Many opticians take half a dozen or more correspondent courses costing from $7.50 to $25. With this limited knowledge it is little wonder that many are wearing glasses that do not suit them—others that do not require them.

If you have eye-trouble you should consult an optician who has a thorough knowledge of every branch of the optical business. Such a man is our Mr. Taylor.

STRATTON'S ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE RIDING OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation. The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Liberal Governments. First, as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Bensfort bridge, south of the city, is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building of a road through the township of North Monaghan north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and another benefit was the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a gr t advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to consent to the transference of the waters of the northern part of this district to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative c pacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganizing the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, the council was being criticized for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feeling.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely beneficial exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigable canal completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 15 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,230,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,891,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal construction—such as wharves, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the street railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of our claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response form the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided, street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $3,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishment of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

The Warsaw Football Team Capture Stratton Trophy And Midland League Honours

The Warsaw Association Football team are the winners for 1908 of the Hon. J R Stratton silver trophy, emblematic of the championship of the Midland League. They won the protest in connection wtih the charges against the Warkworth Club of having played two Norwood men in the final game for the championship. Warwkorth has since been written to repeatedly but could not be prevailed upon to ever answer the communications so that no game was able to be arranged. The officers therefore decided to hand over the cup to the Warsaw team and the Secretary who was in the city yesterday took it to the Dummer Capital to grace the shelves of the Club rooms there. It will be officially presented later.

The Warsaw team are to be congratulated upon their success. Although the team is composed of comparatively young players they have worked diligently and deserve their reward.

PORT HOPE BIG INDOOR MEET SHOULD ATTRACT LOCAL RUNNERS

The indoor meet being held on Nov. 6th in Port Hope, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Harriers' Club, should be an attraction for some of Peterborough's runners. Bobby Kerr will be there and a number of the crack Ontario middle distance men. Among the events will be 50 and 220 yards dashes, a half mile, a 1 mile, 3 mile open, a 3 mile invitation, a mile walk and a boy's race. Mr. Garnet Galley, formerly of Peterborough, is the physical director there, and he is working diligently to make the meet a success. He will be glad to get the co-operation of the Peterborough runners.

The Lindsay Warder says: — The Peterborough, T.A.S. sent a Rugby team down here yesterday to play the Lindsay junior O.R.F.U. outfit. The visitors gained little glory and went home with a 27—0 defeat rankling beneath their jackets.

The visitors were a heavier outfit than the locals, but they hadn't the speed and their line failed to give the back division a chance, the locals plunging through time and again.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 0—0, the second, 6—0, the third, 14—0, and the fourth, 27—0. The locals scored as follows:

3 trys, converted..... 15
1 try, unconverted..... 5
4 rouges..... 4
Total..... 27

To the discredit of the Lindsay sporting public it may be said that there were not enough spectators present to keep themselves warm. Peterborough brought up a few supporters and they yelled with all the strength of healthy lungs for their team, that is during the first quarter. After that they built a bonfire of their lost hopes and thus kept themselves from freezing.

The visitors went into the game buoyed up with the knowledge that the locals are new at the game and for the most part novices. Manager McHugh's bunch have proved themselves adept at picking up the rudiments of the sport, and, although lacking polish in their style, and a trifle crude in the efforts to tackle are willing and eager to get in where the fray is the thickest.

Repeated offside playing was a particularly bad habit the visitors had, an time and again they were called for this. Even when their captain formed the wings into a V shape, the men would creep up and stick their toes or their nasal organs ahead of the ball.

The all-round playing of Killen and Cotton and Cotton's kicking were features. 'Dukey' never failed once to convert a try and Killen was the 'real thing' at quarter. He intercepted passes and got the ball away from the enemy time and again, and figured in several clever plays.

Peterborough had a big husky halfback, Fitzpatrick, who was always dangerous and a hard man to stop. Quinlan was also good and Deannard is a clever centre. The visitors wing were a little too much on the fight side for their scrimmage.

TWO FAST JUNIOR CITY LEAGUE GAMES ARE BILLED FOR SATURDAY

An ever increasing interest is being shown in the junior City League games, and the result of Saturday's contest will be eagerly awaited. This week's games will have a direct effect upon the result of the race and all four teams are practising hard, realizing that a victory Saturday means a great deal. The Rough Riders, leaders of the league, will clash with the Y.M.C.A., probably at Nicholls Oval, in the event of the Lindsay O.R.F.U. team playing here, while the P.C.I. go up against the T.A.S. at Riverside aPrk as a curtain raiser to the O.R.F.U. game. Both contests should be warmly fought out. The Rough Riders must win to keep their lead, while the "Y.," needs the victory and say they are bound to get it. The Collegiate Institute team, under Dr. McPherson's instruction, is working like a machine and they will give the heavier and bigger T.A.S. an awful argument.

LINDSAY WILL CLASH WITH Y.M.C.A. IN O.R.F.U. GAME HERE SATURDAY

The first local O.R.F.U. game of the season will be seen here on Saturday afternoon, when the Lindsay team, which defeated the T.A.S. juniors so handily on Tuesday, will clash with the Y.M.C.A. seniors in what should prove to be a grand game. Lindsay has a fine team, according to the T.A.S. players who went up against them this week, and with Cotton, of St. Andrew's College, at centre half, there is no doubt that they will take a lot of beating. The Y.M.C.A. have not been saying much, but they are practising faithfully and will trot out a fourteen that should give Lindsay a busy afternoon. Whichever way the game goes it should be a great battle and the old rivalry between Lindsay and Peterborough will add to the interest. There promises to be a big crowd on hand, as much interest is being shown in the appearance of the Lindsay team here.

Last Saturday in one of the big American College Rugby games, Yale defeated West Point by 6—0, one touch being made by Coy who also converted the try. In speaking of the game a New York paper gives the following description of the little full back's work:

It was the first big gridiron battle of the year, and will go down in football history as one of the bitterest ever fought. The Army mule's kick did almost as much damage as the bull-dog's bite. So while crepe hung last night on the Cadets' barracks there was consolation for them in the fact that the collegians scored but once, and then only after a series of desperate onslaughts.

In these a four-headed youth, barely twenty, showed almost superhuman strength and bent the Soldiers' line like reeds before a storm. His name is Coy. In New Haven they have nicknamed him Ted, but he had been called many harsh names because of his seeming indifference to football during the past month. Yet when Yale weakened yesterday Coy jumped in and saved the situation. He made the same kind of dashes that crushed Princeton's hopes last year, and plunges like those that routed Harvard on Soldiers' Field. His jersey was all but torn from his body by the Cadets as they vainly strove to stop him. He pounded at West Point's line until it swayed and parted, then he fell on the ball behind the Cadets' goal.

After the game the whole Yale team surrounded Coy and then tears of joy fell on his grimy moleskins. With the message flashed to New Haven that Yale had won was sent the joyful news that Coy had come back into his old playing form.

HOW THE CHICAGOS WERE ON TOP

THE VIEWS OF DADIE JOSS

Chicago, Oct. 22—Special. — While there can be no doubt of the fact that the throwing of Catcher Schmidt of the Tigers in the world's series was far from being perfect, still he was not altogether to blame for the way the Cubs ran bases on him.

Every member of the Chicago team, with the possible exception of Steinfeldt, are wonderfully fast men on the paths and this, coupled with the fact that they have made the art of base-running one of the features of their wonderful team play, makes them hard to stop on the lines.

The one great secret of their ability to run the bases so successfully comes from the fact that they are constantly on the alert.

They seem to make a study of the opposing pitcher, and the manner in which he delivers the ball. As soon as one of them reaches first he immediately makes a bluff to start for second on the first ball pitched, and by so doing causes the other team to disclose who is to cover second on the throw.

If the hit and run play is tried then the batter knows who is to take the throw, and he can try and hit through the spot vacated.

When a clean steal is attempted the base runner always gets a flying lead. From their work on the paths it is safe to presume the Cubs figure this way: Better to be caught off first a few times during a series than to get a bad start and always be thrown out at second.

There is a good deal of logic in this, and right here let it be said that many a time when a player is censured for what is generally thought to be his failure to be wide awake on the paths, and he is nipping off first, it is really because he is trying to get a good lead to steal and is only caught because the opposing pitcher has called the turn on him.

With the exception of Kling, who always slides headfirst, the Cubs all slide feetfirst, and can go into a bag either way. That is, if the throw happens to be on the inside of the bag they slide on the outside, and vice versa.

This leaves nothing for the infielder to touch but the spikes, which in no way lessens his none too easy task.

One peculiarly noticeable thing about their base-running is the fact that most of the time they started to steal when the batter had two strikes on him.

Several times during the series they attempted this, probably figuring it would be the unexpected, and that the pitcher, not looking for such a move, would put the ball where the batter had a chance to hit it.

This was tried a couple of times in the game that Thomas caught. Evidently the Cubs did not know that the Highlanders used to work this all the time, and as Thomas was once a member of that club it was just what he was looking for, and in each instance he threw out the would-be baserunner easily.

Baseball games are saved in the field and won at the bat and on the bases. No matter how good a team may be in the field or how clever may be their twirlers, few games will be won if they can't hit or run the bases.

The Cubs seem to get lots of runs for the number of hits they make, and this is only due to the fact that they are one of the grandest baserunning clubs ever put on any field. —Addie Joss.

PLAYING OFF FOR THE HONOURS

Len Dobson is With the Lindsay Bankers To-day.

The Wideawakes and Bankers of Lindsay are battling it out this afternoon for the championship of the Lindsay Town Baseball League. The teams have already played two tie games and to-day's game is likely to be a great battle. Len Dobson of this city, who played for the Bankers during the season, will be on their line-up to-day, the men of money having sent him an emergency call to come to their assistance. He went up on the 11.45 train.

AMUSING HOCKEY GAME AT THE ROLLER RINK

At the roller rink last night a hockey game, in which a football was the puck and brooms the hockey sticks, took place, and it was certainly an event of interest. A picked team selected from the hockeyists of the C.G.E. went up against some of their city brethren and won out by the close score of 1 to 0. Most of the players were off their feet longer than they were on them,

Old Bob Fitzsimmons Spends His Days On His Fine Homestead

Robert Fitzsimmons, known on the pages of the history of the squared arena as "Fighting Bob," is said to be living the quiet, peaceful life at Dunellen, N. J. He has a fine country place, which receives his attention and his residence is befitting an insurance ex-magnate. A writer who visited the homestead recently refers to Bob as still able to turn as horse shoe and he has a specially built forge where he makes them as souvenirs for his friends. The writer states that it is still his favourite recreation to work after his day's labour on the farm in his own little forge.

This occupies a corner in the waggon shed, and chickens roosting in the waggons sleep on placidly while the forge roars and the great negro helper works the bellows, the sparks fly and the hammer rings madly above the shrill cricket and croak of frog.

Against the background of yellow red flame the huge form of the world's champion horseshoer bends to the anvil. Clank! clank!—and the muscles of his arms and shoulders are like whipcords. Sputter! Into the water and out again goes the bar of red hot metal. Clank! whirr! and smash! With catlike quickness the great hulking form flashed back and forth in the weird light of the forge.

"There!"

But the souvenir horseshoe is hardly noticed. I am drinking in the last glimpse of that picturesque scene —the dying flames, the panting men— for Fitzsimmons still loves to make a horseshoe in record breaking time —the chickens stirring on the waggon seat, the powerful figure of the one time champion leaning in contentment against the silent anvil.

Fitzsimmons, gentleman farmer, host above reproach, a man who can turn from the greatest adulation his own sex has to offer, from the triumphs of the ring and the plaudits of the stage, to find the keenest enjoyment in felling logs for a new bridge and planting vines for a pergola to please his wife. During the long, strenuous afternoon and the quiet evening which followed the man who had earned the applause of his hundreds of thousands never once talked "shop," unless urged by his visitors. He was simply the landed gentleman, head of his well ordered household and above all things the host on sincere hospitality bent. And there"s your real man, unspoiled by triumph, unsoured by defeat, unaffected by public adulation, just content to make the most of his newly acquired property, the home which is to be his as long as he lives to enjoy the fruit of his somewhat strenuous and stormy career.

CUBS WRANGLING OVER THE SPOILS

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The Chicago Club is badly disorganized as a result of a row over the division of the players' share of the world's series money.

Kroh and Durban, players who had been promised a full share, $1,400, received only $500 each, and vow they will never play with the Cubs again.

Frank Chance is not to blame. He voted to giveKroh and Durban a full share, but he had 20 players against him.

The row among the players coming after the accusation made by the players that they did not get a square deal in the world's series may lead to the abolition of the annual post-season games, known as the world"s series.

The truth of the matter is that the Cubs have gone money mad and the fans of Chicago fear that this will wreck one of the greatest pieces of baseball machinery ever organized.

The national commission is going to make a thorough investigation of the trouble, and it is likely that if the world's series is continued next year the commission will handle all the money, dividing it so that every player gets an equal share.

Sporting Comment

"Rasty" Maddock, brother of "Ted" Maddock, short stop of the Peterborough baseball club is playing with Johnny Ray's actor ball team which defeated the Wellingtons of Toronto by 8—4 on Tuesday. Maddock played first base for the comic opera people and accepted twelve chances without an error, while he got a two base hit.

Days of Discredit For Animals.

Little fame remains for the animals. The ground hog, whose appearance from his hole was once of eager interest to thousands, is now considered no more than a rat and his exits and entrances not worth a snap. Whether it be the terror inspired by nature fake denunciations or the improvement of the official weather prophets, it remains that the ground hog's shadow is concern only to himself. Black cats, ravens, magpies, owls—no one cares a fig for them or their omens. About the only superstitions that prevail are that it's lucky to have a gun when you run across a pheasant, and then only in season, and exceedingly unlucy to bump into a bull terrier when robbing a hen-roost.

Treed by Lions.

Rhodesia, Eastern Africa, turns out some champion big game stories. For instance: G. Thomasine, a boatbuilder of Livingstone, was out after wild duck on the Zambesi within a mile of the Victoria Falls, when three lions saw him and gave chase. He took refuge in a tree, and was compelled to remain there all night, the lions remaining on the watch. It was not till well into the next day that he was discovered by a search party, which quickly routed the lions and released the prisoner.

Thieves and Humor.

The reason why Cockneys are such smart thieves is that they have a keen sense of humor. The street arab picks your pocket while he grins at you. It is only stupid thieves who are serious. Poor Oliver Twist's seriousness was the cause of his arrest. The humor of the Artful Dodger and Charley Bates saved them.

SUPPLY OF RADIUM.

Mme. Curie possesses fifteen milligrams of radium, Professor Bordas ten, M. Becquerel ten, Sir William Ramsay twenty, Sir William Crookes twenty, Professor d'Arsonval twenty and Thomas A. Edison twenty milligrams. About twenty milligrams more are in the possession of other professors. All this is in the form of pure or nearly pure radium and its salts, and the entire amount is 135 milligrams, or about two grains troy, says Scientific American.

Commercial low grade radium is distributed among a great many hands, and its strength is very variable; hence exact statistics are not obtainable, but it is estimated that the entire amount of commercial radium contains less pure radium than the quantity in the possession of scientists, as stated above.

To these supplies must be added the comparatively enormous quantity of three grams of radium which Professors Exner and Wien have lately extracted from half a ton of Joachimsthal pitchblende, the value of which is estimated at $80,000. One gram of this is to be lent to Sir William Ramsay for experiments on radium emanation.

WHAT THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT HAS DONE FOR THE WORKINGMAN

Labour is the basis of all wealth, national or individual. A government which cares for and protects the nation's greatest asset has the proper sense of its responsibility.

In recognition of the basic importance of an interest that lies at the foundation of national development, the Liberal Government, since it assumed office, has shown a practical interest in the protection of the rights and promotion of the interests of labour.

The Liberal treatment of the tariff indirectly benefitted Labour by cheapening raw material of manufactures; expand, and added to the profit of, industries, giving more employment and better wages.

Every workingman knows what a boom there has been in manufacturing operations in the past ten or twelve years; knows that every industrious workingman has made more money, received more regular employment, enjoyed more comforts, had a happier home for himself and his family than in any dozen years in the history of Canada.

The records show that the capital invested in manufactures doubled in the five years from 1900 to 1905, advancing from 447 millions to 834 millions, and that employment and wages paid, increased in proportion.

The Liberal tariff adjustment increased the prosperity of commerce, mining and farming, increased activity in shipping and railway traffic, all involving greater employment and greater wage outlay.

The general policy of the Liberal Government not only created the conditions that bettered the condition of the wage earner in pocket and property, but its specific Labour legislation has safeguarded his rights, protected his person and promoted his health, thereby increasing his wage earning power.

Wheh the Liberal Government came into power it found a "sweating system" ten years old in connection with the odious sub-contract system in the matter of Government contracts for clothing for mounted police, militia, etc., women and girls working ten hours, in dirty, stuffy shops for 3 cents an hour.

The Conservative Government had permitted this thing for about ten years. The Liberal Government at once made regulations forbidding this white slavery; it provided that work for the government, of this kind, must be done under sanitary conditions. that current wages must be paid for work done in proper hours of labour. In short, the principle was adopted to be applied to all Government contracts---"A fair day's wage for a fair day's work" and a fair wage officer was appointed to see that this rule was lived up to.

It was also provided that, in case of a contractor defaulting in payment, the Government should pay the wages, deducting the amount from the sum due the contractor.

In 1900 the Liberal Government established the Department of Labour, to have charge of all matters affecting the interests and welfare of organized Labour and the interests and welfare of individual workingmen.

More than this, the Liberal Government has paid Labour the splendid compliment of making it an independent department, in charge of a Minister of the Crown whose sole duty shall be its administration.

The splendid record of service of the Department for the past eight years in the interests of Labour will be improved under the added dignity and efficiency of receiving the whole time, energy and attention of a Crown Minister.

The Conciliation Act of 1900, for the settlement of disputes between Labour and Capital, within the first five years settled numerous incipient strikes involving disastrous idleness to 15,000 to 20,000 hands and saving of thousands in capital and wages.

The expansion of this act, known as the Lemieux Act, to help prevent strikes and lockouts in public utilities. though only passed in 1907, has been invoked in over 40 cases affecting 40,000 employees and in only two cases have strikes followed investigations.

The Railway Disputes Act of 1903 authorizes inquiry into the causes of disputes between employees and companies, and railway strikes and tie-ups are rare.

The Alien Labour Act passed in 1897 prohibits the importation of Alien Labour under contract. But for this act the C.P.R. railway shops would have been flooded with mechanics from the United States a few weeks ago.

In 1905 the Liberal Government procured the passing of a British Act making it a criminal offence to induce Old Country mechanics to come to Canada under false pretenses.

In 1900 the Liberal Government imposed a head tax of $100 on Chinese and later advanced it to the prohibiting figure of $500.

An arrangement, of the effect of a treaty, has been made limiting immigration for Japan. Hindu immigration has not only practically ceased, but the Hindus in British Columbia are all being transferred to British Honduras.

The Liberal government is empowered to make regulations in respect of railway construction camps, to enforce sanitary conditions, compel medical attendance and proper nursing and hospital provision for workingmen.

Amendments to the Railway Act require all railway trains to be equipped with appliances looking to the safety of trainmen, such as automatic car couplers, outside ladders, etc.---so as to lessen danger of accidents, which according to statistics collected by the Labour Department cause 1,000 deaths per year with three times that number of disabling injuries; and an amendment relieves railway men from liability to prosecution for accidents.

Such are the prominent points in the Labour Legislation of the Liberal Government, which is only a beginning, for it will be carried on for another five years at least.

It is worth while to note that the work of the Liberal Government is in startling contrast with that of the Conservative Government from 1878 to 1896.

In all that time---18 years---the only legislation enacted in any way in the interests of Labour by the Conservative Government was the act making Labour Day a statutory holiday--a rather doubtful advantage, for, at that time, times were so dull and employment so scarce that Labour would have preferred a working day to a holiday ---they had too many of the latter.

Looking at his franchise as an instrument for bettering his own condition and that of his fellows, should not the Peterborough workingman vote to perpetuate a Government that has given Labour all the benefits and privileges it enjoys and has given Canadian Labour the first minister of the Crown to administer a Department of Government specially devoted to promoting the interests of Labour.

VOTE FOR STRATTON WHO HAS BY WORD AND DEED SHOWN HIMSELF TO BE THE FRIEND OF LABOUR---THE SUPPORTER OF A GOVERNMENT THAT HAS PUT MORE LAWS AND REGULATIONS IN FORCE IN 12 YEARS FOR THE BENEFIT OF LABOUR THAN ANY OTHER GOVERNMENT IN ANY LENGTH OF TIME.

A BIG RECORD [illegible] LEGHORNS

From The Canadian Dairyman.

A bulletin is just to hand fro[m] West Virginia Agricultural E[x]ment Station giving one year's [re]of six hundred White Leghorn p[ul]. On the first of November they put in a continuous curtain house allowing a little over four square feet per hen. The average age was five months and the pullets weighed 2¼ pounds each. Grain was fed in the litter, and a dry mash in the hopper. The mash was made up of a mixture of cornmeal, wheat, bran, wheat middlings, oil meal and beef scrap. In addition to this they were given grit, shell, green bone, ensilage. The grain fed was chiefly wheat and corn. Wheat $1.50 per hundred weight, and $1.15. The total cost of feed for six hundred hens for the year was $534.59, or an average of 89 cents per head.

Fifty-four of the hens died, and their places were filled by others of the same age. The highest egg production was in March. The average was 113 eggs for the year. Selling at the retail market price for new laid eggs they brought $1,428.87. The expenditure was: Feed, $534.59; labor $120; dead fowls, $30; decreased value of stock, $100; interest on investment, $66; total, $850.59, leaving a balance of $602.28, or practically one dollar per hen.

The feed bill seems lighter than it would be in Canada owing doubtless to their lack of winter. The temperature would go below zero in the houses at times. Free range was allowed almost continually. No trap nests were used, the hens were kept as near as possible like farmers' conditions.—F. C. E.

EFFECTS OF DROUGHT

From The Canadian Dairyman.

In 1903, a severe and unusual drought prevailed at Ottawa during the spring and early summer months. It afforded an excellent opportunity to prosecute this research on the conservation of soil moisture. On May 23, on adjoining plots, the moisture in the cultivated soil was 12.65 per cent.; in the soil under sod, 4.78 per cent.—a difference equivalent to 180 tons of water per acre. The soil of the cultivated plot was quite moist to the touch and the trees had not visibly suffered; the soil under the sod was a powder, apparently dry, and the leaves of the trees had begun to wither and fall. Enough has been said, it will not be necessary to follow the results in detail throughout the season till the drought broke. They emphasize the very exhaustive character of sod as regards soil moisture and furnish proof of the immense value of cultivation in arresting the drying out of soils. Further, in another series we had that year, our data pointed out the desirability of early turning under the corn crop and, if this is done by the plow, immediately working the soil with the cultivator in order to again set up capillary action with the underlying soil and creating an earth mulch to prevent surface evaporation.

Our experiments at Ottawa and Nappan show that the practice of growing a grain crop in the orchard is to be condemned, for it makes an unusually large draft on the soil moisture at a time when the trees most require it. Trials were made with oats, winter rye and buckwheat. It will prove of interest to cite certain of the data we obtained. First, with regard to rye: During the first month of the investigation, May 9 to June 9, the growing rye reduced the water content of the soil 5.89 per cent, equivalent to a loss of 150 tons of water per acre of 14 inches, over and above that lost on the adjoining cultivated plot—and this in spite of the fact that during that period there had been 2½ inches of rain. By June 29, the percentage of moisture in the rye plot was still further reduced though the cultivated plot maintained its initial percentage. This continued until a determination made about the middle of July showed but one-third the amount of water in the rye plot compared with that of the cultivated soil. The data of the oat and buckwheat plots are of a similar nature, though in certain particulars, not quite so pronounced as those from the winter rye.

We also estimated the losses of soil moisture caused by growing a grain crop as compared with those resulting from the growth of the legume crops—clover and hairy vetch—and found in every instance that the soil bearing the grain crop suffered the greater loss. This is probably owing in a large measure not to greater transpiration, but to surface evaporation being more active in the grain covered soil; the soil carrying the clover and vetch is much shaded by their foliage, and thus evaporation is checked.

The effect of the various legume crops upon the soil moisture has been very fully studied. As it would be impossible now to recount all our experiments, I would present the following summary of the results obtained:

Soil moisture is retained by cultivation, is lost growing a crop. This is true of course in spring, summer and autumn and, consequently, in this system, we have a means of controlling the water supply of our orchard trees at all seasons during which it may affect their life or thrift.

The difference in the moisture content of the soils from adjoining plots, the one under cultivation, the other supporting a growing crop, is dependent upon several factors: In amount it may vary from a few tons to more than 200 tons per acre, in the surface 14 inches of soil.

The larger the rainfall the less the difference in moisture content of the two plots, and vice versa. Cultivation is all the more necessary in restricted or limited rainfall.

The amount of transpiring surface or foliage materially affects the loss of soil moisture; the larger the crop the more water is taken from the soil.

THE RURAL MAIL DELIVERY

From The Canadian Dairyman.

The rural mail delivery which is being put into effect along several stage routes in older Ontario is being inaugurated under the following conditions:

Any person living on or contiguous to a rural mail route and not within one-quarter mile of the corporate limits of any city, town or village, who desires his mail deposited at a given point on the line of the route by the mail courier may take advantage of the opportunity afforded.

Such person shall provide and erect a box known as the "King Edward" mail box on the roadside, located in such a manner as to be reached by the courier without dismounting from his vehicle or horse. This box can only be obtained from the Post Office Department of Canada.

The price of the box, together with all the necessary fittings, except only the post on which it will be erected, cannot be determined at the present time, inasmuch as the price will very materially depend on the number of boxes required. The Department is therefore, purchasing the boxes for the trial routes and erecting them, leaving the price to be determined after it is seen what the full number of boxes required to equip the existing routes will be. Several thousand boxes have been ordered for the trial routes. One thing is absolutely certain, at whatever price they are supplied by the manufacturers the same price will be charged the patrons using the boxes.

The post to which the box is to be permanently attached, and which is to be provided by the patron, must be approximately four feet two inches above the road level, and must be erected upon the roadside so as to be conveniently reached by the courier without leaving his rig or dismounting from his horse. Each box must have conspicuously painted or stencilled upon it the name of the patron or owner.

Any person living off the line of travel of a rural mail courier is at liberty to purchase and erect one of these boxes at the cross-road or any other point on the courier's route for the reception of matter addressed to him or mailed by him as the case may be.

In addition to carrying the mail to the various post offices on his route the courier will, therefore, be required to receive from any postmaster on the route any mail matter that may be entrusted to him outside of the usual mail bag, and shall carry such mail to and deposit it in the proper rural mail box placed on the line of the route for this purpose. He will also be required to collect the mail from the rural mail boxes erected along this line of travel and to deposit the same in the next post office at which he arrives.

The services performed by the courier will be without charge to the persons sending or receiving mail, but the Department will allow the courier a fixed sum per annum for each box served by him on his route.

SURE CURE FOR COW-POX

From the Canadian Dairyman

Cows have sores on their udders. Hard swellings appear, white blisters appear in centre of swellings, skin breaks, matter escapes, and a scab forms which, after a time, falls off; fresh swellings appear, etc. My cows had a similar trouble last year.—E. A. P.

This is cow pox. It is contagious. The contagion is easily conveyed from cow to cow by contact, the hand of the milker, etc. Isolate the diseased. The person who milks them should not milk the healthy cows without at least having changed his clothing and thoroughly disinfected his hands. Get an ointment of 4 drams boracic acid and 20 drops carbolic acid mixed with 2 oz. vaseline and dress the sore spots 3 times daily with it.

A BAPTIST ELDER

Restored to Health by Vinol.

"I was run down and weak from indigestion and general debility, also suffered from vertigo. I saw a cod liver preparation called Vinol advertised and decided to give it a trial, and the results were most gratifying. After taking two bottles I regained my strength and am now feeling unusually well." Henry Cunningham, Elder Baptist Church, Kingston, N.C.

Vinol is not a patent medicine—but a preparation composed of the medicinal elements of cods' livers, combined with a tonic iron and wine. Vinol creates a hearty appetite, tones up the organs of digestion and makes rich, red blood. In this natural manner, Vinol creates strength for the run-down, over-worked and debilitated, and for delicate children and old people. For chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis Vinol is unexcelled.

All such persons in this vicinity are asked to try Vinol on our offer to refund their money if it fails to give satisfaction. McDermid & Jury, druggists, Peterborough.

WOMAN BEGGAR GETS HEAVY SENTENCE

New York, Oct. 23 — Probably the heaviest sentence ever given a woman beggar by the justices of special sessions was imposed on Sarah Borofsky. She pleaded guilty to using her 18 months' old baby as a means of exciting sympathy, and was fined $500 with the alternative of 90 days in the city prison.

Yesterday he told the judges the result of his investigation. He learned that her husband had three bank accounts and earned $3 a day as a painter. One of her neighbours said to him, Cook testified:

"What are they looking for charity for? Her husband makes lots of money. Why, they live better than any one in the house."

Justice Mayo recognized the woman as one on whom for similar offences he had suspended sentence twice before.

T. A. S. TEAMS OUT AT RIVERSIDE

Both Juniors and Seniors Will Practice There To-night.

The T.A.S. junior and senior teams will both practise to-night at seven o'clock at Riverside Park, where lights have been installed. The junior team to line up against the Collegiate Institute team in a Junior City League game to-morrow will be chosen from the following, who are asked to be out to-night: Larkins, Denoon, V. Craig, Galvin, McGill, O'Brien, Cranfield, Hayes, Knapp, Milloy, Kenneally, O'Hearne, Clancy, O'Donnell, Menzies, Garvey, and McPherson.

The following seniors are also requested to be out in uniform to-night: Crough, Quinlan, F. Craig, Fitzpatrick, Lundy, Desmard, O'Brien, Grady, Clarke, O'Connor, Caulfield, Rogers, Davidson, Hall, Hickey and Kelly.

ART CLASS TO BE OPENED

Luella W. Thurston, honour graduate in Fine Arts in the Gold Medal standing of Albert College, Belleville, will open a class of instruction at the well-known institution, the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, in Oil, Water Colour and China Painting, also miniatures on ivory; crayon, pencil, charcoal drawing and designing. She will be pleased to receive upils at the above address for instruction in any of the above branches.

OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD

When you plan your meals you never think of bread, yet you always have it, and if it is left off the table it is the first thing that is missed.

You can live without bread, but you can live without any other food with less hardship—think along these lines and the absolute necessity of bread comes home to you.

And because it is a necessity, its quality should be the best—quality in bread depends largely upon the flour.

Royal Household Flour

has convinced the women of Canada that it is the best for pastry as well as for bread.

THE DOCTOR SAID "I CAN'T HELP YOU"

Dunvegan, Inverness Co.

I am perfectly cured of Kidney complaint after using Gin Pills. Six hours after taking the first Pill I obtained relief, and now after three months I feel as well as ever.

I suffered ten months and the Physician attending me advised me to go to the Victoria Hospital at Halifax, as he could do nothing more for me. I may add that I used a great deal of medicine, and strictly followed my physician's directions regarding diet, etc., but without avail, until providentially I learned of your most excellent remedy. I am recommending Gin Pills.

JIMSIE of THE TRESTLE.

By CECILY ALLEN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Jimsie had learned to watch for her long before she noticed him. The 7:08 was never so crowded as the 7:23, and Betty Larned had no trouble in getting the same seat every morning, the next to the last in the third car.

She liked that particular seat because it gave her a long view of the marshy creek and the great bay beyond, pouring its restless waters into the sea.

Jimsie's post was on the great trestle approaching the drawbridge. At first he had simply watched the trains as they slowed up before passing over the draw.

Being a young man of considerable imagination, he could picture the long line of commuters winding to the ferries and then breaking on the shores of the big city beyond like a stream long confined to narrow banks. What a multitude of interests they represented! And to how many of the great warehouses, skyscrapers and stores they must scatter!

He felt quite sure that the girl with the light brown hair and gentle gray eyes worked very far uptown, for she never missed the 7:08, while most of the girl commuters preferred the 7:23, which brought them into town just in time to make offices and stores for the 8 o'clock openings.

In this Jimsie was wrong. Betty worked quite close to the ferry, but she was an earnest, ambitious young person with a horror of being tardy, so she took no chances on the 7:23 being late. Drawbridges, she had heard, were tricky.

This rumor was confirmed one morning when the excursion steamer Lena Belle turned contrary in the draw, and the 7:08 stood on the narrow trestle till the crew of the Lena Belle could bring her to time. And that was the morning Betty noticed Jimsie for the first time.

Jimsie might have run along with the rest of the railroad boys to watch the crew of the Lena Belle, but he had something more pleasant to watch—the girlish face at the first window from the end of the third car on the stalled train.

The third car stood right in front of his little shanty, and directly Jimsie had reported the delay of the train to headquarters by telephone he dashed back to the track, gazed up and met the soft gray eyes squarely.

Instinctively his hand went up to his hat, then dropped, and a flush blazed up under his healthy tan. The gray eyes opened very wide, then were hidden by long lashes.

No; Betty was quite sure she had never seen this very good looking young man before. He did not live at Greenport, and he had never worked in the store.

Maybe she had met him at the single dance she had attended at the Big Four Social club. But, no; he was not the sort of man who went to those balls, Betty was quite sure. It was because she had not liked the men that she had refused all succeeding invitations from the club.

She raised her lashes just a tiny bit and met a respectful but undeniably admiring glance from Jimsie's brown eyes. She tried to look across the aisle at the impatient passengers, then down the bay, but the sun danced so madly on the blue water that it hurt her eyes. And as she had to look somewhere she looked down again into the brown eyes of the young track foreman.

Then, with a jerk, the Lena Belle plunged forward into the current, railway men shouted orders, there were a creaking and rattling of machinery and chains, and the 7:08 plunged on toward town.

Jimsie waved a friendly hand after the retreating Lena Belle. Good old boat! It had given him a good chance to study the little girl at close range, and he had not been disappointed.

What was more, he knew that she had taken his measure and would know him the next time they met.

Now, the books on etiquette and the learned women writers for magazines tell you that you must be properly introduced to a man. You must be chaperoned, and the more pretty you are the more rigid must be the chaperonage.

But the workaday world changes many of these things. Jimsie began to plan on meeting the owner of the gray eyes somehow, somewhere, without the aid or consent of a chaperon. If you love a girl you love her and you win her—that was Jimsie's lexicon of good form.

And Betty fell to dreaming of the good looking young chap who was watching for her every morning when the 7:08 approached the bridge. First their eyes carried the message, then they smiled, and finally they nodded every morning.

When the spring weather made it excusable to open a window Betty took to gathering a few early blossoms every morning and dropping them over the sill as the train passed the track foreman's shanty.

Jimsie was resourceful, but he could find no one who knew where the girl lived, and he did not dare desert his post to come near the window and speak even if the train stopped long enough for this feat.

Well, there was only one thing—he'd take a day off soon and post himself at the ferry entrance when the 7:08 pulled in. She could do no more than turn him down, he argued, and somehow each day's glance into the soft gray eyes assured him this fate would not be his.

In the meantime Betty was doing her share of thinking and planning, and at last she wrote to Miss Gwendolin Graves, who conducted the Heart and Home page of the Evening Blazer. "When a young man is so desperately in love with you that it just shines out of his eyes and beams in his smile, but you don't know him or any one who does know him, but just see him every day on your way to work, what do you do? He might toss you a note—but then every one on the train would see it and think you were a flirt, and not for worlds would you toss him a note." And there was a stamped and addressed envelope, and please would Miss Gwendolin write very soon?

And Miss Gwendolin did, for the little letter had the ring of self respect and sincerity in it. But, alas! Miss Gwendolin wrote that the man would find a way if he really loved her, as his eyes proclaimed, and a certain fate was probably working this very minute to bring them together. Above all things, Betty was not to worry. Things would come out right.

Not a very satisfactory or practical reply. Yet Betty took comfort and carried it in her purse all day. If fate was really at work she would try to wait and be patient, but Jimsie's adoring eyes made this very hard indeed.

That night she slept with the little note under her pillow and the next morning tucked it back into her purse. As the long train pulled on to the trestle she took a fresh grip on the purse. It somehow seemed a connecting link between herself and the man who she knew would be waiting for her by the weather beaten shanty.

Were ever eyes so brown as his or teeth so white and regular? Then her thoughts came to a sudden grinding, terrifying stop. There was something wrong. They were not slowing up as they approached the little shanty, but racing on with a madness which broke all rules and regulations.

Then screams arose. Men rushed to the front of the car. They seemed to be lifted into space, then horrible noises, shrieks, curses and an awful plunge, a blow that she hardly felt, because it was so terrific—and blackness.

When she woke up, she looked straight into the brown eyes of which she had been dreaming when the blow fell.

"Darling," he was saying, and her eyes went open very wide despite the dreadful pain in her head—"darling, I thought I'd never get to you. Tell me you're alive! Tell me you ain't hurt much! Tell me you love me!"

Betty gasped. Fate must have been very busy while she slept. She reached for her purse and touched her dress, now drenched with water. She reached for her hat. It was gone, and her hair was dripping water too. Then she realized that the owner of the brown eyes was dripping likewise.

"Something went wrong. The train went through the draw," he explained rapidly. "There's a lot drowned, and the ambulances are coming. They'll take you away, and I've got to go. They'll take you to the hospital 'cause your head is cut, but first you tell me you're all right—you're going to get well. And what's your name? I'm coming to the hospital tonight. See!"

"My name's Betty Larned, and I guess I ain't hurt much, but you can't come to the hospital. We've never been introduced." She felt very faint.

The clatter of an ambulance tearing around the bank made Jimsie jump, and he gathered her close to his arms in the midst of the awful scene of wreckage and death.

"Say, this ain't the time for being fussy," he murmured earnestly. "I love you, and I thought I was going to lose you. I'm coming to the hospital soon as I get off. See!"

"Yes, dear," she said and closed her eyes.

The ambulance surgeon bent over her.

"I'll take care of her," he said sharply to Jimsie.

Jimsie laid the unconscious form beside another in the ambulance. Then he gripped the young surgeon's sleeve.

"Say, you be careful with her. She's my girl. See!"

THE PLOWING SEASON

SACRIFICES TO THE GODS.

Customs That Were in Vogue Among the Romans of Old—Ceremonies That Are Observed in India and China—Rites of the Siamese Farmers.

The formal inauguration of the plowing season is very ancient and still is observed in some parts of the world.

Among the Romans by the institution of various religious festivals connected with agriculture the seasons came to be regarded with a sort of sacred reverence. Before the old Roman put the plow into the ground he went to the temple of the goddess of earth, Tellus, one of whose priests performed certain propitiatory rites. Virgil in his "Georgics" advises the Roman husbandman to observe the signs on heaven according to the crop he desires to produce. The time to plow for flax, barley and the sacred poppy was when "balance has equalized the hours of day and sleep and halves the world exactly between light and shade. When Taurus ushers in the year with his gilded horns and Sirius sits facing the threatening bull is time for beans. For wheat and spelt the Pleiades should hide themselves from your eyes with the dawn. Many have begun before Maria sets, but the desired crop has baffled them with empty ears." But first of all the poet admonishes the farmer to "honor the gods and offer sacrifices to Ceres."

In India there are certain days when it is unlawful to plow. Mother Earth is supposed to sleep six days in every month, and on such days she refuses to be disturbed in her slumber.

In northwest India the cultivator employs a pundit to select an auspicious time for the commencement of plowing. Great secrecy is observed. In some places the time selected is in the night; in others daybreak is the customary time.

The pundit goes to a field, taking a brass drinking vessel and a branch of the sacred mango tree, which is efficacious in frightening away evil spirits that may haunt the field. Prithivi, the broad world, and Sesha Naga, the great snakes which support the world, are supposed to be propitiated and reconciled by this ceremony. The pundit satisfies himself as to the direction in which the great snake is lying, for it occasionally moves about a little to ease itself of the great burden of the broad world which it carries. The pundit then marks off an imaginary line. Five (a lucky number) clods of earth are thrown up, and water is sprinkled in the trench five times with the sacred mango boat to insure productiveness. Caution must be exercised lest the charm be broken and prospective fortune imperiled. The farmer must remain secluded during the following day; no salt must be eaten, no money, grain or fire given away.

Among the Karnas before plowing the farmer makes a burnt offering of butter and molasses in his own field and again at the village shrine.

The Chinese begin plowing on the first day of their solar year. Anciently the rites which were celebrated by the Chinese at plowing time were elaborate, but rationalistic sovereigns eliminated one expensive religious rite after another until nothing was left except the imperial act of homage to heaven and earth and agriculture in the ceremonial plowing.

The Siamese observe a rite called Raakua about the middle of May, which is preliminary to the plowing season, and it is not proper for any one to plow until the ceremony is over. The court astrologers determine the time for it. On the day fixed by them the minister of agriculture, who is always a prince or nobleman of high rank, goes with a procession to a piece of ground some distance from the capital. Where the festivities are to take place a new plow, to which a pair of buffaloes are yoked, is in readiness, decorated with flowers and leaves.

The minister guides the plow over the field, closely watched by the spectators, who are especially interested in the length and folds of the silk of his lower garments, because the prosperity of the season and its characteristics, wet or dry, are to be predicted from these as he follows the plow. If the robe rises from his knee there will be disastrous rains. If it falls below his ankles there will be a drought. If the folds reach midway between knee and ankle the season will be prosperous.

After a proper number of furrows have been turned old women strew grain of different kinds in them and bulls are released from the yoke and allowed to feast upon the seeds. The grain which the animals eat most freely will be scarce next harvest, and that which they refuse to take will be abundant.

In Yorkshire it was considered unwise to disturb the earth with plow or spade on Good Friday.—Exchange.

Steel Ships.

Life in Finland.

In Finland many families lead the simple life in summer time. They camp out on islands and in the forests, always taking care to be near the water, for everybody bathes and swims. They sleep and eat al fresco, and the town councils provide public fireplaces and bathing houses in all places of public resort.

The Dumdum Bullet.

The dumdum bullet is named after the place, near Calcutta, where it was first made.

Saccharin.

One pound of pure saccharin has the sweetness of a quarter of ton of sugar.

Carborundum.

Carborundum, a wonderful product of the electric furnace, goes in as sand, coke, sawdust and salt and comes out in clusters of beautiful crystals. Ground into powder, these will polish and sharpen every kind of steel tool and even polish diamonds.

Illiterate Roumania.

Out of Roumania's 6,000,000 inhabitants only one in three can read and write.

A Shipwreck.

Muggins, gazing intently at a dead dog, in a resigned tone at last said:

"Here is another shipwreck."

"Where, my dear friend?" quoted M. "There is a bark lost forever."

Juggins growled and passed on.—London Fun.

It is impossible for a man attempting many things to do all things well.—Xenophon.

The Hydraulic Jack.

At Rome four centuries ago it took forty capstans, worked by seventy-five horses and 960 men, to raise an obelisk. With hydraulic jacks four men raised Cleopatra's Needle.

The Square-Dealers and Others

SEE that Slate below!

It is a registered Trade-Mark.

When stamped on a shoe, with a price within the frame, it means that the Shoe has a Certified Value up to that price.

It means that this value is Certified to by the only people who could know precisely what kind of material and workmanship went under its outward finish,—viz., the Makers.

It is a frank acknowledgment of responsibility to the Consumer on the part of the Makers, no matter who sells the shoe.

Do you appreciate the Spirit of Fair-play, Square-deal, and Honest-intention such an unusual Trade-Mark and Price control stand for?

If so, you will resent attempts to hoodwink when you ask for "The Slater Shoe."

There are Retailers who will tell you that they have "Slater's Shoes," "Slater's make of Shoes," "Slater's Strider Shoe," "Slater's Invictus Shoe," "Geo. A. Slater's Shoes," or "Frank W. Slater's Shoes," etc.

Some of these are good Shoes and some are mere "wheezes," deliberately conned to trade upon the standing of "The Slater Shoe."

But, bear in mind, that none of them is "The Slater Shoe" you are looking for, which is——

The Shoe with the trade-mark of the Slate on it and the retail price stamped indelibly within that Slate.

There are 26 "Slaters" in the Montreal City Directory, and every one of them might feel justified in putting his own name on a Shoe.

But no sane person would risk putting the Sign of the Slate there, and paying the penalty under the law for fraud.

So, look for The Slate Mark!

And, you will help along "the Square-deal" principle by putting your foot down hard when any Retailer or his Salesman tries to flim-flam you with the evasion of "Slater's Shoes," etc., when you ask for "the Shoe with the Slate on it."

The genuine "Slate-frame" Shoe business was founded in 1869, incorporated in 1890, has trebled in volume since 1900, and doubled in volume since 1904.

The Slater Shoe factory to-day produces about a Million Dollars' worth of high-grade Shoes yearly, and will probably double that Million in the next three years.

"The Slater Shoe" is sold by 336 responsible Shoe Retailers in Canada, at the uniform price stamped on each pair, by the Makers, in a Slate frame.

It is made from the most carefully selected materials by the Goodyear Welt machines in their most highly developed state, insuring comfort and durability.

Remember it is not a genuine 1869 "Slater Shoe" unless it has the Slate mark on it.

"The Slater Shoe" for Men and Women and Children.

A SCISSORS ARTIST.

The Wonderful Feats Performed by Joanne Koetsen.

More than 200 years ago a little girl was born at Amsterdam, Holland, whose name was Joanne Koetsen. She was a peculiar child in that she cared nothing whatever for play and sport, but found her greatest delight in making copies of things about her, imitating in wax every kind of fruit and making on silk with colored floss exact copies of paintings which were thought wonderful.

But after she had become very accomplished in music, spinning and embroidery she abandoned all these for a still more extraordinary art—that of cutting. She executed landscapes, marine views, flowers, animals and portraits of people of such striking resemblance that she was for a time quite the wonder of Europe. She used white papers for her cuttings, placing them over a black surface, so that the minute openings made by her scissors formed the "light and shade."

The czar, Peter the Great, and others of high rank paid her honor. One man high in office vainly offered her 1,000 florins for three small cuttings. The empress of Germany paid her 4,000 florins for a trophy she had cut, bearing the arms of Emperor Leopold, crowned with eagles and surrounded by a garland of flowers. She also cut the emperor's portrait, which can now be seen in the Royal Art gallery in Vienna. A great many people went to see her, and she kept a book in which princes and princesses wrote their names.

After she died, which was when she had lived sixty-five years, her husband, Adrian Block, erected a monument to her memory and had designed upon it the portraits of these titled visitors. Her cuttings were so correct in effect and so tasteful as to give both dignity and value to her work and constitute her an artist whose exquisite skill with the scissors has never before or since been equaled.

CAMELS HARBOR HATRED.

The Arab who has angered a camel will throw his clothes upon the ground, and the infuriated beast after stamping on them and tearing them asunder with its teeth goes on its way, and the driver is thereafter quite safe, as it seems to be an axiom with the camel that no man shall be put in peril of life twice for one offense.

The camel is stupid save when angry and then seems to become almost preternatural in carrying out its vengeful designs. Palgrave relates the following story of a camel's revenge, which serves to illustrate this point: 'A lad of fourteen had conducted a large camel laden with wood from one village to another at a half hour's distance. As the animal loitered or turned out of the way its conductor struck it repeatedly and harder than it seemed to have thought he had a right to do; but, not finding the occasion favorable for taking immediate quits, it 'bode its time.' That time was not long in coming.

"A few days later the same lad had to reconduct the beast, but unladen, to his own village. When they were about halfway on the road and at some distance from any habitation the camel suddenly stopped, looked deliberately round in every direction to assure itself that no one was in sight and, finding the road clear of passers-by, made a step forward, seized the unlucky boy's head in its monstrous mouth and, lifting him up in the air, flung him down again on the earth with the upper part of his skull completely torn off.

"Having thus satisfied its revenge, the brute quietly resumed its pace toward the village, as though nothing were the matter, till some men who had observed the whole, though unfortunately at too great a distance to be able to afford timely help, came up and killed it."—London Telegraph.

Her Blunder.

Him—And I'm the only man you ever loved?

Her—Yes, dearest.

Him—May I speak to your father?

Her—I suppose you'd better.

Him—I wonder how he'll take it.

Her—Oh, I never can tell about dad. He treats some of the boys very nicely, and at others he gets fearfully angry, and—why, what's the matter, George?

RAISIN WEED.

Grass Rugs With Which the Sargasso Sea Is Strewn.

When a ship approaches the Sargasso sea it appears to be heading straight for a meadow thickly carpeted with coarse autumnal grass or a Scottish moor covered with yellow gorse. A nearer view discloses what appear to be innumerable small islets, generally round in shape and varying in width from 50 to 100 yards. These islets are intersected with lanes of clear water, and where the blue of a cloudless sky is reflected in these open channels the yellow color of the islets becomes intensified by contrast to bright golden. When a stiff breeze begins to blow they change form, lengthening out in broad, undulating strips, all moving with the wind. Each strip unites with the one ahead of it, but the distance between them on each side remains uniform and never becomes wide enough to admit of the passage of a ship or narrow enough to close up altogether. This produces the strange effect of a blue ocean evenly striped with parallel bands of yellow.

When the sea is perfectly smooth again the strips resume their usual round or oval shapes, and a vessel moving through them has the appearance of a ship sailing over a meadow. Closer inspection shows the floating yellow stuff to be composed of compact masses of a tropical species of seaweed, which, torn from the bottom of the gulf by the fury of the storms, drifts into the circular currents of the Sargasso sea and remains there until it slowly decays under the hot rays of the sun. The yellow color is due to clusters of amber-hued berries exactly like bunches of grapes with which it is covered and which cause sailors to call it raisin weed. It is also full of marine life. Tiny crabs scurry to and fro across it, aquatic spiders lurk among the berries, and microscopic shellfish of various kinds cling to the stalks. Most people who cross the Sargasso sea want to take home a specimen of this famous weed, and an obliging sailor usually lowers a bucket over the side and scoops it up. Inclosed in a wide mouthed bottle filled with sea water and tightly corked it will keep a long time.

The Adam of Zululand.

This primeval Zulu is credited with having broken off the nations of the universe from a reed which typifies the source of being. The Uthlanga, or reed, really represents a father from whom the children are broken off. Their explanation of what "brought death into the world and all its woe" is weird and intensely interesting. Unkulunkulu sent this message by the chameleon: "Go, Chameleon, go, and say, Let not men die!" The chameleon accordingly set forth, but unfortunately it loitered on the way and ate the fatal purple fruit of Ubukwebezane. Then the Old-old-one despatched a lizard after the chameleon. The lizard ran exceeding fast and made great haste, for it bore the message, "Let men die!" And it accomplished its mission and returned to the Old-old-one before the chameleon reached its destination and shouted: "Let not men die!" It was too late, for men answered: "Oh, we have heard the word of the lizard, and through its word men will die."

The Humors of Ballooning.

Mention of Wilbur Wright reminds one of a little anecdote which Mr. Percival Spencer, the world-famous balloonist, related to him a few days ago. Earlier in the year Mr. Spencer made an ascent with a companion near Wolverhampton, England. As they were descending, some miles from the spot where they started, they noticed a cyclist riding along a country road. "When within hailing distance," said Mr. Spencer, "I shouted to him. The man looked all round, but did not see the balloon until I shouted again. Then he did not seem able to keep his eyes off us, and kept staring upwards while still riding his machine. 'That fellow will find himself in the ditch if he is not careful,' I said to my companion; and I had no sooner made the remark than the cyclist steered his bike into the side of the road and turned a somersault. And he was still gazing at us as we left him behind."

Oysters as Wild Animals.

Oysters are sometimes regarded as dangerous, but they are not usually considered savage. A Queensland judge, however, has decided that they are wild beasts. Before a royal commission on the pearling industry, which has been sitting at Brisbane, a witness stated that eight years ago he had laid 100,000 pearl shells in the neighborhood of Friday Islands. The Japanese stole the shells, and the district judge held that as pearl shell oysters were wild animals there was no penalty for stealing them.

Desecrated by Souvenir Hunters.

The beautiful tomb of Lord Cardigan, the leader of the historic charge of Balaklava, in the church at Deene, Northamptonshire, England, has been greatly damaged by souvenir hunters, and the replica coronet which figured in the earl's funeral has disappeared.

Not Mentioned by Herodotus.

Xerxes was meditating upon his good luck in having been made king by his royal father in preference to the eldest son.

"Still," he said, "if the succession had been determined by a primary election I would have got it just the same. Naturally everybody would have marked an X opposite my name."

A Poor Place.

"And you say you almost starved to death in your last position?" said the kind housewife. "What position was it?"

"I was treasurer of a poets' union, mum," replied the dusty wayfarer, with a deep sigh.

Easy.

CUROL is the Reliable Remedy for this most Tormenting and Irritating Skin Disease

In CUROL we have the embodiment of the best healing properties known to the medical world. IT IS ANTISEPTIC. The air is full of microbes all too ready to enter the body through the broken and lacerated tissue. They commence their deadly work immediately upon entry and develop ugly sores and even blood poison, which often proves fatal. A timely use of CUROL prevents all this—being an antiseptic it kills off the microbes and starts on its great work of healing and building up of the tissues.

In long standing cases CUROL goes to the root of the difficulty with a determination which is simply marvellous. It first of all eradicates every particle of disease and foreign matter. Having accomplished this, the healing is only a matter of days.

The healing done by CUROL is well done, for it positively will not heal until the wound is clean and free from impurities. Not so with salves containing Zinc, Mercury, Lead, etc. These poisonous salves may heal quickly, but do a great deal of damage by driving the impurities into the body, often causing very serious consequences. You should shun such and use only a salve free from these harmful minerals. Such a salve is CUROL. There is a total absence in CUROL of rancid, fatty substances, so often found in cheap ointments, and does not cake, clog or become hard. It is immediately absorbed by the skin, and thus penetrates to the seat of the disease. This fact alone makes CUROL popular. It is pure, and we have no hesitation in saying the best 25 cent salve on the market. We ask you to prove this statement by sending coupon for a free sample.

THE RELIABLE REMEDY For Eczema is CUROL. It also heals Bad Legs, Ringworm, Ulcers, Cuts, Burns and Scalds. Sore and Aching Feet. Poisoned Wounds, Festering Wounds, Running and Cold Sores, Pimples and Blackheads, Children's Scalp Sores, Chapped Hands and Chilblains, Itch and all Skin irritations and troubles. CUROL is a splendid EMBROCATION for Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia, and is a positive cure for Blind and Bleeding Piles. All Druggists and Stores sell at 25 cents a box, or postpaid from CUROL SALVE CO., Spadina Ave., Toronto. 6 boxes, $1 25.

Not long ago a settler in the Edmonton district lost everything by prairie fire, says a writer in a western magazine. His grain and stock, his shack and stable, his fences and implements, all were wiped out. A prosperous farm was converted in a few hours into a Sahara of grey ashes, with nothing left but the ruins of a cook stove left on the flat prairie floor to show that it had once been a human habitation. This Edmonton settler didn't sit stunned and dazed over the ruins. He walked three miles to a neighbor and borrowed a team and wagon. Then he took a piece of his broken stove top for a spade, and driving to a neighboring coulee, where hundreds and hundreds of beautiful Alberta ferns grew wild he grubbed out a wagonload of these ferns and teamed them into Edmonton. The people of that opulent young northern city may or may not have had an inkling of what had befallen him. But at any rate, the homeless settler sold his whole wagon load of fern roots for a dollar apiece, and turned around and bought a tent and a tin stove for $5, from the grandson of an English earl who refused to live any longer in a country where he couldn't buy "Honey-Dew" tobacco, and the shooting was getting worse every season. The fern seller then drove home with a pocketful of money and a determination to start life over again. You feel that he ought to have a brass plate on his door when he dies—at least, you feel that way at first, when you think of him grubbing out those coulee ferns with a broken stove top. But Canada would run out of the supply if she gave every westerner of kindred spirit a monument, for there are thousands of them. They are the men who are making us a nation."

OLDEST PREACHER DIES.

Rev. Alex. Mans, of London Colored Baptists, Was 118 Years Old.

The oldest Canadian preacher passed quietly away at the Aged People's Home in London, Ont., recently, in the person of Rev. Alexander Mans, who had just attained the 118th year of his age, and who was for many years minister of the Horton Street Baptist Church.

The long years of Rev. Mr. Mans' life have been eventful ones indeed. He has seen the change of a great country once his own. He watched the uniting of the Confederate States of America with those of the North, and the freeing of the race to which he belonged.

Born in the southern states, of slave parents, Rev. Mr. Mans grew up in slavery. After attaining the age of manhood, Rev. Mr. Mans' masters had to sell their plantation, and he with the other slaves was auctioned off to the highest bidder. His new home turned out to be an unhappy one, and from that time Mr. Mans began to think about escaping to Canada, the land of promise for the slaves. At this time the underground railway was the means adopted to help these unfortunate beings, and one night he stole from his cabin and, with the help of those freedom-loving and freedom-abetting citizens, reached Canada. This was some sixty years ago, and ever since this time Rev. Mr. Mans has resided in and about London.

Long Sealing Trips.

To hunt for new sealing grounds in "all the seven seas" is the mission on which A. J. Bechtel of Victoria, B. C., has just dispatched his schooner, the Beatrice L. Corkum, from Halifax. The cruise will last for the next two years.

Mr. Bechtel arrived on the coast recently from the east, where he fitted out and prepared the vessel for her long cruise. He has hitherto, in common with all the other sealing masters, confined his attention to the seals in the north Pacific Ocean and in Behring Sea, and his new move is a fresh indication that the days of the seal herds in that part of the world are numbered and new grounds must be found for the hunters if the very expensive equipment of the several companies is to be kept employed.

A similar trip to that outlined for the Corkum will be made by the Agnes G. Donahue, owned by Capt. Balcum, of Victoria. Mr. Bechtel says that the schooner will practically cruise around the world in search of new sealing grounds.

Famous Castle to Be Restored.

The ruins of Richmond Castle, in Yorkshire, Eng., are to be restored by the Board of Works. The historic castle was built in 1071.

Pushing Northward.

The shack of the settler is appearing farther and farther north in Ontario, and the last townsite to be surveyed into lots is where the National Transcontinental Railway crosses the Abitibi river. It is seven miles east of Cochrane, the junction point of the T. & N. O. Railway and the Transcontinental. Mr. W. H. Whitson of the Ontario Survey Department has returned from planning out the townsite, and he believes that the settlement there, which will probably be called Abitibi, has great possibilities. For a hundred miles up the Abitibi and for some distance along the Black river there are valuable areas of pulp and timber, and in the immediate vicinity of the townsite there is good farming land. The Transcontinental bridge at the point is 840 feet long and 94 feet above the water. They expect to have trains running from Abitibi to Frederick House by Christmas.

Jeered the Bishop.

As he was leaving the synod meeting at Christ Church Cathedral the other day, Bishop Dumoulin was surrounded by a crowd of street urchins, who jeered his knickers and gaiters. The bishop referred to the incident at a reception held that evening at the close of the synod, and laughingly remarked that he would have boxed their ears had he not been a bishop. He mentioned the subject in connection with a report he made on his visit to the Pan-Anglican conference, and remarked that the children of England did not seem to be as irreverant as the children of Canada.

Her Ears.

"You see," said the woman, "I always notice people's ears."

"Poor thing," thought the other performer in the conversational duet, with real sympathy. "What a mortification it must be to her to look in the mirror and see her own funny little ears standing out from her head."

"I feel that I have pretty good ears myself," went on the woman, putting her hand to one of the members under consideration, with a satisfied air, "and I suppose for that reason I notice a feature of which but little is thought."

And the other woman gasped a little with astonishment, and it was a minute or two before she had anything to say.

Inebriated Churchgoer.

The man sat quietly in the pew of St. Paul's church sat through the sermon, very drunk. When it was over they consulted awhile and then the sexton and some others dragged him out of the church, across the yard and through the gate, which they shut on him.

"He comes in here to church occasionally on Sunday," said the officiating pastor. "It's a strange thing. They say there is truth in the wine. There are also reminiscences. In all probability he was brought up by pious parents, who taught him to go to church. Now that he has become a drunkard he comes here as a matter of habit. It is a sad sort of thing to have to put him out so roughly, it seems to me."

Maltese Muskrats.

One of the most objectionable of the pests that intrude into houses in Malta is the muskrat. Everything he touches is impregnated with the odor from which he derives his name. In a wine cellar he is worse than a dishonest butler. In a larder he is more destructive than a dozen cats. From pure wantonness he taints and renders uneatable everything within his reach. His odor is so powerful and at the same time so penetrating that dozens of bottles of beer may be ruined by his merely running over the bottles. The muskrat is a squeaking little animal who commits his enormities at night, and he adds insult to injury by disturbing the repose of the victims of his depredations.

St. George and the Dragon.

According to Percy, St. George, the son of Lord Albert of Coventry, after fighting against the Saracens went to Sylene, a city of Libya, where there was a stagnant lake infested by a monster dragon "whose hide no spear could pierce." Every day a virgin was sacrificed to it, and at length it came to the lot of the king's daughter to become the victim. She was tied to the stake and left to be devoured when St. George came up and vowed to take her cause in hand. On came the dragon, whom the saint, thrusting his lance into its mouth, killed it at once.

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—In my first address to you, I aimed to point out what had been accomplished by the Liberal Governments of Ontario and of the Dominion in promoting what may be described as the local interests of West Peterborough, in the provision of local advantages to meet local needs, and serve public interests.

I now wish to suggest some of the many reasons why the present Government should be sustained, and given an opportunity of continuing the great work it has accomplished for Canada as a whole. There is not a city resident, nor dweller in the suburbs, not a labourer, nor an artizan, not a mechanic, nor a manufacturer, nor anybody in any walk of life, that has not enjoyed more prosperity, had his welfare improved, his business benefitted, during the twelve years of rule of the present Liberal Government, which is now appealing for a renewal of its stewardship.

There is not a farmer in Peterborough county, who does not know that every farm, properly managed, has increased in value, and every farmer in prosperity, in the twelve years of Liberal rule. There is not a farmer who does not know that general conditions have been vastly improved; who does not know to what a general extent the clear deed for the farm has replaced the farm mortgage; new buildings replaced dilapidated structures; home comforts increased, and general conditions of well-being improved.

It is therefore incumbent upon me to present as concise a view as possible of the record of the Liberal Government, whose supporter I am, to set forth what it has done in the twelve years of its trusteeship to promote the general welfare of Canada.

To emphasize this record, the condition of the country previous to the Liberal Government assuming power, may be recalled. It is no exaggeration to say that at that time the country was practically at a standstill; that business was dormant; our industries languishing; manufacturers dissatisfied; the Conservative Government was fighting amongst themselves, and had ceased to effectively govern. Our finances were at low-water mark; expenditure was running ahead of receipts, deficits were almost annual, the national debt advancing, the country torn by dissensions and the outlook gloomy.

The first notable action of the Liberal Government, as a necessary preliminary to national progress, was to restore peace and harmony among the people—by the satisfactory and lasting settlement of a burning question. Peace having thus been restored, the Liberal Government was free to enter upon the work of nation-building.

The tariff, which, under previous administrations, was not giving satisfactory results, either to the people affected, or in the way of revenue, was readjusted with careful consideration of all interests, the consumer as well as the producer. The farmer was helped by having binder twine, barbed wire, Indian corn, cream separators, and articles of staple necessity, placed on the untaxed list of imports. Manufacturers, and through them the wage-earners, were helped by removal, or reduction, of duties on raw material used in manufacturing.

There was an immediate improvement in the condition of all national interests; prosperity resumed its reign, trade became active, employment plentiful, wages increased, and a rate of good growth taken on which can only be understood by recalling some of the records.

Under the revised tariff, our revenue, even under a tariff lowered on an average of $18.28 per $100, at the close of Conservative rule to an average of $15.66 per $100, under Liberal rule, increased from thirty-six millions a year, in 1896, to ninety-six millions in 1908.

The capital invested in manufacturing establishments increased from $446,916,487 in 1900, to $833,916,155 in 1905, or over seventy million dollars per year.

The wages paid to labour in factories, increased from $113,249,350 in 1900, to $162,155,578 in 1905, or nearlp ten million dollars per year.

The value of products of manufacturing establishments grew from $481,053,375, in 1900, to $706,446,578 in 1905, the increase in the manufactured output of the city of Peterborough in that period amounting to eleven millions odd, being far the greatest proportion of increase of any one place in the Dominion.

The total foreign trade—imports and exports—has in the past twelve years of Liberal administration amounted to the tremendous total of 5,152 millions of dollars.

In twelve years the farmers of Canada have received for the products of their farms e t abroad more than a thousand million dollars, and the exports of farm products have increased from $50,592,525 in 1896, to $121,171,199 in 1908.

The value of the exported products of our mines has increased from $8,059,650 in 1896, to$39,117,133 in 1908.

Forest products have increased in value of exports from $27,175,686, in 1906, to $44,170,470 in 1908.

In 1896, Canadian bank discounts the index of commercial and industrial activity, amounted to $224,507,301; they had grown to $584,732,914 in 1908—more than doubled.

The people's deposits in chartered banks and savings banks, have grown from $245,029,143 in 1896, to $650,126,232 in 1908.

The increase in tonnage carried in 1908 by Canadian railways (another index of commercial and industrial activity) was more than fifteen millions greater than the total tonnage carried in 1896, which was 24,266,825 tons as against 68,866,183 tons in 1908.

There was an increase in the export value of bacon and hams from $18,827,928 in twelve Conservative years, to $135,136,311 in the twelve Liberal years; the increase for the same period in butter export values was from $10,513,348, to more than five times—$51,680,095; in cheese, from $127,611,428, to $247,790,332; in wheat, from $45,338,791 to $121,677,659, or nearly five-fold.

In the five years of Liberal rule—from 1901 to 1905—the population of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, increased from 419,512 to 808,863. In the last two years immigration and settlement have so rapidly advanced that the population of these provinces must be well beyond the million mark, for since January 1, 1907, immigrants to the number of 1,219,943 have come into Canada.

Not only have these immigrants the very great value of a million increase of population, but the effects they brought into Canada, exclusive of personal baggage and cash, amounted to $64,442,532, which is fourteen millions more than the total exports of farm products under Conservative rule in 1896.

In 1900 the number of farms worked in these provinces was 54,625; these had increased to 120,439 four years later—1906.

In eighteen years the Conservative Government voted 56 million acres of land to railway companies, or enough to supply 411,000 homesteads of 160 acres each, whereas, in contrast, in twelve years since coming into power the Liberal Government has not given away one acre of land to a railway. The land has been reserved for the settlers, who got 35 million acres in homesteads.

This work of western development, and the increase of population, have benefitted the east; every new household creates fresh demands upon the manufactured and commercial products of eastern Canada, giving increased work to factories and increased employment to working men.

The prosperity, the all-round quickened activity of national life in Canada attendant upon Liberal rule, has given employment to Canadians at home or found homes for them in the west. This is in strong contrast to the do-nothing immigration policy of the previous Government which could not retain the immigrants brought in nor present conditions attractive enough to keep native-born population at home, nor stop the exodus of the flower of Canadian youth to the United States by the million.

The British preference, or preferential tariff, extended to Great Britain, showed the Liberal Government to represent the party of real loyalty—practical loyalty—to the empire. The result of this gift was a splendid advertisement of Canada, and secured British good-will, with the direct results that it substantially favoured the Canadian consumer, increased imports from Great Britain—three-fold—from $32,894,505 in 1896, to $94,362,383, in 1908— and doubled Canadian exports to Great Britain—from $62,717,941 in 1896, to $126,194,124, in 1908.

This preference was extended to most of the British colonies and, in retur , Canada secured a preference in New Zealand, South Africa and Barbadoes, with the result that British Columbia canneries captured nearly the whole trade of New Zealand, and shut out the canneries of the United States; and Canada's example has been followed by nearly all the British colonies.

Such a record of achievement on the more material side, on the part of the Liberal Government, amply justifies my appeal for your support to aid in retaining it in a position to continue the splendid service that has been given.

It is not, however, only in material matters, but in matters redounding to the credit of Canada, both at home and abroad, and in providing conditions for the general advantage of the people, that the Liberal Government has done work worthy of the practical recognition involved in its being given another lease of power.

Under the Liberal Government, the French treaty was negotiated by Canadian statesmen, without the help of British statesmen, subject, however, to the approval of the Home Government—a long step forward in Canadian nation-building.

The reign of the Liberal Government has been marked by unprecedented development of transportation facilities—the keynote of Canadian development, progress and prosperity. As a general result, the great bulk of the grain trade of the interior west of the continent is passing through Canadian channels, and New York and other American ports are alarmed at the formidable competition of the Canadian St. Lawrence route.

This condition was brought about by the completion of the enlargement of the St. Lawrence and Welland canal systems to a depth of 14 feet, the equipment of grain shipping harbours on Lake Superior and Georgian Bay, Lake Huron and Lake Erie; the improvement of Montreal, St. John and Halifax harbours, the deepening of the ship channel from Montreal to the Gulf, the extension of telegraph systems down the coast, the abolition of canal tolls, and the making of the St. Lawrence a safe route for ocean ships by day or night.

These great works have not only made the St. Lawrence the grain route of the continent, but directly benefitted shippers and producers—general merchandise and farm products. Last year the saving on reduced insurance rates, caused by the improvements made in the St. Lawrence by the Government, amounted to nearly a million dollars—$922,000.

In the last twelve years, the Liberal Government has expended on transportation; in improving the facilities for marketting the products of factories and farms, the large sum of $121,215,115—on canals, twenty-six millions; on Government railways thirty-one millions; on Montreal harbour and St. Lawrence ship channel, seven millions; on the chief lake harbours, two millions; in aid of the construction and extension of railways, twenty-one millions; and, so far, twenty-seven millions on Transcontinental Railway construction, have been advanced for construction, and upon which, after seven years, the Grand Trnuk Pacific will pay the Dominion interest at the rate of three per cent.

In aiding railways to open up the country to development, the Liberal Government have simply invested money. The Conservative way was to give bonuses outright. The Liberal way is to make no gift, a condition of the Liberal grants being that the railways must regard them as a loan and pay in return, by the carrying of mails, an equivalent to a fair rate of interest.

The necessity of the Gran' Trunk Pacific is emphasized by reasons of the conditions existing to-day. The movement of western wheat to the market is at this moment impeded by lack of cars, showing the need of more railway service. To meet conditions which will become more pressing as settlement and crop production will increase, through the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the Government has decided upon building the Hudson Bay Railway, as another wheat outlet that in the open season will shorten the distance to Liverpool by thousands of miles. And the Government shows its wisdom by making the railway build itself—by providing for the cost by the sale of lands, now valueless, but made valuable by the building of the line itself.

Having regard to the future of this country, no calculation can estimate the tremendous benefits that are accruing, and will accrue to Canada, through the bold and business-like development of our transportation facilities, by the Liberal Government.

The Liberal Government conceived, and is constructing, the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will practically double the settled and cropped area of Canada, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, over a belt 200 miles wide through the heart of New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, and western Canada. It will open up millions upon millions of new territory for settlement and development; it will give developments and competition in transportation to 1200 miles of grain-growing country in the west. The Transcontinental Railway, which will be completed in three or four years, will, at least, duplicate the tremendous development work accomplished by the Canadian Pacific in building up the resources and widening the sweep of Canada's commerce.

The Liberal Government's subsidy of $3,630,000 to the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, secured the speedy construction of a line that opened up the rich miners' Kootenay district, of British Columbia, covered it with thriving towns, villages and mining camps, diverted trade from the United States, and opened up a market for western farm produce. It did more. A condition of the subsidy was a reduction of freight rates by the Canadian Pacific, which built the Crow's Nest line; and this reduction, on wheat alone, saved the farmers in five years, $3,750,000, or $20,0000 more than the amount of the subsidy, not to speak of the vast indirect benefit, a saving and benefit that are to continue for all time.

The Liberal Government established the Railway Commission, whose work is to continually arbitrate between railways and customers, and to deal with and settle freight and other rates. Last session telegraph and telephone lines were brought under the Commission, and now there is assured to the public in respect of these public utilities, all the rights, privileges and advantages that could come from public ownership, and that, too, without incurring a tremendous financial liability for purchase and operation.

The Liberal Government, in its work for Agriculture, has given farming a v al organization, and made the farming interests of Canada one vast co-operative industry. Cold storage for transportation of perishable products and efficient supervision in transit, have resulted in placing Canadian farm, garden, dairy and orchard products upon the British markets in their prime original quality, with a splendid reputation and greatly increased prices.

An example of advanced legislation is the Liberal Government's old age pension act, which brings within the reach of every man and woman in Canada a means for making provision for old age.

The Liberal Government's interest in Labour is shown, not only in the broad conditions provided for creating prosperity and industrial activity, and opportunities for employment, but in providing more specific benefits. This is shown in the abolition of the sweating system, so far as concerns Government contracts; the adoption of a fair wage scale for Government contracts; the establishment of a Department of Labour to be placed in charge of a Minister of its own; the publication of the Labour Gazette; the passing of the Lemieux Act, which though only operative since March of last year, has up to August last, been instrumental in amicable settlement of nearly forty strikes, involving over 40,000 employees, and millions of capital, and satisfactory arrangements were made for the limitation and practical cessation of Oriental immigration.

The Liberal Government's adoption of a revenue tariff that produced revenue, made it financially possible to meet the pressing demands of the provinces for increased subsidies, amounting to nearly five million dollars a year of the people's money returned directly to the people for provincial purposes.

The Liberal Government's management of the Post Office is a triumph of business administration. With a reduction in postage rate of over one-third, and with a vastly increased and improved service, a deficit of $750,000 in 1896 was converted into a surplus which steadily increased year by year till this year it reached the large amount of $1,101,827. Such a fruit of good management permitted the Government to initiate another great postal reform—rural mail delivery—that is free mail delivery to farmers, and before the year is out it will be in operation.

The splendid financial administration of the Liberal Government may be summarized in a few words—we have paid our way, and spent large sums in great public works for the development of the country, without appreciably adding to the public debt, and wihout increasing—but actually reducing—the taxation of the people. Customs taxation was reduced from $18.28 per $100, in 1896, to $15.66 per $100 in 1907, not to mention over one-third reduction in postage rates. If the Conservative average of taxation had been in force since 1896, fifty millions more customs duties would have been paid. The Liberal period of rule has been a reign of surpluses—totalling over one hundred and thirteen millions, or about nine and a half million dollars per year. Conservative revenue averaged thirty six million dollars per year for twelve years ending with 1896. Liberal revenue showed an increase every year till the last fiscal year, when it reached $96,054,905. In the twelve years the expenditure had only grown from $36,949,142, in 1896, to $76,061,451, in 1908.

The expenditure has only kept pace with the progress of Canada, and the Liberal Government has made generous expenditure on public works, which will return to the people a thousand fold.

The financial condition of Canada is sound. Her securities list on a par with securities guaranteed by the British Government, and the confidence of British capitalists is shown by the fact that in the first seven months of this year, British money to aid Canadian development was sent in from England to the amount of 143 millions of dollars.

Among the acts of the Government to advance nada, the Liberal Government has established an assay office in British Columbia, and the establishment of a Canadian mint, in which our gold and silver coins are produced, adds to our dignity as a nation, and is also a source of profit.

The Liberal Government has appointed civil service commissioners to provide for eliminating political influence in appointments to the civil service.

The Government, acting on the principle that if Canada maintains a Militia, it must be the best, has instituted a great many reforms. New branches of service have been established; the pay of the militia has been increased from 50 cents per day to a possible $1.00; a permanent training camp has been established at Petawawa rifle ranges, and armouries—including one in Peterborough—have been established and built, and the defence of the country amply provided for. The Government has established a rifle factory in Canada, and the "Ross Rifle," to arm the Canadian militia, and pronounced by British experts as the best arm of precision now made, is a "made in Canada" article.

In presenting the foregoing truly remarkable record of achievements, only the salient points of merit have been indicated. A book would be required to unfold it in detail. But enough is shown to amply justify an appeal to the people for a renewal of confidence in a Government which in the short space of twelve years, has brought Canada into a position of prominence in the eyes of the world, has conquered the favour of the Mother Land; has brought Canada from being a timorous dependency, over-awed by hostile tariff-makers in the United States, to the rank of a nation, making her own treaties, coining her own money, a nation full of self reliance and confidence in a future of magnificent realization, for which the foundations have been laid strong and deep by the Liberal Government of the Dominion, whose stewardship is now under review, with confidence that it will meet popular approval.

Such a Government, I have the honour of supporting, and soliciting you to support, in the person of the Liberal candidate. If I am honoured by your confidence, I can only promise that I will endeavour, to the best of my ability, to repeat the efforts to serve West Peterborough and the country, which I have exerted in the course of my past representative relations, with a single eye to serving and promoting the best interests of Peterborough—city and county.

I have the honour to remain, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

HOW BLUEJACKETS SAVE

BRITAIN'S SAILORS ARE THRIFTY FELLOWS AFTER ALL.

Members of the Naval Force Will Save Greater Part of his Pay on a Cruise Because of the Few Chances of Spending Money—A Handy Tailor Could Once Earn a Good Deal by Plying His Trade.

That "Jack" is not unthrifty is evident from the fact that at the present time £390,000 stands to the credit of 30,000 depositors in the ship, dockyard, and marine banks. As a rule, sailors in the navy prefer to deposit their money in the ship's bank, which is managed by the paymaster, and which pays interest at the rate of 3 3-4 per cent., while in the other banks the usual 2 1-2 per cent. only is allowed.

Another advantage which the ship's bank has over the dockyard bank is that while on foreign service money can be withdrawn with little trouble by merely giving seven days' notice. If, however, a sailor has deposited all his savings in the dockyard bank and wishes to "draw out" while serving abroad, he usually has to wait about three weeks before an "order to pay" is received from the cashier of the dockyard.

"Jack's" savings are derived from a variety of sources. When on a three or four years' commission he usually manages to save the greater part of his pay, for there are not a great many opportunities afforded him, when on foreign service, of spending money. Moreover, if he does not mind working in his spare time, there are several ways in which he can augment his pay to a considerable extent.

Before certain new regulations came into force a year or so ago, which compel a sailor to buy his clothes ready-made from the paymaster, it was no uncommon thing for "Jack" to earn £4 or £5 per month extra by tailoring. A sailor, of course, has to provide his own clothes, and a suit consisting of trousers and jumper (loose jacket) obtained from the paymaster will cost him about half a guinea. He is obliged, however, to take the nearest fit, and, as this was not always to his liking, he much preferred to buy the material, which cost him 1s. 3d. a yard, and make the clothes himself, or, if he was not handy with the needle or scissors, get a messmate to make them for him.

The latter usually charged 5s. for making a pair of trousers and a jumper, the work being done with a hand sewing-machine. Some sailors stitched their own clothes by hand; but this being a rather long task, "Jack" usually found the purchase of a sewing-machine a good investment, for with its aid he was sometimes able to make seven or eight suits a week. But now, of course, that source of income is stopped.

Even more profitable at times, however, is laundry work. Twopence per article, big or little, bar blankets, for which sixpence is charged, is the price which "Jack" has to pay for his washing, if he does not do it himself. On an average, a sailor's washing costs him about one shilling per week, and, as one man will sometimes wash for thirty or forty of his shipmates, he more than doubles and in some cases trebles his pay.

The money is well-earned, however. The washing and ironing of the clothes is no small task, and taking care of the articles while they are drying is sometimes a harder job still. There are always mischievous souls aboard ready to cut down the line on which the clothes may be hanging, for a joke, necessitating a double washing, while, if the laundryman does not keep his eyes open, some of the articles may be missing, in which case he has to replace them. And, as one ship's laundryman significantly remarked to the writer recently, when an article has been down in the stokehold for a day or two it is scarcely recognizable.

Barbering is a profitable business aboard, and many a sailor earns from 10s. to 15s. a week by shaving his shipmates for a penny or cutting their hair for twopence. Then, again, "Jack" is a handy man when it comes to making fancy articles, such as woollen shawls, photo-frames, models, etc. Generally, however, he gives most of these away to his relatives and friends, although he sells them now and again to his shipmates, or visitors who come aboard.

Although moneylending is strictly prohibited on board His Majesty's ships, it is, nevertheless, somewhat extensively practiced in secret. Interest is usually charged at the rate of 20 per cent. a month, so that if "Jack" wants to borrow a sovereign from the "professional" moneylender on his ship he pays 24s. for it. Perhaps at the end of that time he is unable to pay back the loan, in which case, of course, he pays the 4s. interest. Instances have been known of sailors paying the interest on a sovereign for twelve months, and, of course, they still owed the pound at the end of that time, although they had paid 48s. for the loan of 20s.

Another reprehensible practice in which some sailors indulge is that of touting for "bookies." Betting on horse-races is becoming very common in the navy, in spite of the attempts of the authorities to stop it. A "bookie" will pay a sailor 20 and sometimes 30 per cent. commission for all bets received aboard. Not only, however, does he have to run the risk of being severely punished if found out, but the mess to which the tout belongs may turn against him, for, if discovered, he brings discredit on the whole mess, who are suspected of aiding and abetting.

Neglected Talent.

MRS. EGERTON CASTLE.

How This Favorite Author and Her Husband Plan Their Stories.

Although a favorite author nowadays has to submit to almost as much cross questioning as to his life and habits and haunts as a favorite actor, there is comparatively little known about the wives of many successful writers. Quite different is the life of the helpmeets of the literary stars from that of the wives of the stage, who so often are in the same profession as their husbands, acting in the same or rival companies, and who so often find their paths unduly rough. As a rule, the wives of authors live on terms of the most delightful comradeship with their husbands and, while interested and indirectly assisting in their work, are not in the majority of cases rivals in the trade. In some few cases, notably that of Agnes and Egerton Castle, the husband and wife co-operate in all work with pronounced success.

The methods of Mr. and Mrs. Castle are interesting. Their work is a true co-operation, neither being sole planner, writer or "polisher." Some incident or person suggests a theme to their ever busy minds. They discuss its possibilities as the center of a story. Then, just chatting, at home, indoors, outdoors, travelling or anywhere, they work up a plot complete before bothering with pen and paper. Then together they write out what they call the "scenario," as though the story were to be a play and by joint suggestion and criticism eliminate the unnecessary and build a coherent, climacteric outline. From this, working exactly on equal terms and as the fancy moves them, they write out a long first draft, of which duplicate copies are typed. Then, each with a copy, they read and consult and revise until the completed story satisfies both.

Kodak Book For Christmas.

There is a fortune waiting for the man or woman who will get out a practical book entitled "Christmas Gifts For Father, Brother, Husband or Lover."

If your acquaintance with any of the above named gentlemen extends over a period of less than two years, your problem is not such a serious one, for there are about three things which one may safely give to a man, feeling sure that they will be genuinely welcome. Unfortunately a cardcase or bill book of the best seal leather lasts for years, and plain gold links or faultless studs have a way of never getting lost when once in the possession of a man. A woman would have the grace to lose them before a Christmas or birthday found her with all her wants supplied.

There is one little gift that might please the brother or cousin who is away from home and, while it is not at all new, might prove to be a real delight. The Christmas season, however, would be too late to begin the task of making this gift, so the suggestion is made now. Why not send that brother away from home a book of new, well selected kodak pictures? He might like to have on his desk or table some good views of his home, including the house and yard, a corner of the library with the mother caught writing or reading, a little bit of the garden, the view from the dining room window and fascinating snapshots of the several members of the family with the family cat, and the kindly cook not forgotten. If the brother would like it, this isn't too soon to begin to collect the pictures, which would not be difficult to obtain these days when every one either has a camera or a friend who will lend one. The idea has possibilities other than at first appear, especially if one has a sense of humor and some ability as an amateur photographer.

Table Linen.

Dainty linen table accessories are given more thought than usual since handsome pieces have been imported from Italy and elsewhere, tempting women to open wide their purse strings, and also since it has grown fashionable to serve breakfast and luncheon on a polished table with only doilies to protect the wood finish from being marred by the dishes.

Lace trimmed centerpieces are in great demand and are really oftener seen on the well appointed table than embroidery or drawn work, though squares and long runners with this Mexican work in solid borders or medallions are too beautiful to be entirely ousted by the lace decorations which have cast a spell over the wealthy and the moderately well off housewife alike.

Guny lace seems to be the most popular for table use, though it may not be the most fashionable since the filet fad was launched during the season just past. Florentine lace is effective and very dainty on a table.

Both the filet lace and the filet embroidery or darned work are liked for handsome table centerpieces and doilies. These are made of fine linen, not a sheer mesh, but a fine firm weave, and the design of the drawn work or embroidery is confined to squares which may border the centerpiece or may be worked in medallion effect throughout the entire space.

Sometimes filet lace squares are inset instead of having the work done in the linen itself. This is an attractive way to accomplish a good effect, and the work can be done at home. Medallion pieces of almost any shape, size and pattern can be found in the shops ready to use. Very often the prettiest are picked up in the furnishing department where materials for lace curtains and draperies are kept. Odds and ends of lace found in this department will often work in well for table pieces or for dining room furnishings. It is sometimes possible to gather together enough medallions and strips of lace to fashion a table runner or a sideboard cover that is really handsome and far from costly.

All lace pieces are frequently seen and are attractive when used on a polished mahogany table with the gleam of the wood showing through. Just under the center of the decoration where the bowl of flowers rests a pad can be placed to keep the table from being marred or stained.

Circular pieces with radiating lines of darning or drawn work are quickly made and are useful for ordinary purposes.

Fine white linen runners or scarfs for buffet and sideboard, with a band of cluny insertion and a wider edging to match, are decorative and have quite an elaborate air, yet they can be made very simply and are sometimes half or a third the price of circular pieces which have the lace insets designed to suit the piece.

Toast to Women.

There has always been plenty of clever repartee in toast giving at large functions between men and women, but it is not always that there are two wits so easily matched that one can give the retort discourteous to the other in so quick a manner as to bring out applause.

The way in which this was done at a recent dinner is worth repeating, so the toasts are given in detail. They were both uncomplimentary, but it goes without saying that they will be used again and again in a laughing spirit by those who love to play with such fire.

A man who avowed himself a woman hater was asked to give a toast to "lovely woman." He responded with these lines:

Here's to the women who are tender!
Here's to the women who are slender!
Here's to the women who are married!
Here's to the women who have tarried!
Here's to the women who are speechless —but they are dead!

Without a moment's hesitation a girl at the other end of the table got up and gave this toast:

Our sex, you know, was after yours designed,
The last perfection of the Maker's mind.

A Motto.

There is an old saying that should be illuminated and hung in every schoolroom and nursery—"Drive not a second nail till the first is clinched."

If children and girls and boys would get that into their understandings they would not fear examination times, and their brains would be less sievelike.

It may take more trouble to master a thing at first, but it pays in the end. Mastery does not mean learning for a day, but forever. It would not be much of a builder who puts in his nails so fast or so indifferently that the old ones fell out as soon as a new one went in.

Make that motto your own as you start back into a new year of school and see if it does not make study easier and more interesting and reports better.

Salmon Sandwiches.

If a housekeeper has grown tired of the conventional sandwich she should try those made of salmon. They are most palatable.

The salmon is flaked and moistened with mayonnaise and then put as a filling between two extra thin slices of brown bread with the crust cut off.

Sweet sandwiches are also in fashion for luncheons and after theater parties.

The newest ones served by a clever housewife have a filling of candied cherries chopped fine and moistened with orange juice.

Woman Who Compiled a Dictionary.

Though the compiling of a dictionary is a task that even a corps of trained editors undertake with no slight hesitation, a Washington woman, Mrs. George H. Gorham, has just finished the remarkable feat of writing an idiomatic French-English, English-French dictionary entirely unaided.

UNWILLING GUESTS.

"One of the strangest situations I was ever in," said a man who has traveled much, "was down on an island in the Amazon river. I was looking up lumber for an English syndicate. I had another white man with me, and we went up the river 800 miles in a launch. The crew of the launch were half Indian and half negro. We had been caught by a swarm of Indians who swept us along with them up the river until we reached this island I speak of. There was nothing to do but go with them, as they were several hundred to one of us. They landed on the island, which was quite sizable and sloped to the river's edge, the shores being sandy. There we camped for the night. Next morning when we wanted to leave the natives would not let us go, insisting on our remaining. I did not like this, but there was nothing else to do, so we stayed. Well, that night we saw something moving all about the island, and presently turtles began to crawl out of the water on to the shore. There were hundreds of them. They came there to lay their eggs. It was an annual visit, and the Indians knew and kept track of it. They were there to have a feast. As soon as the turtles were well on the island the fun began. With a big pole we would get after a turtle and upset him on his back, where he was helpless. Scores were caught in this manner. For those they did not want to eat at once the Indians scooped a hole in the sand and dropped the turtle down on his back, and there he remained until dragged out to be killed. The weird and fantastic performances we saw there beat anything I ever saw before or since. The Indians would eat and dance and dance and eat until they fell down, unable to move. As soon as they had rested they would get up and go at it again. They kept that up for nearly a week. Then we got away. How much longer they remained I cannot say, but suppose they remained as long as there was anything to eat."

Too Saving.

Prof. Charles Zueblin, the brilliant and original sociologist of the University of Chicago, enunciated before the League of Political Education in New York a superb epigram:

"He who begins with saving to protect his family may end with neglecting his family to save."

Discussing the dangers of immoderate saving, he said:

"It's by saving immoderately that we come to inserting want advertisements like one I saw recently: 'Wanted, capable office boy. Salary, $1 a week.'

"A young man of Seminary avenue, noticing this advertisement, couldn't resist replying to it. His reply ran:

"'I beg to offer you my services. Should you require a premium I could furnish $500. You do not mention Sundays. Should I have to work on that day? Neither do you state whether the applicant must be clothed or not, but I have concluded that he must at least wear trousers or he would be unable to carry home his wages.'"

Poison Rings.

The origin of the pretty custom of placing the wedding ring upon the finger of the bride seems to have sprung from Egyptians, who presented the bridal ring as a token of intrusting the wife with all the husband's property. The custom was adopted by the early Christians, and thus it has reached us in the present day, when the ring is placed upon the bride's finger with the words, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow."

Rings, however, have had other associations besides those of marrying and giving in marriage. Some Roman rings were hollow and filled with poison, obviously for the purpose of suicide, a crime then considered a virtue. A modern instance of this carrying death upon the finger is that of Condorcet, who when arrested by the notorious convention tore the jewel from his ring and drank the poison which lay in the hollow.

The Musk Deer of Tibet.

Consul General William H. Michael reports that a number of Tibetan traders who visited Calcutta in March, 1908, brought with them, among other articles, a large quantity of musk, which is held in high esteem by the high caste Indians. The little deer from which the musk is obtained ranges in the Himalayas and Tibetan mountains, 9,000 feet above sea level. The male deer yields the finest and greatest quantity of musk. The deer are shy and alert and difficult of capture.

An Economical Suitor.

It was fair time in Selkirk, and Sandy and his sweetheart were wandering round arm in arm, enjoying the sights. Presently they espied a smart looking pie shop, which they promptly entered. Sandy ordered one pie and sat down and commenced to eat it. Meanwhile the girl looked shyly on.

"Is't fine, Sandy?" she timidly asked.

"Aye, 'tis awful fine, Jennie," he answered. "Ye should buy one!"

Red and White Meats.

An old idea was that red meat might be injurious sometimes when white meat would be harmless. Analyzing raw meats in 1899, Offer and Rosenquist concluded that there was practically no difference, but late analyses of both raw and cooked meats justify Adler in making a distinction. Losing less deleterious extractive in cooking, the red meat may be undesirable in certain maladies, like gout and nephritis.

A Lake That Vanished.

The lake of Moerjolen, situated 7,766 feet above the sea at the foot of the Eggisborn, on the great glacier of Aletsch, suddenly vanished one night several weeks ago. It is supposed that a recent storm caused the crevasse to open at the bottom of the lake and that the water ran out through this. The day following the disappearance of the lake the plains of the canton of Vaud, some distance away, were flooded by a sudden torrent.

GOT IN ALL THE NEWS.

Cummings Killed a Lot of Ads. and Raised a Row.

When Amos Cummings was managing editor of The New York Sun, many years ago, an important news story came in late one night and was sent to the composing room with "must" written above it, which meant that on no account must the news be left out of the paper. A few minutes after the copy boy returned to the editorial rooms and reported that the foreman had said the paper was already overset and that two columns of other news would have to be killed if the "must" story was to get in. Cummings took the copy from the boy and went himself to the composing room. He demanded an explanation. The foreman told him that there was a pressure of advertisements that night and that they had usurped some of the space usually given for news.

"What shall I kill?" asked the foreman.

"Kill two columns of advertisements and print all the news," ordered Cummings, and it was done.

The next day there was trouble around The Sun office. A hurried meeting of the stockholders was called, and it was a stormy one. Some of the stockholders wanted to have Cummings discharged, but Charles A. Dana stood up for him, and as Dana owned the greater part of the stock his voice was all powerful. After the meeting Mr. Dana walked out of his office and straight to Cummings' desk. He put his hand affectionately on the managing editor's shoulder and said:

"Amos, you have my permission to throw out advertisements to make room for the news whenever in your opinion it is necessary. We are publishing a newspaper, not an advertising poster."

Shortly afterward an improvement was made in the presses so that two or more pages could be added to the paper at the last moment if necessary.

AGE OF THE OLIVE.

Plato's Tree Still Standing Near Site of Athens' Academy.

It is well known that olive trees will live to an extreme age, and trees are known which are many centuries old. What is known as Plato's olive tree is one of the oldest upon record. It stands near Athens and on the spot where the academy formerly existed. In spite of its great age it still appears to be in a flourishing condition and has a vigorous foliage. Although somewhat damaged by the combats of the insurrection, says the Scientific American, it will no doubt live for a long time to come. The proprietor of the ground, M. Vamvacas, had the tree examined by the naturalist Miliarakis in order to be assured whether the popular legend dating it from the time of Plato could be correct, and it was found that its age was sufficient to bear out the legend. As to popular belief, M. Camburoglus, conservator of the National library of Athens, states that tradition has it that the tree was no doubt already old when Plato sat under its shade. M. Vamvacas had the idea of honoring this contemporary of the great philosopher by sending its olives as a present to the different sovereigns or presidents, and among others President Roosevelt, who addressed him a reply of thanks for his unique present.

Ancient Smithfield.

Smithfield is probably the oldest cattle market in the world. It was already ancient when Fitz-Stephen made an allusion to its existence in 1150. Then a place for live cattle only, it lay outside the city walls and served in the absence of the cattle as a place of recreation. Two hundred years later the corporation assumed official control over the beasts and the butchers. But these did not have the complete monopoly of Smithfield, as the blood of the the martyrs and the revelers of Bartholomew fair testify.

Long-Lived Family.

The master of St. Austell (Eng.) Workhouse reported to the guardians that a woman, aged 97, who was brought to the workhouse recently by her 75-year-old son had been taken out a few days later by her sister, who is 90 years of age.

A DIFFICULT BATH.

Exciting Time In the Dead Sea and the River Jordan.

It is well known that the waters of the Dead sea are much heavier than those of the ocean. This is due to the great amount of salt held in solution. A few years ago Mr. (now Sir) Gray Hill of England made a trial of swimming in the sea and then in the Jordan to compare the two. He tells the result in his book, "With the Bedouins:"

Many tourists while at Jericho bathe in the Dead sea and the Jordan, and for very shame I could not pass by without doing so. But my experience was peculiar. I had with me one of the Jericho sheiks and one of the muleteers, and we rode first to the Dead sea. Its waters are generally perfectly still and of a splendid blue color, but now, owing to the storm, they were very rough, the waves ran high and for some 200 yards from the shore were of an ugly brown.

I looked askance at it as I undressed, but felt bound to go in. The waves very promptly knocked me down and filled my mouth, nose and eyes with their strong brine. Again I tried and again, picking up one after another of the bare branches of trees which are carried down by the Jordan and washed on to the shores of this strange lake, with which I tried to steady myself as I walked in. But the force of the waves, aided by the great floating power of the water, twisted the branches out of my hands and knocked me down time after time until, feeling that I had done enough for principle, I acknowledged that the victory did not lie on my side and scrambled out, smarting most unpleasantly.

Then we galloped off to the Jordan, where I thought I should succeed better. So I cast about for a suitable place to jump in, for I did not like to crawl in ignominiously at the pilgrims' bathing place, near which we were and which would have been the wisest course to adopt. I wanted to take a header. So, procuring a long stick, I ascended the stream a little and made sure by sounding with it of a deep spot under an overhanging tree.

In I plunged, intending to swim down to the regular bathing place, where I knew there must be a good bottom for getting out. Down I came with the fast flowing yellow flood, striking out in the fullest enjoyment.

But when I was just about to put my foot to the ground I was brought up sharp with a tremendous blow on my right breast. If it had struck me on the heart it would, I think, have killed me on the spot. I had come down on to the end of a stake pointing up beam and driven in to mark the upper boundary of the bathing place, but which was hidden owing to the rains having raised the surface of the river. I had some difficulty in crawling out again and was black and blue in the chest for a month afterward. There is nothing like a little experience to teach one wisdom.

A Matter of Color.

Wanderer (returned after several years)—Well, well, I'm mighty glad to see you. How are you, and how are all the good people?

Stay-at-home—Oh, we're all right and getting along as well as could be expected.

Wanderer—And how is the Widow Green?

Stayathome—She isn't so Green as she was.

Wanderer—What's the matter? She isn't gray, I hope?

Stayathome—No; she's Brown.

Wanderer—Brown?

Stayathome—Yes; married Samuel J. about five years ago, and she's been the Widow Brown for the last two years.

Wanderer—You don't say?

Stayathome—Yes.

Wanderer—Well, by gosh, if she's willing to change color again, I'll ask here as sure as my name's Black.

Coquelin's Wish.

Coquelin, the great actor, was melancholy in the midst of his most famous successes. One day he confided his trouble to Schurmann. "I am tired," he said, "of playing parts where my wife runs away from me. I want to play a part where I am much loved by the little woman, even if she runs away from another man."

HOW OUR WEIGHT VARIES.

The Way a Person Will Gain and Lose In One Day.

Don't get worried every time you notice a slight decrease in your weight. Of course there may be something wrong, but don't jump to conclusions too quickly. Just take into consideration the fact that the weight varies throughout the day.

At 9 a. m. before breakfast he weighs, say, 155 pounds 8 ounces. An hour later, after breakfast, he has gained one pound twelve ounces, but by noon he loses fourteen ounces of this, only immediately to make it up and to add two ounces by lunch, which brings his weight to 157 pounds 6 ounces. Then the fall begins again and slowly continues till dinner time, though the chief meal of the day puts on two pounds two ounces, fetching him up to his maximum weight.

There is a big drop during the night. It amounts on the average to three pounds six ounces, but the loss varies from two pounds to four pounds, according to idosyncrasy and the season of the year. In making deductions from the results of the experiments touching variations in weight allowance must be made for special exertion, whether bodily or mental.

That mental strain quickly tells on the frame has been established in connection with examinations. Comparative tests show that students in the high classes, where the effort is necessarily greatest, lose several pounds more than those in the lower classes.

The loss of weight due to physical exertion is sometimes a little surprising even to those who have devoted attention to the matter. For instance, Burgess, the swimmer, in trying to cross the English channel, notwithstanding the large amount of food he took while in the water, lost nearly one pound per hour.

Even a degree of exertion within the capacity of well nigh anybody is an important factor in reducing weight. It is easy to lose about two pounds by taking a turn at a home exercise, while a brisk walk may involve a loss of three pounds or four pounds.

In the American Magazine a writer talks about courage. In the course of his story he tells about a certain respectable father he once knew. Here is what he says:

"Isn't it time we took off our hats and thanked this pleasant land for the good things it has done for us by going on patiently covering up our blunders, rectifying our mistakes and responding cheerfully to our every intelligent effort?

"I knew a man who had the right idea about it. His father had made a great fortune in the pork packing business. The heir was not puffed up by his millions. Long after he had grown accustomed to the money and might reasonably be expected to look down on butchers, if in walking in the country with his children they saw a drove of hogs on the road, he would make the little boys stand at attention and take off their hats. 'I want them to respect the sources of wealth,' he said."

Her Accomplishment.

In the Bohemian set of Chicago two of the popular members are a well known writer and his wife, who has also written several books. They have a daughter about four years old. Recently the little girl was visiting at the home of a friend, and her small playmate asked, "Can your mamma sew?"

The daughter of the literary pair evidently was a bit chagrined. She could not remember that she ever had seen her mamma sew. She is a truthful child and would not claim any advantage she was not sure of, yet she felt mamma's honor was at stake.

"I don't know if mamma can sew," she replied dubiously, "but she can smoke a cigarette."

A Question In Kind.

In 1834 Sir George presided over the the musical festival in Westminster Abbey. The King and Queen Adelaide were present, and the King, as was his wont, slumbered peacefully whenever the music was sufficiently soft to permit it.

While the duet for basses was being sung in "Israel In Egypt" the Queen woke him up suddenly by remarking, "What a fine duet—'The Lord Is a Man of War!'"

"How many guns does she carry?" he eagerly asked.

A Mighty Eruption.

It has been calculated that the quantity of solid matter ejected by the great eruption of Krakatoa, in the strait of Sunda, in August, 1883, was 4.14 cubic miles. To give some idea of the enormous volume this represents we may take the following illustration: The largest of the pyramids of Egypt, known as the Great Pyramid, contains about 82,000,000 cubic feet of masonry. It would therefore take about 7,360 of such structures to equal in bulk the matter that was thrown out by this eruption.

Golden Silence.

A man who once met Ralph Waldo Emerson at the house of a friend told of the characteristic way in which the Concord philosopher blunted the edge of a compliment.

"Oh, Mr. Emerson," said a young woman of the party, "it must be so delightful to know that people all over the country are grateful for the things you have said!"

"Thank you," said Emerson slowly, "but it is for some of the things I have not said that I feel most grateful."

BEAR'S GREAT FEAT.

Dragged Heavy Trap Half a Mile and Climbed Tall Tree.

G. J. Quilliams, who was recently on a vacation trip in the east, has a nature story that President Roosevelt should surely not leave out of his collection, and the best of Mr. Quilliams' story is that it is true; he has photographs to back it up.

Mr. Quilliams was visiting at Magog, Que., this summer, and he had with him his camera, with which he secured a large number of views. The fact that he had his camera became known in the community, and one morning, bright and early, a trapper named A. E. Baird, of Cherry River, a hamlet a few miles distant from Magog, sent for Mr. Quilliams to come as quickly as possible and bring his camera. Mr. Quilliams found Baird and several companions in a great state of excitement when he arrived, and they at once hurried him in a buggy some distance from Cherry River into the heart of the old woods surrounding the place. There he found a full-grown black bear lying along a limb of a hemlock thirty feet from the ground. Fast to one of the animal's forepaws was a heavy steel bear trap, to which a big pole was attached by a chain. The poor brute had apparently been suffering terrible agony, for it was found that he had all but gnawed the thick pole right through.

The manner in which the pole and trap held the bear made it impossible to get it down alive, and Baird, the trapper, shot him. Mr. Quilliams then made a photograph of the animal as he hung from the high branch. The trapper and his companions immediately chopped down the tree and brought brain within a few feet of the ground. Here it was discovered that the trap had clutched only two of the bear's toes. But it held on so tenaciously that he was unable to dislodge it. Mr. Quilliams made another photograph of the bear as he hung suspended from the fallen tree.

Examination of the spot where the trap had been set showed that the bear dragged trap, pole and chain almost half a mile and had then climbed the tree with them. How the animal managed to do it remains a mystery to the oldest trapper in the Cherry River district, where nothing of the kind has ever been known before.

Baird, the trapper, has traps set all the time and has captured scores of bears, but he never before had an experience such as this.

Should Be Abolished.

Tom Longboat's career as a Marathon runner is at an end, according to a morning paper. His long career of distance races have affected his heart, and Dr. Wilson announces that no man should attempt more than two or three Marathons.

Now, we don't know Dr. Wilson, but we like his advice. In fact we would like to go him one better, and advise that no one run any Marathon races at all. The first Marathon runner got sudden death as his prize. And he appears to have been lucky, for that barred him from future competitions. The tremendous strain on the constitution cannot fail to leave bad effects, that the man must feel as age advances. It is not sport this simple seeing how near a man can come to killing himself without actually doing it. If we have laws against suicide, why not against Marathons as well?

As for poor old Tom. Well, he'll jog along at three-mile and five-mile races till his reputation is as badly frayed as his constitution. And then what? Well, the Irish-Canadians will see that he doesn't come to want. But he'll become that most pitiable of all human beings, the great athlete whose greatness has departed—Toronto Telegram.

Historic Forest Fire.

The terrible work of the flames which have burned over and destroyed hundreds of thousands of acres of timber property to the value of millions in the lake states, recalls to memory another great forest fire which has attained historic importance.

That was the great Miramichi fire of 1825. It began its greatest destruction about 1 o'clock in the afternoon of Oct. 7 of that year, at a place about sixty miles above the town of Newcastle, on the Miramichi river, in New Brunswick. Before 10 o'clock at night it was twenty miles before Newcastle. In nine hours it had destroyed a belt of forest eighty miles long and twenty-five miles wide. Over more than two and one-half million acres almost every living thing was killed. Even the fish were afterward found dead in heaps on the river banks. Five hundred and ninety buildings were burned, and a number of towns, including Newcastle, Chatham and Douglastown, were destroyed. One hundred and sixty persons perished and nearly a thousand head of stock.

Moose Charges Wagon.

A New Brunswick farmer had quite an experience with a moose at Mace's Bay recently. He was starting home with his team and met a bull moose right on the road. The bull stopped him and would not let him go on. Capt. Craft tried to turn his team, as his horse was skittish, and the bull followed the team. He then turned his horse to go back and the bull charged and landed in the back of the wagon, getting his antlers caught in some manner and breaking the wagon to some extent.

That night Capt. Craft went out with some hunters to capture the moose, and met the same bull again. This time he did not stop.

Words and Deeds.

Hamar Greenwood created some amusement in the British House of Common a few days ago by asking the Speaker to abolish the privilege enjoyed by M.P.'s of bringing ladies into the members' lobby, on the ground that frequently, and especially during June and July, it was almost impossible for members to enter or leave the chamber.

To Save Himself.

Some naturalists are of the opinion that the whale was once a land animal and that it was forced to take to water as a means of protection.

THE word "OXOL" does not mean one food or one preparation. No! "OXOL" is a name given to all goods for horses, cattle, swine and sheep, prepared by Messrs. S. K. and T. C. Windsor, of Australia, New Zealand, England and Canada.

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under the name of

are all of the greatest possible order of merit and may be used by farmers, graziers, dairymen and all owners of stock with the full assurance that these goods have the power in a very short time to double their incomes by feeding, fattening and curing all animals, which to them means money.

Scientific Meetings will be organized by Messrs. Windsor and held through out the Dominion of Canada, when farmers desirous of improving their knowledge of stock will have an opportunity of doing so and to be instructed on the life of stock from birth to death, free of any charge.

J. D. CRAIG - PETERBORO

DOMINION ELECTIONS

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBOROUGH:

FELLOW ELECTORS:

The time is near for the election of a representative of this Riding to the Dominion Parliament.

Much as I would like to see you all personally, it may not be possible for me to do so before election day, so I adopt this method of presenting my appeal, especially to as many as possible of those I cannot see, for your support.

In convention assembled, my friends, unsolicited, conferred on me the honour of selecting me as a candidate, therefore, I am now before you in that character, soliciting your votes and influence for me at the coming election. Having had the honour of being before you previously in the same character, I flatter myself that I do not need any personal introduction to you. Although I was then defeated, I was not discredited. I conducted a clean election campaigns and did nothing to be ashamed of. I have been with and among you all my life, have taken an active part in your public and local affairs, and, being a farmer myself, I have given much attention to such matters and questions as are of special interest to farmers. I have had the honour of representing the municipality in which I live as Reeve and Councillor for a number of years, and at all times I have endeavoured to perform my duties efficiently, fairly and honourably, and in such manner as to shew myself worthy of your good will and support. Therefore, I trust you have reason to judge favourably of my ability to perform the important duties of your representative advantageously to this Riding and creditably to myself. While in politics I am a Liberal-Conservative, I have never been a blind partizan. I shall never consider myself bound to support my party, except when I believe them to be right and acting in the best interests of our country, and can give you a reason for, and justify in my own conscience, at least, the course I shall think it my duty to take as your honoured representative.

In matters pertaining to our County, should you honour me with your confidence and elect me as your representative, I shall always consider my services at your command, and it will be my pleasure to consistently and properly render a good service to a political opponent as cheerfully as to a party associate. I have carefully studied the requirements of this Riding and district and am already familiar with the same, and you will ever find me ready and willing to do my utmost to advance the best interests of our own district, and especially those of East Peterborough, irrespective of local, personal or political considerations.

I trust my position, thus stated, which I consider is the proper one for a representative of the people to take, will have your approval and merit your most generous support irrespective of party.

I hope to have an opportunity during the campaign of addressing you at public meetings on some of the many political questions which are at present interesting and agitating the people. Meantime I appeal to all my friends, and those who desire honest and economical administration of public affairs and are in sympathy with the Liberal-Conservative platform, to rally to my support and promote an active and enthusiastic campaign in my behalf, and thus for better government, and to see the careless ones and invite them to the polls to cast their ballots for me and the cause of better Government. I trust those whom I will not be able to see personally will be no less active in my behalf on that account. It is time for a change at Ottawa.

I will never forget to be deeply grateful to all those who have so generously and kindly supported me in the past. I shall always be sincerely thankful for, and now again respectfully solicit your votes, influence and active support until the close of the elections on the 26th day of October. Promising you my very best efforts in your behalf, and in the cause of good government, if elected, I am,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN A. McMAHON.

KISS MICROBES.

There are microbes in a kiss, sweetheart, is what the savants say,
And yet, despite these microbes, do you think you'd say me nay
If I a kiss should crave of you with microbes or without?
Dost think you would deny me in the winning of love's bout?

Dost think that we should know or care if millions lingered there
Of naughty, hungry microbes? Don't you think that we would dare
Defy the millions one and all and kiss the same old way
As Adam kissed sweet Mother Eve in paradise that day?

The microbes of a kiss, sweetheart, pray what, pray, what, are they?
Of confidence and sweetest love and hope that day by day
These microbes all will stronger grow and flourish as they may
While I kiss you and you kiss me the sweet old-fashioned way.

ATTACKED BY WHALES.

Cases Where Ships Have Been Rammed by These Monsters.

While cruising in the south seas the whaler Essex on Nov. 20, 1820, was furiously attacked by a cow sperm whale, supposed to have been the mother of a calf which had just been harpooned. The whale had not been wounded herself, and her attack was very determined. At her first rush she passed under the Essex and carried away a great length of her false keel. Then, coming to the surface a considerable distance away, she appeared to take bearings and deliberately charged the vessel again, ramming her with such violence that she stove in the bows, while the ship rolled so heavily that the captain thought she must be dismasted. The case is memorable because the crew had to abandon the vessel, and one boat was never heard of again.

A more singular instance of a whale attacking a vessel occurred in 1895. The singularity lies in the fact that in the case of the Handa Isle the attack was entirely unprovoked. This vessel, a brigantine of 260 tons, was on her way to Sydney with a cargo of timber. On Aug. 24, about noon, a couple of sperm whales arose very close to the vessel, and while the crew watched them "sporting" across her bows the pair suddenly slewed around and came straight for her. One thought better of it and dived below the Handa Isle. The other struck her fair and square on her beam, crushing in her timbers. Having rammed the ship in this resolute fashion, the whale sheered off, terribly damaged about the head, and presently sank, tail first.

Fortunately there were some packages of rawhides on board, and the crew were able to keep the vessel afloat until a rough and ready collision mat had been fashioned out of these and drawn over the leak.

Asbestus Shingles.

An asbestus shingle roof when properly made will outlast the life of the building itself. The simple exposure to the elements causes the cement covering of the asbestus fiber to crystallize, and it becomes more and more serviceable as time rolls on, steadily toughening and harding with exposure. The fact that the elements take better care of these shingles than the best paint or dressing does away with this expense.

Being fireproof and not affected by continuous moisture or frost, it is obvious that asbestus shingles and asbestus lumber can be used in a great many places where ordinary lumber has failed.

Reindeers and Wives.

At the meeting of the society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals some extracts from school children's essays were read. "Feed your horse with horseradish and horse chestnuts if you want your horse to grow," said one child. Another wrote, "If you are very kind indeed to your dog it may even follow you to your grave." A little girl wrote: "The Eskimos are very fond indeed of their reindeer—in fact, they love their reindeer sometimes more than their wives. But, then, they are very useful to them."—London Mail.

STRATTON'S ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE RIDING OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation. The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Liberal Governments. First, as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Bensfort bridge, south of the city, is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building of a road through the township of North Monaghan north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and another benefit was the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a gr t advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to consent to the transference of the waters of the northern part of this district to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative c pacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganizing the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, the council was being criticized for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feeling.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely beneficial exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigable canal completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 15 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,230,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,891,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal construction—such as wharves, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the street railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of our claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response form the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided, street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $3,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishment of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

A TEACHER SAVES HER PUPILS

Michigan School Teacher Displays Great Heroism.

SPEND NIGHT IN THE OPEN

Nineteen-Year-Old Girl When Threatened by Flames Lines Little Ones Up and Marches Them Through Blazing Woods to Plowed Field —Entire Class Awaits Morning — Saw Wild Animals.

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 23.—Among the most thrilling experiences of survivors of the Presque Isle county forest fires was that of Miss Grace Barber, a school teacher, 19 years old, whose school in Krakaw township was in session when the flames swept down upon the building. A terrified farmer gave the alarm just as the rear of the school house caught fire.

The young teacher marshaled her pupils in a double row, the largest at the head, and ordered them to remain in close order and not to break the line. She then directed the leaders to head for a ploughed field nearby, and the column started on a run, Miss Barber bringing up the rear to prevent straggling. Burning embers fell thick, but the teacher kept the children crowded close together, and every ember was extinguished the instant it fell upon any child's clothing.

The fire burned steadily for some time as the blaze in the tops of the trees ate its way down. During the night two bears made their appearance. A fox come slinking in, as did also a wild cat, rabbits, partridges and other game; but the animals kept well away from the children.

Miss Barber kept her charges in the field all Thursday night, and in the morning sent them home in groups, piloting the smaller ones herself.

Penny Telegrams.

London, Oct. 23.—(C. A. P.)—The proposal to establish telegrams at a penny a word throughout the Empire will be advanced a step at the meeting to be held at the Royal Colonial Institute on Nov. 10. The chairman, the Earl of Jersey, Henniker Heaton and others consider the plan quite feasible, and believe it can be carried out much more easily than the system of imperial penny postage was. In Australia a telegram can be sent 3,600 miles at a penny a word, and it is maintained that but for political frontiers, telegrams could be sent from London to India, 3,200 miles, at a similar rate.

Season's Crop Burned.

Woodstock, Oct. 23.—Fire, starting presumably from a spark from a threshing engine, broke out in the large barn of Robert Stewart, two miles south of Bennington on the second concession of West Zora. The building was razed to the ground and its contents completely destroyed. The threshing outfit belonged to Robert Gunn of Embro. Stewart's crop had been threshed and the separator and engine were being removed. A large number of hens were also consumed. One thousand bushels of oats and about 150 bushels of peas were burned up. A number of implements were also destroyed.

Ottawa Is Growing.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—The assessment returns of Ottawa show that the capital city's population has now passed the assessors as 80,284. This means a gain in two years of 12,000 and a gain in the last 12 months of 4,026.

The total assessment, exclusive of Government property, amounts to $50,863,200, which is an advance of $6,086,785 over last year. Of the increased assessment about $1,100,000 arises from the taxation of civil servants' salaries, the salaries of the Cabinet Ministers and of the members of Parliament who make their homes here.

MORE BRITISH NEWS NEEDED

Alfred Harmsworth, the Great English Journalist, in Toronto Gives Interview in Which He Says That Synopsis of London Times Should Be Cabled to Canada—Paper Famine Will Make Smaller Newspapers

Toronto, Oct. 23.—Lord Northcliffe, principal proprietor of The London Times and Daily Mail, and head of the leading magazine proprietary of England, arrived in Toronto yesterday afternoon. He is staying at the King Edward and will remain until after the elections on Monday, the result of which interests him, in common, he declares, with the whole British nation.

He is also concerned about a very bright and patriotic idea in the newspaper field.

Lord Northcliffe thinks that a daily summary of The London Times, which is quite non-partisan in its news, would furnish an ideal supply to Canada. The cost could be distributed among the subscribing papers, and there would be no profits accruing to anyone. The five hours' difference in time would give ample opportunity to prepare a thoroughly good precis, and this being done by a capable Canadian should appeal to Canadian readers.

The cost, North Northcliffe thought, would prevent more than 300 words a day being sent, but he fancied that something might be done with the Marconi service. A column a day, or 1,000 words, was suggested to him as desirable.

Lord Northcliffe talked about the destruction of pulp wood limits by fire and the growing scarcity of paper, and expressed the conviction that smaller newspapers were inevitable. He instanced the eight-page Paris edition of The Daily Mail as showing what could be done in giving all the news in brief a problem to this proprietor of fifty limits. The paper supply was clearly publications.

Fined For Cruelty.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—For cruelty to animals by overcrowding in shipment, James O'Reilly of Bancroft was yesterday afternoon in the Police Court fined $20 and costs by Magistrate Kingsford.

The car had contained 28 cattle, 114 sheep, 4 calves and 6 hogs, 152 animals in all, the smaller animals on an upper deck. The cattle were greatly cramped in a space only four feet high and were kept confined for 17 hours, one of the cattle dying.

King's Messenger Dies.

London, Oct. 23.—Lieut. Arthur Jermy Mounteney Jephson, who has been the King's messenger since 1901, and prior to that the Queen's messenger since 1895, died yesterday.

Lieut. Jephson commanded a detachment in the Emin Pasha relief expedition under Henry M. Stanley in 1887-90.

In 1904 he married Miss Anna Head, the daughter of the late Addison E. Head of San Francisco.

Navy For South Africa.

London, Oct. 23.—(C. A. P.)—At a Johannesburg a banquet was given to Sir Percy Scott and the men of the cruiser squadron now at Durban. The Chief Justice of Pretoria expressed the hope that a Parliament of South Africa would take the earliest opportunity of recognizing their obligation to the navy by making a substantial contribution, unhampered by conditions of local control.

Year For Stabbing.

London, Oct. 23.—(C.A.P.)—John Metcalf, seaman, of Montreal, got a year's imprisonment for stabbing a girl on Sept. 17. The prisoner made no comment on the sentence, but produced a letter from a brother in Canada, saying he ought to be sent to a hospital where the doctors "could knock the silly nonsense out of him."

Campaign Party "Stalled."

Windsor, Oct. 23.—Hon. Speaker Sutherland and a party of Liberal speakers were stalled in Maidstone Wednesday night by reason of a special car failing to make connections. They had to catch a freight train, which did not reach Windsor until daylight.

Girl Shoots Her Seducer.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Jenny Dempsey, 18 years of age, yesterday shot and probably fatally wounded Jos. Georgeopolis. The young woman hysterically declared, when arrested, that her life had been wrecked by the perfidy of Georgeopolis.

Dr. Osler Will Not Withdraw.

London, Oct. 23.—Alex. Acland Hood, Tory whip, has unsuccessfully endeavored to get Dr. William Osler to withdraw his candidature for the rectorship of Edinburgh University.

GREAT BLIZZARD VISITS THE WEST

TERRIFIC STORM IS RAGING

Gale of Wind and Snow Has Completely Demoralized the Railroad Lines and Passenger Trains Are Stalled Unable to Move an Inch —Ten Inches Have Fallen and Drifts in the Cuts Are Deep.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 23.—One of the worst snowstorms that has ever occurred in the west has been at the height of its fury for many hours, and has completely demoralized the services of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. trains.

Ten inches of snow has already fallen, and, accompanied by a terrific gale, snow has blown into the railway cuts, completely filling them up, and in many stretches the snow is over ten feet deep.

The C.P.R. have rushed snowplows to the scene, and are hard at work to clear the tracks, but very little progress can be made until the snow ceases to fall. As soon as a clearance is made the blizzard fills it up again.

The Atlantic Express from Vancouver and western points is completely stalled, and also the Imperial Limited from Vancouver. The west bound train of Wednesday is held up also, and none of them can proceed one inch.

No trains from the west reached the city yesterday, and it is doubtful when they will get through.

In the meantime the railway company is taking care of passengers, and are seeing that they were well looked after until able to proceed. The Winnipeg Express from Toronto was about two hours late in arriving yesterday morning. No. 1 westbound went out at 1.15 yesterday afternoon. The Pacific Express last night is scheduled on time. On other branches trains are running according to schedule.

"Cancelled, big snowstorm in the west," was the bulletin received at the Canadian Northern Railway office yesterday morning regarding No. 2 from Edmonton.

The storm, which broke over Alberta Tuesday night, was wholly unexpected by the railways, and no preparation was made to receive it. The storm was a blinding one, and the snow quite soft. It has not done so much damage on the open track, but has rested in the cuts of the railroads in a solid mass.

Life-Saver Drowned.

Sarnia, Oct. 23.—The body picked up in the river near St. Clair, Mich., Wednesday afternoon by Frank Currier, captain of a ferry boat, has been identified as that of Albert Martin, aged 21 years, of Corunna, Ont., eight miles from here. Martin had a medal pinned to his vest, which had been given to him for saving a Toronto man from drowning in Lake Ontario. The body had apparently been in the water several days. Relatives say that he left home on the night of Oct. 3, starting in a rowboat for St. Clair, and since that time nothing was seen of him. He was an expert swimmer. He came to his death, friends believe, as the result of being run down by some lake freighter.

Train Strikes Farmer.

Belleville, Ont., Oct. 23.—George Badgley, a farmer of Tyendinaga, 4 miles from here, was nearly killed about 1 o'clock yesterday. He was driving a horse and buggy over Canifton crossing, when a passenger train from the west came along. Before he could get over he was struck. The horse was instantly killed, the buggy carried 200 yards on the cowcatcher, before the train stopped. He was taken to the hospital. His recovery is reported hopeful.

Not Making Rash Promises.

London, Oct. 23.—(C. A. P.)—The Standard has received a number of letters from towns in Canada complaining that the Dominion is overcrowded and attacking the transportation companies. "On enquiry," says The Standard, "we have no hesitation in saying that the Canadian Government and the various transportation companies are acting squarely by the British emigrant and holding out no rash inducements."

Renown Sails For Bermuda.

Halifax, Oct. 23.—H. M. S. Renown is to leave here Nov. 5 for Bermuda, and H. M. S. Brilliant is expected to arrive from Newfoundland Nov. 19, and will remain here a month.

Fortunate Douro Farmer Has Two Crops Of Peas In A Season From Same Field

Two crops of peas in one season is a pretty good record for this part of the country. That is what Mr. Hugh Matthews, who resides in Douro a short distance from Lakefield, gathered this season. The first crop was cut the latter part of July. The ground was then ploughed and cultivated and a second crop grew from the peas that fell from the first crop. The second crop, while not as heavy as the first was its equal in every other respect and a week or so ago Mr. Matthews was able to have green peas freshly picked, for dinner.

Girl Is Bitten By Fox Terrier; Mr. Rose's Daughter Injured

The following despatch from Toronto will be read with interest here: Mr. Rose is at present in Peterborough where he has been prosecuting in several cases of alleged breaches of the Medical Act:

Toronto, Oct. 22.—Miss Isabel Rose, daughter of Charles Rose prosecutor for the Medical Council, is another victim of the many snapping dogs which are infesting the streets.

"The wound was very slight," said Miss Rose, "and I did not have it attended to. But today it looked quite ugly, and I intend to have it examined at once.

"Fortunately I had on a heavy skirt or else the little brute might have done greater damage. I have been bothered with a pain in my right knee for some time, but it left me for the past two weeks. Now it has returned, and I don't know whether to blame it on the bite or not."

Miss Rose did not know the owner of the dog, but believed it belonged to the man in the automobile.

"The machine went by so quickly I could not catch the number," she said.

Charged With Infringing The Building By-laws Of The City

Two charges of infringements of the Building Bylaws by erecting wooden buildings within the fire limits were heard before Police Magistrate Dumble at police court this morning.

The first case was against Benj. Yelland who was charged with building a wooden shed on lot 2, south of Murray and west of George streets. Mr. Yelland pleaded not guilty.

City Engineer Hay stated that he had been informed that Mr. Yelland was infringing on the bylaw and had inspected the premises. He thought that Mr. Yelland was building a new shed out of old material.

Mr. Yelland explained that he had merely been remodelling his shed and putting a new roof on it.

The case was enlarged until Monday as was a similar charge against N. T. De La Plante.

Was Fined $25 And Costs On Charge Of Practising Midwifery

Judgment was given this morning by Magistrate Dumble in connection with the charges against Mrs. Haines, Antrim street, of practising medicine and midwifery without being a registered physician. These charges were laid by Mr. Chas. Rose, prosecutor for the Ontario Medical Council, and the evidence was heard a week ago, His Worship reserving judgment for a week after hearing the witnesses.

This morning he decided that Mrs. Haines was not guilty of practising medicine in connection with her nursing of Mrs. Daniel Crough of Ennismore, and accordingly this charge was dismissed with costs to be paid by the prosecution forthwith, or in default of payment ten days in gaol.

In the charge of practising midwifery Mr. Dumble found the defendant guilty and inflicted a fine of $25 and costs to be paid forthwith, which is the minimum under the act.

Mr. G.N. Gordon who appeared for Mrs. Haines, may appeal against this judgment.

Found His Horses But Also Ran Himself In Police Court Case

Jas. Moore, who lives in North Monaghan, not far from the city, left some horses in a field yesterday and the equines managed to make their escape, landing in Peterborough, where they were corralled at the market square. Their owner, after hunting around in the country since five o'clock this morning, finally located the missing animals and called at the police station to recover them. He was a little surprised when P. C. Meharry commenced taking down his pedigree. "I have had horses in pound before," he remarked, "and was never asked any questions like that." He was still more surprised when a little later he was called up into the police court and charged with allowing his horses to run at large. He explained the circumstances to the magistrate and was allowed to go with the warning not to let his horses out again.

Fires Running Along Fences At The Head Of Stony Lake

Stony Lake, Oct. 23.—Special—Fires are still raging around the head of the lake. Mr. Frank Newall has lost a lot of fences, but no buildings as yet. Both he and the neighbours are fighting fires night and day. The wind keeps so high that it runs very fast, even over the fields the ground is so hot and dry. Everything is like match wood and there seems to be no use to try to stop it. The damage cannot yet be estimated.

Another General Grocery Business Changes Ownership

The general grocery store at the corner of McDonel and Water streets has changed hands. Mr. T O Young who has recently returned to Peterborough and who is well known here has purchased the business from Mrs. M A Anderson and no doubt he will be successful in his undertaking.

PRAIRIE PROVINCES HAVE PRODUCED MORE THAN 95,818,000 BUSHELS WHEAT THIS SEASON

ONTARIO GRAIN AND HAY

Ottawa, Oct. 23—Special—Ontario's wheat yield for this year, according to reports received by the Agricultural Department correspondents in all parts of the province, is estimated at 17,264,000 bushels, an average of 21 bushels per acre. The oat crop is estimated at 108,794,000 bushels, an average of 35 bushels per acre. The barley crop, 21,570,000 bushels, an average of 29 bushels per acre. The hay and clover crop 5,329,000 tons, an average of 1. 1-2 tons per acre.

The total wheat crop of Manitoba is estimated at 51,748,000 bushels, an average of 17 1-2 bushels per acre. Saskatchewan's wheat crop is placed at 35,940,000 bushels, an average of 15 bushels per acre. Alberta's wheat crop is estimated at 8,130,000 bushels, an average of 30 bushels per acre. For 4 crop the estimated total yields are: Manitoba, 50,267,000 bushels, or 38 per acre; Saskatchewan, 29,763,000 bushels, or 32 per acre; Alberta, 25,451,000 bushels, or 49 per acre.

A BOGUS CLAIM TO CREDIT MADE BY MR. BURNHAM

The Conservative Candidate Makes An Impudent Appeal For Approval, Utterly Undeserved, For a Service Utterly Beyond His Power To Give.

Last night the Conservative candidate, the "honest" man, flooded the city with fly sheets announcing, in flaming head lines—"Big Contract Secured by the Canadian General Electric Company."

This assumption of Mr. Burnham reminds the public of the devious methods by which he secured his nomination.

Appended to this is the astounding statement, alleged, on behalf of Superintendent Patterson, that the Company:

No more barefaced attempt has been made in this community to gain political credit on an absolutely unfounded claim.

The contract was given by tender. If the tender of the Canadian General was the lowest they got the contract, and no help was needed—the lowest tender got the job—no help was needed from Mr. Burnham, Mr. Bradburn or Mr. Kendry, who had no more to do with the awarding of the contract than the unborn child.

If the C. G. E. tender was not the lowest, and Messrs. Burnham, Bradburn and Kendry by any influence they possess, induced the Conservative Government of Ontario to award a contract involving expenditure of the people's money, to a tender not the lowest, they are proclaiming themselves guilty of a most glaring impropriety, which might well be characterized in stronger terms.

In a word, the claim of credit made by Mr. Burnham is a bogus claim, and is a piece with the odious campaign of abuse and mud-slinging he has waged during this present campaign.

As a matter of fact, as the following statement indicates, the Canadian General Electric Company repudiates the action of the "Review," as well as the authority upon which it purports to be based.

The following telegram, from the head of the Canadian General Electric Company, on this subject, was received to-day, addressed to Mr. Stratton:

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 23, 1908.

MR. J. R. STRATTON, PETERBOROUGH, Ont.

"I have your message in regard to statements published by an official of the Company. I have not seen the statement referred to, and cannot, therefore, express an opinion as to its propriety, and can only say that the management have not authorized any statements for publication.

"FREDERIC NICHOLLS."

Prospects For Lovers Of The Hunt In The North Country

It is expected there will be good deer-hunting in the vicinity of Stony Lake this autumn. Those who are familiar with the habits of the deer figure it out this way: The unusually dry season has resulted in the swamps and marshes being dried up. It is therefore concluded that when the dogs are turned loose the deer cannot escape them by fleeing into the wet places, for the wet places are mighty scarce. It is figured out that the hunted animals will make their way to the lakes and get away from the dogs in the water. For these reasons it is expected the deer will be plentiful around the shores of the lakes.

ATTEMPT TO CORRUPT CENTRAL ONTARIO

(Special from Ottawa)

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—The attention of the Federal Government was drawn to-day to the existence of an alleged plot for the corruption of some of the constituencies of Central Ontario in the Conservative interests, and this was coupled with a request that some of the expert detectives of the Dominion police force should be commissioned to get at the facts of the matter.

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, is absent from the city to-day, but it is said that steps will be taken at once to get at the bottom of any conspiracy which may exist, and arrest and punish any who may be employed in the distribution of corruption funds.

FIRE RAGING IN WOODS AT INDIAN RIVER

A fire has caused damage in some valuable timber lands north of Indian River, and is still raging on property belonging to Mr. T. Healey. It was started in a swamp which was badly cleaned up, and got beyond control. It has already burned up some valuable timber.

Splendid Bulletin Service Arranged By The Examiner For The Night Of Elections

Monday is election day, and in order to give the citizens of Peterborough the best and most rapid method for supplying the returns, the Examiner has made arrangements for a bulletin service in front of the office. The returns will be flashed on two canvasses opposite the Examiner, two lanterns having been secured for the occasion. The service will be the most efficient that is available and the election returns from all over Canada will be given with as much accuracy and expedition as possible. The election figures will be interspersed with pictures, and everybody interested in the election outcome should be present Monday night to read the bulletins. A splendid bulletin service has also been arranged for the Liberal committee rooms.

Mr. C. M. Hays Confident Of Success Of The Great G. T. P.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—Special. — Mr. Charles M. Hays, General Manager and Second Vice-President of the G.T.R., arrived in the city last night after a six weeks' tour through western Canada inspecting the work of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"I am more and more convinced of the wisdom of the Grand Trunk in going into that enterprise," he said. "I am more and more confident of the future of the country."

Mr. Hays remarked that he had travelled over 675 miles of the company's own rails from Winnipeg to Battle River. At present the big bridge across the river was nearing completion, while the distance from there to Edmonton was about 125 miles. It was expected that the track would be into Edmonton this year. He also rode over 125 miles of Grand Trunk rails on the Fort William branch which is to connect with the National Trans-continental, and which is constructed within a very short distance of the junction point now.

Regarding progress at Prince Rupert, the western terminus of the G.T.P., Mr. Hayes said:—"We expect to place the town lots on sale there about the first of May of next year. The British Columbia Government is co-operating with us to do what is necessary in the way of street improvement, water works and other things."

Peterborough Master Painters Have Formed An Association

The leading master painters of Peterborough met last evening at the Snowden House and formed a branch of the International Association of Master Painters and Decorators of the United States and Canada. The following officers were elected: Mr. Fred Cook, president; Mr. J. P. Sherlin, vice-president, and Geo. H. Duncan, secretary and treasurer.

A standing vote of thanks was given to Mr. E. J. Hohs, F.C.S., London, England, the well known colour maker and expert of the Canadian Oil Company, for the able assistance he has rendered in bringing the trade together.

Bruised And Cut About Face And Head In Bad Runaway

Word was received this morning of a runaway accident that occurred last evening in which a resident of Smith named Mr. Cornelius Bell, was injured. His horse became frightened in some manner, throwing him from his buggy with the result that he was cut and bruised somewhat about the face and head.

Ozone Filtration Plant At Lindsay As Seen By Local Man

Mr. Richard Martin, of the Water Works Department has returned from Lindsay where he was engaged making some connections in the new Ozone filtration plant that is now almost complete. The capacity of the tank is 1,500,000 gals. and when completed Scugog water is expected to be really drinkable. Mr. Martin states that he believes the plant will be a success, and the city officials are greatly pleased with it. Mr. Martin hinted that if Peterborough were to install a new plant that the slow sand filtration with a capacity of 10,000,000 gals. would be as suitable as any. Mr. Martin speaks highly of the treatment he received.

DO SOME SOLID THINKING.

The electors of Peterborough have a serious duty to perform on Monday—the duty of selecting a representative who shall have in trust the interests of this beautiful and thriving city—yet a city with a future—for the next five years.

Down in the bottom of his heart, every elector, if left to his own good sense, desires to make a choice, between the two candidates, of the man that is qualified to do, and consequently will do, the more for the material growth and up-building of Peterborough. No elector, if left to an unprejudiced mind and unbiased judgment, will hesitate to decide. He has only to ask—

Which of the two candidates—Mr. Stratton and Mr. Burnham—would make the better and more useful member;

Which of the two has done more in the past for the advancement of the interests of Peterborough and West Peterborough;

Which is the better qualified by experience and business ability to do the more in the future;

Which has shown the more public spirit and has the more actively, practically and successfully identified himself with movements in the public interest;

Which has brought the more solid benefit to the city and riding;

Which has the more liberally embarked his means and enlisted his energies in promoting industrial activity, creating or providing employment and contributing to the prominent industrial position the City of Peterborough now occupies—in a word—

Which possesses the greater capacity, the higher qualifications, the greater business qualities, equipping him for giving the riding and city the more energetic and effective service in all respects, Mr. Stratton or Mr. Burnham?

The voice of common sense, the voice of truth, the voice of local patriotism, the voice of local loyalty to the best interests of Peterborough will answer, J. R. STRATTON.

Electors, do a little quiet, hard thinking without passion; think without party or political prejudice and you can come to only one conclusion and that will be that Hon. J. R. Stratton will make the representative Peterborough needs and there is no doubt that he will be triumphantly returned on Oct. 26th.

CONFESSING FAILURE.

The election of Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries by acclamation on Monday last, throws an interesting light upon the campaign of slander and vilification conducted by the Conservative Opposition against the Minister and his Department.

The immediate reason why Mr. Brodeur was returned without opposition was that his proposed adversary, Mr. J. F. Fournier, a Montreal lawyer, was not able to get the requisite number of electors to sign his nomination paper. This is pretty good evidence that there was little foundation or sincerity in the bitter and systematic assaults that were concentrated against Mr. Brodeur and his department during a long session of eight months. He had to bear the brunt of the most formidable and persevering assaults made upon his department. There was an endeavour to make the country believe that Hon. Mr. Brodeur was a dishonest administrator and that every branch of his department was rotten to the bone.

In face of all this, the fact of the Opposition permitting the attainted Minister, from their point of view, is a practical confession that their scandalous attacks were generally without justification. The fact of the Opposition permitting the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to be elected without opposition is a confession of failure of their campaign of slander vilification.

This should teach the electorate that such bitter and persistent attacks made months on end against a Minister, made by a party which withdrew its forces at the very time they should it their attacks had any justification, have achieved their triumph and administered the punishment, which they contended should have been meted out in the defeat and and extinction of a man such as the Opposition had vainly sought to make Hon. Mr. Brodeur appear. His election by acclamation is at once a personal triumph and a vindication of his administration. His experience in this regard is only a forecast of what will come to other slandered Ministers and public men at the polls on Monday next, and a rebuke to the local campaign of slander and "mudslinging" that has marked the present contest in Peterbrough.

ONE MAN'S VOTE.

(Montreal Witness)

I will vote for the Liberal party, the party that time out of mind
Has been known as the party devoted to right and the good of mankind,
As the party of justice and freedom, secured and safeguarded by law;
I will vote for the Liberal party, the finest the world ever saw.

I will vote for the party of progress, the party that age after age
Has cried Forward, and bravely marched forward, its warfare with evils to wage,
Has contended with stupid reaction and privilege, selfish and base,
And made light to appear in the darkness, and gladdened humanity's face.

I will vote for the party whose records are bright with illustrious names,
Of philosophers, statesmen and poets, whom history guards and acclaims.
The reformers of ancient abuses, destroyers of fortified wrongs,

Appendix.

I will vote for the Riding's best interests, which should be all good citizens' aim—
Party triumph, unlinked with performance, is only a meaningless name;
I will vote for the party that does things, whose achievements are Canada's boast—
For its candidate, trusty and tried, who always is found at his post.

I will vote for the Liberal Government, whose motto is progress and peace,
Whose work for Canadian greatness, will never know stay nor surcease;
I will vote for James Robert Stratton, who'll continue his work of the past,
Who has stayed with the city and county and will stay with them both to the last.

CLAIMS OF CANDIDATES CONTRASTED.

There seems little reason to doubt that the unquestionable result of the present election contest in the county will be almost duplicated in the city, and that Mr. Stratton's majority here, through the operation of normal influences, will be as decisive as in the past.

Gentlemen of leisure, the class to which Mr. Burnham belongs, to whom may be applied the Scriptural characterization that "they toil not, neither do they spin," can afford to indulge in the empty sentimentality of the old-time partizanship, but there has come into the life of this community, through its great development of industrial enterprises, a class of citizens whose whole fortune lies in maintaining the march of progress. To put it in a plain way, these wage-earners are governed by considerations that affect their bread and butter, rather than by mere suggestions of sentiment in any political direction. The bridge that has carried them safely to their present condition of prosperous employment will not lightly be thrown down by them to accommodate the ambition of a lot of hungry politicians, whose only object is to feed at the public crib.

Is there a workingman in Peterborough to-day who believes in his heart that Mr. Burnham is his friend in the way of practical benefits? Is there one who has not the intelligence to appreciate the plain fact that never in his life has he exerted an effort, or risked a dollar, with a view to the benefit of anybody but himself?

On the other hand, Mr. Stratton has been identified with the cause of labour almost since the beginning of his existence. He began his life under conditions that made work the same necessity for him that it is for the great majority of us, and he met and overcame the obstacles that are in the way of every poor man who has the courage and the ambition to better his condition. And he learned from his early struggles how to sympathize with, and enter into the life of other men in all walks of industrial life. If he has, in a measure, prospered, he has always been glad to make his neighbour a sharer in what he has gained. He did not put all that he acquired into bank stocks or mortgages, but invested with liberality in those enterprises of industry that provide employment and distribute wealth.

He has been, in the best and broadest sense of the term, a man of that public spirit which builds up communities.

The infamous course of personal abuse that has been resorted to by the Conservative candidate, that is as false and treacherous as the man who put it forth, will not, we believe, injure Mr. Stratton or help Mr. Burnham. The voters of Peterborough have known Mr. Stratton too long and too well not to appreciate that these shafts of malice from the men who robbed the Beat Root Sugar investors and the creditors of the company, are the mere expression of envy, and unworthy of the attention of any honest man in the community.

If the great progress that is under way in this city is to be maintained, we must have progressive men, men of action, men of ideas, men of enterprise, and not drones, in a representative capacity.

If every man who has a stake in the future of Peterborough will vote on Monday next on the simple suggestion that common sense and self-interest cannot fail to convey to him, there will be little doubt that county and city will be found in accord in giving Mr. Stratton the largest majority he has yet received in West Peterborough.

NOT ADVISABLE.

The Examiner has received several communications dealing with the race and religion campaign worked darkly and stealthily in the contest in this riding by the Conservative candidate and in his interests. While we are in no way in sympathy with such thuggery, but detest it heartily, it is deemed inadvisable to open our columns to a condemnation of a course, insulting to a large element of our population and traitorous to the peace and harmony which would, prevail but for the sneaking and underground policy of our political opponents.

ON A STILL HUNT.

Col. Miller, member of Lodge No. 80, L.O.L., and Mr. W. G. H. Armstrong, the County Master of the Orange Order, left for the north this morning in the interests of J. H. Burnham. They did not impart information as to the equipment of banners and rituals they were carrying along, but the object of their trip is well understood. Some of the more simple members of the Order are expressing wonder at this activity of these gentlemen in behalf of a man who is not a member of the Orange institution, and who, they even think, holds that organization in contempt, and they do not understand why the objects of the Order should be prostituted to a political service that is not likely to advance its interests or to do it credit. However, they hope that after Mr. Burnham has been defeated on Monday, and will be afforded leisure to interest himself in the fraternal societies which have heretofore escaped his attention, he may qualify himself for admission to the Order and make amends for pastneglect by riding the goat in one of the local lodges.

WHY RETURN THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT.

For the reasons that

It is the best government Canada ever had.

It has decreased the taxation of the people and increased trade at a tremendous rate.

It has prompted and brought about great industrial, agricultural and mining development.

It has fostered and promoted general prosperity.

It has, by development of transportation facilities—rail and water—promoted the prosperity of the eastern farmer and exporter and importer in every line; prospered the western farmer, built up the west and made Canadian routes the highway of the grain export trade of both the Canadian and American west.

It has vastly improved our standing, in sentiment and substance, with the Mother land, and improved our fraternal and trade relations with our neighbours to the south of us.

It has increased our population in the west by over a million and added millions to the capital value of Western Canada products.

It has reduced our postal rates, increased our postal revenue, vastly extended and improved the service and solved by an expedient, marvellous in its simplicity, the difficult problem of rural mail delivery.

By encouraging and improving national enterprise facilities, it has created conditions which keep our population at home profitably employed, happy and contented.

It has conceived and is building the National Transcontinental Railway, a factor of inestimable value and effect in building a new empire in the west and stimulating and vivifying by reciprocal benefit the older sections of Canada.

It has added two prosperous provinces to the roll of Confederation.

In a word the Liberal Government has made Canada a nation.

The Liberal Government is a good government; an efficient government; a progressive government, such a government as a new and expanding country like Canada needs both for its present and future; that sets the pace and shows and smooths the way to national advance; that does not mark time; that does not, as Mr. Borden says, the Conservative party does, stand where it stood in 1878—standing still. The Liberal Government does not boast of standing where it stood in 1896. Though it has advanced and carried Canada with it at tremendous strides in the past twelve years, the Liberal Government does not propose standing on the proud vantage ground it has conquered in 1908; but proposes to keep moving. There is an immense area of country—continental in expanse — to be filled and settled. With settlement and the resulting products there will be needed extended and improved transportation facilities. There is not only the far-flung west to develop, but the broad belt through the unbroken wilderness of Northern Quebec and Ontario opened by the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific must be subjected to development. There are forests to hew, mines to be worked. There is abundant work for a working government, such as the Liberal Government has proved itself to be, and for the people its policy will settle on new soil.

The Liberal Government has not tried to grow a nation under glass. It has pursued the rational policy of removing the trammels from trade and industry, and set our people free to employ their energy, industry and skill to the highest advantage, to permit the people of Canada unhampered by restrictions and helped by facilities to advance the mighty work of developing the boundless national resources of Canada.

Canada needs a government—such as we have, such as we shall keep. Who that can carry his memory back a dozen years would for a moment think of returning to the conditions of trade, industry, employment and business blight that then prevailed?

The Liberal Government is appealing to the country upon a record of results, not as its opponents are doing upon a record of obstruction, a record of scandal-mongering and parish politics, inflammatory appeals and pessimistic outlook.

On Monday next the people will be asked, will find it their duty to make a choice between the two parties, the two policies, the two records, the two ambitions, the two candidates, now appealing for popular approval or condemnation.

We feel sure that none who, laying aside prejudice, earnestly and honestly desire the good of their country through good government and administration, will hesitate to choose the Liberal Government by marking their ballots for Stratton and Tanner, the candidates for West and East Peterborough.

WEDDING BELLS

MORRISSEY—O'CONNOR

A very pretty wedding was celebrated on Tuesday last at St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, when Miss Emma O'Connor, daughter of Mr. Cornelius O'Connor, was united in marriage to Mr. James Morrissey, son of Mr. T. Morrissey, of Emily. The ceremony was celebrated at nine a.m., Rev. Father Fitzpatrick officiating. Mr. John Morrissey, cousin of the bride, was best man, and Miss Lottie Scollard assisted the bride. Luncheon was served afterwards at the home of the bride's parents. A reception was held that evening and was a most enjoyable affair. Mr. and Mrs. Morrissey have many friends in Ennismore and Emily, who extend to them the best wishes for a happy future.

SHAKE THIS WELL IN A BOTTLE

IT IS MIXED AT HOME

There are more cases of kidney trouble here now than ever before, while recent reports show that more people succumb each year to some form of kidney disease than any other cause.

When there is sickness, examine the urine. Rheumatism is only a symptom of kidney trouble. It is nothing more or less than excessive uric acid in the blood, which the sluggish, inactive kidneys have failed to sift out, leaving it to decompose and settle about the joints and muscles, causing intense suffering; frequently resulting in deformity; often reaching the heart, when death ensues.

Pains across the back, frequent, painful and suppressed urination and other symptoms of weak bladder are not the only signs of kidney trouble; many cases of stomach disease, headache, pain in the heart, inactive liver, etc., are but symptoms; the cause of which can be traced to feeble, clogged kidneys.

A simple test of the urine is to void a small quantity in a bottle or glass and let it stand over night; next morning, if there is a reddish brick-dust sediment, or white fleecy substance present, either consult some reputable physician or take a good vegetable treatment. The following prescription is highly recommended in these cases, and the sufferer can mix it at home: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

Where any of the symptoms enumerated above are present, good results are sure to follow immediately on the use of this simple prescription.

OBITUARY

MISS MARY E. BIRT

Norwood, Oct. 22.—Special — The death occurred on Wednesday afternoon of Mary E. Birt, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Birt, of this place. Deceased had been in poor health for some time, but not until the last week had she been confined to her bed. The late Miss Birt was widely known and although not unexpected, her death was a shock to her many friends. She leaves to mourn her loss besides her parents, one brother and one sister, viz., Mr. Wm. H. Birt, of Pense, Sask., and Miss Annie Birt, of Norwood. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon from the residence of her father, and proceed to the Norwood Cemetery for interment.

ARTHUR JONES

Arthur, the 11-year-old son of Mr. Arthur Jones, of Auburn street, died at the Nicholls Hospital at midnight last night. A few days before he was seized with severe pains, which the attending physician diagnosed as symptoms of appendicitis. Two operations were then performed, followed by a third on Thursday afternoon, but all that medical skill could do was unavailing. The deceased boy was a bright little lad and beloved by all who knew him. He bore up well under the operations, and it was thought, before the operation of yesterday, that his chances for recovery were fairly good. His parents and intimate friends feel his death very keenly. The grief of his brother on learning of his death was so great that he went into hysterics and was unconscious when last heard of.

The funeral will take place Saturday at 1 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. WM. WARNE

Mr. A. J. Warne, of 638 George street, received word to-day of the death of his mother, Mrs. William Warne, at Cobourg, at the age of 85 years.

The funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to the cemetery at Cobourg.

The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of Charlotte St. Church have secured Mrs. Jean Blewett, popular Canadian Authoress and Poetess for Friday evening Oct. 30th. Good Musical Program. Candy Tables and Tea Rooms. Admission 25c. 2d-70

VEGETABLE THERAPEUTICS.

Cabbage and cauliflower make persons vulgar and stupid. And the cure for a bad tempered husband is to fill him with boiled carrots.

These are a few of the laws of vegetable therapeutics as laid down in the recent Pathological Congress of Paris. The pathologists pointed out that although some vegetables are a preventive against diseases of one sort or another, there are many vegetables which produce various illness.

Potatoes, for instance, should be eaten by judges, magistrates, editors, and those engaged in similar occupations; they develop the reasoning faculties; give great mental balance and calmness.

Over indulgence, however, produces apathy, indifference, laziness. Confirmed potato eaters are likely to possess more reasoning power than warmth of heart.

Carrots will cure bad temper. They are especially good for bilious and peevish folks. The carrot-eater will become in time easy going, good natured and placidly affectionate.

Spinach is good for men of action. Those who yearn for poetic thoughts and artistic ideas should go in for string beans. Green peas as has been said, are dangerous in the extreme. They develop frivolity. They make women capricious and reckless. Men and women who eat peas are given to flirting.—The Canner.

FINISH UP OF THE COUNTY CAMPAIGN IN INTERESTS OF THE HON. J. R. STRATTON

Two Successful Meetings in Harvey--Prominent Pioneers of District Testify to Services of Liberal Candidate---Addresses by Messrs. W. H. Meldrum, R. R. Hall and Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Hon. Mr. Stratton held a meeting of the electors yesterday afternoon at Simpson's School House, on the Bobcaygeon Road, when there was a large attendance of the residents of Harvey and Verulam.

Mr. Alex Irwin.

Mr. Alex. Irwin, one of the pioneer settlers of Harvey, was elected to the chair. He said he had been acquainted with Mr. Stratton from the time he first ran for the Legislature, and though he had not always supported him he had been forced to the conclusion by the good results that this section of the county had received through Mr. Stratton's work and influence that they had never had a man as their representative with the same capacity for accomplishing the things that really benefited them. He had always been obliging and accessible, and both by his work for their welfare and the cordial manner of his personal intercourse with them had endeared himself to the people of the back country. If the City of Peterborough wanted to give the northern portion of the county a member who would help their interests, they should join in electing Mr. Stratton. They knew his capacity, and that if he was sent to Ottawa he would repeat for them the good work that he done for them at Toronto. Mr. Irwin's sentiments met with a hearty response from the audience.

Mr. R. R. Hall.

Mr. R. R. Hall followed pointing out the great advantage that would accrue to the country at large by continuing in power a Government whose progressive policy had done so much for the prosperity of the people. No former representative of West Peterborough, modestly excepting himself, had accomplished so many good results for the practical welfare of the county as they all knew Mr. Stratton had done (applause), and they might well be assured that when he was sent to Ottawa his influence for their benefit would be exerted in every possible direction. He was glad to note that everywhere throughout the county there had been ample evidence of the determination of the people to have Mr. Stratton for their representative. As they knew, they had abundant reason for the faith that was in them by their past experience of that gentleman. He (Mr. Hall) had endeavored to serve them to the best of his ability, and he had secured very favorable consideration from the government for their local interests, such as they had not had before been accorded from Ottawa. When they sent Hon. Mr. Stratton there they would be well assured that no good thing which it was in the power of the government to grant would be refused. (Applause).

Mr. W. H. Meldrum.

Mr. W. H. Meldrum addressed the meeting, dwelling earnestly upon the great benefits that had been conferred upon the farming community by the wise administration of the present Government. Referring to the candidate, he said that he had pleasure in appearing as his supporter though he had not always been on that side. In fact he had supported the government of Sir John Macdonald in time past, but he had been compelled to recognize that Mr. Stratton, by his energy and enterprise, and his loyal devotion to the welfare of the county, and by the faculty he had of doing things, and of finding out ways of conferring practical benefits upon the people of the county, was the best man for their welfare, and the more he knew of him the more strongly he realized this. (Applause).

Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Hon. Mr. Stratton in closing the meeting sketched the progress of the public works throughout that portion of the county which he had been glad to be able to help in pushing forward. He reviewed at some length the great public questions before them, chief among which was the great transcontinental railway that was to develop the resources of the nation, not only in the prairies of the West, but in a new Quebec and a new Ontario. He impressed upon them that the more progress and development they had in the West, the greater the benefit for them, because the markets there created built up manufacturing Ontario, and their own industries in Peterborough, and the employment thus created, provided for all their products the most profitable market that could be presented to them. He dwelt also upon the direct benefit they would derive from the Trent Valley Canal, and showed how carefully their interests in that connection, so long neglected and trifled with by the former governments, had been forwarded by the present administration. He then devoted some attention to an alleged telegram purporting to have been received from Mr. R. M. Dennistoun and which had been given currency in the Review of Wednesday evening, making the utterly false and malicious statement that Mr. Stratton and his friends were trading upon an allegation that R. M. Dennistoun, was supporting him in this election. As the public knew well no such claim has been advanced by himself or by anyone in his behalf, and any person who made such representation as the Review gives currency to was guilty of gross perversion of the facts. Indeed, it would appear that Mr. Dennistoun has in this matter been the victim of the same deception and treachery, on the part of some men who pose as his political friends, as he experienced on the occasion of his removal to Winnipeg, where all his friends, regardless of party, wish him a happy and prosperous career.

MEETING AT NOGIE'S CREEK

In the evening there was a large attendance of electors, many ladies being present, at Nogie's Creek. Mr. Arthur Dewdney was elected chairman, and said he was glad to note that they had a gathering which was one of the largest in their experience, and it was a pleasure to note so many of their wives and daughters among them. (Applause). He said he had lived in the City of Peterborough before coming up to the northern portion of the county, and he had known Hon. Mr. Stratton at his home there, and he found him always the same progressive, energetic, go-ahead individual that he was in dealing with the business of the riding. Mr. Stratton was always doing something for somebody else, and particularly for the electors who reposed so much trust in him. (Applause). And if in helping others he had also helped himself, and had received his own share of a prosperity that he helped to create, he was sure there was no settler in that district who was not glad of it. And as they had always found, Mr. Stratton was always the same to everybody, and he did not think that any kind of affluence, or public prominence would ever be able to change his character. (Applause). He thought the people of that district were more concerned about the practical results by which they had been benefited, than by any political questions. They knew what a road or a bridge, a dam or a slide meant for them, and when they remembered how many of these works had been provided by Mr. Stratton's agency, they could not but feel that he was the man for their interests in the House of Commons, and he did not believe the electors of the county would be so foolish as not to take advantage of the chance of putting Mr. Stratton where he could do them so much good. (Cheers).

Ex-member Hall and Mr. J. H. Meldrum addressed the meeting in telling terms, going over the ground with which all our readers are now familiar, and each of the gentlemen was most earnest in impressing upon the voters his belief that the sending of Hon. J. R. Stratton to the House of Commons was of the utmost importance to the welfare and progress of the county, and especially so to the people of the new country who had so many interests that the Government at Ottawa by friendly attention could promote.

Hon. Mr. Stratton said this was the last speech of the campaign that would close on Monday evening and it semed appropriate that the efforts of the contest should be concluded in that section where he had entered upon it. He would not go over the work that he had accomplished for them in roads and bridges and other public improvements. They were all familiar with them, and they knew their value, not only to the district at large, but to each individual settler. But he did not want them to understand that he claimed any special credit for these things, for they had appealed to him simply as in the performance of a duty that he had been instructed with. (Applause). But he could fairly present to them that a past record was the best guarantee of future performance that could be offered to them, and none of them would doubt that when he was sent to Ottawa in their behalf their welfare would be his constant care as in the past. (Applause). The record of his opponent had been in the past a blank so far as anything that he had accomplished could be pointed to, and it would be a blank in the future because the opportunity of public service that he had not deserved was going to be denied to him. (Cheers).

Mr. Stratton said that on his return to Peterborough last night after a very satisfactory and pleasing season of intercourse with the electors of Harvey, he was not at all astonished to find in the columns of the Review, whose responsibility, some of them would recollect, had been declined by Mr. Burnham, an alleged telegram purporting to have come from Mr. R. M. Dennistoun at Winnipeg, that if genuine, could only have been procured upon false pretenses.

It is nothing new to have misleading and utterly baseless utterances put forth in this campaign in favour of Mr. Burnham, and he felt quite sure that he was within grounds in saying that grossly false representation must have been made to Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, if he ever penned the telegram, which the Review presents as having emanated from him. For his own part, he would like to have some better evidence of the authenticity of that telegram than its mere appearance in the columns of the Review.

When Mr. Burnham states that he (Mr. Stratton), or any of his friends has circulated, either on the platform, or in his newspaper, or in his intercourse with the citizens, such a statement as that Mr. Dennistoun was supporting Mr. Stratton's candidature, he or they say that which is not true, and which they know not to be true. He (Mr. Stratton) and Mr. Dennistoun during all their careers have been most strongly opposed in the political field, but their opposition had always been characterized by a straightforward, manly and upright procedure.

Mr. Dennistoun, he felt quite sure, would himself never have been guilty of securing the nomination of his party by the questionable methods that have placed J. Hampden Burnham in the field as the candidate of the Conservative party in this county. It may be quite readily conceded that if Mr. Dennistoun were in Peterborough today, Mr. Stratton would scarcely expect his vote, but it is also exceedingly doubtful whether he would feel himself in a position to give a strenuous support to Mr. Burnham in this election.

As for Mr. Burnham's statement as to what the honest Liberals in this province are going to do, either with regard to Mr. Stratton or to any other Liberal candidate, these words will be taken at their worth. Mr. Burnham is not in a position to speak for the Liberals of this constituency, and more than that, he is scarcely in a position to speak for the honest Conservatives of this county, many of them, he had reason to believe, will vote for him in preference to the gentleman who is taking the means that Mr. Burnham has resorted to of advancing what he thinks to be his interests in this campaign. (Applause). There was no doubt of his triumphant election on Monday next, and he was grateful to realize that he would owe it in so large a measure to the settlers of the newer townships of the county, whose interests had always been his special concern, and who would receive the same vigilant service, so far as lay in his power, at Ottawa as he had given them at Toronto. (Great applause).

The meeting was brought to a close with thanks to the chairman and the ladies, cheers for the King, and a hearty expression in favour of their candidate, Hon. Mr. Stratton.

IS KITCHENER COMING?

Vancouver Report Him to Visit Coming Home via Canada

Upon the completion of his term of service as military commander in India, Gen. Lord Kitchener has announced that he will return home to England by way of the United States. "It is my desire," said the general, "to see Canada, the United States, the countries and people, that prompts me to include them in my itinerary."

Lord Kitchener will also visit China and Japan on the way, possibly traveling through Australia and New Zealand.

An immense volume of correspondence is pouring in upon the general from England urging him to take up a reorganization of the British War Office. There is no doubt but that he would be appointed to the post if he wished to accept the position.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The town hall and several other buildings were destroyed at O'Leary, P.E.I.

John Jocko, an Indian boy, aged 14, was thrown from a horse near Cornwall and killed.

The 102nd anniversary of the founding of Princeton University was observed yesterday with appropriate exercises.

While painting William Honsberger's barn near St. Catharines a painter named Hamilton fell and was instantly killed.

Serious floods prevail through portions of Central and Northern Oklahoma, the result of three days' steady downpour of rain.

The Empress of Britain clipped 26 minutes off her record, arriving at Quebec after a passage of 5 days, 30 minutes and 28 seconds.

The Aero Club of France has decided to organize a big aeroplane meeting in the autumn of 1909, when the "Grand Prix D'Aviation" will be competed for.

A two months' old boy baby was abandoned near the Frontenac Club, Kingston. The child was sent to the Infants' Home, and the police will seek to locate the mother.

The trustees of Thousand Island Park Association have adopted a resolution that from next spring every owner of a launch at Thousand Island Park will be compelled to have his boat equipped with mufflers, to smother the noise, as they declared the "pop-pop" of the launches to be one of the greatest nuisances.

Voice to Be Heard.

New York, Oct. 23.—Although Ira D. Sankey, evangelist, song writer and singer, has been dead for several months, members of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal Church, Clermont and Willoughby avenues, Brooklyn, will hear his voice again next Sunday evening, when from a large phonograph on the pulpit platform they will listen to "The Ninety and Nine," and others of his widely-known hymns.

Mr. Sankey spent many of his last hours singing into a receiver the hymns which had moved audiences at Moody and Sankey meetings all over the world.

A Detective Arrested.

Hamilton, Oct. 23.—William Huckle, who styles himself as chief of the International Private Detective Agency, was arrested yesterday on a charge of blackmail and extortion. The complainant is George Ireland, North Wentworth street, who says that the detective claimed that he had obtained evidence against him on a charge of criminal assault, but would not take any action if Ireland paid $10. Ireland paid over the money, he says. Huckle has made insinuations that he could reveal some interesting things about the local police.

Cruiser Fleet Homeward Bound.

Honolulu, Oct. 23.—The United States Pacific cruiser fleet, commanded by Rear-Admiral Swinburne, sailed at 9.15 o'clock yesterday morning, with the accompanying torpedo destroyers, in tow, for the Pacific coast.

CATTLE MARKETS.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—London cables for cattle are steady at 11½c to 12½c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9½c to 9¾c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways for Wednesday and Thursday, were 155 carloads, composed of 2265 cattle, 3233 hogs, 2835 sheep and lambs and 119 calves.

Exporters.

One load of cattle brought in as exporters was reported sold for butchers' purposes at $4.85 per cwt. Export bulls sold at $3.50 to $4, and one of choice quality, weighing 1990 lbs., was sold by H. P. Kennedy at $4.50 per cwt.

Butchers.

Choice picked lots of steers and heifers are reported as selling at $4.60 to $4.80 per cwt., loads of good at $4.25 to $4.50; medium, $3.75 to $4; common, $3.35 to $3.50; cows, $2.50 to $3.60 per cwt.; canners, $1 to $1.50.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report a fair demand for feeders and stockers this week. The receipts were fairly heavy, but as usual the bulk of the offerings were medium to inferior grades. The nice ten to eleven hundred pound steers were none too plentiful, and any of this class would have sold. Messrs. Murby bought 350 head this week at the following quotations: Best feeders, 700 to 1100 lbs. each, at $3.50 to $4; best steers, 800 to 950 lbs. each, at $3.25 to $3.60; best stockers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $2.90 to $3.25; medium steers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $2.60 to $2.85; common stockers, 500 to 700 lbs. each, at $1.75 to $2.10. A few medium stockers were left unsold.

Milkers and Springers.

About forty milkers and springers were on sale, but the market was not nearly as strong as it has been lately, on account of trade not being as good in Montreal. Prices during the week ranged all the way from $30 to $65 each, with one or two extra quality cows at $75. The average price for the best cows was about $50.

Veal Calves.

Altho receipts were light during the week, the market was not any stronger, but, on the other hand, weaker, if anything. Poultry being more plentiful, is taking the place of veal. Prices ranged from $3 to $4 per cwt., with an occasional choice calf bringing $4.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were large and prices easy at following quotations: Export ewes, $3.25 to $3.50; rams, $2.50 to $2.75; lambs, $4 to $4.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

Mr. Harris reports the market unchanged, with prospects of lower prices for the coming week. Selects fed and watered, $6.35 per cwt.; to drovers at country points f.o.b. cars, $6, which means $6.85 to the farmer.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 23.—Cattle—Slow and unchanged.

Veals—Receipts, 200 head; active and steady, $6 to $8.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 4000 head; active and 20c to 25c higher; heavy, $5.85 to $6; mixed, $5.75 to $5.90; yorkers, $5 to $5.90; pigs, $4.25 to $4.75; roughs, $4.75 to $5; stags, $4 to $4.50; dairies and grassers, $5 to $5.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 8000 head; sheep, active; mixed, steady; others, 25c lower; lambs, slow and 25c lower; lambs, $4 to $5.50; yearlings and wethers, $4 to $4.25; ewes, $3.75 to $4.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 11,000; steady to 10c lower; steers, $4.40 to $7.50; cows, $2.25 to $5.25; heifers, $3 to $4.25; bulls, $2.50 to $4.50; calves, $3.50 to $8.50; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.60.

Hogs—Receipts, 28,000; steady to 10c higher; choice heavy shippers, $6 to $6.10; butchers', $6.00 to $6.05; light mixed, $5.95 to $6.00; choice light, $5.60 to $5.70; heavy packing, $5.60 to $5.80; pigs, $3.50 to $5; bulk of sales, $5.50 to $5.90.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 22.—At the weekly cheese board meeting to-day 1230 colored and 805 white were offered, making a total of 2125. Sold 950 colored and 535 white; best offer 12⅛c.

Watching the Anarchists.

Madrid, Oct. 23.—King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, accompanied by Premier Maura, have started for Barcelona, where he will remain until Oct. 27.

All the anarchist centres are being closely watched.

The Daily Tenement Bomb.

New York, Oct. 23.—Another bomb was exploded Wednesday night in an east side tenement, which has been guarded by police for weeks to prevent just such outrages.

Mr. Greenway Improves.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—Hon. Thomas Greenway was much better last evening.

Famous Castle to Be Restored.

The ruins of Richmond Castle, in Yorkshire, Eng., are to be restored by the Board of Works. The historic castle was built in 1071.

Drunken Mail Clerk.

It is alleged that he violated the new Liquor Act by selling John Keegan liquor while the latter was intoxicated. Keegan lay out all night, and died of exposure and excessive use of spirits. The crown then proceeded against Freeman. There is intense interest in the case, which, in the absence of material witnesses, was enlarged till Nov. 4.

Malone, N.Y., Oct. 23.—Sportsmen have just discovered that the forest fires in the Adirondacks have worked havoc among the trout with which many streams throughout the burned section are well stocked. Thousands of dead trout have been found in the bottoms and along the edges of the streams, and it is believed they have been killed by impurities in the water caused by ashes or smoke.

Dies From Threshing Injuries.

London, Ont., Oct. 23.—Henry Steeper, the McGillivray Township thresher who was so badly injured by being drawn into a threshing machine, died of his injuries Wednesday night. His arm was torn from the socket and his body terribly bruised. He never regained consciousness.

Yerkes' Mansion to Be Sold.

New York, Oct. 23.—The handsome Yerkes' mansion at Fifth avenue and 68th street, which, with its paintings and art treasures would, it was generally believed, eventually pass into the control of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, may be sold at foreclosure.

Preferred Death to Trial.

New York, Oct. 23.—Rather than face trial for manslaughter, growing out of a case of alleged criminal practice, Dr. Irving J. Cook, a young doctor of this city, drank a dose of poison and shot himself at the Waldrof-Astoria Hotel yesterday.

Defeat Three-Cent Fares.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 23.—The franchise under which the Municipal Traction Co. is operating the local street railway lines upon a three-cent fare basis was defeated by a majority of 951 in the referendum vote here yesterday. The total vote cast was upwards of 71,000.

The defeat of the franchise may mean that the railway property will revert to its original owners, and that the old rate of fare strife, which lasted seven years, will be renewed.

Alien Had to Go.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—Because he was an alien, viewed from the standpoint of the United States Government, A. W. Graham, well-known in Ottawa as a former master in the Ottawa Collegiate Institute, was obliged to resign a lucrative position on the Panama Canal, and is again in the capital, having been re-appointed to the collegiate staff. In an interview Mr. Graham expressed the opinion that the Panama Canal would be completed with the next ten years.

Bush Fires Cause Explosion.

Pittsburg Pa., Oct. 23.—A magazine containing about fifty cans of nitroglycerine exploded yesterday at Grigo, below this city. There were no fatalities. The explosion was caused by a bush fire.

A second terrific explosion occurred shortly after noon. One woman was seriously hurt by flying glass. The property loss will be large. Almost half the windows in three towns have been broken by the explosion.

Year For Stabbing.

London, Oct. 23.—(C.A.P.)—John Metcalf, seaman, of Montreal, got a year's imprisonment for stabbing a girl on Sept. 5. The prisoner made no comment on the sentence, but produced a letter from a brother in Canada, saying he was to be met by the hospital when the doctors knock the sailor's head off.

Removal of Salmon Embargo.

London, Oct. 23.—(C.A.P.)—A deputation of tradesmen, consumers and marketmen interviewed the Minister of Commerce, with the object of securing the removal of the embargo on the importation of frozen salmon. The Minister said he had no objection, provided the river fishery commission was unopposed to the abrogation.

Saved 100 Natives.

Manila, Oct. 23.—At Appari, where a thrilling rescue of a 100 natives was effected through the heroism of Lieut. Robert Clark, Lieut. Tredway and Postmaster Foss, the survivors say that 300 residents of the submerged fishing village, which is located some distance below Aparri, were swept away and drowned.

Wife Dislikes Notoriety.

Hamilton, Oct. 23.—Fred Kimball, the insurance agent accused of bigamy, was remanded at the Police Court yesterday morning and bail fixed at $1,000. Mrs. Kimball the first cannot be found, and it is said that she is anxious to avoid the notoriety of the trial.

To Coax Rain by Bombs.

Utica, N.Y., Oct. 23.—Prof. Carl E. Meyers of Frankfort, a suburb of this city, is going to pluck a rainstorm from the skies that the forest fires may be extinguished. Mr. Meyer is a veteran balloonist and aeronautical engineer, and down in Texas some years ago produced rain that spread over several states. His plan is to send up into the sky a big balloon filled with gases, which he explodes with an electric spark.

Found Dead In a Car.

Buffalo, Oct. 23.—The body of a negro was found in a freight car, opened here yesterday. Death was due to starvation and thirst.

The car was shipped from Pine Bluffs, Ark., on Oct. 3, and had been rebilled from St. Louis, Mo., but was not opened at the latter place. In the car was a consignment of goods for Providence, R.I.

Earth Shocks In Saxony.

Plauen, Saxony, Oct. 23.—Thirty earthquake shocks were experienced in the Zwickau Region Wednesday. They were accompanied by thunder like reverberations.

There was another severe shock yesterday.

"LANDING" A BURGLAR

By Phyllis Cobb Sanford.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The wedding was over, the goodbye and the good nights had all been said, and the Monteiths' big stone house, radiant only a few hours ago with light and laughter, was now grimly dark and silent.

But excitement had set the maid of honor's pulse to throbbing, and she could not sleep. Over and over again she went through her part of the stately ceremony to the slow, majestic music of the wedding march.

Over and over again she remembered that endless, measured walk down the long church aisle, with the magic scent of roses everywhere and the trembling consciousness of the best man's gaze fixed unwaveringly upon her.

And she recalled all the pretty things he had said to her afterward—that she was like a dream girl come true, that she was more beautiful than the blushing bride herself. What shameless heresy, when the bride was his very own sister!

Wedding nights, sighed Elsie, were much like Hallowe'en—one dipped into the future and saw sweet visions, but only visions, after all! Yet still she sat in her shimmery green maid of honor frock, the moonlight shedding a wondrous frost upon it. From some distant point a clock struck twice. She rose with determination, then suddenly became tense and rigid. Her heart was in her mouth.

In the room just diagonally across the hall, which was the upstairs sitting room, she had distinctly heard a window opened. It flashed across her instantly that burglars had come after the wedding presents. Her own door, the night being stifling warm, stood part way open, but she was too paralyzed with fear to run and lock it.

She listened with strained ears for any further sound. It soon followed. The burglar stumbled against something. For a few minutes after that all was horribly still. Then, with catlike step, Elsie heard him coming into the hall.

Should she scream? She tried to, but could not. Her voice "stuck in her throat."

By the aid of the moonlight Elsie could make out a dark form creeping past her own room toward the stairs. Thank goodness, he was not going to bind and gag her or hold her up at the point of a pistol!

But the wedding presents! Should she let him steal them without trying to give an alarm? Yes, she would. The bride and groom could not be so very much attached to them. They had not had them long enough, and it was an awfully long way down the hall to Mr. Monteith's room.

There was no one near her except two of the bridesmaids, and a precious lot of good it would do to wake them! This reflection had the effect of stimulating her own latent courage. No; he should not carry off those wedding presents—she, Elsie Laurie, would see that he did not.

She was relieved to find that she could really move. She tiptoed to the door and listened. Not a sound. So she ventured stealthily out into the hall and even peeked over the balustrade. Still no sound and as dark as a pocket.

Could she have been dreaming? Before she roused the house she would make quite sure. Creeping down to the landing of the stairs, she crouched behind the balustrade and waited, her heart thumping rapidly.

When she recovered she was choking over something very strong and burning that some one was pouring down her throat. She opened her eyes and recognized Robert Monteith bending over her.

"Did you catch the burglar?" she asked him weakly.

"Elsie, my poor child," he said, lifting her gently till her head rested against his shoulder, "there wasn't any burglar. It was just me. I'm so sorry."

She looked dazed, as if she could not understand.

"You must have been awfully scared, dear," he went on tenderly. "I'll tell you how it happened. I chased the bride and groom, you know, to find out where they were going, and when I finally got back here I remembered I hadn't any key. So I climbed up over the porch and got in through the sitting room window. I thought you were all asleep, and I knew if I did that I wouldn't disturb anybody," he ended, with a somewhat sheepish smile.

Elsie smiled a little too. She was beginning to see the humor of the situation. By degrees she told him her side of the story.

"You're the bravest girl in all the world, dearest, and I"—

"Did you stub your toe against something just after you got in?" she interrupted, with teasing irrelevance.

He admitted, rather shortly, that he did.

"It was awfully quiet for a few minutes afterward," she observed dryly.

"Yes, I wasn't saying much—out loud. But, say, Elsie"—he broke off resolutely, swinging her thoughts round to more personal matters again—"what would you say if I turned into a real burglar after all and tried to steal you on the spot?"

"I'm not a bit afraid," she answered him calmly, her eyes looking with adorable assurance straight into his. "Tonight has made me wonderfully coura—Goodness! What's that?" she whispered, trembling with fright.

A door in the upper hall had opened softly.

Before Robert could answer she had

Knew She Was Ugly.

The Duchess of Orleans, mother of the regent who governed France during the minority of Louis XV., was notorious for her ugliness. She wrote:

"From early youth I knew how ugly I was and hated to have myself look sharply at me. I never cared for dress, as I knew that diamonds and ornaments would only attract attention to me. Once Countess Solmons asked me why I never turned to look at a mirror in passing, as every other woman did. I told her I could not endure the sight of my own face.

"As a girl I must have been very ugly. I had little, blinking eyes, a pug nose and a big mouth with thick lips. My face was broad and fat and my figure short and stumpy. Nobody would have tolerated me except for my good disposition.

"I don't suppose that there was in the whole world another pair of hands as ugly as mine. The king often told me so, and I laughed, for I was resolved always to laugh at my hideousness. I must confess that I had to laugh very often.

"What surprised me most was that any one could fall in love with me. I was notoriously the ugliest woman at court, yet I was married at nineteen.

"I often asked my husband if the sight of me was not repulsive and what he had seen in me that induced him to fall in love with me. I never got a satisfactory answer, but I think that I must have had some other attractions which outweighed my ugliness."

Had to Buy It.

"Now," said the agent, "I am sure I have got what you want. Now, here is a new patent paper cutter, sir, that I am selling for 25 cents. It is the best in the market—never tears the pages of an uncut book."

"Very nice, indeed," interrupted his victim, "but I have no uncut books, and so"—

"I suspected that, sir," returned the agent. "That's why I have brought along this beautiful uncut copy of Fox's 'Book of Martyrs.' Three hundred pages of elevating reading, embellished with beautiful pictures. Just the thing for a center table in this superb binding"—

"I haven't got a center table," said the victim. "So, you see"—

"Fine!" said the agent. "Let me show you the catalogue of our company's furniture. It is all of the very best make, and a center table like that in the picture on page 22 will prove an ornament in your parlor"—

"But I haven't any parlor. I have no house, my friend. Consequently"—

"Glorious!" cried the agent. "I represent the Own Your Own Home company of"—

"Oh, thunder!" said the victim. "Here's your quarter. I'll take a paper cutter."—Judge.

EXHIBITION IN LANTERN SLIDES TO BE GIVEN

At the Camera Club meeting next Friday night, which will be held in the Y.M.C.A. club rooms, a lantern slide exhibition will be given. Those who are not members and who desire to attend may do so by making application at the Tate-Taylor optical parlours.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. Electrical Device For The Boiling Of Coffee

Something New In The Electric World---Coffee Prices Years Ago

CHANGE THAT OCCURRED

Schenectady, Oct. 23 — Examiner Electric News Service — It is but useless repetition to say that there is a vast difference the world over in the preparation of coffee. No two places seem to prepare this delicious drink in the same way. It is weak here and strong there, boiled in one place and cooked in another, black and roily, brown and muddy.

There may be a great many ways of making coffee, but it is only with the new electric percolators that one can get the most delicious cup of this delightful beverage ever prepared since the ancient Arab accidentally discovered the secret. The coffee made a la electricity retains the sweet aroma of the berry, its delicious flavour, its subtle strength and its beautiful colour.

It was in 1669 that the Turkish ambassador to the court of Louis XV, served his native drink, "cahove," to his friends, little dreaming that he was introducing the "coffee habit" so irresistible to the civilized world of to-day. He began by serving the new drink in little gold cups to the few intimates who gathered daily in his rooms. They became so infatuated with it they could talk of nothing else, and soon all the ladies and gentlemen of Versailles developed a great affection for Mustapha Aga, and repaired daily to his rooms for a sip of the delicious beverage. It was the same thick syrup you get in the East to-day.

The first coffee imported into France cost over $16 a pound — an immense sum in those days. Naturally, it was only for the wealthy. The Armenian, who about 1680 opened the first cafe in Paris, had to serve a liquid within the price of the middle class. This he was able to do by greatly diluting with milk or water — thus evolving cafe au lait and cafe noir. These mixtures immediately jumped into popularity. But even then they were beyond the purse of the poor man

The success of the Armenian's venture stimulated a crippled Frenchman to provide himself with a charcoal stove and a huge copper pot, with which he strolled about the streets crying "Cahve, Cahve!" He was out to catch the trade of the very poor man, and he could afford to sell his "cahve" cheap, as he had first negotiated with the Armenian for the coffee grounds that had already done service at the St. Germain des Pres establishment. This second hand coffee is what you get in any small cafe of Paris to-day, between whose proprietor and the chefs of the large hotels and restaurants the same deal is still made.

The electric coffee percolator is one of the greatest of the small inventions produced by the General Electric Company, and one of the most popular of the many electrical devices in the twentieth century home. The percolator is a handsome utensil made of heavy nickeled copper; there is a reservoir to hold the liquid, a glass top to hold the ground coffee and beneath is the heating unit. To produce the beverage the coffee is put in the glass top; the reservoir is partially filled with water and the flexible cord is connected to the ordinary electric light socket and the switch turned on. In a few minutes spurts of steam and boiling water are being poured over the ground coffee in the top to percolate down in the reservoir. This process is kept up until all the nutriment, aroma and fragrance of the coffee is absorbed, and never for a minute is the coffee "cooked." The aromatic volatile oil, which makes the coffee such a fragrant drink, is not boiled away, the caffeine is not boiled out of the coffee bean to injure human nerves and stomachs.

The process of making coffee right on the dining room table is not so mysterious after all. Fitted tight against the bottom of the reservoir in the percolator is the "heating unit." This consists of a flat piece of special alloy plate stamped in the shape of a grid, and incased in a copper covering. The terminals are insulated and connected to the wires in the flexible cord connecting with the lamp socket. When the switch is closed the electricity flows through the wires in the cord and through the heating grid. This special alloy metal has very high resistance. That is, it resists the flow of electrity. The electrical energy is changed to heat energy in passing through this resistance. The electricity keeps the grid red hot and this heat is imparted to the liquid in the reservoir. Inside the vessel is a bell valve. This valve is located immediately over the heating unit. As the water under this valve becomes hot, steam and hot water are forced up a small tube to be sprayed over the coffee in the glass chamber above. This hot water trickles through the ground coffee and drips back into the reservoir carrying with it the juices of the berry. This simple process is repeated until the coffee is ready to serve.

Large Audience Delighted With Splendid Work—Prizes Won This Summer Were Presented At Conclusion of Programme.

BISHOP O'CONNOR PRESENT

The Sisters of St. Joseph simply added to the many successes which they have already won by the delightful recital given last night in the Assembly Hall at St. Peter's School. Without exception the pupils acquitted themselves in a highly satisfactory manner, giving evidence individually not only of their own musical ability, but also of the successfully effective training which they have received under the critical attention of those Sisters who are in charge of the music department.

The school hall was comfortably filled by the friends of the pupils, and that they were greatly pleased with their work was shown by the reception which was accorded each number. The recital was graced by the attendance of the clergy of the cathedral, and His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, who later expressed their appreciation of the excellent programme which had been rendered.

It may be said that the different numbers were skillfully arranged and continued interest was displayed, as a result, until the last selection.

The Programme

The programme was carried out as follows:

PART I.

Piano duet—Engelmann; Miss S. Cleary, Miss F. Leahy.

Semi chorus—"Music of the Birds"; Junior Class.

Piano solo—"Impromptu," Rhienbold; Miss A. Sullivan.

Instrumental — "Whispers From Erar"; piano Misses E. Connor and L. Fife; first violin, Miss M. Cairns, Miss E. Doris; second violin, Miss M. Theobald; mandolin, Miss M. Anderson.

PART II.

Vocal—"The Marvellous Work." Creation; obligato solo, Mrs. E. M. Tuck; first soprano, Miss M. Young; second soprano, Miss E. Brady; alto, Miss A. Sullivan.

Violin solo—"Annie Laurie," Ritter; Miss M. Cairns.

Piano duet—"Invitation to the Dance," Weber; Miss B. Giroux, Miss K. O'Brien.

Vocal — "Barcarolle"; Primary Class.

God Save the King.

Accompaniists—Misses L. Fife, E. Connor, A. Sullivan.

While it is scarcely fair to individualize in referring to the recital, it is but a fitting tribute to Mrs. E. M. Tuck to mention the splendid success she achieved in her vocal selections. She possesses a ringing soprano voice, very sweet, of sufficient strength and exceptional range. Added to that is splendid control and a flexibility that lends itself to every change.

Miss Ella Brady sang delightfully a double number. The first was Lane's "Carmencita," and the other was a "Lullaby," written by Mr. John T. Ball, a former Peterborough boy, whose recent successes have been of much pleasure to his friends in the city. The several piano duets gave the pupils an opportunity to display their ability, more than delighting the audience. The only piano solo was Rhienbold's "Impromptu," the different movements of which were played by Miss Aileen Sullivan with brilliance and "effect."

The twelve little uniformed boys who sang and manoeuvred their way through "The Brave Tin Soldiers," took the house by storm. No encores were given owing to the length of the programme.

Miss Margaret Cairns, of Lindsay, gave a sympathetic rendition of the old favourite "Annie Laurie" in her violin solo. The several class choruses were very good.

Presentation of Prizes

At the conclusion of the programme those pupils who were successful in winning prizes for Christian Doctrine, Writing and Music were presented with them as follows:

Prize for third year piano, Toronto College of Music, awarded to Miss Lillian M. Fife.

Addresses

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor presented the prizes won in the examinations of the Toronto College of Music last June and paid a glowing tribute to the work of the Sisters and their pupils. Rev. Father McColl presented the prizes for Christian Doctrine, making a pretty reference to the evening's entertainment and the splendid showing the pupils have made in all branches of education. Dr. M. A. Morrison was present on behalf of Mr. John Crane, who donated prizes for writing at the Entrance Examinations and who was unable to attend the musical function. Dr. Morrison in presenting the prizes to the successful pupils paid a nice compliment to the winners both of whom tried their examinations from the Convent, which was a special distinction.

SCOTCHMEN'S FAREWELL TO A FRIEND

Mr. Roderick Farquhar Leaving for His Home Across the Sea.

On the eve of his departure for the Old Country Mr. Roderick McFarquhar was entertained by a few of his fellow countrymen at the American House last night. The chair was worthily upheld by Mr. J. Barr. Songs, mostly Scotch, were sung by the members present, but the outstanding feature of the entertainment was the playing of the bagpipes by Mr. McKay and the accompaning of the songs by Mr. J. Reid. Mr. Allen, an Irishman, gave a very effective rendering of a recitation, entitled "The Queen's Visit to Ireland in 1900." The event was brought all too soon to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

CAN FAMILY OF ELEVEN LIVE ON TEN DOLLARS PER WEEK?

Real Race Suicide Is Being Unable To Support a Family---St. Louis Family In This Condition.

Eleven in a Family; Live on $10 a Week. Mother Keeps Progeny Well Nourished and Respectably Clothed.

Down in St. Louis, says the paper, there is a mother of nine, who thinks she's in luck if she has $10 a week with which to feed, clothe and house her growing brood. Sometimes she gets only $5 or $8, out of which she must deduct $2.50 for rent.

The income is the wage of the oldest son, who earns $10 when he has a full week's employment at a bottling works. The father "sits round," working a day or two in a week or not at all. There are then 231 meals to be provided out of the maximum wage, $10, at an average cost of four and one-third cents each! The marvel is that the family doesn't have to take turns at being fed.

Food of Cheapest Sort

The food, of course, must be of the cheapest and plainest. Stale bread, potatoes, rice, soup bones, an occasional steak—at 10 cents a pound—and stale vegetables, whatever can be bought for the least money, make up the diet. Only one menu is given. Bread and coffee for breakfast; coffee and bread for dinner; bread and coffee and potato pancakes for supper.

Now a diet of this kind may keep one from starving to death, but it certainly doesn't fulfill the newspaper headline, "Well Nourished." No growing child can develop physically and mentally — for the two are to a certain extent interdependent, on foods so limited in quantity and deficient in quality. The mother has managed to keep the younger children in school, but remembering the investigations made in the schools of Manchester and Liverpool in England, and in New York city, in regard to the physical and mental status of underfed children, we would not expect to find these keeping pace in their studies with well nourished and properly fed children. Any teacher whose work lies in the lower grades will tell you that with few exceptions the children of the very poor are up to the average. It is not their fault, poor, half-nurtured little things! It is due to their grinding poverty, which forbids food suited to their proper development. And think of the unnamed privations which are inevitable where there is not even enough to eat.

Real Race Suicide

This mother is a humble heroine, hard-working, self-respecting, to whom full credit must be given for courage, economy and endeavour to bring up her children as well as she possibly can. But what business has a man with a chronic aversion to work to have a family equalling that of John Rogers, of martyr memory? This is the real race suicide, the irresponsibility that keeps on bringing children into the world when there is little to feed them and less to clothe them, and the probabilities are that if not born degenerates they will become so for lack of proper food for development, and by reason of disadvantageous environment.

WHAT WEST PETERBOROUGH REQUIRES FOR EFFICIENT REPRESENTATION

The city of Peterborough, as the commercial and distributing centre of one of the richest and most important agricultural districts in Ontario, as a railway centre from which radiate several lines in different directions, as the most important point on the almost completed Trent Canal, and as the seat of numerous flourishing industries and mercantile establishments, is vitally interested in having in the Dominion Parliament the best available representation.

It is self-evident that a community possessing material and other interests so varied as to be affected in some way or other by nearly every measure of general legislation presented to the Dominion Parliament, requires to be more careful in the choice of a representative than ridings more agricultural in their character.

West Peterborough should obviously be represented by a member who, by virtue of his experience, knowledge of affairs, familiarity with finance and financiers, and business connections, is best qualified to secure for the constituency every reasonable consideration, and adequately and influentially voice and give effect to local opinion on all matters affecting local interests.

Questions and matters are continually arising which closely affect a busy, thriving, enterprising and ambitious city like Peterborough, whose satisfactory settlement depends upon the extent of the representative's familiarity with business and financial methods, and standing and influence in the world of commerce, and finance, and the world of business.

The representative of West Peterborough, to be of the largest usefulness, should not only possess the qualities essential to success in business, but he should hold such a position in the estimation and knowledge of the public as to be able to bring his efforts to bear effectively and make his influence felt.

The candidate who possesses all these essential qualifications in large, if not full measure, may safely be said to be the Liberal candidate in this contest, Hon. J. R. Stratton.

All this the practical men of West Peterborough fully realize. All who conscientiously desire to act for the best interests of the city and county will support Mr. Stratton, who has done in the past all a man could do as a public man and private citizen to deserve their support by all the means in his power to make the traffic and industrial facilities of the city known where the knowledge of them would bring results, and to help with means and influence to place Peterborough in the position she occupies as one of the foremost, industrially and commercially, of the minor cities of the Dominion.

In view of these few considerations, it is self-evident that the hearty support of Mr. Stratton in this contest will be in the best interests of the manufacturer, the workingman, the merchant, the property holder, and of the city at large in all the varied matters involving the growth and prosperity of Peterborough and the country tributary to it.

Seriously considered, the issues of this contest impose a serious responsibility upon the electors in relation to the best interests of the city and county.

Peterborough, city and county, did not by any means suffer in the past in regard to any interest by having him as its representative. During his eighteen year term as member, he, as it will be generally acknowledged by political friend and foe alike, industriously used his influence, and faithfully devoted his best efforts to build up and advance the material or any other welfare of Peterborough.

He was always at the front when the interests of the town and county were at stake, and it can be justly said that in more than one instance enactment of legislation vitally concerning our industrial expansion was due to his persistent efforts to secure support and neutralize energetic opposition to its adoption. Every citizen interested in the growth and progress of the city, in deciding where he can place his vote with the greatest assurance of his wishes in that regard being met, will have little trouble in deciding how to use it.

The Liberal Government of the Dominion will, it is humanly certain, be retained in power by a renewal of the popular mandate given in 1896, and confirmed in 1900 and 1904. All who give unprejudiced study to the situation admit this truth. The Opposition realizes it.

If the electors of West Peterborough should so far forget their best interests as to ignore the past valuable services which Mr. Stratton has been able to render the city and county in the past; if they should prefer his opponent in the contest, they would find this riding occupying, in relation to its interests, a much less favourable position. Instead of being represented by a member who would be able to make its legitimate demands respected in the councils of the dominant party. the party endowed with the power to meet these demands, it would have, as an exponent of its great and growing requirements, an opponent of the Government; an evident disability added to lack of experience and business qualifications and practical ideas of representative and administrative responsibility.

Such a representative, even with the best intentions, would self-evidently be in a position to do little for either city or county---do little in a representative capacity to advance the interests of either city or county. We could not expect a member in political antagonism to the party in power to have either the confidence or zeal or influence or opportunity to press to the point of recognition the claims of West Peterborough for legitimate benefits, as successfully as could be expected under opposite circumstances.

Mr. Stratton, in the past, while he faithfully represented West Peterborough, was never remiss in looking after the needs of his constituency, never omitted any opportunity to advance its interests---either as a representative or a citizen. The fidelity of his past services is a guarantee of equally faithful services in years to come. In the past, as a member, he allowed no other interest to stand in the way of being practically alert and loyal to the welfare of his constituency in all matters in which a representative should be required to interest himself.

He was always assiduous in looking after local interests, and in forwarding all measures and enterprises affecting the welfare and promoting the prosperity of Peterborough.

He has lost none of the interest thus exhibited in the past; and enlarged experience has additionally qualified him for good service; and the wider field of opportunity he is seeking at the hands of the electors will permit of his giving even more effective service.

ABOUT HOME-GROWN SEEDS

From The Canadian Dairyman.

Attention may profitably be directed to the experiments recently carried on by the Experimental Department of the Ontario Agricultural College in connection with home grown mangel seed. These experiments are of particular interest just now owing to the partial failure of the mangel crop this past season, which failure was attributed in many instances to the inferior grade of seed that was on the market last spring. Mangels are becoming more and more popular on account of their freedom from pests, and the great difficulty experienced, of late years, in growing a profitable crop of turnips due to plant lice, rot and blight, to which they are bear.

If it is possible to increase our yields of mangels over ten tons an acres by means of some-grown seed, as was done in the Experimental Department of the Ontario Agricultural College this past year, it surely would be worth while to produce and use such seed. Although the practice of growing the seed in this climate is attended with considerable extra labor, a single root under favorable conditions produces a large amount of seed. Thus it is possible for one to produce at least all the seed required for his own use.

Considering the growing importance of the mangel crop to our dairy interests as well as to other branches of the live stock industry, the possibility of improving the yields, by so simple a method as outlined on another page of this issue, is worthy of note. Those who are at all extensively engaged in the production of mangels for their stocks would do well to save a few choice specimens this fall with the object of producing seed next year for use the following season.

FALLING OFF IN THE MAKING OF CHEESE

Reports from Eastern Ontario indicate a large falling off in the make of cheese. Several small factories have closed for the season, the supply of milk not being large enough to keep them running. It looks now as if the Canadian Dairyman and Farming World's estimate of 200,000 boxes as the shortage in this season's make as compared with that of 1907 would not be far off the mark. At present prices for cheese this will mean a loss to the farmers of Canada of $2,000,000.

A peculiar feature of the situation is that the price of cheese is not as high, by half a cent a pound, as it was the last week of August, or before the dry season began, and this is the season when September cheese, usually the highest priced cheese of the year, is being marketed. It can only be accounted for by the fact that the trade in England has refused to follow the advance in price of a month or two ago. Receipts begin to show a large falling off and it looks as if the market should take a sharp turn upward very shortly.

Chief Instructor Publow reports the quality of the cheese being made this fall as being very fine. It usually is at this season as conditions are favorable for making cheese of the finest quality. There is, however, not the striking difference between summer and fall cheese there was a few years back. The quality is more uniform throughout the season, and the summer make is gradually being brought up to the standard of the finest Septembers. For this the work of the instructors is responsible. As patrons learn to look after the milk the cheese of any month will gradually approach the quality of the best. There is more uniformity not only in the quality of cheese made in different factories, but in the quality made any time during the season.

Music and Drama

COMING SOON.

This production far surpasses that of last season in every particular and will be the best seen here. Special attention has been given to the staging of the drama and the several new scenic effects are said to be magnificent.

The thrilling floating ice scene of the Olive River, the realistic moonlight scene of the St. Clair plantation with house, garden, and the cotton field beyond and the superb transformation scene at the end of the last act are some of the greatest.

It is one of the largest organizations of white and colored artists ever gathered together in one combination that has been engaged for this season.

The big company travel in their own private Pullman Palace cars and have with them two bands of music, a number of ponies, dogs, donkeys, little carts, carriages, floats, etc., and will give a grand glittering street parade at noon.

FANCY BRANDS OF CHEESE

In closing this discussion on the home cheese trade a reference to the fancy brands of cheese made in Canada may not be out of place. These fancy brands are more numerous than they were a few years ago. There must be a demand for them at profitable prices, or their manufacture would not be continued. They are, however, as we have stated in previous issues, a luxury and bought mostly by the well-to-do, who like something out of the ordinary.

It is just a question whether there are not as many of these fancy brands being made and in sufficient quantities to supply all the market there is for them. True, our cities are growing and the number of people who can afford luxuries, increasing every year. But are they increasing fast enough and are they now in sufficient numbers to warrant any extended effort on the part of our dairymen to take up this line of manufacture? We doubt it very much. It would not take much enlargement on the present output to overstock the home market, and unless there was an outlet elsewhere the article would be a drug. For the present at least it will pay the rank and file of our dairymen to confine their attention to making the regular cheese. Here is a field that Canada has been very successful in and practically controls the world's trade in Cheddar cheese to-day. It would not be good business to give up a good thing for something less stable, though possibly returning a larger profit to the manufacturer, who can get sale for his product. However, a fancy brand that will appeal to the more well-to-do of our people and command ready sale is a money-maker. Those who have such, and have the means and facilities for placing it on the market in good shape, run little risk of a failure. But capital, business experience and plenty of advertising are necessary to success, no matter how good the brand. For this reason the average cheese factory had better let well enough alone.

Of the fancy brands of cheese made in Canada, MacLaren's "Imperial," and Miller's "Paragon," are the best known. It is nearly twenty years since these were first placed on the market, both appearing about the same time. The process of manufacture has never been made public and it is not necessary to go into it here. They are cream cheese put up in jars, which, as compared with what the ordinary cheese sells for, bring fancy prices. The last named is now sold in prints, like butter, only of different sizes. This method was adopted to lessen the cost. The fancy jars in which the cheese had been sold are costly and increased the price to the consumer very much.

MacLaren's "Imperial" Cheese has had a very successful career. It is as well, if not better known outside of Canada than in it. It's largest market is in the United States, where a factory is in operation for its manufacture. It is found in almost every civilized country the world over, and a trade has been established that is likely to continue so long as the quality is maintained at a high standard. Travellers speak of seeing it on the bill of fare on railway dining cars, and in first-class hotels in Europe, Australia and other countries. It is perhaps the best advertised and the best known of any food product made in Canada. The originator of the brand was Mr. A. F. MacLaren, M. P., Stratford, Ont. That it is so widely known to-day is largely because of his personality and his splendid advertising ability, though the article itself was of a kind that would appeal to the class of customers it sought for. Mr. MacLaren retired from active connection with the business a few years ago. While a large and profitable business has been built up for this brand of cheese, it has been at the expense of more time and money than the ordinary individual could give to it.

There is, and there always will be a limited demand in this country for foreign brands of cheese, such as Roquefort, Edam, and the like. There are people who buy this cheese because it comes from a foreign country. Perhaps, if they know more about the conditions under which some of it is produced, their taste for it might wane. The MacLaren "Imperial" Cheese people now put up a brand of Roquefort Cheese in jars, that appears to meet with ready sale. Other foreign brands could be produced here in like manner, but it is very doubtful, without one were specially engaged in this line of work, whether it would be profitable. The demand, as we have already said, for this kind of cheese, is limited and some risk would be attached to a venture in a field where competition is strong, considering the extent of the market. Some fancy brand made to sell at a price within reach of the many might be made to go, but considerable capital would be required to carry the enterprize until a market was established. The ordinary factoryman is not in a position to do this but he can by supplying a better quality and better matured Cheddar cheese greatly increase the market for this product.

Dickens' Inclination to Mimicry.

Charles Dickens, who sent to Samuel Rogers several of his books, who dedicated "Master Humphrey's Clock" to him and who frequently assisted at the famous breakfasts in St. James' place, was accustomed, rather cruelly, it may be thought, to take off his host's very characteristic way of telling a story, and it is, moreover, affirmed by Percy Fitzgerald that in the famous readings "the estrangely obtuse and owl-like expression and the 'slow, husky, croak' of Mr. Justice Stareleigh in the 'Trial From Pickwick' were closely modeled upon the author of the 'Pleasures of Memory.'" That Dickens used thus to amuse his friends is confirmed by the "Confidences" of the late Frederick Locker, who perfectly remembered the old man, to see whom he had been carried as a boy by his father. He had also himself heard Dickens repeat one of Rogers' stock anecdotes (it was that of the duel in a dark room, where one of the combatants, humanely firing up the chimney, brings down his adversary), and he speaks of Dickens as imitating Rogers' "calm, low-pitched, drawling voice and dry biting manner very comically." At the same time it must be remembered that these reminiscences relate to Rogers in his old age. He was over seventy when Dickens published his first book, "Sketches by Boz."

Watch Springs.

The "Marseillaise."

The "Marseillaise" was composed by Rouget de Lisle, a colonel in the French army. The author's birthplace was Strassburg and not Marseilles, but it was a force of Marseillaise which first marched to it, and hence the title.

FRED SIMPSON WILL RUN IN TO-MORROW'S RACE AT MONTREAL

Fred Simpson of Hiawatha will take part in the big 15-mile road race under the auspices of the Independent Harriers' League in Montreal to-morrow and will leave for the East on the midnight train to-night. Simpson expects to run as a member of the Irish-Canadians' team, if not he will enter as an independent runner and is confident of making a good showing, although he realizes that he is up against a classy field of 100 of the best road racers in Canada, the field including the pick of the I.C.A.C., Hamilton, West End and Central Y.M.C.A.'s of Toronto, the Montreal clubs, and the strongest runners of the Maritime Provinces. Tom Longboat, who won the event last year, will be a starter to-omrrow, and expects to carry off the event. Simpson, who looks fit and well and who has been training faithfully, should make the Irish Indian extend himself to the utmost.

MEADOWS OUT OF MONTREAL RACES; TORONTO CLUBS HAVE STRONG TEAMS

Toronto, Oct. 22.—The West End Y.M.C.A. is sad to-day.

Fred Meadows of Guelph, the club's hope in the great Marathon 15-mile road race Saturday, to-day wired that he cannot go to Montreal. The West End had a glimmer of hope that Meadows might possibly trim the great Onondaga in the big race, but at any rate they reckoned on him to lead the West End team in and finish in no worse than 1, 2, 3. Meadows' place is taken by Charlie Neilson, a good plugger of the Bill Thomas-Jack Roe brand — a strong boy, who is liable to wake up and do something just when you least expect him to show.

"With four men who ran 10 miles in a trial under the hour, the Halifax team for the big Montreal 15-mile team race looks decidedly dangerous," remarked Tim O'Rourke to-day, and Jimmy Brydon, too, thinks well of that bunch, though, of course, he has high hopes for the Central Y.M.C.A. team.

"Hans Homer, the Maritime champion, who leads the Halifax team, is a good one," says Tim. "I liked him even though he was trimmed badly here. He lost here because he persisted in wearing a new pair of shoes in the last Canadian trial. Why, Homer ran 10 miles in the Maritime trials in 57.57, while Lennerton, the second man, did 58.32. Downey, the third man, did 59.45, and Rogers, the fourth, 59.56. Young Gordon Wolfe, their last man, did 1.00.18, and Wolfe is no slouch runner. He was eleventh here at the big all-Canadian Marathon trial final. Tom Longboat ran against the pick of the Caughnawaga Indian reserve yesterday, and walloped them all to the King's taste."

Percy Pillsworth, the pride of the Cobalt region, arrived in Montreal yesterday. Pillsworth is a Port Hope athlete. He did not accomplish much around Port Hope, but has done some good work up north.

SAMMY MELLOR MAKES NEW RECORD; DOES 15 MILES IN 1.22 THIS WEEK

New York, Oct. 22.—Samuel H Mellor, jr., the well-known distance runner and winner of the Boston Marathon, running in colours of Mercury A. C., last night, won a 15-mile run at Newark, N.J., and established a new American record for the distance. His time was one hour, 22 minutes, which is 5 minutes 11 3-5 seconds better than the previous record in this country and less than two minutes behind the world's record. John J. Daly, Irish-American A. C., was second, three minutes behind Mellor, and Jas. Clarke, Xavier A. C., was third.

Mellor is the crack who holds the Hamilton Herald around-the-bay race record of 1.48.43, made in 1904. Mellor's time beats Longboat's Canadian record of 1.26.50, made Nov. 9, 1907, at Monfreal, by 4.50. Longboat in that race was hampered by a dense crowd, and was at the finishing line nearly a minute before he crossed the tape. He put that time to 1.24.20 this spring in an exhibition. Both times he ran over muddy roads. In the Boston Marathon last year Longboat beat Mellor off at the 10-mile mark. Mellor is a grand little runner, and he has a host of friends in Canada.

MUCH INTEREST IN TO-MORROW'S BIG RUGBY MATCH WITH LINDSAY

A great deal of interest is being displayed in to-morrow's junior O.R.F.U. game at Riverside Park, which will bring together the Lindsay and local Y.M.C.A. senior teams. The fact that it is a Lindsay team which will be doing battle has caused much excitement, and there will no doubt be a big crowd on hand. The "Y" have a heavy team which, although an untried proposition, looks strong on paper, and should give Lindsay about all the Rugby they are looking for just now, thank you. There is no getting away from the fact, however, that the Scugog bunch have developed unsuspected strength, and there is every reason to believe they will prove bad medicine when they line up to-morrow. It should prove a game well worth seeing. As a curtain raiser, the T.A.S.A.C. juniors and the Collegiate Institute team will play a Junior City League game commencing at 2 o'clock, and lovers of Rugby cannot afford to overlook this contest, which should be a battle royal all the way. The Collegiate count upon their speed and science to overcome the weight of the T.A.S., and a hard game is bound to result.

CANADIAN GENERAL BOWLING TEAM WIN IN TOURNAMENT

The final game in the bowling tournament at the P. B. C. alleys was played last night between the C.G.E. trundlers and Munro's Colts and was won by the former by 293 pins. The C. G. E. were winners all the way through, and Lawless carried off the honours for the best single score of 224 and the best total of 570. Martin of Munro's Colts was second with a single of 211 and a total of 511 in the three.

C. G. E.—
Gutterson	135	141	144	426
Pollard	143	172	100	415
Jeffrey	135	174	173	482
Lawless	162	184	224	570
Waram	153	150	190	493
Total	728	821	831	2380
COLTS—
Bruce	143	167	177	487
Laing	92	83	111	28[illegible]
Huston	111	153	147	411
McRae	148	108	113	399
Martin	131	189	211	51[illegible]
Total	625	680	789	2094

It is understood that McCarroll's Fearnots will issue a challenge to Munro's Colts, and after this game Pete Lang, of the Colts, will be farmed out to the Millbrook League, cross-eyed ball and all, for seasoning purposes.

The latest mystery—Who handed Pete Lang the cross-eyed ball?

Mr. Adams again acted as official scorer and the thanks of the bowlers are due him for his painstaking, conscientious efforts.

Munro's Colts who led;
The Electrics put them up the flue,
Speak softly of the dead.

A man never realizes how little he knows about ten pins until he misses five spares and makes three splits in a game.—From the philosophy of one George Cairns.

"Merely looking bored to death doesn't get one into fast company," remarked Clair Gutterson as he sadly "blew" a spare.

"Huh, 2,094 eh. Just about what I'm worth in dollars and cents," snarled McCrae as he looked over the total.

LINDSAY WILL RUN EXCURSION HERE TO-MORROW FOR THE GAME

The victory of the locals over Peterboro on Monday has been of immense value to the boys and they are determined to practice assiduously and faithfully in the future. The team work has improved wonderfully since the beginning of the season, and their splendid work on Monday was a surprise to their supporters.

Mr. O'Connor, one of the officials of the game and an old senior player, as well as several seniors of the Peterboro line-up, expressed themselves as surprised at the work of the Lindsay team, and further stated that the locals with very little practice would easily win the junior championship of the O. R. F. U.

Such an achievement would be a great honour, not only for the team, but also for the town it represents, and if this is to be accomplished, the boys must receive more support from the citizens. It is a regrettable fact that the attendance at both the Port Hope and Peterboro games was so small as not to meet the expenses incurred in connection therewith. The citizens should respond more generously, and back up the boys by turning out and patronizing their games. The members are all residents of Lindsay, and are doing their share in upholding its reputation from an athletic standpoint, and they look to the citizens to loyally support them.

A game has been arranged with the Y. M. C. A. Rugby Team of Peterboro to be played on Saturday afternoon on the Peterboro grounds. The Y. M. C. A. team is strong and will give the local boys a run for their life. The locals are, however, very fast, as was demonstrated in their game with Peterboro on Tuesday afternoon, and will do their best to defeat the Y. M. C. A. team on their own grounds. It is likely that an excursion will be run from Lindsay, leaving at about two o'clock. It will be a great struggle in the electric city, and would be worth going to see. All those who wish to accompany the boys should leave their names with Manager McHugh at once.—Lindsay Post.

Peterboro' Rugby Players Are In The Game In Many Places Now

Ernie Greene who is a member of the T.A.A.C. team which defeated the T.A.S.A.C. in Toronto last Saturday, is in the city to-day. Mr. Greene is an old Peterborough boy. By the way Peterborough has representatives on a good many teams in the province. Murray and Hal Kennedy are on the back division of the Ottawa team; Ben Simpson is the mainstay of the Hamilton Tigers; Allen Campbell is playing quarter and Ernie Greene, scrimmage for the Toronto Athletic Club; Ross Craig is at inside wing for the Dundas Inter-Provincial team; Gordon Campbell is one of the stars of the Trinity College School Team, Port Hope, and Byron Greene is on the back-division of the Lindsay Junior O.R.F.U. team.

GOOD BASKETBALL GAME TO-NIGHT

Brownies and Tigers Will Face Each Other First Time This Season.

The Brownies and Tigers basketball teams will play to-night at the Y.M.C.A. This makes their first appearance this season. Both teams are in fine shape and a very exciting game is expected as all are out to win. The game will be called at 9.15 p.m.

The one-mile run in the business boys' events was pulled off last night. Those doing it in 6.24 3-5 were Halpany, Hamwell, Davidson; in 6.25, M. Laing, A. M. Williams; in 6.26, B. Hunter, A. McWilliams.

The teams playing to-night will be as follows:

BROWNIES—
Defence—
E. Payne, L. Dobson.
Centre—
Ned Fitzpatrick.
Forwadrs—
G. Millar, F. Cressman.

TIGERS—
Defence—
D. Loomis, P. Weatherstone.

THE "Y" LINE-UP FOR TO-MORROW

The Local O. R. F. U. Team Will Have a Strong Team Out To-morrow.

The Y.M.C.A. seniors will choose their team for the game with Lindsay in the junior O.R.F.U. series at Riverside Park to-morrow from the following — Evans, Kelly, Moore, Staunton, Cannift, Dobson, Downie, Henderson, Shirley, L. Patterson, Armstrong, Archibald, Walker, Graham. The team will practise to-night at 7.15 and a full attendance is requested. Judging from the men they have out, the "Y" should have no difficulty in picking a team that should give Lindsay all kinds of trouble to-morrow.

MR. RAY IS NOW GOLF CHAMPION

Defeated Mr. R. Neill in the Final Games Yesterday Afternoon.

Mr. Sam Ray was successful yesterday in carrying off the open championship of the Peterborough Golf Club when he defeated Mr. R Neill in an interesting game at the local links. The two veteran golfers were in fine form and the play throughout was excellent. Mr. Ray is to be congratulated upon his fine showing. To be champion of such an important organization as the local Golf Club is no empty honour and Mr. Ray deserves the honours he has won.

GROVE SCHOOL WINS FROM T. C. S.

The Grove School at Lakefield defeated the Junior T. C. S. team of Port Hope, on Wednesday, at football by a score of 22 to 21. It was a most exciting match. Near the close of the game Nelles was compelled to leave the field, injured, happily not seriously.

Rev. Dr. Rigby accompanied the Port Hope boys to Lakefield.

Sporting Comment

The Examiner has received a programme of the races to be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Harrier Club, of Port Hope, on Friday, Nov. 6th.

MR. LAWLESS RETURNS FROM BOBCAYGEON

To Become Proprietor Again of the Lakefield House.

Mr. A G Lawless, who has been conducting the Rockland House, Bobcaygeon, for the past year, returned to the village last week and took charge of the Lakefield House, having disposed of his Bobcaygeon business. Mr. F. Gray had been conducting the Lakefield House very successfully for Mr. Lawless.—Lakefield News.

AN INTERESTING ADDRESS WAS GIVEN

Rev. Dr. Harris Gave an Address on the Subject "Exodus," Last Night.

There was a large attendance at St. Paul's Church last night when Rev. Dr. Harris, of Toronto, delivered the second of his series of addresses on the "Bible," which he is giving under the auspices of the local Y. W. C. A. Dr. Harris gave a most interesting and instructive address on "Exodus," which he characterized as one of the most important books of the Bible. He dealt with his subject in an impressive manner and his remarks were followed with deep interest. Rev. Mr. Pogue, of St. Paul's Church, acted as chairman.

In the afternoon a meeting was held in the Y. W. C. A., at which Rev. H. J. Keith, of Knox Church, presided. The subject of Rev. Dr. Harris' address was "Ephesians."

Apple Crop Proves Very Slim—Shipping To Peterborough.

The steamer Monarch is busy towing grain and potatoes from Rice Lake to the city. A gentleman from Gore's Landing this morning told an Examiner reporter that there is a large crop of potatoes in that part of the country and they are of fine quality. The townships along the lake are noted for the potatoes they grow. This year the apple crop is very poor and has fallen off almost entirely.

FOSTER MAKES REPLY.

Answers Graft Charge With Big Pre-Election Play.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—A writ claiming $50,000 damages for slander against Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Globe, has been issued on behalf of Hon. G. E. Foster.

Formal notice that writ for libel will issue was served on The Globe yesterday. The writ will name $100,000 as the amount claimed.

This is Hon. G. E. Foster's reply to Mr. Macdonald for having at Orillia on Tuesday night used pretty strong language in referring to Mr. Foster's business relationship with the Union Trust Co., in the matter of commissions, and to The Globe for publishing the same.

Mr. Macdonald was not in the city yesterday, but the writ was placed in the sheriff's hands for service today. The writ was issued by Kingsmill, Hellmuth, Saunders & Torrance.

"The action is quite a personal matter and is entirely aside from politics," said Hon. Mr. Foster yesterday.

The same firm of solicitors is also enquiring into the printed matter which has been put into circulation by various printing companies, and if examination warrants and if the law allows it, these will be prosecuted to the extreme limit of the law for circulating libelous statements.

It is also contemplated to issue a writ against W. H. Shaw for damages for defamation of character in connection with the anonymous letter which Mr. Shaw then read, containing allegations against Mr. Foster which Mr. Piggott of Chatham and others interested have promptly denied.

Brockville, Oct. 23.—At last night's reception to Hon. G. R. Graham, Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Globe, said he had just been informed that Hon. G. E. Foster had entered an action against himself and The Globe for libel.

He then went on and repeated the charges again, and said he was prepared to prove them on the platform and in the courts.

He twitted Mr. Foster for allowing three weeks to pass without taking action, reserving his fireworks for a few days before the election.

"I don't apologize," went on Mr. Macdonald. "I say I am ready to stand by every word I said, and every word I wrote. I will be prepared to meet Mr. Foster, if he ever does come into court." His remarks were received with great applause by the audience.

Tokio's Tribute to Fleet.

Tokio, Oct. 23.—The reception to the officers and men of the American battleship fleet reached a climax last night in a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm, in which 50,000 of the populace participated.

A torchlight procession, arranged as a surprise, was the concluding feature of the day. In the line were dozens of bands of music and a corps of buglers from the Japanese army and naval stations. The bands united in playing the American National Hymn again and again.

CONSULT OUR OPTICIAN

The Eye is such a delicate organ that it should never be trifled with. This is why our optician has followed the teachings of only recognized authorities on the eye.

Many opticians take half a dozen or more correspondent courses costing from $7.50 to $25. With this limited knowledge it is little wonder that many are wearing glasses that do not suit them—others that do not require them.

If you have eye-trouble you should consult an optician who has a thorough knowledge of every branch of the optical business. Such a man is our Mr. Taylor.

Liberal Majority Will Be 65

A careful review of the progress of the campaign, consulting sources of information of fair impartiality, shows an even stronger support for the government than had been anticipated. The probable result in the provinces is given as follows:

Province	Liberals	Others
Quebec	55	10
Ontario	39	47
New Brunswick	10	3
Nova Scotia	13	5
Prince Edward Island	2	2
Manitoba	6	4
Saskatchewan	8	2
Alberta	4	3
British Columbia	5	2
	143	78

The new House of Commons will consist of 221 members, thus giving the Government a majority over all oppositionists, of sixty-five. It is our belief that the showing in this province will be even more favorable than here presented, but at all events it is satisfactory to contemplate that the career of progress of the country, is not to be interrupted by any possible succession to office of the band of incompetents and scandal mongers who have in this election been seeking to take the place of statesmen at the head of our affairs.

Conservative Meeting at Bridgenorth

Peterborough Delegation Succeeds in Sensibly Disgusting The Electors.

The Conservative candidate held a meeting last evening at Bridgenorth, which was presided over by Mr. R. Scott, Reeve of Smith. The speakers of the occasion included Mr. Burnham, Mr. James Kendry, T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., and Mr. E. A. Peck. The main feature of the occasion was the fact that no political issue was presented to the attention of the audience, but instead, the speakers confined themselves to personal abuse of Mr. Stratton, in which Mr. Kendry in particular distinguished himself. The character of his speech evidently marked displeasure among the audience, the majority of whom, including most of the ladies, left the hall before the proceedings were concluded. Even the chairman, Mr. Scott, a sympathizer with Mr. Burnham, was heard to express disgust at the tone of the speakers, the effect of which will undoubtedly be to increase the vote for Mr. Stratton in Smith. Everybody who listened to Mr. Kendry was disgusted. His language was coarse, ungentlemanly, but quite in keeping with his style of argument.

Forest Fires At Fenelon

Falls Threaten The Timber

Examiner Special

Lindsay, Oct. 23.—Forest fires have been raging in the woods north of Fenelon Falls, and in the vicinity of Haliburton. Both of these villages have been in a haze of smoke for the last ten days. Huge damage has been caused by the fires getting into timber limits of lumbermen. The residents of the districts bordering on the fire zone are toiling to put out the fires.

A $1500 Boathouse For Cobourg

Man Being Built At Rice Lake

All the summer visitors at Gore's Landing have returned home for the winter, after closing up their residences. It is understood that there will be considerable building done at the Landing this winter, and next spring. At present Mr. Wallace is building a $1,500 boat house for Mr. Rowe, of Cobourg. The latter has a fine launch and a thoroughly modern house will be prepared for it.

Canadian General Electric

Company Gets Big Contract

It will be welcome news to the citizens of Peterborough to learn that the Canadian General Electric Company has secured a contract of considerable proportions from the Hydro-Electric Commission of the Ontario Government. The contract is for the supplying of electrical equipment and apparatus required by the commission for their transmission line. A Toronto despatch says of it:

Toronto, Oct. 22.—The tender of the Canadian General Electric Company, of Peterborough, and the Canadian Westinghouse Company of Hamilton, all things considered, are the most favourable tenders received. As may be readily understood the equipment and apparatus of these companies are not exactly alike, and in some respects the one excels that of the other and vice versa, and in order, by selection, to get the best results, it looks at present as though the amount which is over one-half a million of dollars should be apportioned between these two companies.

Another meeting of the Hydro-Electric Commission was held to-day, and the above statement was given out.

Legal and other details of the McGuigan contract have been occupying the attention of the commission and Solicitor Lobb for some time past. It is understood they have now been all straightened out and the signing of the contract will follow forthwith.

Work will at once be undertaken by the contractors, and considerable headway will be made this fall before the snow flies.

In response to a general demand by the press and public, and the various municipalities interested, the Hydro-Electric Commission desires to say:

"That the engineers of the company have adjusted the details of the construction of the transmission line with the contractors, the F H McGuigan Construction Company, and work will be commenced at once.

Tenders for the electrical equipment and apparatus required by the commission have been received and are being checked as to their technical details by the engineers of the commission. This is something that requires the utmost care and cannot, in fairness to the people, be rushed through in any haphazard fashion. Although the actual figures cannot be given at present it may be stated that they are considerably below the estimates made by the engineers of the commission for that portion of the work.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS

FULTON'S RENAL COMPOUND

In each the real trouble is INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, hence a cure for one must be a cure for the other. There has been no cure for either.

But many kidney troubled people get well.

True—because inflammation of the kidneys unless severe commonly gets well at first. But if it does not yield early and the inflammation persists, the real trouble begins.

You can see why kidney disease has been incurable and why the deaths have risen to over 170 per day—up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known that would reduce inflammation in the kidney tissues.

The old kidney medicines were a misconception, irritating the inflamed kidneys to renewed efforts instead of allaying the inflammation, some of them being actually harmful. Result—physicians have abandoned them.

No matter whether you call it "kidney trouble," "Nephritis," or "Bright's Disease," if it has been hanging on a few months, recovery can be only hoped for through this specific. It has a proven efficiency in nearly 87 per cent. of all cases. It is the only thing known, that controls inflammation in the kidneys, which is the real difficulty with kidney troubled people.

AFTER MANY YEARS OF STUDY AND SACRIFICE THE WRIGHTS APPEAR TO HAVE PERFECTED A FLYING MACHINE THAT MAY BE PRACTICABLE

Young Aeronauts' Long Quest For Success—Interesting Story of Their Efforts When the World Called Them Cranks.

STORY OF THEIR EFFORTS

Although there have been occasionally more or less successful flights with machines heavier than air for several years back, it is probably fair to say that the aeroplane experiments of the last seven days have been more convincing to the public at large, always sceptical as to the practicability of aerial navigation, than all the efforts of the preceding years put together.

The heroes of the week have been the two young Americans, Orville and Wilbur Wright, one flying in his aeroplane at Fort Myer, Va., before a committee of army men, and the other at Le Mans, France, in a similarly-constructed machine. A few years ago the Wrights were regarded, except by a few privileged witnesses, as belonging to the imaginative class of cranks devoting their time to a dream; when Orville Wright remained in the air for two minutes more than one hour at Fort Myer on Wednesday of this week, and increased the time to 65 minutes on Thursday, achieving at times a speed of nearly a mile a minute, he was hailed far and wide as the foremost living aeronaut, with a genuine solution of the problem that had baffled scientists through the ages.

So much has been written about the Wrights, silent and modest though they have been about their studies of the air, that it is hard to separate the true from the fanciful. One fact, however, stands out in regard to their success: It has been the result of careful scientific investigation, tireless zeal in the face of apparently insurmountable difficulties, and not the caprice of luck or the outcome of dare-devilry. The Wrights are students, not adventurers. Their profession, which began as their pastime, has been pursued with serious aim, disregard for heroics and indifference to public clamour for spectacular races and fancy exhibitions. To-day the governments of the world are clamoring for an opportunity to get their ideas.

Recently in taking out patents in France the brothers made public most of the detail measurements and devices of their machine, but they say they have no fear of an appropriation of the designs, on the theory that they have retained in their heads enough technical knowledge of the invention to render its successful copying impossible for anyone who has not given the same years of hard study to the subject that they have given.

Work in Their Bicycle Shop

In appearance, Orville and Wilbur Wright would pass for merchants or clerks in some inland city, and that approximates what they were before their entrance into the flying field. The sons of a bishop of the United Brethren Church, with no inherited means, they used to have a bicycle shop. As boys they had been fond of mechanics, and they drifted into that line of work in the course of the bicycle craze. In their shop at Dayton, O., they made a good living, mostly at repair work. They built bicycles, too, buying the standard pieces from large factories and putting them together.

From childhood they had experimented with kites, but there had been no thought of seriously studying aviation until twelve years ago. Beginning their investigations on a small scale, with the perusal of all the books on the subject as a starter until they were familiar with the achievements of Lilienthal, Mouillard, Chanute, Prof. Langley, Sir Hiram Maxim and the other would-be air navigators in the aeroplane division, they finally undertook to make a flying machine. That was when they still made bicycles. Since then they have built many aeroplanes, each an improvement on the other.

One must hear the Wrights describe their slow progress in order to realize the hugeness of their task.

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

Last week we took a casual glance at the life and writings of Caedmon, and this week we must take a leap over a couple of centuries to one of the greatest names in English history, that of King Alfred.

Alfred was a great warrior and statesman. He was also the translator of several Latin works, chief among them being Bede's History of the Anglo-Saxon Church, and Boethius on the Consolation of Philosophy. It is not necessary to descant at length on the lives of either Alfred, Bede or Boethius. Everyone knows the story of King Alfred. Everyone also knows the story of the venerable Bede, who bears the proud title of the Father of English History. Of Boethius less is known. We know that he was a Roman of gentle birth, and was born about 476 A.D. We also know that he was prominent in public life and high in the counsels of King Theodoric. Like many another celebrity of those days, however, he was not proof against the shafts of slander. He was imprisoned on a charge of treason, and beheaded in A.D. 525. It was while he was immured in jail that he wrote his celebrated treatise, De Consolatione Philosophiae.

The name of King Alfred has shone through the centuries with ever-increasing lustre. Living in an age of semi-savage ideas and prejudices, Alfred seems to have possessed a mind of twentieth century refinement. He was a warrior from necessity rather than choice, and a student and writer from both choice and necessity. Laws had to be made for the people. They had likewise to be taught the principles of self-government and culture. The King set himself sedulously to the task and by his own personal writings and the importation of scholars from France, aided largely in the material and moral uplifting of this people.

About the same time, strange to relate, Count Fulk the Red, was attempting the same thing in Anjou. He must have been an uncompromising type of man, for when King Louis D'Outremer, scoffed at him for his learning and piety, the Count made the retort that he looked upon "a King unlearned as a crowned ass," which was, perhaps, not the most courteous way of replying to a monarch. The mention of Alfred and Fulk the Red, serves to show that kings and rulers even at that day had begun to recognize that they possessed no "right divine" "to govern wrong."

Middle Age Literature.

"The literature of England, as indeed of all Europe, lay, during the earlier and central periods of the middle ages, in the hands of the Minstrels and the Monks—The Minstrel, roaming through the land, sang ballads of love and war; the Monk sat in his dim-lit cell penning tomes of unreadable theology, very useless logic or dry, but valuable, history, and varying these stormer labours with the graceful task of copying and illuminating the manuscripts which then held the place of our printed volumes.

There was no more honoured guest than the Minstrel, whose time of triumph came, when the rough, substantial supper had vanished before the hungry hunters and their dogs, and the cups of mead or wine, began to circle round the hall. Mimicry and action accompanied the music and the song. And as the wine fumes mounted to the brain, and the wild torrent of melody drove their pulses into madder flow, the battle day seemed to come again. War cries rang through the smoky hall and in the ruddy light, which streamed from crackling logs or flaring pine-knots, flushed brows grew a darker red, and hands veined as if with whip-cord clutched fiercely at knife or bill-hook, and wheeled the weapon in flashing circles through the air. Love, too, was the Minstrel's theme; and here the power of his song struck even deeper to those simple hearts than when he sang of war, although the eye gleamed with another light, and the sterner war shout faded into gentler tones."

Sir John De Mandeville

There was no work in rhyme or metre in our literature until after the Norman conquest, and Geoffrey Chaucer holds the distinction of being the first poet to place his words in rhyme.

Before we come to Chaucer, however there is one author at least who deserves something more than passing mention.

Sir John de Mandeville may be regarded as the first of English globe-trotters. His account of his travels affords most curious reading. Although it abounds in absurdities it is interesting to the lover of literature and history as presenting a clear picture of the ideas prevalent in mediaeval times regarding the countries of the East. A few extracts from his work will prove pleasant, though perhaps not highly instructive reading.

"At Constantinople . . . within the Church of St. Sophia an emperor once would have buried the body of his father, when he was dead, and as they made the grave they found a body in the earth, and upon the body lay a fine plate of gold, on which was written in Hebrew, Greek and Latin letters that said thus: 'Jesus Christ shall be born of the Virgin Mary, and I believe in Him.' And the date when it was laid in the earth was 2,000 years before our Saviour was born. The plate of gold is still preserved in the treasury of the church. And they say it was Hermogenes, the wise man."

"At Joppa. . . . . there may still be seen in the rock the place where the iron chains were fastened, wherewith Andromeda, a great giant, was bound and put in prison before Noah's flood; a rib of whose side, which is forty feet long, is still shown."

"At Cairo. . . . . they keep a house covered with horse dung and in this they put eggs of hens, geese, ducks or any other fowl, and at the end of three weeks or a month they come again and take their chickens and nourish them and bring them forth, so that the country is full of them. And this they do there both winter and summer."

Surely the prototype of the much-lauded incubator!

"In the Dead Sea. . . . . if a man cast iron therein, it will float on the surface, but if a man cast a feather therein it will sink to the bottom; and these are things contrary to nature."

"Mount Ararat . . . . . where Noah's ark rested, and still is upon the mountain; and men see it afar in clear weather."

In regard to this point justice must be done to Sir John Mandeville, for he goes on to say that he doesn't believe this statement.

"The Island of Chana, which contains many lions, with rats as great as dogs, which they take with great mastiffs, for cats cannot take them."

It would take too great space to make more extracts. It will be enough to say that our worthy historian writes of snails so large that men may lodge in their shells, of the men of the Isle of Truceda, who live in caves and hiss like serpents; of the women and women of the Isle of Naumera, who have dog's heads; of the Island of Silha, which has a lake made by the tears of Adam and eve; of the Island of Dondun, where the people have but one eye, and that in their foreheads, and of another isle to the south, where the people have no heads but possess eyes in their shoulders, and of yet another isle where the inhabitants have lips so large that when they sleep in the sun they use them as canopies, and of another where the people's ears hang down to their knees, and of another where they have horse's feet, and of another where they have feathers.

Our historian has much to say of Presbyter John, and of the great magnificence of his Eastern Kingdom. But enough has been quoted to show the extravagances which are embodied in the volume.

Prester or Presbyter John has been supposed to be either one of the princes of India or Abyssinia. Sir John de Mandeville was born at St. Alban's about 1300, and died at Liege, Belgium.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 666 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. An Exchange of Compliments.

Judge Charles P. Daly of New York was a charming conversationalist as well as a model citizen and an accomplished jurist. He met the Duke of Wellington ones, and the duke remarked to him that he seemed too young to be on the bench.

"I owe my position," replied Judge Daly, "to one of those accidents of fortune to which your grace owes so little."

"I recall my criticism," said the duke grimly. "You are doubtless where you belong."

Misdirected Charity.

She—Papa has given $50,000 to establish a home for old men. Wasn't that awfully good of him? He—Yes. But it would have been a whole lot better if he'd given half that sum to establish a home for you and a certain young man I could name.—Exchange.

Jupiter and Lightning.

Among the ancients, especially the Greeks and Romans, one struck dead by lightning was held in great honor. The supreme deity in the Greek and Roman religions, Zeus or Jupiter, was supposed to be the manipulator of the lightning, and the person struck down by one of the fiery bolts was especially distinguished, inasmuch as he had been felled directly by the king of the gods. The dignity of the killer was reflected upon the killed. In addition to this, the opinion was quite universal that the bodies of those struck by lightning were incorruptible.

The Practical Parent.

"Father," said the poetical youth, "let us go into the autumn woods and read the lesson of the trees."

"That's just what I was about to suggest," said the old man, "an' we'll take a couple of axes along an' cut down a few o' them same trees an' split 'em into kindlin' wood for cold weather purposes!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Why He Drowned.

Describing the stringent police regulations of Berlin, a citizen of that city by way of illustration told the following story:

"Schmidt and Krauss met one morning in the park.

"'Have you heard,' says Schmidt, 'the sad news about Muller?'

"'No,' says Krauss. 'What is it?'

"'Well, poor Muller went boating on the river yesterday. The boat capsized, and he was drowned. The water was ten feet deep.'

"'But couldn't he swim?'

"'Swim? Don't you know that all persons are strictly forbidden by the police to swim in the river.'"

LYDIA E.
PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

No other medicine for Woman's ills in the world has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

No other medicine has such a record of success for woman's diseases, or such hosts of grateful friends as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for feminine ills, Inflammation, Ulceration, and consequent Spinal Weakness.

It has relieved more cases of Backache and Local Weaknesses than any other one remedy. It dissolves and expels tumors in an early stage of development.

Irregularities and periodic pains, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility, quickly yield to it; also deranged organs, causing pain, dragging sensations and backache. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the female system.

It removes that wearing feeling, extreme lassitude, "don't care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, dizziness, faintness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy or the "blues." These are indications of Feminine disorders, which this medicine overcomes as well as slight derangement of the Kidneys of either sex.

Women who are sick and want to get well should refuse to accept any substitute for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

McNamara's distress was patent to his antagonist, who advanced upon him with the hunger of premised victory, but the young man's muscles obeyed his commands sluggishly; his ribs seemed broken, his back was weak, and on the inner side of his legs the flesh was quivering. As they came together the boss reached up his right hand and caught the miner by the face, burying thumb and fingers crablike into his cheeks, forcing his slack jaws apart, thrusting his head backward, while he centered every ounce of his strength in the effort to maim. Roy felt the flesh giving way and flung himself backward to break the hold, whereupon the other summoned his wasting energy and plunged toward the safe, where lay the revolver. Instinct warned Glenister of treachery, told him that the man had sought this last resource to save himself, and as he saw him turn his back and reach for the weapon the youth leaped like a panther, seizing him about the waist, grasping McNamara's wrist with his right hand. For the first time during the combat they were not face to face, and on the instant Roy realized the advantage given him through the other's perfidy, realized the wrestler's hold that was his and knew that the moment of victory was come.

The telling takes much time, but so quickly had these things happened that the footsteps of the soldiers had not yet reached the door when the men were locked beside the safe.

Of what happened next many garbled accounts have gone forth, for of all those present none but the Bronco Kid knew its significance and ever recounted the truth concerning it. Some claim that the younger man was seized with a fear of death which multiplied his enormous strength, others that the power died in his adversary as reward for his treason, but it was not so.

No sooner had Roy encompassed McNamara's waist from the rear than he slid his damaged hand up past the other's chest and around the back of his neck, thus bringing his own left arm close under his enemy's left armpit, wedging the receiver's head forward, while with his other hand he grasped the politician's right wrist close to the revolver, thus holding him in a grasp which could not be broken. Now came the test. The two bodies set themselves rockribb and rigid. There was no lunging about. Calling up the final atom of his strength, Glenister bore backward with his right arm, and it became a contest for the weapon, which, clutched in the two hands, swayed back and forth or darted up and down, the fury of resistance causing it to trace formless patterns in the air with its muzzle. McNamara shook himself, but he was close against the safe and could not escape, his head bowed forward by the lock of the miner's left arm, and so he strained till the breath clogged in his throat. Despite the grievous toil his right hand moved back slightly. His feet shifted a bit, while the blood seemed bursting from his eyes, but he found that the long fingers encircling his wrist were like gyves weighted with the strength of the hills and the irresistible vigor of youth which knew no defeat. Slowly, inch by inch, the great man's arm was dragged back, down past his side, while the strangling labor of his breath showed at what awful cost. The muzzle of the gun described a semicircle and the knotted hands began to travel toward the left, more rapidly now, across his broad back. Still he struggled and wrenched, but uselessly. He strove to fire the weapon, but his fingers were woven about it so that the hammer would not work. Then the miner began forcing upward.

The white skin beneath the men's strips of clothing was stretched over great knots and ridges which sunk and swelled and quivered. Helen, watching in silent terror, felt her brother sinking his fingers into her shoulder and heard him panting, his face ablaze with excitement, while she became conscious that he had repeated time and again:

By now McNamara's arm was bent and cramped upon his back, and then they saw Glenister's shoulder dip, his elbow come closer to his side, and his body heave in one final terrific effort as though pushing a heavy weight. In the silence something snapped like a stick. There came a deafening report and the scream of a strong man overcome with agony. McNamara went to his knees and sagged forward on to his face as though every bone in his huge bulk had turned to water, while his master reeled back against the opposite wall, his heels dragging in the litter, bringing up with outflung arms as though fearful of falling, swaying, blind, exhausted, his face blackened by the explosion of the revolver, yet grim with the light of victory.

"Arrest that man, quick! Don't let him go!"

It was the miner's first realization that others were there. Raising his head he stared at the faces close against the partition, then groaned the words:

"I beat the traitor and—and—I broke him with—my hands!"

CHAPTER XXII.

SOLDIERS seized the young man, who made no offer at resistance, and the room became a noisy riot. Crowds surged up from below, clamoring, questioning, till some one at the head of the stairs shouted down:

"They've got Roy Glenister. He's killed McNamara," at which a murmur arose that threatened to become a cheer.

Then one of the receiver's faction called, "Let's hang him. He killed ten of our men last night." Helen winced, but Stillman, roused to a sort of malevolent courage, quieted the angry voices.

"Officer, hold these people back. I'll attend to this man. The law's in my hands and I'll make him answer."

McNamara reared himself, groaning, from the floor, his right arm swinging from the shoulder strangely loose and distorted, with palm twisted outward, while his battered face was hideous with pain and defeat. He growled broken maledictions at his enemy.

Roy meanwhile said nothing, for as the savage lust died in him he realized that the whirling faces before him were the faces of his enemies, that the Bronco Kid was still at large and that his vengeance was but half completed. His knees were bending; his limbs were like leaden bars, his chest a furnace of coals. As he reeled down the lane of human forms, supported by his guards, he came abreast of the girl and her companion and paused, clearing his vision slowly.

"Ah, there you are!" he said thickly to the gambler and began to wrestle with his captors, baring his teeth in a grimace of painful effort, but they held him as easily as though he were a child and drew him forward, his body sagging limply, his face turned back over his shoulder.

They had him near the door when Wheaton barred their way, crying: "Hold up a minute! It's all right, Roy"—

"Aye, Bill—it's all right. We did our—best, but we were done by a damned blackguard. Now, he'll send me up, but I don't care. I broke him—with my naked hands. Didn't I, McNamara?" He mocked unsteadily at the boss, who cursed aloud in return, glowering like an evil mask, while Stillman ran up, dishevelled and shrilly irascible.

"Take him away, I tell you! Take him to jail!"

But Wheaton held his place, while the room centered its eyes upon him, scenting some unexpected denouement. He saw it, and, in concession to a natural vanity and dramatic instinct, he threw back his head and stuffed his hands into his coat pockets, while the crowd waited. He grinned insolently at the judge and the receiver.

"This will be a day of defeats and disappointments to you, my friends. That boy won't go to jail because you will wear the shackles yourselves. Oh, you played a shrewd game, you two, with your senators, your politics and your pulls, but it's our turn now, and we'll make you dance for the mines you gutted and the robberies you've done and the men you've ruined. Thank heaven, there's one honest court, and I happened to find it." He turned to the strangers who had accompanied him from the ship, crying, "Serve those warrants," and they stepped forward.

The uproar of the past few minutes had brought men running from every direction till, finding no room on the stairs, they had massed in the street below while the word flew from lip to lip concerning this closing scene of their drama, the battle of the Midas, the great fight upstairs and the arrest by the 'Frisco deputies. Like Sindbad's genie, a wondrous tale took shape from the rumors. Men shouldered one another eagerly for a glimpse of the actors, and when the press streamed out, greeted it with volleys of questions. They saw the unconscious marshal borne forth, followed by the old judge, now a palsied wretch, slinking beside his captor, a w shell of a man at whom they jeered. When McNamara lurched into view, an image of defeat and chagrin, their voices rose menacingly. The pack was turning and he knew it, but, though racked and crippled, he bent upon them a visage so full of defiance and contemptuous malignity that they hushed themselves, and their final picture of him was that of a big man downed, but unbeaten to the last. They began to cry for Glenister, so that when he loomed in the doorway, a ragged, heroic figure, his heavy shock low over his eyes, his unshaven face aggressive even in its weariness, his corded arms and chest bare beneath the fluttering streamers, the street broke into wild cheering. Here was a man of their own, a son of the northland who labored and loved and fought in a way they understood, and he had come into his due.

But Roy, dumb and listless, staggered up the street, refusing the help of every man except Wheaton. He heard his companion talking, but grasped only that the attorney gloated and gloried.

"We have whipped them, boy. We have whipped them at their own game. Arrested in their very dooryards—cited for contempt of court—that's what they are. They disobeyed those other writs, and so I got them."

"I broke his arm," muttered the miner.

"Yes, I saw you do it! Ugh! It was an awful thing! I couldn't prove conspiracy, but they'll go to jail for a little while just the same, and we have broken the ring."

"It snapped at the shoulder," the other continued dully, "just like a shovel handle. I felt it—but he tried to kill me, and I had to do it."

The attorney took Roy to his cabin and dressed his wounds, talking incessantly the while, but the boy was like a sleep walker, displaying no elation, no excitement, no joy of victory. At last Wheaton broke out:

"Cheer up! Why, man, you act like a loser! Don't you realize that we've won? Don't you understand that the Midas is yours? And the whole world with it?"

"Won?" echoed the miner. "What do you know about it, Bill? The Midas—the world—what good are they? You're wrong. I've lost—yes—I've lost everything she taught me, and by some damned trick of fate she was there to see me do it. Now, go away; I want to sleep."

He sank upon the bed with its tangle of blankets and was unconscious before the lawyer had covered him over.

"We'll make you dance for the mines you gutted."

There he lay like a dead man till late in the afternoon, when Dextry and Slapjack came in from the hills, answering Wheaton's call, and fell upon him hungrily. They shook Roy into consciousness with joyous riot, commeling him with affectionate roughness till he rose and joined with them stiffly. He bathed and rubbed the soreness from his muscles, emerging physically fit. They made him recount his adventures to the tiniest detail, following his description of the fight with absorbed interest till Dextry broke into mournful complaint:

"I'd have given my half of the Midas to see you bust him. Lord, I'd have screeched with soopreme delight at that."

"Why didn't you gouge his eyes out when you had him crippled?" questioned Slapjack vindictively. "I'd 'a' done it."

Dextry continued: "They tell me that when he was arrested he swore in eighteen different languages, each one more refreshin'ly repulsive an' vig'rous than the precedin'. Oh, I have sure missed a-plenty today, partic'lar because my own diction is gettin' run down an' skim milky of late, showin' sad lack of new ideas, which I might have assim'lated somethin' robustly original an' expressive if I'd been here. No, sir; a nose bag full of nuggets wouldn't have kept me away."

"How did it sound when she busted?" insisted the morbid Simms, but Glenister refused to discuss the combat.

"Come on, Slap," said the old prospector; "let's go downtown. I'm so het up I can't set still, an', besides, mebbe we can get the story the way it really happened from somebody who ain't bound an' gagged an' chloroformed by such unbecomin' modesties. Roy, don't never go into vawdyville with them personal episodes, because they read about as thrillin' as a cookbook. Why, say, I've had the story of that fight from four different fellers already, none of which was within four blocks of the scrimmage, an' they're all diff'rent an' all better'n your account."

Now that Glenister's mind had recovered some of its poise he realized what he had done.

"I was a beast, an animal," he groaned, "and that after all my striving. I wanted to leave that part behind. I wanted to be worthy of her love and trust even though I never won it, but at the first test I am found lacking. I have lost her confidence. Yes, and what is worse, infinitely worse, I have lost my own. She's always seen me at my worst," he went on, "but I'm not that kind at bottom—not that kind. I want to do what's right, and if I have another chance I will—I know I will. I've been tried too hard, that's all."

Some one knocked, and he opened the door to admit the Bronco Kid and Helen.

"Wait a minute, old man," said the Kid. "I'm here as a friend." The gambler handled himself with difficulty, offering in explanation:

"I'm all sewed up in bandages of one kind or another."

"He ought to be in bed now, but he wouldn't let me come alone, and I could not wait," the girl supplemented, while her eyes avoided Glenister's in strange hesitation.

"He wouldn't let you. I don't understand."

"I'm her brother," announced the Bronco Kid. "I've known it for a long time, but I—I—well, you understand, I couldn't let her know. All I can say is, I've gambled square till the night I played you, and I was as mad as a dervish then, blaming you for the talk I'd heard. Last night I learned by chance about Struve and Helen and got to the roadhouse in time to save her. I'm sorry I didn't kill him." His long white fingers writhed about the arm of his chair at the memory.

"Isn't he dead?" Glenister inquired.

"No. The doctors have brought him in, and he'll get well. He's like half the men in Alaska—here because the sheriffs back home couldn't shoot straight. There's something else. I'm not a good talker, but give me time and I'll manage it so you'll understand. I tried to keep Helen from coming on this errand, but she said it was the square thing and she knows better than I. It's about those papers she brought in last spring. She was afraid you might consider her a party to the deal, but you don't, do you?" He glared belligerently, and Roy replied with fervor:

"Well, she learned the other day that those documents told the whole story and contained enough proof to break up this conspiracy and convict the judge and McNamara and all the rest, but Struve kept the bundle in his safe and wouldn't give it up without a price. That's why she went away with him. She thought it was right, and—that's all. But it seems Wheaton had succeeded in another way. Now, I'm coming to the point. The judge and McNamara are arrested for contempt of court and they're as good as convicted; you have recovered your mine, and these men are disgraced. They will go to jail"—

"Yes, for six months, perhaps," broke in the other hotly, "but what does that amount to? There never was a bolder crime consummated nor one more cruelly unjust. They robbed a realm and pillaged its people, they defiled a court and made justice a wanton, they jailed good men and sent others to ruin; and for this they are to suffer—how? By a paltry fine or a short imprisonment, perhaps, by an ephemeral disgrace and the loss of their stolen goods. Contempt of court is the accusation, but you might as well convict a murderer for breach of the peace. We've thrown them off, it's true, and they won't trouble us again, but they'll never have to answer for their real infamy. That will go unpunished while their lawyers quibble over technicalities and rules of court. I guess it's time that there isn't any law of God or man north of fifty-three; but if there is justice south of that mark, those people will answer for conspiracy and go to the penitentiary."

"You make it hard for me to say what I want to. I am almost sorry we came, for I am not cunning with words, and I don't know that you'll understand," said the Bronco Kid gravely. "We looked at it this way: you have had your victory, you have beaten your enemies against odds, you have recovered your mine, and they are disgraced. To men like them that last will outlive and outweigh all the rest; but the judge is our uncle and our blood runs in his veins. He took Helen when she was a baby and was a father to her in his selfish way, loving her as best he knew how. And she loves him."

"I don't quite understand you," said Roy.

And then Helen spoke for the first time eagerly, taking a packet from her bosom as she began:

"This will tell the whole wretched story, Mr. Glenister, and show the plot in all its vileness. It's hard for me to betray my uncle, but this proof is yours by right to use as you see fit, and I can't keep it."

"Do you mean that this evidence will show all that? And you're going to give it to me because you think it is your duty?"

"It belongs to you. I have no choice. But what I came for was to plead and ask a little mercy for my uncle, who is an old, old man, and very weak. This will kill him."

He saw that her eyes were swimming, while the little chin quivered ever so slightly and her pale cheeks were flushed. There rose in him the old wild desire to take her in his arms, a yearning to pillow her head on his shoulder and kiss away the tears, to smooth with tender caress the wavy hair and bury his face deep in it till he grew drunk with the madness of her. But he knew at last for whom she really pleaded.

So he was to forswear this vengeance, which was no vengeance after all, but in verity a just punishment. They asked him—a man—a man's man—a northman—to do this, and for what? For no reward, but on the contrary to insure himself lasting bitterness. He strove to look at the proposition calmly, clearly, but it was difficult. If only by freeing this other villain as well as her uncle he would do a good to her, then he would not hesitate. Love was not the only thing. He marveled at his own attitude. This could not be his old self debating thus. He had asked for another chance to show that he was not the old Roy Glenister. Well, it had come, and he was ready.

Roy dared not look at Helen any more, for this was the hardest moment he had ever lived.

.THE WHOLE YEAR ROUND.

Women Everywhere Use Pe-ru-na.

Suffered With Stomach.

Mrs. John Underwood, 530 W. Walnut St., Columbus, Ohio, writes:

"Having had catarrh and stomach trouble and having suffered very much, after being doctored a long while, as a last resort took Peruna. The result was wonderful. I would highly recommend it as a good remedy. I still use Peruna and would not be without it. I always have it in the house."

Catarrh and Stomach Trouble.

Mrs. T. Frech, R. R. No. 1, Hickory Flat, Tenn., writes:

"I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. I have followed your good kind advice faithfully. I bless the day when I wrote you of my condition, and I will always praise Peruna. I think it is one of the grandest medicines on earth.

"Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach trouble for seven years and after having tried four different doctors they only relieved me for a little while. I gave up all hope of being cured. I only weighed 130 pounds, and was so weak I could hardly get around the room.

"I was induced to try Peruna, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My weight is now 188 pounds, my health never was better in my life.

Thousands of families have learned the use of Peruna and its value in the treatment of catarrhal ailments.

Tired, Worn-Out Mothers.

Mrs. Lydia H. Josselyn, 501 Westminster St., Providence, R. I., is Treasurer of the Editors League of Rhode Island, chartered in Providence. She writes:

"My experience with Peruna has been most gratifying. Last winter I contracted a severe cold, and for several days I coughed until my voice failed me. When other remedies did me no good, I decided to try Peruna, and within four days the cold was broken up, and the cough abated.

"Within another week an increase in my usual strength and vitality told me that Peruna was doing all that it promised, and more. I also consider it very superior for tired, worn-out mothers, and have advised several to try it, and have seen most gratifying results from its use.

"I give it highest praise."

Bowel Trouble.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 1332 North St., Little Rock, Ark., writes:

"I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels.

"One doctor said he could cure me. I took his medicine two months. But it did me no good.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well.

"I can recommend Peruna to any one, and if any one wants to know what Peruna did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly."

Peruna is a household remedy of great merit, and is useful in many climatic ailments, such as coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis and catarrhal diseases generally.

Biliousness, Indigestion.

Mrs. Lena R. Moudy, 558 Caywood St., Portland, Oregon, Sec'y Royal Tribe of Joseph, writes:

"For the past six years biliousness and pains in my back and limbs made life miserable to me. My skin was sallow and dry, and indigestion was added to my troubles. I was wakeful at night and would get a weak, faint feeling during the day so that I was not fitted to attend to my regular duties. This caused me serious annoyance and trouble, and I naturally tried many remedies, hoping to get relief.

"Peruna came as a friend in need. It toned up the system, relieved the blood of the poisons and induced a healthy action of the stomach, a fine appetite and restful sleep.

"Within three months I was a changed person, and for nearly a year now I have enjoyed splendid health."

A Grateful Patient.

Mrs. Elisa J. Casee, R. F. D. 8, Bedford, Ind., writes: "I have been cured by using Peruna and Manalin. I thank you for your advice."

Restorer of Lost Strength.

Miss Bessie Farrell, 1011 Third Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., is President of the Young People's Christian Temperance Association. She writes:

"Peruna is certainly a valuable nerve and blood remedy, calculated to build up the broken-down health of worn-out women. I have found by personal experience that it acts as a wonderful restorer of lost strength, assisting the stomach to assimilate and digest the food, and building up worn-out tissues. In my work I have had occasion to recommend it frequently, especially to sick women.

"I know of nothing which is better to build up the strength of a young mother, in fact all the ailments peculiar to women, so I am pleased to give it my hearty endorsement."

Pe-ru-na a Woman's Friend.

Mrs. Ella Embree, Clark, Mo., writes: "I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I can truthfully say that Peruna is a woman's friend. I have no more terrible pains and am stronger than I have been. Your medicine has worked like a charm."

Severe Headache.

Mrs. Emily Kellogg, 4649 S. Lawrence St., South Tacoma, Wash., member of Ladies of the Maccabees, writes:

"Three months ago I had an attack of biliousness which threatened to undermine my health and strength. Luckily for me, I tried Peruna at the suggestion of my friends before it was too late.

"I found in a few days time that I did not have the usual sick headache, neither did food nauseate me any longer. In two weeks' time Peruna had completely rid my system of the poison and bile, and I was in a much better condition. My skin assumed its normal color, I had a splendid appetite, and I was in every way improved in health. I used Peruna for a month longer, and it wrought a wondrous change in my entire system. I consider it a most wonderful medicine."

Nervous Dyspepsia.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, 61 Marchant St., Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with cramps in the stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors. They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months. I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again. I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial. I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken nineteen bottles and am entirely cured. Have gained in strength and flesh and feel like a different person.

"I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Catarrh of Head.

Mrs. Joseph Vittur, 3709 Erie St., Austin Sta., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"Your medicine, Peruna, was of great benefit to me. I suffered with catarrh of the nose and head for many years. Three bottles of Peruna cured me, after I had considered it impossible to ever be cured again.

"I now always keep Peruna in the house, and recommend it to every one suffering from catarrh. As soon as one of my children commence to cough I give them Peruna and their cough is soon gone.

Pe-ru-na the Family Doctor.

Mrs. M. E. Seymour, R. F. D. 2, Bowman, Ga., writes:

"I am ready to speak a few words in favor of Peruna and Manalin. I have tried them for nearly every ill of life for myself and family, and find them to be all the doctor claims them to be. Peruna cured me of internal trouble when my doctor could not.

"My advice to all suffering women is, consult Dr. Hartman. What he has done for me he will do for you."

Headaches, Weakness.

Mlle. Albina Chauvin, No. 50 Rue Agnes, St. Henri, Montreal, Canada, writes that she considers Peruna better than any other remedy, as it cured her when nothing else could. She suffered for years with heart trouble, headaches and weakness. She tried Peruna. One bottle produced a change. She took six bottles and is entirely cured.

Plows in Spain.

In Spain about the only kind of plow in use is a primitive wooden affair with one handle and a tongue. To this is hitched a pair of small oxen or mules yoked up like oxen. The driver rests his right foot on a rear extension to keep the plow from jumping out of the ground, steadying himself by touching his left foot when about to lose his balance.

Frogskin.

The Dangerous Akke.

The most beautiful of West Indian fruits is the akke, a bright scarlet globe. It is good to eat, but before it is ripe it contains enough prussic acid to kill a man.

Turkish Heiresses.

Chicken Salad.

Sliced cold chicken arranged on lettuce leaves, sprinkled with minced celery and dressed with oil and vinegar or mayonnaise makes an easily prepared and delicious salad. If mayonnaise is used the slices of the meat should be marinated with French dressing.

NO MORE HEADACHES

Suffered From Constant Headaches—Cured by "Fruit-a-tives" When Doctors Failed.

"I was a sufferer from fearful headaches for over two years, sometimes they were so bad that I was unable to work for days at a time. I took all kinds of medicines, was treated by physicians, and yet the headaches persisted. I was rarely free from headache. A short time ago I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I did so with, I must confess, very little faith, but after I had taken them for three days my headaches were easier and in a week they left me. After I had taken a box of the tablets my headaches were quite cured. My appetite was always poor and my stomach bad, and now my appetite is splendid and my digestion is excellent. I had become thin and weak from the constant headaches, but now not only have I been cured of all these awful headaches, but my strength is growing up once more, and I feel like a new man. I have taken in all three boxes of "Fruit-a-tives." I am exceedingly grateful to "Fruit-a-tives" for curing me, and I give this unsolicited testimonial with great pleasure, as I hope thereby some other sufferer of headaches will be induced to try "Fruit-a-tives" and will be cured."

"Fruit-a-tives" is now put up in the new 25c trial size as well as the regular 50c boxes. Write Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, if your dealer will not supply you.

A GIRL and A RING.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"I will ride Black Dan, Jenkins," said Peggy calmly.

"Yes, miss," replied Jenkins, disappearing in the direction of the stables.

Holcomb frowned and prepared to follow in the wake of the groom.

"Of course you know you can't ride Black Dan, Peggy," he said impatiently. "He has thrown you twice, and I have said no woman shall mount him again. Any other horse in the stables"—

"Thank you," said Peggy coldly. "I don't care to ride any other horse. You are such an old granny, Bob!"

"Shall I order Pretty Girl?" asked Holcomb patiently.

"No. I have ordered Black Dan," she replied defiantly.

"I must countermand the order, Peggy. No woman shall ride him with my permission," said Bob stiffly.

Peggy's eyes flashed ominously, and her pretty lips stiffened into a straight line. "If you countermand my order, Bob Holcomb," she flashed angrily, "you may"— She choked back a little sob.

"What?"

"You may keep the ring you were going to give me," finished Peggy remorselessly.

"Do you mean it?" he asked, coming closer to her and looking down into her wide gray eyes.

"Yes," said Peggy hardily.

Holcomb turned away with a little droop of his broad shoulders. "Nevertheless, Peggy, I must countermand the order," he said gravely. Then he went down the steps and disappeared through the stable gateway.

Peggy Linwood stared after him with hot cheeks and flashing eyes. Her little brown hands tightened their grasp on the arms of the low chair. "I'm very glad I broke it off," she thought mechanically. "Fancy being married to a man with such a nasty temper as Bob Holcomb! What a fool I was to fall in love with him!"

She sped upstairs to the chints sitting room, where her mother sat before a cozy fire. "Mother, dear, let us go home at once," she began abruptly. "I can't stay in Bob Holcomb's house another minute!" She sank breathlessly on the couch.

Mrs. Linwood adjusted her glasses and looked quizzically at her daughter. "We mustn't spoil Bob's house party, dear," she said mildly. "I told him we would stay until Monday, and we must do so. Have you quarreled with him, Peggy?"

"Yes," said Peggy shortly.

"What about? Was it worth while?"

"I'd rather not tell, mother," admitted Peggy guiltily.

"Oh, well!" Mrs. Linwood smiled furtively into her book. "If I were going to quarrel, Peggy, dear, I wouldn't wear that brown dress. You know it is so unbecoming, and when a woman disagrees with a man she should wear her prettiest frock. Now, the blue linen"—

But Peggy had flown out of the room and was anxiously surveying herself in the cheval glass in her own pretty apartment. "Mother's right," she sighed miserably. "I look a fright in this frock. It's too late to 'pretty up' very much, but—where is the blue linen?"

* * * * * * *

"Congratulate me, Peggy, dear," announced Bess, airily extending a slim hand.

Peggy gasped.

"Not Frederic? Bess, dear"—

"Not Frederic," interrupted Miss Dane coolly. "Guess again, Peg, and in the meantime admire my ring. Isn't it the sweetest ever?"

Such an odd ring it was too. Innumerable small diamonds formed the petals of a daisy, with a blazing topaz for the yellow center. Peggy looked at it with wildly beating heart.

"It's more suitable for you, Peg, because it's a marguerite. Nevertheless it suits your humble servant right down to the ground, as the poet has it." Miss Dane sighed complacently as she seated herself on the grass.

"Come, sit down, Peg, and discuss the details," she coaxed. "You will be maid of honor, of course."

"Of course, Bess," murmured Peggy miserably, "when—when"—

"Don't say 'when' again," admonished Bess mildly. "I'll tell you when I know. Bob hasn't even asked me to name the day. There were other and more important matters to go over," she blushed warmly. "But you and I can talk about the frocks and the wedding and—about Bob himself."

"I didn't even suspect," said Peggy humbly as she nibbled a blade of grass.

"No one suspects. It will not be announced until I go home. Don't you think him the best fellow in the world, Peg, dear?"

"Of course," cried Peggy lightly. "And now, Bess, you must let me go, for I am going for a gallop."

"Not on Black Dan?" questioned Miss Dane playfully.

"No, indeed," said Peggy warmly. "He has thrown me twice, you know. I shall ride Pretty Girl."

"Wise child," murmured Bess, surveying her ring dreamily.

As Peggy rode slowly out of the lodge gate and turned into the lane that was her favorite bridle path her last picture was of Bessie Dane examining her engagement ring with loving admiration.

Peggy's warm, impulsive heart swelled with grief and indignation. Light indeed was Bob Holcomb's love when he could shift so quickly from one sweetheart to another! How convenient for such as he to carry an engagement ring in his pocket!

Peggy had never seen the ring until it flashed from Miss Dane's finger, but Bob had told her it was the prettiest ring in the world and that there was no other like it. It had come that morning in the registered mail, and he had whispered that he wanted her to try it on after breakfast.

And then had come the Black Dan episode, and she had not seen Bob since. He had absented himself from the luncheon table under plea of business. No wonder he had been ashamed to face her!

Pretty Girl ambled down the lane, where the thick hedge on either side made a long green arbor through which the late afternoon sunlight filtered on Peggy's shining hair. A thrush, poised on the topmost bough of a young chestnut, poured out a rapturous song. The liquid notes fell on the girl's ear with heartbreaking sweetness, and she leaned her sunny head down on Pretty Girl's neck and sobbed.

The mare stopped and turned her head with mild surprise. Some one was coming down the lane on a tall gray horse—some one with discontented eyes that lighted wonderfully when they saw Peggy's drooping head.

"Peggy, dear! What is the matter?" Bob Holcomb was bending over his late fiancee, and one strong hand drew her head to his shoulder.

Peggy withdrew herself with a frightened cry. "How dare you, sir?" she said indignantly. She was oblivious to the traces of tears on her pink cheeks.

"Oh, come now, Peggy," entreated Holcomb, "I know you didn't mean what you said and"—

"Bessie Dane has told me of her engagement to you, Bob," said Peggy icily.

"Engagement! To Bessie! Fudge!" said Holcombe weakly. "Why—of course—she is engaged to Bob Mills. He's staying over at Beechcroft and rode over here this morning, and I guess they fixed it up then. Seen her ring?"

Peggy nodded. There was a singing in her heart, and she wondered if Bob could hear it.

"Trashy looking ring," commented Holcomb, fumbling in his pocket; then he drew forth a leather case and extracted a ring, the conventional engagement ring—a large solitaire. As he slipped it on Peggy's willing finger he said tenderly:

"Now, most people would say it was just like a hundred other engagement rings, but it isn't. There isn't another ring like it in the world, Peggy, because it means that we are betrothed with it. It means that our love will always overcome any foolish misunderstandings, eh, Peggy, darling?" he murmured as he slipped his arm around her waist.

And Peggy smiled assent, with a light or new understanding in her eyes.

Down Growing Roots.

The unalterable downward trend of the first root is all the more remarkable when we consider that the subsequent ramifications grow out in any direction which seems to be desirable. Many years ago Colonel Greenwood started some experiments by fixing horse chestnut seeds in inverted pots. The first root to appear developed downward into the light, but naturally soon shriveled up and died. Not so the secondary roots, which had spread into the soil of the pot. The upper parts of the plants, which had presumably first grown to one side and then shot upward, continued to flourish exceedingly. It is related that for no less than twenty years Colonel Greenwood kept one of these chestnuts alive, all the time in an upside down condition as far as the roots were concerned. When the plant became too large for its original receptacle its roots were incased in a chimney pot, several of these latter being called into requisition as the experiment continued. Finally the root was turned over a wall and conducted to a mound of earth on the other side, at last being allowed to take a natural course. This the long suffering tree readily did and remained for some time a great curiosity with its long arching root.—Scientific American.

The Magician and the King.

A magician once traveled to New Zealand. It was arranged that he should give an exhibition of mind reading before the king of the Maoris. After some parleying it was decided that the king himself should conceal the article which the magician was to discover.

The mind reader left the room and after a time was brought back blindfolded, as is the custom in such performances. After some time the magician declared that the hidden article was in the king's mouth. His majesty shook his head savagely in the negative. The magician insisted upon his point and demanded that the king's mouth be opened wide. The king refused.

The magician insisted, and the excitement became very great until at last the dusky king reluctantly opened his jaws. The article was not there! The next instant, however, the king was taken with a violent fit of coughing. He had tried to swallow the lost article, a button, but could not and was compelled to cough it up.

The Maoris were uproarious with mirth. They did not know which to admire the more—the wisdom of the magician or the heroism of the king.

Let those who would affect singularity with success first determine to be very virtuous, and they will be sure to be very singular.—Walter Colton.

THE word "OXOL" does not mean one food or one preparation. No! "OXOL" is a name given to all goods for horses, cattle, swine and sheep, prepared by Messrs. S. K. and T. C. Windsor, of Australia, New Zealand, England and Canada.

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under the name of

are all of the greatest possible order of merit and may be used by farmers, graziers, dairymen and all owners of stock with the full assurance that these goods have the power in a very short time to double their incomes by feeding, fattening and curing all animals, which to them means money.

Scientific Meetings will be organized by Messrs. Windsor and held throughout the Dominion of Canada, when farmers desirous of improving their knowledge of stock will have an opportunity of doing so and to be instructed on the life of stock from birth to death, free of any charge.

DOMINION ELECTIONS

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBOROUGH:

FELLOW ELECTORS:

The time is near for the election of a representative of this Riding to the Dominion Parliament.

Much as I would like to see you all personally, it may not be possible for me to do so before election day, so I adopt this method of presenting my appeal, especially to as many as possible of those I cannot see, for your support.

In convention assembled, my friends, unsolicited, conferred on me the honour of selecting me as a candidate, therefore, I am now before you in that character, soliciting your votes and influence for me at the coming election. Having had the honour of being before you previously in the same character, I flatter myself that I do not need any personal introduction to you. Although I was then defeated, I was not discredited. I conducted clean election campaigns and did nothing to be ashamed of. I have been with and among you all my life, have taken an active part in your public and local affairs, and, being a farmer myself, I have given much attention to such matters and questions as are of special interest to farmers. I have had the honour of representing the municipality in which I live as Reeve and Councillor for a number of years, and at all times I have endeavoured to perform my duties efficiently, fairly and honourably, and in such manner as to shew myself worthy of your good will and support. Therefore, I trust you have reason to judge favourably of my ability to perform the important duties of your representative advantageously to this Riding and creditably to myself. While in politics I am a Liberal-Conservative, I have never been a blind partizan. I shall never consider myself bound to support my party, except when I believe them to be right and acting in the best interests of our country, and can give you a reason for, and justify in my own conscience, at least, the course I shall think it my duty to take as your honoured representative.

In matters pertaining to our County, should you honour me with your confidence and elect me as your representative, I shall always consider my services at your command, and it will be my pleasure to consistently and properly render a good service to a political opponent as cheerfully as to a party associate. I have carefully studied the requirements of this Riding and district and am already familiar with the same, and you will ever find me ready and willing to do my utmost to advance the best interests of our own district, and especially those of East Peterborough, irrespective of local, personal or political considerations.

I trust my position, thus stated, which I consider is the proper one for a representative of the people to take, will have your approval and merit your most generous support irrespective of party.

I hope to have an opportunity during the campaign of addressing you at public meetings on some of the many political questions which are at present interesting and agitating the people. Meantime I appeal to all my friends, and those who desire honest and economical administration of public affairs and are in sympathy with the Liberal-Conservative platform, to rally to my support and promote an active and enthusiastic campaign in my behalf, and thus for better government, and to see the careless ones and invite them to the polls to cast their ballots for me and the cause of better Government. I trust those whom I will not be able to see personally will be no less active in my behalf on that account. It is time for a change at Ottawa.

I will never forget to be deeply grateful to all those who have so generously and kindly supported me in the past. I shall always be sincerely thankful for, and now again respectfully solicit your votes, influence and active support until the close of the elections on the 26th day of October. Promising you my very best efforts in your behalf, and in the cause of good government, if elected. I am,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN A. SMITH.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

The Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club for October 25th, 1908, are:

The Joy of Forgiveness. Psalm 32.

Verse 1 — What is implied in the forgiveness of a man's sins?

Is a man who is forgiven as good a man, in all respects, as if he had never sinned?

Verse 2 — Which is the true gospel, that God actually washes away a man's sins and makes him truly good, or that his sins are "covered" with "the robe of Christ's righteousness," and although he is still a sinner, God does not impute sin to him?

How would you describe a man "in whose spirit there is no guile"?

What blessings does a true Christian possess that are not enjoyed by others who are not Christians?

Verses 3-4 — Describe the state of mind of a man who is always going contrary to his conscience.

Compare two men, one who hushes the voice of God in his soul, and another who listens to that voice, and obeys: and say what, if any, effect the habits of these men will have upon the length of their lives.

What is it in a man which turns his "moisture into the drouth of summer," that is turns blessings into calamities?

Verse 5 — What are invariably the results of a full confession and forsaking of sin?

Does forgiveness always follow upon a real confession to God?

Verses 6-7 — Is it true or not, that God may be found more readily at one time than another?

Does true prayer ever go unanswered?

Does God take any special care of the man who obeys him, or is he just as liable to all life's calamities as are sinners?

Verse 8 — How much practical dependence may we place upon God in guiding us in all the affairs of life?

All men in this community have the Bible, the Church and their common sense to guide them; does God promise any other or surer guide which is available to all?

Does God actually impart either knowledge or wisdom apart from the usual and natural methods?

Verse 9—Is there any way of learning about harmful things short of actual experience?

Animals learn how to avoid things which hurt them, and become obedient to "the bit and bridle," but what is the better way, possible to all human beings?

Verse 10 — What sorrows do the wicked suffer, which "he that trusteth in the Lord" is exempt from?

Verse 11 — Is it the duty and privilege of every body to "rejoice and shout for joy" at all times?

What are the essential conditions for being glad and rejoicing at all times? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the Club.)

INDISPENSABLE TO MOTHERS

"I am satisfied that Baby's Own Tablets are indispensible to mothers," says Mrs. Abraham Boucher, Pierreville Mills, Que., and she adds: "Before using the Tablets my baby was cross, peevish, and not thriving well; but the Tablets have worked a great change and my little one is well and happy." This is the verdict of all mothers who have used these Tablets. And better still, mothers have the guarantee of a Government analyst that Baby's Own Tablets are absolutely safe—that they contain not one particle of opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE BOTTLE TREE.

"It was like a real bottle, thirty feet high, covered with the bark of a box tree and with a gum tree growing out where the cork ought to be."

Such was the way in which an Englishman described the first bottle tree which came under his notice, and truly one who does not know the tree its sudden appearance in his pathway, often in the midst of dense scrub, must make a vivid impression.

The lower part of the trunk is thick and cylindrical, decreasing in size toward the top, its shape being that of a gigantic living bottle, from the neck of which spring the only branches and leaves that the tree possesses. In this respect it carries to an excess the peculiarity of most Australian trees—namely, their lack of branches for a considerable distance up the stem.

The bark is of grayish color and is very hard, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, but the wood inside is soft and moist. The latter can be chewed in the same way as sugar cane, but as it lacks its sweet, pleasant taste it is rarely used in this way. This peculiar characteristic of the tree, however, makes it a valuable food for cattle.

Indeed, during the long droughts which occasionally visit Australia hundreds of settlers have to thank the bottle tree for saving them from ruin. Sometimes for more than a year and in the inland districts for still longer periods scarcely a drop of rain falls.

Every blade of grass is dried, tanks become empty, creeks no longer run and in many cases dry up altogether, as do nearly all water holes and lagoons; cultivation is impossible, and fodder for cattle and horses is extremely difficult to procure. Then the bottle tree comes to the rescue. Every scrub is searched for these living bottles, and everywhere is heard the ringing of axes as the strange, attractive trees are laid low.

As soon as the trunk has been stripped of its bark the cattle are brought to it if within easy distance, and there they remain till neither leaves nor wood is left. In places where the settlers have no scrubs of their own they will drive many miles in order to obtain a wagon load of this great treasure.

Sometimes instead of allowing the animals free access to the tree the settlers cut the trunk into strips, put the strips through the cutter and thus make a substitute for proper chaff.

In many instances during a drought, except for prickly pears and the foliage of trees, cattle are fed on these living bottles alone, and they have been the means of saving large quantities of stock.

It seems strange that in the absence of rain these trees should retain their moist interior, as the majority of others look dry and drought stricken.

But throughout all the bottle tree flourishes, lifting its dark green leaves toward the sky, whither the farmers and squatters turn longing eyes in hopes of the wished for rain.

When the dry season ends and the land in a very few weeks is covered with fresh green grass, the work of the bottle tree is done. But, mindful of its past usefulness, no farmer unless under absolute necessity fells this tree, and it may often be seen standing in solitary grandeur, its strange shape outlined against the blue sky, while the land at its base has been put under cultivation or has been converted into grazing grounds for the cattle.

Hexamade Barometer.

Those who love experimentation may try the following method of making a cheap barometer practiced in France: Take eight grams of pulverized camphor, four grams of pulverized nitrate of potassium, two grams of pulverized nitrate of ammonia and dissolve in sixty grams of alcohol. Put the whole in a long, slender bottle closed at the top with a piece of bladder containing a pinhole to admit the air. When rain is coming the solid particles will tend gradually to mount, little star crystals forming in the liquid, which otherwise remains clear. If high winds are approaching the liquid will become thick, as if fermenting, while a film of solid particles forms on the surface. During fair weather the liquid will remain clear and the solid particles will rest at the bottom.

Rival Dignities.

An Englishman, fond of boasting of his ancestry, took a coin from his pocket and, pointing to the head engraved on it, said, "My great-great-grandfather was made a lord by the king whose picture you see on this shilling."

"What a coincidence," said his Yankee companion, who at once produced another coin. "My great-great-grandfather was made an angel by the Indian whose picture you see on this cent."

No Witnesses.

"You are charged with stealing nine of Colonel Henry's hens last night. Have you any witnesses?" asked the justice sternly.

"Nussah!" said Brother Jones humbly. "I s'pecks I's sawtuh peculiar dat-uh-way, but it ain't never been mah custom to take witnesses along when I goes out chicken stealin', suh."

Never Touched Him.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

LIBERAL LABOUR LEGISLATION RECEIVES ATTENTION IN MR. STRATTON'S THIRD ADDRESS TO PETERBOROUGH ELECTORS

To the Electors of West Peterborough,—

In my addresses previously issued, I aimed to specify what had been accomplished by the Liberal Governments of Ontario and the Dominion in promoting the local interests of this riding, and what had been done to promote the progress and prosperity of Canada as a whole.

The records of the Liberal Governments in these two respects are closely connected with, and have a large bearing upon what the Government has done for the promotion of an interest which lies at the foundation of national development and progress—an interest which cannot be helped or injured, as a whole, without benefitting or impairing the general national condition—I refer to the interests of Labour.

The Liberal Government of the Dominion has, ever since it assumed the responsibility of administration, showed an earnest and practical interest in the cause of Labour.

This interest has been exhibited in both specific acts of legislation and administration, and by its general policy; the two combined having the effect of creating conditions eminently favourable to the welfare of the working man.

The Liberal Government has, while recognizing the rights of all classes of the community, done much in a direct way to benefit Labour without undue assumption of protection or patronage, feeling that the working classes as a body asked no favours above any other section of the community—that all they sought was fair play, and concession of their rights as citizens, and a due share of consideration in the legislative and administrative functions which Parliament and the Government are empowered to exercise.

Before referring to the direct acts and provisions in the interests of Labour, I might point out that the general administrative policy of the Liberal Government, while promoting the general welfare, has incidentally benefitted the wage earner.

The tariff adjustment made by the Liberal Government, by cheapening the raw material used in industrial operations, by removal or reduction of duties, directly benefitted the manufacturing industries of the country, and, through them, the working population. The interests of Capital and Labour, rightly adjusted, are so bound up together that what helps or hurts one helps or hurts the other.

When manufacturing industries are prosperous and busy, Labour is well employed at good wages; and under the Liberal policy of improving the condition of industry, the growth has, as everybody knows, been astonishing.

In 1896, the exports of Canadian manufactures amounted to only nine millions of dollars; the first full year of Liberal Government they increased a million and a half, and every year since there has been an increase of from two to three millions, till last year, when there was a sharp advance of five and a half millions to a grand total of exported manufactures of $28,307,124, three times the figures of twelve years previous.

The capital invested in Canadian manufacturing establishments increased from 446 millions in 1900 to 833 millions in 1905—the latest census figures.

In the same period the wages paid to labour in manufacturing establishments, increased from 113 millions in 1900 to 162 millions in 1905, an increase of ten million dollars a year.

In the benefits of this great growth of manufacturing industry, Labour and its interests had its share.

In their tariff adjustment the Liberal Government, by lessening or removing tariff obstacles to the provision of supplies and machinery required by the miner and the farmer, stimulated these industries into greater activity, with the result of larger and more profitable and productive operations—an increased output swelling the traffic of shipping and railways; and in every step of these advances Labour had its share of activity and reward.

So the vigorous immigration policy of the Liberal Government, which has increased the population of the West to over a million, has increased our home market, and created new and enlarged demands upon the eastern manufacturer, with, of course, increased demands for the assistance of labour.

Every man who toils knows that in the past twelve years, the conditions of the labouring man and artizan has been splendid—employment plentiful and wages high.

Not only has the prosperity that has attended the application of the general policy of the Liberal Government conduced to the bettering of the condition of the wage-earner in pocket and property, but the specific Labour legislation of the Liberal Government has safeguarded his rights, protected his person, and promoted his health.

A brief reference to the specific provisions made in the interests of our working people, will show that the Liberal Government's policy in this regard has been of the most energetic, progressive and liberal character; and will also sustain the claim that practically all the legislation enacted—with the single exception of "Labour Day"—has been passed and applied by a Liberal Government of the Dominion within the past twelve years.

Prior to the elections of 1896, the Conservative Government appointed a commissioner to investigate the existence of an alleged sweating system. He reported that there was no such system.

When the Liberal Government came into power it looked into the matter and found that an odious sweating system, ten years old, existed in connection with government contracts for Mounted Police clothing, etc.—men, women and children forced to work long hours in foul, stuffy rooms, at starvation wages. Regulations to put a stop to this white slavery were adopted by the Liberal Government, and have since been carried out with successful results.

This condition of things led to the Liberal Government's fair wage policy, applied to all Government works. It required that every Government contractor must give a fair day's wage for a fair day's work—he must pay the "going" wages in the district where the work is being done.

In contracts for uniforms of soldiers, mounted police, and letter carriers and other uniformed officials, it is provided that work must be done under sanitary conditions, that current wages shall be paid for work done, in proper hours of labour, and a fair wage officer was appointed to see that these conditions are complied with.

In scores of cases where contractors have defaulted in payment, the Government has paid the workmen, thus saving them from loss, and deducted the amount from what was due the contractor.

In 1900 the Liberal Government did what the Conservatives had merely talked about for years—especially before the elections of 1889, 1891 and 1896—established the Department of Labour, directly identified with the interests of working men and working women, the greatest single factor in the building up of the Dominion of Canada.

In addition to all the benefits accruing to Labour through the working of this department, the greatest compliment ever paid to Labour consisted in erecting this Department into an independent Department under an independent Minister of Labour, as we have Ministers of Finance, of Railways, Trade and Commerce, the Premier Minister of Canada declaring that the Department has enough work, and is important enough to require, and have, the whole time, energy and attention of a Minister of the Crown.

The splendid record of the Department of Labour for the past eight years, is a foretaste of what will be accomplished under the added dignity and efficiency represented by a responsible Minister, and under a continuance of Liberal administration.

Under the Conciliation Act of 1900, for the settlement of Labour and Capital disputes, within only four or five years many threatened strikes, some of them of ominous character—like that of the Valleyfield cotton mills—were settled through the Act, and disastrous idleness prevented in the case of 15,000 or 20,000 employees. The saving in capital and wages amounted to thousands of dollars.

An expansion of this legislation was the Act known as the Lemieux Act, to aid in the prevention of strikes and lock outs in all industries connected with public utilities, which makes compulsory an investigation before a strike or lock out can be legally declared.

This extremely beneficial act together with the Conciliation Act of 1900, has been instrumental in saving, to both employers and employees, hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of dollars, in lost business and wages, and in saving immense sums of money, and great inconvenience to the public dependent upon the regular operation of public utilities.

Up till August of this year, the Lemieux Act has been invoked in over forty cases affecting 40,000 employees, and millions of capital, and in only two cases have strikes followed investigations. The Dominion Trades and Labour Congress held in Winnipeg in September last year, voted 59 to 22 in favour of bringing all trades under the Act.

The Railway Labour Disputes Act of 1903, provides for an inquiry under oath into the causes of disputes between railway companies and employees. The result is that railway strikes and the public inconvenience attendant upon tie-ups of large systems are rare, though conciliatory legislation to prevent all strikes, seems to be hardly possible.

The Liberal Government was the first in Canada to pass—in 1897—a law prohibiting the importation of Alien Labour under contract. By appeal to the Privy Council, the Department has proved the Act constitutional; and it has been the means of protecting Canadian Labour from alien competition. In the recent strike of the C. P. R. employees, but for this Act the strike-breakers would have had easy work—the railway shops would have been flooded with idle mechanics from the United States.

In 1905, the Liberal Government procured the passing of an Act making it a criminal offence for any one to induce workingmen to come to Canada on false pretences, and create formidable competition to home labour.

The danger of the invasion of Canada, by the cheap labour of the hordes of Oriental countries, to the detriment of white labour enlisted the interest and intervention of the Liberal Government. The head tax of $100 to exclude Chinese imposed in 1900, was advanced to the prohibitive figure of $500 per head, and additional measures of exclusion were adopted.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Minister of Labour, was sent to Japan, and made arrangements for a limitation of Japanese labour satisfactory to Canada, and Mr. Mackenzie King arranged with the British Government for practical cessation of immigration from India of cheap labour.

Acting on the report of a commission which investigated the terrible condition of workmen in railway construction camps on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, the Liberal Government in 1898, procured legislation permitting the Government to make regulations, providing for the proper housing of workmen in railway construction camps, sanitary conditions, proper medical attendance, and hospitals for contagious diseases, and anything necessary for the comfort and well-being of the men.

Among the legislation enacted by the Liberal Government for the protection of the life and limb of workingmen, in response to the wishes of labour organizations, is an amendment to the Railway Act, requiring all trains to be equipped with appliances, such as automatic car couplers, outside car ladders, hand-grips, etc., so as to minimize the danger of accident, which according to statistics gathered by the Labour Department, amounts to 1000 deaths a year, and three times that number affected with disabling injuries.

A special officer was also appointed in connection with the Railway Commission to inquire into and report the causes of accidents on railways, and the best means for their prevention.

Further evidence of the solicitude of the Liberal Government for the interests of railway employees, is found in the fact that last session the Minister of Railways and Canals had rescinded the clause of the Railway Act, making railway men liable for prosecution for any accident that might be laid at their door, when under nervous strain of such a responsibility and fatigue from long hours without sleep.

The abolition of the sweating system by the Liberal Government, protected women and children, and the investigation made into the excessive hours of telephone girls in Toronto in 1907, brought shorter hours; and inquiry last summer into conditions in regard to the employment of children in cotton factories, will lead to legislation in keeping with the unremitting efforts of the Liberal Government, to protect the wage earner.

Such are the salient points of the record of the Liberal Government in the matter of Labour Legislation and Administration, and no elector, who has at heart the interests of this city and this country, bound up, as they are inseparably, with the interests of Labour in all its departments, can hesitate as to a choice between the government he should support upon this, as upon general questions.

There is no opportunity for comparison of records, for as far as I can recall, there was not a single act of legislation, passed by the Conservative Government in 18 years, in the interests of the Labour element of our population, except the Act setting apart Labour Day as a statutory holiday.

Contrast that with the splendid record of achievement of twelve years I have the honour of outlining above, and no one will doubt the far-reaching and effective nature of the Liberal policy of practical dealing with the interests of Canadian Labour.

I need only add that I am in hearty sympathy with that policy, and if you honour me with election, I shall use my best efforts to assist in promoting the work in this regard of a Government which has done as much in the way of effective legislation and administration in the cause of Labour as in the progressive and prosperity-producing administration of the general interests of all classes of the people of this great Dominion.

Personally, I may claim that I have not been wanting in interest in the welfare of Labour in Peterborough, and elsewhere. As a supporter and member of the Liberal Government of Ontario, which has placed so splendid a mass of legislation in the interests of Labour, on the statute books of the province, I have had my share in doing what has been done; and I have, to the best of my ability, endeavoured, on the more practical and material side, to bring both Labour and Capital into mutually profitable relations, and to contribute, in an humble way, to the material upbuilding of all the substantial interests of Peterborough.

If the electors think that I will be able, as their representative, to give them effective and energetic service, with, as I have striven to do in the past, no discrimination as to class, creed, or political persuasion, I invite, and expect, their support to secure my election as representative of West Peterborough in the Dominion Parliament.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

Shoeing the Family.

Families of French-Canadian farmers often equally numerically those of the old New England settlers. Proof, if any is needed, is given by a writer in a magazine in the following copy of an order received by the proprietor of a Quebec store:

"You will put some shoe on my family like this, and send by Sam Jameson, the carrier: One man, Jean St. Jean (me), forty-two years; one woman, Sophie St. Jean (she), forty-one years; Hedmedes and Lenore, nineteen years; Honore, eighteen years; Celina, seventeen years; Narcisse, Octavia and Phyllis, sixteen years; Olivia, fourteen years; Philippa, thirteen years; Alexandre, twelve years; Rosina, eleven years; Bruno, ten years; Pierre, nine years; Eugene, we loss him; Edouard and Eliza, seven years; Adrien, six years; Camille, five years; Zoel, four years; Joseph, three years; Moise, two years, Muriel one years; Hillaire, he go barefoot. Stowaway Found Dead.

The steamer Benedict, Capt. Roberts, arrived the other day from Liverpool, England, and Capt. Roberts reports that just before arriving, while the firemen were working on the coal in the ship's hold, they discovered the dead body of a stowaway. The body was badly decomposed and was buried at sea, the captain reading the burial service.

The identity of the man could not be made out beyond the fact that letters found on his person were addressed to Hunter R. Oldham. The deceased was apparently an American citizen, as one of the letters addressed to Oldham was from the United States consular agent at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

WATCH YOUR TONGUE

When it is the morning after the night before, you do not have to look at your tongue to know that the stomach is upset, the head is aching, no appetite nerves on edge with all the sunshine of life clouded.

The real time to watch the tongue is all of the time. If it is coated with a white fur, or possibly with dark trimmings, even though the stomach does not tell you by the acute pains of indigestion that it needs help, yet the coating shows that you are getting into a bad way and that there is need of Mi-o-na.

Mi-o-na is so positive, so sure so reliable in its curative action upon the stomach that Wm. Madill, the local agent, gives a guarantee of satisfaction with every 50 cent box or money back.

Line to Skagway.

President Hays, of the Grand Trunk Pacific, announces in an interview that eventually the G. T. P. will have a branch built south to Victoria. He adds that there are some details yet to be worked out in connection with it, so that the exact plans of the company cannot be made public.

Hays says that he expects to be able to give a five-day service from Skagway to Chicago when the new line is completed. He expects next year at this time to be able to go up the Skeena river by his own railway.

HAM KEPT HIS HEAD.

C.P.R. Man Was Not Upset by Practical Joke.

Some of his newspaper friends put up a practical joke on George Ham, special agent of the C.P.R., a short time ago that is being told from coast to coast. Ham had been detailed to conduct a party of fifteen Canadian women journalists over the line to Vancouver and back. They traveled in a private car.

Soon after the party had started, some depraved persons in Montreal conceived the idea that it would be a great joke to send this telegram, purporting to come from L. O. Armstrong, the colonization agent, to the Mormon bishop at Lethbridge, Alberta, the centre of a large Mormon settlement:

"George Ham, rich Mormon from Wyoming, with fifteen wives in private car, will arrive Lethbridge, on Thursday, looking for new location. Advise that he be treated well in hope he may decide to settle. He would be most valuable acquisition to colony. L. O. Armstrong, Colonization Agent, C.P.R.

When the train with the journalists' car attached arrived at Lethbridge, the entire Mormon population, attired in its Sunday clothes and headed by the bishop and the elders, was drawn up on the platform to receive the visiting brother and his fifteen wives. Ham was much perplexed by the unexpected warmth of his greeting.

Not until some of the brethren began to question him about his various marriages, desiring particularly to know just where and how he had managed to corral such an all-star connubial galaxy, did it dawn upon him that somebody had been trying to play a joke. But he was game. He carried out the role that had been thrust upon him and departed amid the affectionate adieus of the brethren, promising to return and buy some land after keeping an important engagement at Moose Jaw.

As for the lady journalists, being unenlightened regarding the incident, they resumed their journey unenraptured with the striking example of true western hospitality they had just witnessed. With such consummate diplomacy did Ham manage his charges that upon their return to Montreal they formed an organization, elected him an honorary member, and presented him with a goldheaded umbrella.

CANADA LOSES ISLAND.

Small Piece of Land In Passamaquoddy Bay Goes to U. S.

The dispute over the boundary about Passamaquoddy Bay, an arm of the ocean between Maine and New Brunswick, which has continued for 124 years, will be settled by papers found in Marietta, Ohio, recently in the Marietta College library. The boundary dispute had remained open since 1784, and the State Department at Washington, in seeking a settlement, called upon the college officials there for an examination of the records known to be among the archives in the library.

All the notes and maps made at the time of the survey of the boundary by Rufus Putnam were found. It is stated that the maps in the collection cover all disputed points, and show that Pope's Folly Island belongs to the United States. Copies will be at once forwarded to the State Department. It is believed that these papers and maps will settle the international boundary dispute which has heretofore caused an expense of hundreds of thousands of dollars in the attempt to reach an agreement.

Pope's Folly Island is a very small parcel of land. It is not marked on any map nor mentioned in any gazetteer.

Gas Overcomes Woman.

St. Catharines, Oct. 23.—A serious case of asphyxiation occurred Wednesday on Henrietta street, when Miss Henrietta Hainer, who resides alone was overcome by coal gas. Her brother-in-law, Mr. Henry Shickluna, was buried the same afternoon and she was expected at the funeral. When she did not arrive a messenger was sent to her home across the canal and found her lying on the floor in an unconscious condition and the house permeated with gas. She was removed to a neighbor's house, and later recovered.

THE AIRSHIP NOW A MODE OF TRAVEL

Between machines there were months of research and study. They found nobody had yet formulated properly the action of air currents against surfaces of different shapes, placed at different angles, that the slightest variation of the angles or curves of a flying machine's wing meant new and hitherto undreamed-of complications for the aviator. They tested many times the effect of the wind upon each kind of aeroplane, each size of tail or rudder, each weight of propellers and machinery. They met winds of various force, sailed against and with them, and studied the effect of stray gust and steady blow upon their machine under every conceivable condition.

Time and again they discovered that some supposedly established theory of their predecessors must be laid aside as ridiculous. They were, in short, exploring a region in which every so-called fact had been only half-verified, every conclusion largely a vgguess, and each achievement a basis for erroneous deductions.

Began to Study in 1896

Without attempting to enter into the technicalities of aeroplane building, it is not hard to see that the Wrights had cut out for themselves a life-time work. They began seriously in 1896, and experiments four years later. Until a very few years ago, while building and repairing bicycles, they regarded the aeroplane game as a diversion and spent in its pursuit only what earning they could afford to spend for amusement. It was after they became confident of success that they retired from their business and decided to devote their time exclusively to aviation.

In the meantime, after several experiments at Dayton, they got down to real tests on the sand hills of Eastern North Carolina as early as the fall of 1900. The machine of that year, although they intended to fly in it, was not up to expectations, and they had to sail it like a kite at the end of the small boys' string, directing its movements from the ground, with nobody aboard. In the next three years experiments were repeated annually, and by 1903 the aeronauts succeeded in remaining up in the air a minute at a time. A power machine with motor and propellers, was tested near the close of 1903. It stayed up about a minute, and travelled nearly 900 feet. This was the first flying machine that had ever raised itself by its own power with a man in it.

The next two years' flights were at Dayton. Occasionally, through the newspapers, the public heard of them, but generally in a half-scoffing way. They were not taken seriously beyond the circle of the Wrights' intimates. In Dayton, as the brothers have often recalled good-naturedly, most people called them cranks. Yet a real machine was making real ascents in the town at close intervals and so great was the efficiency attained that before the end of 1905 the operator of the machine was able to travel in curves, rise or descend almost at will, and remain in the air several minutes consecutively.

At last, whether anybody else believed it or not, the Wrights were sure they had a practicable flying machine. They built several of the type in 1906. The first public experiments, however, (and they were unofficial), were at Kill Devil Hill, North Carolina, last May. Then, for the first time, the nation seemed to take the Wrights seriously.

On May 6 they started out with a short flight. Five days later it was estimated that the machine made a speed of 41 miles an hour for a distance of about a mile. On May 14, following other successful flights, the flyer was smashed after a trip of five miles in about seven minutes. On two of the flights of May 14 a passenger was taken along. The second attempt of the machinery to carry two persons was successful, and in the trip of three minutes a complete circle was traversed.

That ended the Wrights' flights until the recent appearance in France and at Fort Myer, Wilbur made his first ascent at Le Mans on Aug. 8, a little more than a month ago, and remained in the air 1 minute and 46 seconds. On Aug. 10 he flew 1.24 miles in 1 minute and 43 seconds. Two days later he was in the air 6 minutes and 52 2-5 seconds. Then there was a mishap to his machine, and on last Sunday and Monday the time flight was deflected to a French aeronaut, Leon Delagrange, at Issy, by two flights that lasted for 29 and 31 minutes, respectively. M. Delagrange's claim to the world's record was short-lived, however, for Orville Wright smashed all the records with his Wednesday and Thursday performances at Fort Myer—first 57 minutes in the air, and later 62 and 65 minutes.

Men of Few Words

The Wright brothers are silent, business-like men. Both are tall and rather slender. Orville wears a black mustache and has some hair, but not much. Wilbur has no mustache and his head is almost bald. They look the part of students, if one goes beyond their rather shoppy dress and their hands roughened by mechanical work, with traces of machinery grease generally visible when they are in the field. They are remarkably alike, in manner and appearance. Wilbur was born on April 16, 1872 and Orville on Aug. 19, 1871.

Something more than a year ago they made a visit to New York. They had heard of a prospective prize for aeronautical achievements, and, while they did not care to enter a race, they needed the money. That was before they made their plans to sell their machine to a government, either the United States, or, if this country did not want it, to a foreign power. After some scorching there, they found the officers of the Aero Club of America. The officers were surprised—and at a loss how to entertain the inventors, for the Wrights wanted to do nothing but talk air-flying. They wouldn't dine out. They wouldn't indulge in a sociable drink. After interviews that seemed fruitless for both sides, they went away from New York as quietly as they had come.

What impressed those who met them then, or afterward at their testing grounds in North Caroline, was their unbounded confidence in the success of the flying machine. Said Orville to a New York interviewer:

"We are not wealthy men, and we have put years of work and study into this machine. We have withdrawn from all other business and given our entire attention to the flying problem. We have succeeded. We also believe that we are the only men who have succeeded. Now, here we are, with something that is worth a good price or isn't worth a penny. The public can call us fakirs or crazy. We don't care. We know what we have got."

Infringement not Feared

At Kill Devil Hill, when anyone tried to drag from one of them the story of their experiments, the task was difficult—not because the brothers objected to the public having a general knowledge of their work, they had not any fear of infringement of patents, as they said that the main part of the secret was in their heads, but because they simply did not know how to talk glibly. If the questioner were persistent enough, however, he got the information. Speaking on one occasion about the need of patents, the brothers said:

"Patents don't protect, but we can protect ourselves. You see, we feel that our years of work have taught us something that no one else in the world knows. Others might get our machine as a gift and still be unable to fly. And by the time these others have duplicated our machine and learned to fly, we will have progressed a step forward. At least, that is the way we look at it."

When the Wright machine is ready for a flight it is placed on a track. A cable holds it in position. The engine begins to work and the propellers to revolve, as the operator takes his seat. The cable is loosened and the machine glides ahead. When the aeronaut moves the front rudder the car lifts itself into the air.

There is but a slight sense of motion, and but for the wind against the flying operator's face he would be conscious of no speed at all. At first, they say, the experience is disconcerting, and one is too much perturbed to see clearly the ground below, but after he grows accustomed to flying, every object is easily discernible.

The machine turns this way or that, according as the operator moves levers, raising or lowering the right and left wings. When the aerial car descends again to earth it lands while travelling at high speed, perhaps, but so easily does it glide to rest on its skid that there is no shock.

The following was a description of the machine recently formulated for non-technical persons by one of the Wright brothers:

"Approximately, it consists of a box-like frame, 40 feet wide, 7 feet long, and 7 1-2 feet deep, made of spruce and ash. At the centre and top front is a 'front' rudder,' a feature which we introduced, and which has proven superior to the old method of a rear rudder.

The Tail and Propellers

"In the centre and to the rear is the 'tail' of the machine—approximately twelve feet in length, less than one-third the length of those on French flyers. This consists in different moulds of one or two vertical cloth-covered frames. At the rear, balancing the machine, and as near the centre as possible are two propellers.

"Below the framework and toward the front is a skid, similar to the rudders on sleds. This is used for landing, and the machine differs in this particular from the French machines, which are equipped with wheels. For a portion of twelve feet at each end the upper and lower framework is provided with a surface of strong cotton cloth.

"With the wheel arrangement the French find it dangerous to effect a landing on smooth ground with the machine travelling at a rate of more than ten miles an hour. With our skid we can land safely on any ground, other than absolutely hilly ground, while our machine is travelling at a rate of 50 miles an hour, without any particular danger to the machine or the persons operating it.

"In the centre of the machine at the bottom is a small double-wheel truck, which, running on a monorail, is used while the machine is acquiring speed enough to leave the ground. The monorail is easily movable in any direction.

"The machine weighs about 1,800 pounds, and in addition to its own weight, including a four-cylinder motor of between 25 and 30 horse-power, devised and made by us, can carry two men and fuel enough to drive the machine 300 miles. It can carry enough fuel, with one man aboard, to travel 500 miles."—New York Post.

LOCKED IN DEATH.

Vancouver Island Sportsmen Find Relics of Fierce Struggle.

The skeletons of a slim but evidently what had been a powerful panther, and an unusually large, five-pronged buck deer, were found by Victoria sportsmen the other day in the neighborhood of Shawnigan lake. They were lying cheek by jowl. Quite apparently death had come while they were engaged in a prolonged and desperate struggle. The panther had cut into the throat of his prey, but in a frantic endeavor to free himself the buck had gored his opponent through and through.

That this substantially is the story which is mutely told by the relative position of the remains is asserted by those who discovered them. They state that one of the antlers of the buck was projecting through the back of the panther, while the latter's teeth were clinched in death's last agony where the throat of the deer would have been had not time wasted away everything but the whitened bones.

When this report was circulated among lovers of the chase it became the favored topic of conversation. Everyone had some conjecture to advance, and many painted glowing pictures of the deadly combat which must have occurred years ago when these denizens of the forest were locked—the one struggling for existence and the other for the meat wherewith to sustain existence. Some had stories to tell of similar finds in days gone by, but all were one in declaring that it has been many years since the mysteries of the woods of that vicinity have disclosed anything as interesting.

PREHISTORIC MOUNDS.

Toronto Professor Has Been Investigating Relics at Souris, Man.

The Souris, Man., Plaindealer says: Our visitor of last summer, Prof. Montgomery, curator of the museum of the University of Toronto, has been again pursuing his archaeological explorations among the Mound Builders of the Souris Valley during the past seven weeks. Last summer he succeeded in making a large and valuable collection of the remains, but before completing his report he has spent another period making examination of the Souris mounds. This year he opened fourteen mounds, three earthern enclosures and several long, wide earthen ridges or embankments. This entails a tremendous amount of careful work with workmen, teams and scrapers, because the mounds are of great size and contain immense quantities of earth.

The explorations on this occasion were not so fruitful of relics, but many illuminating facts were discovered. The professor added to his collection a number of human skeletons, a bone comb made of the leg bone of a buffalo, an earthern pipe, flint knife blades, flint arrow points, bone knives, bone awls, and two kinds of marine shell beads that originally came by means of traffic, from the Gulf of Mexico.

The mounds that have been examined are situated on the North Antler Creek at Souris ford, and are scattered along the valley for five miles. There still remains a number that have not been opened.

A Neutral Zone.

Probably in order to avoid possible disputes in remote districts, the Government has received a request from the Imperial Government to reserve a strip sixty feet wide on the British Columbia side of the international boundary. The request comes from the British Ambassador through the Ottawa Government, which has agreed to reserve a similar strip along the boundary wherever the public lands belong to the Dominion. The United States is doing the same thing, President Roosevelt having issued a proclamation declaring that all public lands for sixty feet on the American side of the line will in future be reserved from sale, settlement or lease.

Of course in all cases where land has actually been alienated right up to the boundary, the proprietors will not be disturbed, but no such grants will be made in the future. Mining locations, farms and so forth on the boundary line have in the past proved to be a fruitful source of dispute, and not infrequently, owing to careless surveying, an owner has found out later that part of his possessions lie in the United States, or in Canada, as the case may be, with the result that he loses title to part of his land.

Cradle of the Railway.

Darlington is the cradle of the railway. I have just been over a bit of the original line—considerably altered—between Darlington and Stockton, upon which the first railway carriages in the world ran. At Stockton the first railway station is still preserved, just a common smoke begrimed house on a siding, but a relic to which Americans in particular do homage when visiting England.

CAUSE STILL A MYSTERY

Mr. Young Can Get No Explanation of Origin of Fire Which Burned His House And Barns.

INSURANCE DOES NOT NEARLY COVER LOSS

Mr. W. J. Young of Smith township wishes to rectify an error which appeared in print, suggesting, as the cause of fire, a smouldering spark from the threshing engine. This was evidently impossible. On both days the wind was blowing in a direction away from the stack, and besides, it was the sixth day after the threshing engine was in use that the fire broke out. Mr. Young himself does not for one moment think that the threshing engine was to blame in any way for the fire, whose origin is still and will probably always remain a mystery.

Mr. Young's loss is a serious one—and the insurance of $1,800 on contents and $1500 on building does not nearly cover it.

Auction Sale

Owing to the fire, Mr. Young will offer for sale by auction on Wednesday, Nov. 4, all his farm stock and implements. The stock is superior, and the farm implements are practically new and of the latest design, and best quality. Mr. John Haggart, auctioneer, will open the sale at 1 o'clock.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS AND FIGURES FOR ASTRONOMERS

Dr. Marsh, president of the Royal Astronomical Society, has received the following bulletin:

Harvard College Observatory, Cambridge, Mass.—From an observation by Leon Campbell with a 24inch reflector, the variable star 31, 1907, Auriga was found to be bright, magnitude 10.6.

The variable star Cygni 213,843 has been undergoing remarkable changes during the first part of the month. On Sept. 15th it had reached a maximum of magnitude 8.3 of the type known as anomalous.

On Oct. 8th it had decreased to magnitude 12 and on Oct. 12 it was increasing in brightness and of the magnitude 10.5, while on Oct. 19th it appears to have obtained a magnitude of 10. In other words this variable star had not reached its usual minimum magnitude 11.8 before it started to increase again.

BILL NYE'S VERSES ON THE FALLING OF THE AUTUMN LEAVES

The autumn leaves is fallin',
They is fallin' everywhere;
They is fallin' through the Atmosphere,
And also through the air.

That is a touching little poem by Bill Nye, and aptly describes conditions prevailing in Peterborough just now.

The man behind the hoe has given place in the circle of the season to the man behind the rake, and the average householder is busy, real busy on his lawn.

The smell of burning leaves is abroad in the land, and between bush fires and burning leaves there is not much comfort.

A reputation for reliability, for quality, cleanliness, delicious flavour and healthfulness accounts for the phenomenal sale of "Salada" Tea. 49

MORE PRIZE-WINNING BY REV. F. J. SAWERS AT MONTREAL COLLEGE

It is noted by the programme of Convocation of Montreal Diocesan College on Oct. 20, that Rev. F. J. Sawers, a former "Peterborough boy," has "been at it again." His "name leads all the rest" in the presentation of prizes—the Bancroft prize, which consists of about $35 in books — a prize for post-graduate work, including an essay on "The History of the English Bible," representing some six months' research and work. This is probably the last prize available for Rev. Mr. Sawers in his academic work, in which his career has been a brilliant one. If his clerical career be as successful—to use the only available word—his future is full of promise of usefulness.

Liberal Majority Will Be 65

A careful review of the progress of the campaign, consulting sources of information of fair impartiality, shows an even stronger support for the government than had been anticipated. The probable result in the provinces is given as follows:

Province	Liberals	Others
Quebec	55	10
Ontario	39	47
New Brunswick	10	3
Nova Scotia	13	5
Prince Edward Island	2	2
Manitoba	6	4
Saskatchewan	8	2
Alberta	4	3
British Columbia	5	2
	143	78

The new House of Commons will consist of 221 members, thus giving the Government a majority over all oppositionists, of sixty-five. It is our belief that the showing in this province will be even more favorable than here presented, but at all events it is satisfactory to contemplate that the career of progress of the country is not to be interrupted by any possible succession to office of the band of incompetents and scandal mongers who have in this election been seeking to take the place of statesmen at the head of our affairs.

AGED WOMAN OF EIGHTY YEARS WALKS DISTANCE OF ELEVEN MILES TO VISIT HER OLD HOME

A VERY RARE OCCURRANCE

For a woman of 80 years or more to walk a distance of 11 miles at one time is something that occurs but seldom, and therefore is a most remarkable circumstance. Mrs. Aaron Nicholls of Young's Point is the heroine of the story. A few days ago she left her home at the Point in the morning and tramped all the way herself to Bridgenorth to visit her son, Mr. W. Nicholls.

The feat is a most wonderful one, considering the advanced age of the woman, and demonstrates to what extent the physical nature of the gentler sex may reach. Although past the four score year mark, she is still halo and hearty, and necessarily must be to walk such a distance. Her old home was in Bridgenorth, and it was to visit the scenes of former years that she set out to the village on the Chemong.

THE INDEPENDENT TELEPHONE LINE NEARLY FINISHED

The independent telephone line being constructed between Apsley and Mount Julian is rapidly nearing completion, and probably by this time messages have flashed across the wires, thus giving Apsley rapid communication with the outside world. The work of construction has been carried on with rapidity, showing that the company in charge have the interests of the community at heart.

GRAND SCOTCH CONCERT

Under Anspices of St. Andrew's Choir in Conservatory Music Hall, on Friday Oct. 30th. Mr. Barkly MacDonald Robertson. Reader and Entertainer and best local talent—This will be a distinct novelty in entertainments. 3d 69

MR. JAMES WEDLOCK FALLS FROM THE TOP OF TELEPHONE POLE AND SUSTAINS SERIOUS INJURIES

Citizens of Peterborough who are acquainted with Mr. Jas. Wedlock, the well known summer resort proprietor on the banks of the Otonabee, will regret to learn that he sustained very serious injuries yesterday in a fall. He was assisting in the construction of the new telephone line between Hiawatha and Millbrook when he accidentally fell from the top of a pole. He was so seriously hurt that Doctors Turner and Montgomery, of Millbrook, had to be summoned to attend to his injuries. It is believed that several bones in his body have been fractured and that his back bone has been injured.

Mr. Wedlock has numerous friends in the city who will regret to learn of such an accident to him.

CATTLE MARKET AT TORONTO IS FLOODED AND PRICES ARE LOW

The cattle market is at present very discouraging to the local men who are engaged in buying and selling. The Montreal and Toronto markets are both overstocked and the result is that business is almost stagnant. Mr. Fred Stabler stated today that he shipped cattle at the beginning of the week to the Toronto market and they have not yet been sold off. They are mostly of the stockers and butchers' grades and sell at from 1 to 3 cents, an unusually low price. Many of the cattle brought in are too thin and the demand for them is not as heavy as it has been. The export trade is good the prices being from $4.60 to $4.85 per cwt., with a strong demand.

EXAMINER INVITES PUBLIC TO SEE THE EARLY ELECTION RETURNS

Election returns will be displayed in front of the Examiner Office Monday night and the Examiner extends an invitation to its friends and the public generally.

Arrangements have been made to have the returns thrown upon two large canvas sheets by means of a stereopticon as fast as they come in. Interspersed with the returns and to beguile the time during the necessary waits, cartoons, portraits and a series of moving pictures will be displayed.

The Examiner expects to see a record-breaking crowd on Monday night.

UNDER FALSE PRETENCES

Agent Tells Untruth And Succeeds In Selling Eyeglasses of Little Value—Says He Worked For Local Company.

OBTAINS SIX DOLLARS FROM A CITY WOMAN

An agent for eye-glasses, purporting to be travelling for the Tate-Taylor Optical Co., George street, has been operating in the city and vicinity under false pretences. This fact was first brought to the notice of Mr. Howard Taylor yesterday when a lady brought in a pair of glasses to be changed. She said she had purchased them from Mr. Taylor's agent for six dollars, and that he had stated the money would be refunded if they were not entirely satisfactory. The glasses were not satisfactory, and the lady took them to the Tate-Taylor Optical Co.'s store as directed, only to find her mistake. She was informed that the company did not employ any such agent. The "fakir" has probably attempted similar false pretences against other citizens, and the public should be on the lookout for him.

CANADIAN SUGAR ADVANCES IN PRICE TEN CENTS PER CWT.

Yesterday an advance in the price of sugar in the Canadian market was made to the extent of 10 cents per cwt. This raise will of course have to be met by the retailer and will probably be a disadvantage to him, especially if he has to buy sugar. The cause for the advance is said to be due to the scarcity of sugar beets. New York sugar has been raised in price 30 cents per cwt.

THE BROWNIES NEW UNIFORMS PRESENT A FINE APPEARANCE

The new uniforms for the Brownie basketball team of the Y. M. C. A. have arrived and attracted considerable attention while displayed in one of the windows of Cressman's. The uniforms are original in design and present a very attractive appearance. The jerseys are black and white with the stripes running vertically while the word "Brownie" is emblazoned on the breast. The stockings have the same combination of colours and possess an innovation in the shape of a "B" on the front of each.

WATER IN RIVER IS VERY LOW JUST NOW; NO RAIN IS CAUSE

Mr. Wm. Collins, lockmaster at the Peterborough lock, informed the Examiner this morning that the water at that point was the lowest he had ever seen in his long experience as lockmaster. The reason given for the low volume is the prolonged dry season with no rain to replenish the stream.

CANADA WINS THE OLYMPIC LACROSSE GAME AT LONDON

Examiner Special

London, Eng., Oct. 24. — In the lacrosse game for the Olympic championship played in the Stadium at Shepherd's Bush to-day, the Canadian team defeated the British team by a score of 14 goals to 10. The British twelve showed surprising strength, but the speed and combination of the Canucks proved too much for the United Kingdom.

WHO WILL BE PREMIER?

The uppermost question in the minds of the people is whether Sir Wilfrid Laurier or Mr. R. L. Borden will be Premier of Canada for the next five years, and that question will be answered by the people at the polls on Monday, the 26th of October. But the question which has been answered by lovers of art is that the Nordheimer Piano of Toronto is the Premier piano of Canada, and is recognized as such from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Peterborough show rooms in J. W. Brown's Optical Parlours, 392 George street. Inspection solicited. 1d

THE ELECTION ON MONDAY

(From PETERBOROUGH TIMES of this morning.)

As the press has expressed itself recently, after a candid review of the field, and with nothing but a friendly regard for the Conservative candidate, there is hardly a question of the return to the House of Commons on Monday by a decisive majority, of Hon. J. R. Stratton. The conceded fact that the Government at Ottawa is to be sustained by such a majority as will insure its control of affairs for five years to come at least makes it of importance, aside from all political considerations, that West Peterborough shall be represented by a member in harmony with the policy of the government. And certainly there is no man in the city or county more capable by ability and experience and an enthusiastic devotion to those industrial interests of which the city is growing so proud, than Mr. Stratton. Occupying a conspicuous position as a manufacturer and a business man, his interests are the interests of the people, and it may be safely taken for granted that if in the next five years, there is anything to be secured from the Ottawa Government for the benefit of Peterborough county, J. R. Stratton is the man who can be relied upon to get it. As has been well said by a local Conservative paper his bitterest opponent will not regard his election as a calamity.

SOMEWHAT MEDIAEVAL STATE OF AFFAIRS IS EXISTING IN THE COURTS OF HALIBURTON

In Haliburton a curious and somewhat mediaeval state of affairs prevails. Thirteen of the townships of that country are practically held by an English land company while the farmers and settlers hold merely nominal possession with certain rights. When a man buys a farm from this company which owns such large tracts, he purchases merely the right to farm on the land and all the timber wealth and the minerals contained in the farm, are still the property of the company. The natural result is that the farmer endeavours in no way to improve his farm and the mineral wealth with which the entire country abounds, is not exploited.

The condition of affairs such as described above has a very derogatory effect on the progress of the county and the villages.

Silver, copper, mica, graphite, marl and many other products of Mother Earth are to be found in Haliburton county.

APPEAL AGAINST MAGISTRATE'S DECISION TO BE HEARD SHORTLY

The appeal entered by License Inspector Stewart against the decision of Magistrate Dumble in a recent case at police court in which a local man was charged with an offence against the Liquor License Act of being found drunk, will be heard in a short time. Mr. Dumble ruled that in order to constitute an offence against the act it was necessary for the defendant to be found drunk on the premises where he secured his liquor, and accordingly dismissed the case. Inspector Stewart did not agree with the verdict and consulted the License Department with the result that they advised an appeal. It will be heard before Judge Weller in a short time and the result will be watched with interest as there have been several cases of the same kind recently.

COMPLAINTS MADE OF UNFAIR RATES IN CONNECTION WITH GROCERS' GUILD

Remarkable stories of partial business failures, alleged to have been brought about by illegal combination of business houses were told in Chief Justice Falconbridge's court at Toronto on Thursday by out-of-town witnesses appearing against the seven indicted members of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, who are charged with conspiracy.

"I established my retail and wholesale grocery about 25 years ago," said Mr. Curtis, "and never was allowed to become a member of the combine."

"What was the last word?" asked Mr. Johnston, in surprise.

"I said 'combine.' It's a little mistake I sometimes fall into. I should say 'Guild.'"

"I think any jobber with the money should be allowed to buy from any manufacturer, and that there should be no discrimination in freight rates."

Cross-examination by Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K. C., for the defence, brought from witness an explanation of the present "equalized freight rates" on sugar prescribed by the Guild as follows:

Per hundred pounds of sugar (not in carload lots), from Montreal: To Port Hope 26 cents, to Peterborough 13 cents, Lindsay 60 cents, Toronto 10 cents, Belleville 10 cents, Oshawa 24 cents, Scarboro 19 cents, Hamilton 11 cents.

"In Port Hope I paid 13 cents per hundred freight on sugar, higher than my competitors in Peterborough," said witness vehemently, "and it wiped me out of the wholesale business."

PLENTY OF TURKEYS AT HIGHER PRICE FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

As Thanksgiving Day, Monday, Nov. 9th, draws near, one begins to think of the annual dinner which sons and daughters come miles to enjoy because it has been cooked as in the days of childhood. On inquiry at the market this morning a number of farmers state that the turkeys will be ready for market on that day, but may be slightly dearer than last year. The buyers who have been canvassing the country state that they are prepared to pay a better price than last fall when 12 1-2 cents was paid. The supply of turkeys too is quite up to the average and for those who have the money the usual turkey will grace the family board.

130 SQ. MILES BURNED

Mr. Richard Lees Through Devastated District States That 130 Sq. Miles Have Been In Path of Fire.

FARMER LOSES VIRGIN PINE; SUGAR BUSHES ALSO SUFFER

Mr. Richard Lees, Public School Inspector has been recently through the townships of Dummer, Methuen and Belmont where disastrous fires have ravaged woods and fields over an area of 125 to 130 square miles. They started at the east end of Stony Lake and spread rapidly in an easterly direction to the eastern boundary of Methuen. From there they stretched northward from Sandy Lake to the south end of Round Lake leaving a wide belt of smoked and charred ground and trees and causing thousands of dollars loss.

Virgin Pine Grove

Mr. Samuel Hubbin, postmaster at Oak Lake, states that he has lost $1,000.00 by fire passing through a small woods of virgin pine. Other farmers who have splendid sugar bushes fear they have been injured more or less seriously by fire running through them.

Bogs on Fire

Mr. Lees remarked that it was in the dried out swamps and bogs that the worst fires resulted. The ground was burned several feet down and the roots and trees were charred and severed as the ground around them smouldered. These swamps very vividly show the work of the flames. The ground is all ashes and bare, blackened trees have fallen in all directions, many of them being almost entirely reduced to ashes, and those of smaller stature have disappeared entirely, swallowed by the flames that enveloped them. When the fire had gone through a woods it would catch the fence, take hold of it, then spread to the adjoining field of stubble through which it would run in all directions finally making its way into another woods and thus it crawled and ran according to the nature of the material from field to woods, covering mile after mile in spite of the farmers' efforts. It was a difficult task to check the fire. In one instance a farmer cleared a path through a woods and ploughed through it a score five feet wide. Water carts from threshing machines were pressed into service and many other efforts were made with varying success.

SERVICES OF PRESIDENT OF ST. JOHN'S CHANCEL GUILD RECOGNIZED

Yesterday afternoon the past and present members of St. John's Chancel Guild met in the upper vestry. After discussion of the work of the Guild, the rector, on behalf of those present, announced the placing in the vestry of a handsome oak cabinet, (with a brass plaque recording its object) commemorating the faithful services of Mrs. A. P. Poussette, the founder, and for eighteen years, president of the Chancel Guild, which was established in 1899. In addition a handsome boquet of chrysanthemums was presented to Mrs. Poussette, who replied in fitting words. The work of the Chancel Guild under her guidance has been most effective, the appearance of the church attracting the attention, and eliciting the admiration of all visitors to St. John's. Additional interest was given on the occasion by the presence of three of the original members of the Guild.

THE RESULT OF THE ARBITRATION TO BE KNOWN NEXT WEEK

The arbitrators appointed by the County Council regarding the petition to rearrange the school sections in Douro, Dummer and Lakefield met on Tuesday and Wednesday in Lakefield and considered the matter. A large number of the parties interested were in attendance and great interest was taken in the proceedings. The result of the arbitration will not be made known until next week.

TWIN SISTER AND BROTHER PASS AWAY DURING SAME WEEK

This afternoon Louis Collins, the 14 year old son of Mr. Peter Collins, 508 Elm street, passed away. The particularly sad feature of this death is that only a couple of days ago his little twin sister died. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon to St. Peter's Cemetery and it will be private.

SIGNS OF VICTORY.

The most cheering reports come from every quarter of Canada and West Peterborough indicating a sweeping Liberal victory on Monday, Oct. 26. The fighting spirit of the Government party has been cheered by the daily brightening of prospects that have never shown lessening from the hopeful beginning. The campaign of the Liberals has been energetically conducted, and the policy and record of the Liberal Government have been clearly and cleanlily presented. On their side it has been a campaign of argument, education and information, never varied except to meet and refute the unfounded charges and scullion tactics of the Opposition, which have been little but slander and vituperation. This has been the unfortunate feature of the campaign, and apart from its demoralizing and discreditable influence, has helped to serve the cause of the Liberal Government. It has been borne in upon the electorate that a party which aspires to the trust of governing a great country like Canada should present some better claim to confidence than scandal and slander—should be above crawling into Parliament through the sewers and by the back stairs. The Liberal Government has been able to present an unassailable record of benign and beneficial legislation and administration to present, as a claim to trust and confidence, a flourishing nation where it found, twelve years ago, a colony of insignificant status groping its way up to the light through the lowering clouds of business depression and national discouragement. The Liberal party has been able to present a programme full of promise of continued prosperity and growth. One party appeals to the people on its record and programme of statesmanship; the other presents the bones of scandals and slanders plucked bare. This applies both to the parties at large and to their representatives in the present contest. The matter of placing support on Monday offers no difficult problem.

THE HOUR FOR WORK HAS COME.

On Monday the electors of Peterborough will be called upon to decide the momentous question of its representation for the next five years.

They will be called upon to vote for their own best interests; to vote for the city and riding, and not for a mere impractical and visionary abstraction.

They will be called upon to vote for the candidate best qualified to serve their best interests.

They will vote for a candidate of tried business ability, of proven fidelity, of large influence in the business and financial world—one who has done much for Peterborough and is in a position to do even more in the future.

Let every elector who at least desires the progress and prosperity of Peterborough, come out on Monday and cast a ballot for himself by polling a vote for Mr. Stratton.

Let every elector exercise his franchise in the interests of West Peterborough. On Monday you are voting for Peterborough and West Peterborough. Make no mistake in that, and you will vote for the candidate who can and who will do the most for West Peterborough.

Go to the polls early and vote, undeterred and uninfluenced by the last-minute stories invented and circulated to take unfair advantage of the electors.

The only danger in this contest lies in over-confidence. The only fear is that, in so one-sided a contest, many may be disposed to slacken their energies at the critical moment, thinking victory already assured. Many a good cause has been wrecked, many a strong candidate defeated, by the feeling of over-security, of contempt for a feeble opponent. It is the worst mistake that can be made in politics. There is no absolute certainty till the last vote is polled. It is a great deal better to have a thousand votes too many than one too few. It is more satisfactory to have an overwhelming victory than to lose by a mere handful, and receive hundreds of surances next day that ten times the votes could have been polled had it been known they were needed.

Let there be no such fatal mistake on Monday; the bigger the vote, the more complete will be the triumph of the Government and of the member elect, and the stronger their influence for good.

Every voter interested in the prosperity of Peterborough should work heartily for the return of Mr. Stratton till the polls are closed. There will be plenty of time for shouting afterwards.

VOTE FOR STRATTON AND BUILD UP PETERBOROUGH.

THE SUM OF THE MATTER.

The Dominion election contest is nearly over, and the issues are now before the people.

The Liberals have presented a record of achievement on the part of the Laurier Government, which no attempt has been made to answer or deny.

This record embraces broad and comprehensive measures for drawing the Mother Country and the colonies together. This by means of the Imperial trade preference, the reduction of the rates of postage on letters and periodicals from the Mother Country, and the sending of Canadian troops to fight the battles of Great Britain in South Africa.

In the way of nation building we have had the trade treaties, which Canada has been permitted to negotiate for herself with Japan and France, the creation of the new provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, the granting of territorial government to the Yukon, and the enlargement of the boundaries of Manitoba, Ontario and Saskatchewan.

The creation of a Railway Commission for the protection of popular rights, to secure the benefits of public ownership, without its financial burden; and of a civil service commission, to do away with the application of the "spoils system" to the inside civil service stand to its credit, as does also the system of old age annuities, which will be of inestimable advantage to those who desire, in their days of money-earning, to provide for advancing years.

Then we have its great record in behalf of labour, with which the readers of the Examiner are familiar. Suffice it to say that it has been the first government to dignify labour by giving it a department, a minister and a periodical all its own, that it established the fair wages policy, abolished the sweating system, and has given a complete system of conciliation and arbitration.

In postal matters it has accomplished wonders, not only changing an era of deficits into an era of surpluses, but while doing so has reduced the letter rate on domestic and United States letters, done away with the two-cent drop-letter rate in cities, and is now instituting rural free mail delivery.

By an active immigration policy it has made the exodus a thing of the past, and in peopling the West it has stimulated the manufacturing industries of the east, and given employment to thousands of mechanics.

It has settled the Manitoba school difficulty.

It has given the country a truly national tariff, under which all lines of industry have prospered as never before.

It has expended more than $120,000,000 in the improvement of our transportation system.

It has stimulated trade with tremendous increases; for instance

In twelve Liberal years the total foreign trade totalled	$5,152,259,709
In twelve Conservative years the total foreign trade totalled	2,626,221,618
In twelve Liberal years the exports of the mine, fisheries, farm and manufactures totalled	$1,980,400,000
In twelve Conservative years the exports of the mine, fisheries, farm and manufactures totalled	$ 963,500,000
In twelve Liberal years the exports of bacon, ham, butter, cheese and wheat totalled	$ 647,000,000
In twelve Conservative years the exports of bacon, ham, butter, cheese and wheat totalled	$ 162,300,000

The story of Canada's progress all along the line under Liberal rule is a marvellous one, has fascinated not only this country, but challenged the admiration of other nations, and there is no doubt even in the mind of the most prejudiced pessimist that the Liberal Government will on Oct. 26 have its commission renewed.

Mr. Burnham has concentrated what he has done for Peterborough into a last-minute campaign roorback as destitute of truth as anything can possibly be.

The Review says there will be a surprise for somebody on Monday. It won't be for Mr. Burnham — he will stand where he stands to-day—beaten in the beginning.

E. and the Westinghouse people of Hamilton.

Which will you believe? The news item may be true. The Review's claim we know to be absurdly untrue.

The Opposition is talking about a political landslide in Ontario, while the Liberals are confident of gaining Brantford, Kent, Lincoln, Middlesex, Stormont, Victoria and Haliburton, Waterloo, Wentworth, and maybe a few more.

The Conservative candidate, "hon-cost" though he claims to be, is not a man of his word.

He promised a prize of $10 for the best essay on "How the G. T. P. would injure Ontario farmers," and promised to print the essays in the Review.

He has not done so. He couldn't find a farmer fool enough to write such an impossible and idiotic essay.

That essay business was another of the impracticable dreams and imbecile theories that seem to form the fibre of the man—that show his utter unfitness to be the representative of a live constituency.

REST FOR THE WORKERS.

In any account of the labour legislation of recent years, the Act protecting the workingman's day of rest ought to have a conspicuous place. The rush and stress of modern days limit the bread-winner's intercourse with his family. Opportunities for the exercise and cultivation of family relations are too few. The weekly day of rest is the saving factor in our industrial system. The weekly rest day makes for national intelligence. To the man who is held all week to the grind of labour, it gives a little time for sober thought and mental growth. Without it, religion, intelligence and vital energy would be less than they are.

Our people have failed to appreciate the extent to which health and longevity are promoted by the relief from strain and toil that is given our people by their one day's rest in every seven. Social life, family life, physical life, intellectual life, are all on a higher level because wise legislation has secured for our people a better protection of the day of rest than is to be found in most other countries.

For special assistance in the conservation of these important privileges, thoughtful men look to the Canadian Lord's Day Act, which came into operation on March 1, 1907, and which has already proved to be an invaluable boon to thousands of citizens, who, before it was passed, were deprived of the regular weekly day of rest, which ought to be as widely enjoyed as is possible. It is stated that the operation of this measure has already given relief from toil to 80,000 of the 130,000 who were previously required to work seven days in the week. That Act has thus made an incalculable addition to the opportunities and influences that are uplifting in our country's life and growth.

It is not going too far to say that the enactment of that beneficial measure would hardly have been possible but for the broad-minded statesmanship of the present leader of the Government, and the special confidence placed in him by the different races and communities that are federated in our great Dominion. Probably it would have been more difficult for an Ontario man, supposed to be imbued with the prevailing Ontario opinion, to carry such a measure without arousing the suspicion that he was trying to force Ontario's opinion upon the Province of Quebec. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had the advantage of possessing the confidence of both Provinces. He also had the reputation of being absolutely free from bigotry. No other living man has done more to lessen and overcome the sectarian and racial prejudices and jealousies that unfortunately still linger in human nature, that from time to time threaten national unity, and that have often made difficult the enacting of useful and desirable legislation.

There is a wide diversity between the views concerning Sabbath observance that are held by Roman Catholics of French origin and those held by the Scotch Protestant element that makes up so large a proportion of the Ontario population. It would seem almost impossible to unite the men holding these divergent views, or to frame a Sabbath observance law that would be acceptable to all, and that would be productive of the results to which reference has been made.

That result has been accomplished, that immense advantage has been obtained, largely because the task was undertaken by a man who was trusted by all, in whose motives all had the fullest confidence, and who did his work in a spirit of patriotism and good-will that everyone recognized and respected.

Progressive public men of other countries, interested in the promotion of the general welfare, have been carefully studying our Act, and already a convention has been called to be held within a couple of months in the city of Pittsburg, for the purpose of organization, to secure for the United States the adoption, as far as possible, of methods and enactments similar to ours.

Among the many measures which the fuller and richer future life of this country will owe to the statesmanship and high purpose of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and which ought to command for him the confidence and support of our best citizens, one of the wisest and most beneficient will be the statute passed in 1906 for the preservation of the day of rest for the workers of the nation.—Toronto Star.

A WEAK VESSEL.

(Montreal Star, Conservative.)

It is only the truth to say that Mr. Borden has impressed the country as being very much under the influence of the men who happen to sit about him in the Commons. He seems to choose his policies very often by a system of jumping together the opinions of these men—some of them "graft" hunters, some of them betrayers of trust — and striking an average. If this be his system, it is thoroughly pernicious; but if it is not his system, then the results he shows us belie their origin.

ARTIFICIAL ENTHUSIASM.

Down in Colchester they call it "choice tomatoes," but in West Peterborough it taken another form. The Conservative candidate held a roorback meeting last night at Young's Point. To be sure that there should be some enthusiasm on tap—to supplement the local lack — the spouters were accompanied by a bus load of claquers and howlers to applaud the "points" of the speakers and create a "boorah." This shows the desperate tactics which a doomed campaign demands. There is no hope of winning on merit, and it is hoped that a little more mouth will have some effect.

NOT READY FOR OFFICE.

The Toronto "Saturday Night," with a heavy list to Conservatism, makes the following comment on Mr. Borden's lack of capable supporters: "If Mr. Borden in this campaign had lieutenants as blameless as himself, it is probable that he would carry the country. But he has some lieutenants who are sheerly ludicrous as aspirants for the country's confidence. For instance, why turn out Mr. Pugsley in order to hand over his keys to Mr. Fowler? Or why look for improvement in turning out Mr. Fielding to make room for Mr. Foster? In a word, the Conservative party is unready for office. Its leader had no suspicion that he could succeed at this time, and was merely keeping in line for the vacancy when Sir Wilfrid should step aside." Mr. Borden will have to wait.

BIG RALLY AT Stratton's Committee Rooms SIMCOE STREET TO-NIGHT

An Invitation is Extended to All Electors to be Present

WINDING UP THE CAMPAIGN

Great Enthusiasm At Hon. Mr. Stratton's Committee Rooms Last Night---Candidate Makes Brief Speech Full of Vigour That Rouses His Followers to Unremitting Effort to Realize a Great Victory On Monday Evening Next.

At Hon. Mr. Stratton's central committee rooms on Friday evening there was a very large attendance of the earnest workers in the cause of good government and Peterborough progress, when the affairs of the campaign were discussed by the various committees, and arrangements made to secure a full and fair expression at the polls.

Mr. Stratton entered the rooms about nine o'clock, and his appearance was the signal for a somewhat stormy demonstration of the confidence and affection with which he is regarded. He was appealed to for a speech, though this was not a speakers' meeting, and was induced to say a few words about the closing of the campaign.

Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Mr. Stratton said that this was probably the last opportunity that he would be given of saying anything that was likely to reach any large section of the voters of the riding. But he was glad to be able to present to the workers in the city the most encouraging news of what had been done in the same cause as they were engaged in, in the country districts. Never in any campaign that he had been engaged in during the past eighteen years had be encountered larger meetings of the electors, or a stronger sentiment in favour of the cause which he represented, and he might add that the demonstration of personal regard toward himself personally had been something for which he was warmly grateful and in which he felt a deep pride. Because of the time required by his country canvas he had not been able to enjoy the personal intercourse and communication with the electors in the city that he would have desired, but he had felt that his cause was in the hands of faithful friends (Applause), and that he might rely upon a fair deal among his old neighbours and friends no matter how venomously the campaign of slander with which they had become familiar was conducted by his opponent. (Cheers). He himself, and the speakers who had aided him in discussing public matters before the electors had endeavoured to conduct a clean, decent, intelligent and educational campaign. They had tried to appeal to the common sense and good judgment of the electors, and had avoided personalities and violent language toward their opponents. He had paid little attention to the slanderous methods of his opponent, because he didn't believe that such methods would make any great impression upon the minds of people who had known him from boyhood, and who knew that there was no stain either upon his business or his political career. (Cheers). He believed that the results on Monday night would show that his confidence in the good sense and good faith of his neighbours was in no way misplaced. (Applause). Eternal vigilance, they were told, was the price of liberty, and so he hoped that no effort would be relaxed until the close of the polls to see that a full vote was got out. The larger the vote the larger his majority. (Cheers). He hoped each elector would not only see that his own vote was recorded, but also that his neighbour and his friends were enabled to get to the polling booths. He wanted now to congratulate his committees upon the splendid work that they had performed, and that was going to be crowned with victory on Monday night. (Cheers). The Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, it was certain, was going to be sustained by a large majority, perhaps reaching 65. But if it were only half that, of which there was no shadow of doubt, they would still be able to give a strong, stable and progressive Government to Canada, and to develop that great policy of progress that had already done so much for the Dominion and for Peterborough. (Applause). From the methods that had been adopted by his opponent, scandalous and disreputable as they were, they might expect between now and the morning of the day of election even something worse in the way of falsehood and misrepresentation. Unable to gain the support in the county of reputable influence they had sought to procure an endorsement from an old local leader who was now in Winnipeg, and hoped to shelter their disgraceful campaign behind the respectability of Mr. R. M. Denistoun; and they had procured a statement of sympathy from that gentleman by the most utterly false representations. These things would go for what they were worth, but he might say that the people who had done their best to humiliate Mr. Denistoun, on his leaving the city where he was so highly respected, had a hard nerve to seek shelter behind that gentleman's coat-tails to-day. (Cheers). He warned them to take no heed of any "roorbacks" that might be sprung upon them between now and Monday, and to remember that if there was anything that could be discovered from any source that would be likely to help Mr. Burnham's candidature, it would not have been left to the last day of the campaign to disclose. (Applause). Let them take a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together, and relax no effort till Monday night, and when they next met they would be rejoicing in a victory not only for good government but for the reputation of Peterborough as a community where the tongue of malice and slander could not prevail against intelligence and the sense of justice. (Applause).

STATISTICS ON THE CROPS

What the Prospects Were After the Passing of September.

Threshing operations udring September were carried on as a rule under favourable conditions as to weather, and it is now possible to estimate the yield and quality of the principal grain crops from returns based upon actual threshing results, so far as these have been obtained. The total production of wheat is estimated at 115,651,000 bushels, oats at 227,651,000 bushels, and of barley at 50,723,000 bushels. The yield of wheat as estimated from the appearance of the crops at the end of August is not confirmed by present threshing results, for the total production of Canada, as now estimated, is 7 1-2 bushels per acre less, representing a total diminution of 9,039,000 bushels. This drop is almost entirely due to the returns from Saskatchewan and Manitoba, where adverse seasonal influences appear to have had greater effects upon the yield than were indicated by the appearance of the crops at the end of August. In Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta the estimated total production of wheat is 95,818,000 bushels, of oats, 105,481,000 bushels, and of barley, 26,382,000 bushels.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT THE BEEHIVE

During the past few days improvements have been in progress at the Bee Hive, George street, and when completed Peterborough will have one of the finest ladies' stores that can be found in the province. By acquiring the store recently occupied by Mothermid & Jury the premises of the Bee Hive will be greatly enlarged. The wall separating the two stores is being taken down giving a floor space, 70 by 50 feet. The new premises it is expected will be in readiness by December the first. They will be fitted up most modernly and up-to-date.

The knitting works department will be along the south side of the new part. The rest of the floor space in this store will be devoted to ladies' white wear, underwear, lingerie and notions. On the second flat, on one side will be the fancy goods department where everything in the line of art needlework will be sold, and on the other will be the ladies' ready to wear. Mr. T O Elliott, the enterprising proprietor of the Bee Hive is endeavouring to make this department the biggest and best in the city. It will comprise everything in the line of ladies' ready to wear coats, skirts and blouses.

On the second floor, a ladies' waiting room, lavatory and toilet rooms will be fitted up.

It is the intention of Mr. Elliott later on, to place an elevator in his new premisses.

The third floor has not yet been set apart for anything special, but as the business expands new departments will be opened up.

Mr. Elliott is leaving nothing undone to make this store, one of the best in the province and it will certainly be a credit to Peterborough.

CABBAGE KAIL, A NEW FODDER

Cabbage kale is the latest fodder that is being grown in Peterborough County. Mr. T. M. Hunter, of North Monaghan, has an acre of the plant this year and it is a healthy looking and apparently a strengthening food for cattle. Mr. Hunter intends making a test next week to determine whether it may be fed with propriety to dairy cattle. If the dairy products are not tainted in taste this new plant will likely be found to be of great value. At any rate it will be excellent fodder for beef cattle and sheep. Mr. J. K. Moore, Smith, is another farmer who has a quantity of the cabbage kale.

To the Electors of West Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I have been unanimously selected as candidate, in the Liberal interest, for the representation of West Peterborough, at the elections to be held on October 26th, and I hereby solicit your influence and vote, feeling that, as a supporter of the Liberal Government of the Dominion, I can render the city and riding at large, good, faithful and fruitful service.

All who know me, and after nearly twenty years of representation of the riding, that should include the majority of the electors, know in what manner I have discharged my duty to West Peterborough.

Aside from the policy of the Government on whose behalf a candidate is appealing for support, the determining factor in deciding an elector's support, should be the fitness of the candidate to give efficient representation. The elector should, therefore, choose the man whose known qualifications and record assure the exercise of effort and influence on behalf of the advancement of the interests of the riding, and to procure to it that measure of Government attention to which it is fairly entitled.

Therefore, in setting forth below what has been done under the Liberal representatives of West Peterborough in enlisting the good will of governments in securing substantial benefits, an adequate idea can be formed of how greatly to the advantage of this constituency will be the election of a candidate in sympathy with the Government, which has the power to vouchsafe advantages that may be faithfully presented.

I may, therefore, be permitted to point out a little of what has been accomplished for West Peterborough, through its representatives, by Liberal Governments. First, as my own share:

The work of procuring the construction of the Bensfort bridge, south of the city, is the equivalent of securing distinct benefits to residents of South Monaghan, through shortened distance to reach the market in Peterborough, and to the latter by facilitating the visits of the township people to the city. The building of a road through the township of North Monaghan north also served to lessen the distance the people of South Monaghan had to traverse to reach the city.

The procuring of a grant to assist in digging the Cavan drain, meant a much shortened way of access for the residents of northern Cavan to the Peterborough market, to the mutual advantage of themselves and Peterborough merchants and the reclamation of some thousands of acres of previously valueless swamp lands.

The procuring of large sums to be spent in the construction of new roads in Harvey, Cavendish, Galway, North Smith and Ennismore, represents conveniences to the people of these townships of no little value.

The procuring of legislation for the building of Chemong and Pigeon Creek bridges, and requiring their perpetual maintenance by the city and the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough, in the interests of the district, is another means of facilitating exchange of town and city trade.

The procuring of Government assistance to build the Kinmount bridge of stone and steel, was a means of settling the litigation between Peterborough and Victoria Counties, which had cost, and promised to cost, enough to build a bridge, and another benefit was the removal of a cause of constant friction between the two counties.

The construction of approaches and ferry, and later a permanent bridge, to span Gannon's Narrows, is a shortening of the distance to the city appreciated by the residents and farmers and land owners concerned.

I was fortunate enough to induce the Ontario Government to deed to the city—then town—of Peterborough, the Government reservation along the river front from the C.P.R. bridge to the Hunter street bridge, a gr t advantage, which has been made greater by being filled in by the dredgings of the river, at once beautifying the shore line and creating sites for manufactures, etc., etc., to be fronted with wharfage now under contemplation.

I will, I believe, be credited with having been instrumental in procuring the lease for Number Five dam, which made possible the establishment of the Otonabee Power Company, and led to the establishment of the Peterborough Cereal Works, and also led to the development of power at the dams further up the river for the use of the Lakefield Cement Works. For this I received at the time no little abuse and imputation of false motives in a course in which I had at heart only the good of the city, without the slightest personal advantage.

I may also fairly take credit for inducing the Ontario Government to consent to the transference of the waters of the northern part of this district to the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government, whose measures for conservation of water have created a steady flow the year round in the interests of canal navigation and power production, whose importance cannot be well over-estimated in relation to our manufacturing interests.

I may perhaps be permitted to suggest that the strong opposition to the legislation necessary to establish the Quaker Oats Cereal Company in Peterborough, with all the advantages and attendant benefits, would, I believe have been successful, if I had not used all my efforts and influence to secure the passage of the necessary legislation, which was bitterly opposed in Committee, and in the Assembly.

My interest in Peterborough, and West Peterborough, and the advance of their material welfare, has not been confined to my course in a representative c pacity. In the interests of the city and of its working men I have fortunately been able to be instrumental in reorganizing the Peterborough Lock Works on a prosperous and permanent working basis, and to be of assistance in promoting the establishment of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company. As the publisher of the Examiner, I have made it the medium of advocating and aiding all public measures and private enterprises calculated to upbuild Peterborough city and county. In this enterprise, and in the publication of three creditable class journals, The Canadian Dairyman and Farming World, and The Canadian Horticulturist, employment is given to about 100 persons, and Peterborough is given the dignity of a publishing centre.

When the Edison, now Canadian General Electric Works, were being established in Peterborough, the council was being criticized for the assistance the town gave. Owing to the assistance of the council and citizens, the works were established, and have grown and prospered, and I gave not only my moral support, but became financially interested to the extent of my ability.

I trust I may claim, as is the fact, that in the discharge of my representative duties, I have tried to represent the whole riding, irrespective of party affiliation, and that I have met and dealt with all conditions that arose during my several terms without regard to party feeling.

In all these things, if there be any merit, I have only done a duty to be expected of any representative, with the interests of his constituents at heart, and discharged the duties of a citizen; and if, through your support, I am given another opportunity, the assurance may be accepted that what little I have been able to do for West Peterborough, will be supplemented, to the best of my ability, and the extent of my influence, with the Government, and in the world of finance and affairs.

However, the benefits to West Peterborough, from Liberal representation and Government liberality, or rather justice, and deference to fair claims, are not all confined to the realm of the Provincial Government, but the Dominion representative and Government have contributed an important share.

To give prominence to the most prominent and most widely beneficial exercise of administrative function, the work of Trent Canal completion, by the Dominion, may be cited. When the Liberal Government took office in 1896, there were only 51 miles of navigable canal completed. Now there are 160 miles completed, embracing in this distance access to a thousand miles of shore line, and there are 28 miles under contract, leaving only 13 miles of unfinished canal between Georgian Bay and Trenton. During the 18 years of Conservative rule, and in all the years from Confederation, there was spent by that Government in canal construction work the sum of $1,230,030. During the 12 years of Liberal rule, there has been spent, including works under contract and construction, the sum of $4,691,708, out of the $6,121,117 spent since Confederation, or in other words in 12 years of Liberal administration, more than four times the amount spent in the preceding 30 years, has been expended, and, among other things, has given Peterborough steamer connection with the back lakes and northern waters.

Then, in the past twelve years large sums have been used in providing complementary works—to give the fullest benefits from canal construction—such as wharves, capable of enlargement, along the river and Trent waters, in dredging operations at various points. Particular reference might be made to the wharf at the street railway terminus, and the Wolfe street wharf, on which the work of construction will begin immediately.

Other measures in the interests of the riding due to energetic representation and fair government recognition of our claims may be cited.

A sitting of the Tariff Commission was secured for Peterborough, and the claims of Peterborough manufacturers heard and heeded. Representative influence met a ready response form the Post Office Department for the improvement of postal facilities; the interior accommodation of the building was enlarged and improved, city delivery provided, street letter boxes more than doubled in number, with more frequent collections, in addition to reduction of drop letter postage from two cents to one cent, not to speak of the opening of several new post offices, and the increased frequency of mail service.

The Peterborough Armouries represent not only an architectural ornament to the city and a large utility to the several forces of our militia, but a substantial advantage to the city in connection with the acquirement of a site for the Collegiate Institute.

The construction of a new $56,000 dam at Buckhorn, included the building of a new permanent county bridge, at a cost to the county of only $3,000 in lieu of $50,000, if as good a bridge had been built by the county.

The assumption by the Dominion Government of the county swing bridges, and their maintenance and operation, made a saving of about $2,500 per year to the county for all time.

The cold storage act of the Dominion Government intended to promote the construction of cold storage buildings, the Government giving as bonus a grant of a percentage of the cost, was instrumental in the establishmant of a first-class cold storage warehouse in Peterborough, a great boon to dealers in dairy products, fruits and perishable articles, and, instead of Lindsay and Belleville, which had such warehouses, being the distributing centre, that advantage rests with Peterborough.

The replacing of the old wooden bridge that formerly spanned the locks at Young's Point, by a new steel bridge, placed so as not to impede wheel traffic while the lock is in use, the construction of a new pier, and the deepening of the lower waters of the lock and channel from five feet to nine feet, are obvious advantages.

The procuring of a parliamentary appropriation of $100,000 to meet claims for damages to lands flooded by the erection of dams in the course of Trent Canal construction, means the settlement of claims, some of them outstanding for nearly forty years, and is a measure of justice due to a Liberal Government, which appreciated the claims of the owners of drowned lands, which are being adjusted with all possible expedition.

All these things bear testimony to the importance and necessity of having a representative of West Peterborough alert and alive to the promotion of its interests.

I need not make any definite promises as to my course if elected. I will only say that I will do as I have done in the past, and serve West Peterborough to the best of my ability.

I think I am justified in saying that it will be to Peterborough's best interests to send a member in support of the present Liberal Government of the Dominion.

Under this Government the country has grown and prospered as it has never done before. It found, on taking office twelve years ago, the tide of prosperity at a low ebb; trade was dull, industry languishing; employment scarce and fitful; the finances were in bad condition, with large yearly deficits. All these things were changed under the Liberal Government; the tide of prosperity began to rise. The revenue, under a lessened tariff rate, grew, and funds were available and used with wisdom and enterprise to provide the means of development we see reflected in an advance of Canadian trade from 230 millions in 1896 to 650 millions now. Much of this is due to the Government's masterly dealing with the transportation problem involving cheap and rapid transport of produce from farm and factory to market, and, to crown all, the conception and construction of the Transcontinental Railway, which will roll back the map of Canada a hundred miles northward and double the cultivated and peopled area of the country. The Government which has done so much to build up Canada in all its varied interests to the status of a nation, is sure to be returned to power as a result of the coming elections, and this will ensure another parliamentary term of nation-building, which will witness the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, of the Hudson Bay Railway, and of the Trent Waterway.

I respectfully ask the assistance of your vote and influence to secure my election. If by favour of your kind support I am elected, I shall give my best efforts to all measures that will promote the interests of the country at large, and especially those of Peterborough and West Peterborough.

I have the honour to be, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

J. R. Stratton

VERY LARGE MARKET THIS MORNING

Fowl was the outstanding article on the tables at the market this morning. The prices were very tempting and even very moderate purses could afford a pair of ducks at 90c., or a fine goose at the same price, or a pair of chickens at 50 cents. These were prevailing prices, others were higher, some lower. Potatoes sold at 85 and 90 cents, and apples at varying prices. Eggs were a cent cheaper. Vegetables are very plentiful and at reasonable prices, as follows:

Dressed Hogs	8 50
Live Hogs	6 75
Hay, bale	15 00	to	16 00
Hay, per ton	13 00	to	14 00
Straw	6 00	to	6 00
Potatoes, per bag		to	1 00
Apples, per pk	10	to	15
Onions, per bag	90	to	1 00
Pork, per lb	10	to	11
Lamb	9	to	11
Chickens, per pair	45	to	90
Butter, per lb			20
Eggs, per doz			25

CANADA.

Oh, Canada sublime,
The sweet scent of thy pine
Infuses strength into my jaded mind,
Thy sparkling crystal streams
Give beauty to my dreams
And vigor to my limbs when I awake.

Thy mountains, rivers, lakes,
A glorious vision breaks,
Where'er thy favoured children choose to roam;
With what a bounteous hand,
Thy God endowed the land;
What heritage is ours, "my broad Canadian home."

My smiling forest home,
Where hunter free may roam;
And taste of freedom's unrestricted charms;
Or down the giants hew,
With strength to each sinew,
From joy of living, bursting into psalms.

Oh, husbandman rejoice!
Lest stones obtain a voice,
And praise thy God so bounteously kind;
To every tilled field,
Giving abundant yield,
Earnest effort meeting rich reward.

Land of the vigorous mind,
Refuge of thy kind,
From lands where tyrant despots reign supreme;
From Hell-created "caste,"
From "Golds" foil, Upas blast,
Oh, Heavenly Father, keep our country free.

DIES TO SAVE CHILD.

Essex, Ont., Oct. 24.—Giving up his own life to save that of his young brother, Daniel Taylor, aged 23 years, who lived on a farm with his parents near here, is dead, as the result of a collision with an inter-urban car.

Taylor and his four-year-old brother, who he held in his lap, were riding on a wheat binder and about to cross the car tracks. The noise of the machine drowned the whistle of the approaching car, and it was upon them before the young man saw it. He had only a moment to act. He stood up and threw the child as far away from the crossing as possible. In an instant the car struck the machine, crushing it.

The elder Taylor was thrown under the car, both legs cut off above his knees, and he was otherwise injured. He died yesterday morning. His brother was picked up unharmed.

Girl Plays Burglar.

Weston, Oct. 24.—The mystery connected with the theft of $55 from Mrs. Rogerson's house on North Station street about a week ago has been solved.

The guilty person is the 15-year-old maid at Mrs. Rogerson's, who after taking the money, endeavored to get permanent possession of it without arousing suspicion by procuring a money order for that amount at the Weston postoffice. The order being addressed to herself, the officials surmised something unusual, and questioned the girl. She then confessed that she had upset the drawers in the bedrooms to make it look as if a burglary had occurred.

Telegrapher Arrested.

New York, Oct. 24.—Frederick E. Rose, a telegraph operator employed by the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad at Fallsburg, N.Y., was arrested yesterday at the request of the Canadian authorities, who want the prisoner extradited. Rose is accused of having embezzled $260 belonging to the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. in May last year while he was employed by the company as acting station agent and telegraph operator at or near Bordeaux and Montreal. He was held without bail for examination on Oct. 30.

Lack of Rain May Close Mines.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Unless there is a rainfall soon in the southern part of Illinois, the coal mines will have to shut down for want of water for making steam and for operating their coal washing machinery, according to coal traffic officials of the Burlington, Chicago & Eastern Illinois and Illinois Central roads.

Scarcely any rain has fallen in Franklin and Williamson counties, where most of the coal mines are located, since last May.

Father Follows Elopers.

Detroit, Oct. 24.—After following his daughter Mary, aged 13, and her sweetheart, Frank Temple, aged 21, for over a week, Charles Calvert of Ridgetown, Ont., came to police headquarters Thursday night, and requested the officers to assist in locating the youthful pair. The young people eloped from Ridgetown a week ago.

HAS DONE MUCH FOR THE PRISONERS

Mrs. Barney Comes to Peterborough to Lecture for the W.C.T.U.

Of Mrs. Barney, who comes to Peterborough on Thursday night next, to lecture on behalf of the W.C.T.U., the Young People's Weekly of Chicago, says:

"No woman in the land has had a wider experience with prison work than Mrs. Barney. As Superintendent of the Department of prison, jail, police and almshouse work of the National W.C.T.U., her work brought her into contact with many classes of unfortunates, and she was unceasing in her efforts, doing all in her power to lighten their burdens and lift them to the higher plane of purity and peace."

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS

FULTON'S RENAL COMPOUND

"Kidney trouble" is inflammation of the kidneys without albumen.

In each the real trouble is INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, hence a cure for one must be a cure for the other. There has been no cure for either.

But many kidney troubled people get well.

True—because inflammation of the kidneys unless severe commonly gets well at first. But if it does not yield early and the inflammation persists, the real trouble begins.

You can see why kidney disease has been incurable and why the deaths have risen to over 170 per day—up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known that would reduce inflammation in the kidney tissues.

The old kidney medicines were a misconception, irritating the inflamed kidneys to renewed efforts instead of allaying the inflammation, some of them being actually harmful. Result—physicians have abandoned them.

No matter whether you call it "kidney trouble," "Nephritis," or "Bright's Disease," if it has been hanging on a few months, recovery can be only hoped for through this specific. It has a proven efficiency in nearly 87 per cent. of all cases. It is the only thing known that controls inflammation in the kidneys, which is the real difficulty with kidney troubled people,

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

What Liberal Government Has Done For Labour in 12 Years.	What Conservative Government Did For Labour in 18 Years.
Abolished sweat-shop methods.	Established Labour Day.
Provided for union or current wages on Government contracts, meaning millions of additional wages on the many millions spent on Government works.
Established Labour Department, and placed it in charge of a Minister of the Crown.
Established Labour Gazette.
Relieved railway employees from the menace of unfair prosecution on account of railway accidents.
Enacted an Alien Labour Law.
Procured British legislation making it a crime to entice British workmen to Canada on false pretences.
Relieved workmen from burden of specific taxation.
Increased Chinese head tax to prohibitory figure of $500.
Limited and abolished Japanese and Hindu immigration.
Provided for sanitary conditions and medical attention and hospitals in railway construction camps.
And other beneficial and improving legislation which space forbids specifying.	(In this blank space make your X for Stratton and The Liberal Government.)

Workingmen should stand by the party that has stood by them.

Some Wonderful Poetry Of Early Childhood Days

E'eny Meeny Verses That Stick To The Memory Like Leeches—What One Hears Where Children Are Gathered Together.

Now when the windows are up, toward nightfall, you may hear some of the wonderful, mysterious, and far diffused poetry of childhood, the words of Eeny, Meeny school chanted by lively young rhapsodists. For example, the classic,

"Eeny, meeny, miny mo,
Catch a nigger by the toe,
If he hollers, let him go.
Eeny, meeny, miny, mo."

There are variants such as "If he asks to let him go, Make him holler 'Miny mo!'" Invention is not absolutely dead in the case of these hallowed counting-out rhymes, to our thinking among the most curious products of the human mind and possessing in their frequent unintelligibility, their deformation of phrases or words once having a meaning, and their strange refrains the characteristics of ancient and even magical song. Obviously they were built up from the refrain, and so they are very near to the origin of poetry as some writers see it. And they are much more filling and satisfying than most of the more aspiring and sophisticated verse. They stick to the memory like leeches. How can we forget such a masterpiece as,

"Eeny, meeny, mony, mi,
Tuska, liner, boney, stri,
Hudly, guldy, boo!"

The "boo" comes out like a cannon ball. The collectors and students of hide-and-seek poetry have a wide and pleasant field; and all their labours like those of the masters of the vast wealth of popular tales and ballads throw a brilliant light upon the essential unity in diversity of the human race.

Miss Eleanor Brooks Pearson, of the Stanford university, an amateur of children's games, has been hearing the Indianapolis children count-out, and comparing their rhymes with the older versions. Take this vigorous reading of a noble poem:

"One-erey, two-ery, ickery Ann,
Phillison, Phollison, Nicholas, John,
Quevy, quavy, English navy,
Stinkum, stankum, buck!!"

The final line may be a little too Swiftlike, but what a rattling gait the stanza has! The American version is an improvement upon the English original quoted by Miss Pearson:

"Winnery, ory, accory, han,
Phillisy, phollisi, Nicholas, jam;
Queby, quorby, Irish Mary,
Stickery, sank, sock!"

Phillison, phollison, Nicholas, John. We are almost ready to back that line against any other in the language. From what wellhead come these mighty bucketfuls of sound? And here, in what is called "the most popular jingle of all" in Indiana, Lewis Carroll seems to be speaking:

"Eeny, meeny, miny, mo, crackafeeny,
finy, fo;
Opitoojer, popitoojer, rick, bick, ban,
do."

Opitoojer, popitoojer — O the grand words! Where do the children get 'em? In Louisiana the jinglers have equally grand words, such as "ominoucha," "popitoucha," "words with a bewitching, bedevilling, suggestion of Hiawatha metre. In other parts of the south there are such treasures as "appaloochee," pepatoochee,' 'which sound remarkably like the names of Alabama rivers. From the Pacific coast Miss Pearson brings this chant, "altogether unknown in the East," worthy to be known everywhere:

"Ching, Chong, Chinaman,
How do you sell your fish?
Ching, Chong, Chinaman,
Six bits a dish;
Ching, Chong, Chinaman,
Oh, that is too dear;
Ching, Chong, Chinaman,
Clear out of here!

Michigan is said to be the parent of this alliterative quatrain:

"Bollika, bublika, devil-a-pot,
Bollika, bublika, hellika, lot;
Boil black blood of big black man,
Bollika, bublika, Kuklux, Klan."

This seems somewhat artificial, conscious and mature. It is scarcely up to the standard of the Eeny, Meeny school — New York Sun.

THE BIRTHDAY OF THE PARISH

To-morrow will be kept as the Dedication Festival of St. John's Church, and the festival services will be continued on to-morrow week, Nov. 1st. The church was built between 1833 and 1835, and was reopened after restoration on All Saints' Day, 1884.

To-morrow special sermons in commemoration of the event will be preached at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m., by Ven. Archdeacon Clark, M.A., of Hamilton, who has lately been honoured by election as Clerical Secretary of the General Synod of Canada. The services to-morrow will be appropriate to the festival. The public generally are invited. The important parochial letter just issued will be distributed to members of the congregation to-morrow.

CAN RELIEVE YOUR MISERY FOREVER

Take Some Diapepsin and Cure Yourself Forever of Stomach Trouble.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from indigestion and Stomach trouble is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking Diapepsin.

If your stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs but a re-enforcement of digestive agents such as are naturally at work in the stomach?

People with weak stomachs should eat Diapepsin after meals, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, sour risings, gas on stomach or belching of undigested food, headaches, dizziness or vomiting, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after eating one Triangule of Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

NORMAL STUDENTS ENTERTAINED AT THREE DIFFERENT CHURCHES

Ladies Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A. S. Entertain Normal Pupils

The members of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A. S. entertained the Catholic students who are attending the Normal School and the members of the athletic club. The young ladies were untiring their efforts to provide a pleasant evening, and were more than successful. The social was made more interesting by the presence of His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Rev. Father Kelly and Rev. Father Crowley. Dainty refreshments were served, after which a short musical programme was presented. An instrumental selection was played by the following: Violins, Misses Doris and K. McCarthy; mandolins, Messrs. A. J. Tovey, A. Cranfield, Jas. McNicholl, W. MacPherson, H. Quinlan; piano, Harry Theobald. An encore number was demanded. Mr. John King was heard in a splendidly sung vocal solo, as was also Mr. Jos. Mercier. A comic song that was well received was sung by the following young men: Messrs. Godfrey Coughlin, Frank Hickey, H. Quinlan, A. Letellier and Leo Derocher.

At Murray Street

The school room of the Murray street Baptist Church last night was crowded with an active and delighted coterie of young people who had assembled there on the invitation of the Baptist Young People's Union. The Normal School students of the Peterborough Normal School were given a reception and it was one which they thoroughly enjoyed. A most interesting programme was presented and especially interesting was the musical sketch by the St. John's quartette and the addresses by Dr. Parks of the faculty of the Normal School. Refreshments were also served during the evening and a splendid social time was the result.

At St. Andrew's

The Young People of St. Andrew's church very successfully entertained the Presbyterian students at the Normal School and the Business College last night. The social was held in the school house and that large hall was well filled. There was a large number present from both educational institutions, as well as many of the young people of the church. The programme included solos, recitations, and readings, after which some time was spent in guessing the author from quotations which were tacked to the walls. Then the young ladies served light refreshments and a very enjoyable evening was brought to a close.

The programme was as follows:
Chairman's address—Rec. J. J. Potter.
Piano duet — Misses L Tuft and Taylor.
Address—Rev. H J Keith.
Violin solo—Dr. Parks.
Reading—J Johns.
Banjo solo—F R Clark.
Recitation—Miss M Titterson.
Solo—Gordon Wright.
Reading—Miss Pentland.
Solo—Rev. J G Potter.
Recitation—Murray Miller.
Reading J Johns.

Building Trades Are Busier Than In Several Years Past; Will Continue Into Winter

Local Contractor, Who Has Been Busy All Season, Says Last Few Months Have Seen Big Improvement--Knows Men Who Have Too Much Work—Are Refusing Contracts.

WORK IN COLD WEATHER

A local contrator this morning made the statement that in all the branches of the building trade there is greater activity now than there has been for the past two years. The reporter at first thought the contractor m ant that the bu ld ng work men were busier now than at any time this year, but he emphatically declared that there were plasterers in the city who actually could not accept contracts as they had already more than they could attend to. This gentleman who claims to have had a fine season since the beginning of spring, further states that carpenters and bricklayers are included in the increased business that is being experienced.

Asked for a reason for building operations picking up so during the past few months the contractor stated that he really could not give a definite explanation more than to say that there seems to be a renewed confidence among those who have money and are anxious or find it necessary to build.

According to his opinion the building trades should continue active until the cold season sets in and he would not be surprised to see it carried well into the winter.

Wonderful Transformation During Recent Years In The Northland Of The Dominion

Wheat Grown Successfully Many Miles Beyond Edmonton —An Enormous Region There.

MINERALS IN UNGAVA

When United States' journals begin to give space to the importance and the great possibilities of the Dominion of Canada, the people of this country may believe that there is something to talk about. The following from the New York Sun on the vastness of the Dominion to the north and the advances that have been made in recent years will be read with interest by all who are optimistic of its future:

A committee of the Canadian senate in 1887 spent months in the collection of testimony as to the natural resources to be found in the north of the country. It's long report, illustrated with many maps, was very useful, for about every man competent to give facts and opinions told the committee what he knew. To-day much more valuable information is available.

The southern part of this northland is filling up with settlers at the rate of many thousands a year. The transformation is already remarkable. The following example is cited because residents of this city have personal knowledge of it: Two years ago some Minnesota farmers settled in the wilderness on the edge of Alberta, sixty miles from the nearest post-office at Lloydminster. A letter from this rapidly growing settlement says they now have a weekly mail, a good schoolhouse and Sunday school, a sermon every fortnight, and this fall the Grand Trunk Pacific has built a station six miles away and they are in touch with the world again. A young mother writes that when she stood in her husband's field last summer he could just see the top of her sunbonnet above the oats. This is merely typical of most reports from the new Northwest.

Some time ago the Canadian Department of the Interior prepared a statement showing that the enormous inflow of settlers would in a few years exhaust all available lands for free homesteads in the surveyed parts of the western provinces, and that future expansion would depend upon the exploitation of the Dominion's vast, unexplored northland. So, early last year, a special senate committee was appointed to inquire into the resources and value of that part of the Dominion to the north of the Saskatchewan watershed, east of the Rocky mountains. The committee was empowered to send for persons, papers and records, and months were given to the hearing of evidence.

Some Remarkable Facts.

The first report and the evidence on which it is based has been published in a volume of 140 pages, with many photographs, showing wheat, potato and hay fields, flour mills and timber, hundreds of miles north of the present general limit of settlement. Many of the facts given are remarkable.

Mr. A. P. Low, recently director of the Geological survey, said that east of Hudson bay, in Ungava, a belt of iron bearing rock has been found that is about 100 miles long and 200 to 300 miles wide, from which he expects that a large part of the future iron ore of Canada will be obtained. He also says that in the region just north of Lake Winnipeg is an area at least 5,000 square miles in extent that is well adapted for agriculture.

The fact does not seem to be widely known that in those northern latitudes the lines of equal temperature east of the Rockies extend north and south instead of east and west, this condition prevailing to beyond the Arctic Circle, so that the average temperature for several hundred miles north of Edmonton, the largest of the northern towns, is about the same as in that young city, and though the growing season is a little shorter, this disadvantage is compensated by the fact that the days are longer, giving more hours of sunshine, and the summer heat stimulates rapid growth of vegetation.

In the Peace River Valley, some 400 miles north of Edmonton, fine crops of wheat, barley, oats, peas and other products have been raised regularly for over twenty years, and photographs show luxuriant wheat and potato fields even to the north of Great Slave lake. It is estimated that the area of available agricultural lands in the Mackenzie region and Northern Alberta is not less than 100,000,000 acres.

Miles Beyond Edmonton.

On one of the maps fourteen districts are marked in which wheat has been successfully raised to the north of the present wheat area, and two of them are about 550 miles north of Edmonton. All of them are north of 54 degrees north latitude, one nearly touches the sixty-second parallel, and three are above latitude 60 degrees.

Many pages are given to the successful efforts of scattered frontiermen to raise vegetables and even field crops between 55 and 60 degrees north latitude, and there are pictures of their flourishing fields. About 25,000 bushels of wheat were raised in 1906 in the Peace River Valley, near Fort Vermillion, north of latitude 58 degrees. This is about 260 miles north of the present great wheat area of Western Canada. The production of wheat in these sparsely settled regions has already resulted in the establishment of local grist mills of considerable capacity which manufacture flour by modern processes. Not a pound of these products can as yet be shipped out of the country, for there is no transportation.

The gist of the whole report is that north of the present development extends an enormous region, with vast resources in minerals, arable and grazing lands, timber and fisheries. As the present wheat lands become filled with prosperous farms it is certain that Canada will move energetically toward the opening of this great northern region to settlement.

ANOTHER LETTER ON LOCAL OPTION QUESTION

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In your Wednesday's issue a letter appeared, written with reference to Local Option in general and to the Tuesday night's meeting in particular, by one who signed himself, "One Who Was Present."

Your correspondent states that he has watched with interest the steps taken by the City Temperance League, but it is evident that he has failed to watch those steps closely and carefully, or else he would not assert that "it is not therefore the people of Peterborough that bring on this campaign, but the agents of the Dominion Alliance."

The assertion is made unadvisedly and tends to mischief.

As a matter of fact the so-called agents have had nothing whatever to do with the inception of this movement, although their recent work in the city has undoubtedly contributed very much towards its strength.

The City League, at least in its executive capacity, had determined upon a clearly defined line of action, looking to the submission of a Local Option by-law in Jan., 1910, without any direction from the Dominion Alliance, and so far as was known without the knowledge of the Alliance officers. The coming of the Alliance with a proposition to hold a Temperance Educational Sunday here, was part of the general campaign which that effective organization is carrying on throughout the whole province.

At many points, where there is no immediate prospect of Local Option becoming an issue, as well as at other points where the work is in full swing.

It is understood that the Ministerial Association unanimously welcomed the Alliance to the city, the result being those magnificent meetings on Sunday last in all the churches and opera house, which called forth from the citizens a most convincing expression of sympathy with the reform.

Tuesday night's meeting, and the resolution presented and enthusiastically carried, are referred to in a rather unsympathetic way. Let this be said in relation thereto, First, that arrangements were being made for said meeting previous to, and without reference to the visit of the Alliance representatives, and the presence of Mr. Spence was taken advantage of, he being a person eminently qualified to offer advice and instruction to the City League, on the line of its proposed action.

Secondly, the resolution, which by the way, was not inspired by Mr. Spence, as your correspondent affirms, was the perfectly natural feature of the meeting; not intended to voice the sentiment of the people of Peterborough, but simply an expression of that meeting's approval to the action taken, announcement of which had been made at the opening by Mr. Cunningham, the chairman.

It would seem unfortunate if an effort to minimize the importance of the present movement towards the abolition of the bar, should pass unchallenged, hence this correction of your correspondent's misleading statements. Any discussion of the merits of the issue, the present writer may hereafter engage in will be over his own signature.

Kindliness And Amiability Are Inherited From The Father

Love of Sports Comes From the Mother—Savants Have Studied Heredity With Interesting Results.

IS IT TRUE WITH YOU?

Berlin, Oct. 24.—Professors Heymans and Wiersma, two of the best known of European anthropologists, have published the results of an elaborate examination of "inherited characteristics." Their investigations have extended over thirty years and assisting them have been over 3,000 physicians.

Briefly put, the results of these minute inquiries are as follows:

The faculty of logical thought and the gift to formulate and utter thoughts have been in the great majority of cases inherited from the father rather than from the mother. The sons of forty-four out of every hundred mathematically minded fathers and of fathers with scientific gifts inherited their fathers' leanings. With the daughters the case was quite different, only fourteen of every hundred inclined to or took any interest in science.

The results of investigations concerning the children of scientific mothers are especially interesting. In every single case this characteristic of the mothers appeared in the sons, in not one case did it appear with the daughters.

All characteristics in the nature of kindliness and general pleasantness or amiability are traceable to fathers; it rarely happened that the mother was responsible.

Coming to crime and weakness of will power, the professors point out that for these the father is generally to blame. And also inherited from the father are the predisposition to melancholy, epilepsy and weakness of mental equipment. The proportion is 90 per cent. inherited from the father and 10 per cent. from the mother. Still more singular is the fact that sporting instincts are from the mother's side. Hunters are the sons of their mothers, rather than of their fathers, and included are athletes, boxers, &c.

The sense of cleanliness was in all cases inherited from the mother, so also the desire for neatness and the careful treatment of the body.

In all cases of remarkable punctuality, and in all cases where the feeling of honour was highly developed, the father was the source.

In all the thousands of cases examined only two per cent. have been discovered where apparently neither parent had any influence.

The Inthon Bible Class Hold Most Successful Debate

Decide That Gossiping Is More Harmful To The Community Than Stealing.

GOOD MUSICAL PROGRAMME

The literary debate given by the Inthon Bible Class of George Street Methodist Church last night was a big success. Mr. R J Soden presided as chairman of the committee and caused much merriment by his abundant supply of witticisms. Before the debate started, a quartette, picked at random from the class, and to appear before the public for the first time, sang "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus." With a little practice that same quartette would make a favourable showing against any in Peterborough.

The subject to be debated upon was then taken up, and the discussion that followed was both interesting and amusing: "Resolved, That Gossiping Is More Harmful Than Stealing," is a subject that will stand a great deal of discussion. The debate ended last night in favour of stealing, that is, that stealing is not as harmful to a community as gossiping. Messrs. A R Kidd, S A Oke and W B Warne were on the affirmative, and Messrs. F. C. Moore, Wood and Moore were on the defence. Both sides were composed of good speakers who put up some convincing arguments.

Rev. E A Pearson was called upon for a solo and he sang "Does Jesus Care?" in a very creditable manner. A quartette from the choir also rendered a couple of pieces and were accompanied on the piano by Miss Gumpricht who is a talented player. Mr. Cunningham, a member of the choir, sang "Asleep in the Deep," and his rich bass voice was displayed to great advantage.

About fifty were present, and those who were not there certainly missed a treat.

The next entertainment on the season's programme will be a social one, gotten up by Mr. G T Proctor, the chairman of the social committee. It will take place on Friday night, November 6.

The Inthons will meet as usual for the lesson discussion to-morrow afternoon at 2.30.

Don't be backward in coming forward, fellows. If you are a stranger in Peterborough, don't be shy in coming around to see us. You won't be strange very long. We meet in the church parlour at the George street Methodist Church, corner of George and McDonel streets.—Com.

CONSULT OUR OPTICIAN

The Eye is such a delicate organ that it should never be trifled with. This is why our optician has followed the teachings of only recognized authorities on the eye.

Many opticians take half a dozen or more correspondent courses costing from $7.50 to $25. With this limited knowledge it is little wonder that many are wearing glasses that do not suit them—others that do not require them.

If you have eye-trouble you should consult an optician who has a thorough knowledge of every branch of the optical business. Such a man is our Mr. Taylor.

LEFT FAT; BACK SLENDER

By "Footlights."

Glau and his overweight chorus from the "Aeroplane" company have returned to New York in what may be described as greatly reduced circumstances. Not as to finances, let it be said, nor yet in numbers, glory be, but in avoirdupois—that is to say, gross flesh. The entire galaxy has out in this respect, much to its advantage.

It seems the people out west will support slim ballerinas, and no other, and our famous "balloon chorus" carried, so to speak, no weight with them. They treated that prize collection of fat New York beauties with an unprecedented coldness. Consequently, Glau faced the problem of reducing the entire front and rear rows at once, or shipping them back—"excess" baggage. It was a terrific job, as all who saw the "Aeroplane" before it left this tolerant town will admit, but our ingenious townsman tackled it and succeeded—broke all records, in fact. And thereby hangs a tale worthy of any fat lady's attention.

Glau didn't rehearse his flock into shape, nor starve them into line, nor yet worry them, verbally into shadows. He paid salaries regularly and let them eat and drink as they listed. He simply hung up a new rule in the dressing-room to the effect that every lady less than five foot seven who weighed in excess of 150 pounds must take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime (or about where her bedtime ought to be,) of the following: One-half ounce Marmola, 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 4 3-4 ounces Peppermint Water.

They did it and in a month averaged a loss of a pound a day apiece. "That's a dandy receipt," says Glau. "Simple, pleasant, harmless and a worker from the word "go." Wish I could get a railroad rate reducer half as good."

DRUGGISTS MUST BE CHARY

They Sell all Kinds of Hair Preparations and Fear to Discriminate

Druggists sell all kinds of hair preparations, and as a rule they are wisely chary of giving preference to any particular one, but many of them have come out plainly for Newbro's Herpicide, the new treatment that absolutely kills the dandruff germ. H. Swannell & Son, Champaign, Ill., says: "One customer of ours who did not have a hair on top of his head when he began to use Herpicide, now has a fair start towards a good head of hair. We believe Herpicide to be by far the best preparation of its kind on the market." Hundreds of similar testimonials from everywhere. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1. BARNARDO HOME WORK IS HIGHLY PRAISED

The current issue of Night and Day, the quarterly organ of Dr. Barnardo's Homes, is well worth perusal. It tells the story of a work which has rescued over 67,000 children, and which has always 8,000 under its care. A fully illustrated account is given of the Annual Meeting of the Homes and an abstract of its Report for the year 1907. The fourth party of emigrants from the Homes for 1908 has just left for Canada. This party — 165 strong —brings up the number emigrated by the Homes in all to the astounding total of 20,671! Most of these have gone to Canada, and 98 per cent. of them have done and 98 per cent of them have done well. A copy of the magazine will be sent gratis and post free to any one on application to the Honorary Secretary Mr. George Code, 18 to 36 Stepney Causeway, London, E.

LET MEN BE MEN

Of all the times a man should see,
Now is the time that he should be,
The man whom God meant him to be.
This is the time when men should know
That He who walked this earth below,
Knows all that ever we did know.
He walked this earth and knows its cares,
And promises its burdens all to share.
So now be men, take up the care!
'Twas God himself who put it there.
The laws this land of ours holds,
Are laws both noble ones and bold.
So let us live as we should live,
And still remember that He lives,
And know that when next Monday
You put down your cross, it is your day
To prove to men that you all east
To prove to men that you at least
Have done your best to help the peace.

TOWN WIPED OUT BY A FOREST FIRE

Matheson, New Ontario, Practically Destroyed by Fire.

ESTIMATED LOSS IS $75,000

New Town, Named After Ontario's Provincial Treasurer, Is Victim of Flames Which Were Discovered In Abitibi Hotel—Bush Fires Rage Around Udora and Zephyr—Elevators Threatened.

North Bay, Oct. 24.—The loss by fire at Matheson Thursday night will be $75,000. The new town, named after the Provincial Treasurer, has been practically wiped out.

The flames were discovered about 10 o'clock at night in the Abitibi Hotel, and, spreading rapidly, quickly leaped to adjoining buildings, and without fire appliances of any kind quickly burned.

Buildings with living rooms overhead were soon licked up by the flames. A bucket brigade was formed and worked manfully between the river close by and the burning buildings, but little could be done to check the flames, the buildings being mainly of frame construction, covered with tar paper. W. James was injured, but not seriously. The T. & N. O. Railway station escaped the flames.

The loss will approximate $75,000, with no insurance. Among the fire sufferers are Revillon Bros., fur traders and general merchants; Rothschild Bros., dry goods; Taylor, hardware store; John Clark, general store; R. A. Douglass, drug store and postoffice; Syrian colony and Chinese laundry. The origin is unknown.

Uxbridge, Oct. 24.—Bush fires are raging in the surrounding country. Valuable timber sections are in danger, as well as farming properties.

At Udora, a village to the north of here, a fierce fire is raging, which up to the present has destroyed fences and is creeping close to several large barns. People in the neighborhood are fighting it day and night.

At Zephyr a village to the northwest, a number of men are watching the station to prevent the fires spreading to the elevators. Large clouds of smoke continually pass over this town.

Three Daring Burglars.

Newark, N.J., Oct. 24.—Three masked men cut the telephone wires outside of the fine Perkins' home at Morristown, yesterday entered the house, knocked down one of the three maid servants, attacked and choked Mrs. P. W. Miller, a sister of the three Misses Perkins, who were in the house, and then ransacked the place.

The robbers, who are believed to be the ones who cut the wires and looted the home of Banker H. B. March in Orange a few nights ago, obtained at least $2,000 worth of jewelry in the Perkins' house and some money.

Murderer's Sanity.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 24.—A plea of insanity will be the defence of James Jenkins, the negro accused of the murder of Mrs. Mary Morrison near Hazelmore. The trial opened at New Westminster yesterday.

Thursday evening a board of physicians was appointed to make an examination of the prisoner. The physicians decided that Jenkins was sane, but his mentality is weak.

W. G. McQuarrie is the defence counsel, having been appointed by the court. Chief Justice Hunter is hearing the case.

Youth Hanged For Murder.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 24.—Having confessed his guilt, and with a prayer upon his lips, Joe James, 18-year-old negro murderer of C. A. Ballard, was hanged in the county jail yesterday. Ballard was killed July 30 last, the murder precipitating riots which state troops were necessary to quell.

In a drunken stupor James had wandered into the home of Mr. Ballard and had entered the bedroom of Miss Blanche Ballard and seized her hand. The girl screamed. Her father came to her assistance and was stabbed.

Woman Shoots Man.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Rosie Alberta, aged 41, whose husband, Joel Alberta, conducts a saloon, on Thursday shot and killed Zito Frappanpino, a baker, whose place of business is under the saloon. As the man fell the woman knelt over his unconscious form and begged him to live.

Mrs. Alberta is held on a charge of murder. She says Frappanpino tried to mistreat her. John Partippo, the business manager of Frappanpino, declared the shooting was the result of a long standing grudge.

Because He Ate Green Apples.

New York, Oct. 24.—Because he ate green apples after repeated instructions from his superior officer not to do so, Private Bernard Leiser of the 3rd Field Artillery, U.S.A., has been dishonorably discharged from the service and sentenced to forfeit all pay and allowances due him, and to be confined at hard labor for six months.

Sell Lower to India.

London, Oct. 24.—(C.A.P.)—Regarding the steel rails ordered by the Southern Punjaub Railway from the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., The Yorkshire Herald says that the exact price quoted has been communicated in confidence to some of the English firms who tendered. The secret is being carefully preserved, but the price is said to be considerably lower than that at which the same firm is now supplying the same type of rail in the Dominion of Canada.

World's Fastest Typewriter.

New York, Oct. 24.—Miss Rose Fritz of Brooklyn again proved that she is the fastest typewriter operator in the world by winning the contests for the championship at the Business Show at Madison Square Garden. Miss Fitz retained the championship by writing eighty-seven words a minute. Emil Trefger was a close second with eighty-six words, and Otis Elaisdell was third with eighty words.

IS A DEFENDER OF THE GUILD

WAS TO IMPROVE TRADE

Member of Big Firm Goes on Stand as First Witness In Behalf of Dominion Organization—Object of Institution Was to Provide Reasonable Profit For Wholesalers—Zealand Ends Crown's Case.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—That the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild is not a combine was the emphatic declaration of Mr. Hugh Blain, of Eby, Blain & Co., Toronto, who was the first witness called for the defence in the proceedings before Chief Justice Falconbridge yesterday. Mr. Blain has been an active member of the Guild since its organization, and in his evidence he explained the steps which had been taken by the wholesale grocers during the past twenty years, and the policy which the Guild had pursued with the view of improving the conditions of the trade. Their object, he said, in entering into arrangements with the manufacturers and refiners was to insure a reasonable profit for the wholesale grocers, who, he claimed, were the best and cheapest medium for the distribution of goods to the retailers. In no case had these arrangements resulted detrimentally to the consumer or to the retailer. There was nothing in the operations of the Guild calculated to bring about the results charged in the indictment.

Demands of other cases do not allow Chief Justice Falconbridge to hear the finish of the conspiracy charges and when time came to adjourn last evening his lordship announced that the balance of the defence evidence would not be heard till Nov. 10.

When the case opened in the morning Mr. Zealand was recalled to the witness box, and his evidence closed the case for the crown. He told Mr. Blackstock that his principal objection to the equalized rates system for sugar lay in the fact that the system charged excessive rates in order that the sugar should be properly distributed to the wholesalers, which meant that the price was increased to the consumers. To illustrate this fact he stated that the guild rate to Fort William was 36 cents, whereas he had secured a boat rate from Hamilton of 14 cents; then from Montreal to Guelph and Galt there is little difference in distance. The rate to Guelph is 14 and to Galt 24 cents.

Floated on Mattress.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 24.—Clyde Seaman, 17, was drowned off Nine Mile Point in Hay Lake Thursday night, when the launch in which he and three others were riding was run down by the steamer John A. Donaldson.

In the launch with the boy were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Seaman, and James Burns. The boy was placed on watch in the stern of the boat, but went to sleep and did not see the freighter as it approached. In the launch was a large bedtick and when they were so suddenly precipitated into the water, the two men placed Mrs. Seaman upon it. Had it not been for this they declare that the whole party would have gone down.

Broken Leg Fatal.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 24.—Mrs. Von Ettinger, a visitor here from Germany, died yesterday morning in the general hospital. She was stopping at the Hotel Vancouver and accidentally broke her leg the other day. She did not recover from the shock.

Farmer Missing.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—Simon O'Grady, a wealthy Carleton County farmer, has been missing from his home since Sunday night. It is supposed that he has drowned himself. He was in a despondent mood on Sunday. He is 44 years of age and unmarried.

Ore Cars Wrecked.

Belleville, Oct. 24.—By the breaking of a flange a freight train was wrecked near Lamable Station, and six cars loaded with ore were derailed and badly smashed. The track was badly torn up. The damage to rolling stock will be considerable.

Grain Men Incorporate.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—Incorporation has been granted the Central Grain Co. of Winnipeg. The capital stock is $199,000. The provisional directors are: E. E. Hall, Donald Morrison, Charles J. McFall, Chas. S. Blanchard and Stewart Murray.

Hon. James Duff Elected.

Collingwood, Oct. 24.—Hon. James Duff, Sir James Whitney's new Minister of Agriculture, was re-elected by acclamation at the nomination for the bye-election yesterday afternoon. The riding is flattered by his being chosen for the position.

Schooner Runs Ashore.

Kingston, Oct. 24.—At an early hour yesterday the schooner Fordriver ran aground in Navy Bay in heavy smoke, laden with coal, and had to be lightered before released. Capt. Daryeau said he could not see the length of the vessel.

Rural Delivery In Halton.

Milton, Oct. 24.—The Postoffice Department has established a rural mail delivery route between Milton and Mount Nemo. The first mail was delivered this morning.

ARE TRYING TO DRIVE A BARGAIN

Turco-Bulgarian Negotiations Are Temporarily Interrupted.

TWELVE MILLION INDEMNITY

Count Trum, Agent of Austria-Hungary, Says Bulgaria Will Pay Moderate Sum Instead of Tribute—Recall of Bulgarian Envoy Gives Rise to Unpleasant Rumors Regarding Strained Relations.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 24.—The Government has ordered M. Dimitroff, its special envoy to Constantinople, to return here for new instructions.

This has given rise to fears that the Turco-Bulgarian negotiations looking to a settlement of the trouble that has arisen from Bulgaria's sudden declaration of independence have become futile. But the Government insists that the negotiations have not been broken; they have only been interrupted to permit the envoys to report adequately in person.

Since the beginning of the crisis neither state has transmitted any messages in cipher. M. Dimitroff has been able to send only fragmentary open despatches.

Count Thurn, the diplomatic agent here of Austria-Hungary, had a long conference yesterday with M. Popriikoff. At the conclusion of his talk, he said the prospects for peace were good in spite of this hitch in the negotiations. It is the opinion of the count that Bulgaria eventually will consent to pay a moderate sum, about $12,000,000 to Turkey in lieu of tribute.

The negotiations between M. Dimitroff and Kaimil Pasha, the grand vizier of Turkey, were a perfect example of oriental bargaining. M. Stoyanovish, and Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs, also were present at the meetings.

At the outset the Turks would only concede the veriest minimum; the recognition of Northern Bulgaria as an independent kingdom, Rumelia to remain a vassal principality and continue to pay tribute and the Rumelian railways to remain Turkish property. The Bulgarians rejected these proposals without discussion.

At a subsequent sitting the Turks consented to recognize both Bulgarias as an independent kingdom on the condition that this kingdom pay the Rumelian tribute and the cost of the railway property, plus arrears. The tribute due from Northern Bulgaria is estimated at 100,000 Turkish pounds a year.

At the final meeting the Turkish demands were reduced to the mere payment of the Rumelian tribute and for the railway. The Bulgarians declared their willingness to pay for the railway, but said they would give no tribute. At this point the negotiations were interrupted and the envoys recalled.

Jail For Card Dealers.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Athol G. Robertson, charged with selling obscene pictures and postcards and with sending them through the mails, pleaded guilty in the Police Court yesterday morning, and was sent to jail for 60 days. Robertson was one of the wholesale dealers. P. V. Brown, who also pleaded guilty to selling, was sent down for a like term. A. R. Wickett was acquitted on the ground that while the cards which he had were not exactly the thing for general sale, they were not vicious. A. L. Merrill, who has a number of stores, was let go, pleading that the cards had crept into his stock without his knowledge. Albert Prouse went down for 30 days for selling, and Henry Goldenthal went free on the ground that his cards were not really bad.

Groom Shot.

Palogue Mine, La., Oct. 24.—F. A. Vaningan, shot by his bride's former suitor while on a railroad train just starting the bridal tour, died in his wife's arms on a Texas & Pacific train near here late Thursday night. F. S. Beauvre is under arrest here charged with the shooting. He sat directly across the aisle from the bridal couple when the shot was fired. It is reported that he had but a few minutes before offered his congratulations.

Highwaymen Sentenced.

Montreal, Oct. 24.—Judge Choquette sentenced two highwaymen to the penitentiary yesterday. They were Fred Cawthorne and George Duffy. On Oct. 1 they beat and robbed Mr. C. A. E. Reid, jeweler, who was on his way home. They gave him a severe beating, and stole a watch valued at $600 and a ring valued at $700. Cawthorne got 14 years and Duffy 10 years.

Big Pulp Shipment.

Clarke City, Que., Oct. 24.—The largest cargo of wood pulp ever sent out of Canoda is now being loaded on the steamship Kristiania at Seven Islands, from which port she will sail in a few days for London. The cargo will be over 5,000 tons, and is the product of the new mill at this place.

To Protect Miners.

Washington, Oct. 24.—Important suggestions for minimizing loss of life in the coal mines in the United States are contained in a report submitted to President Roosevelt through Secretary Garfield by the three foreign mining experts who have investigated conditions.

Value Crop at $125,000,000.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—According to advices received at the Department of Trade and Commerce from official sources at Winnipeg the total cash value of the western grain crop will be approximately $125,000,000. This exceeds former estimates by several millions.

Condemned Yellow Newspapers.

Saratoga, N.Y., Oct. 24.—"Yellow" newspapers and the Sunday newspapers' "funny" sections were condemned in resolutions adopted at the final session of the New York Assembly of Mothers' Clubs.

HAMBLEDON, THE CRADLE OF BRITISH CRICKET

Last week on Broad Halfpenny Down the cricket memorial was unveiled to mark the spot where the Hambledon men used to engage in many a famous cricket match. The site of the monument is opposite the historic Bat and Ball Inn, near the little village of Hambledon, in Hampshire. The memorial takes the form of a plain stone monument of roughly hewn grey granite, and on it there is a panel showing the shape of the old fashioned bat and ball carved in relief.

Though there may be some little contention on the subject, yet most people are content to look upon Hambledon as the "cradle of British cricket," and certainly its claims to the title seem sufficiently valid.

Rumour has it that a species of cricket was played at Kenilworth on the occasion of Queen Elizabeth's visit to the Earl of Leicester. At Guildford in the seventeenth century a primitive form of the game was played with sticks and stones. The first recorded match was played at Malling, in Kent, between teams representing West Chatham and Kent. This match took place in 1706.

All England Beaten

The fact remains, however, that 180 years ago this little village could and did supply a cricket eleven good enough to challenge and to beat an All England eleven. Not only were these heroes willing to challenge such opposition, but they used to back themselves for £500 to beat the teams chosen to represent the rest of the kingdom. Unfortunately but few records of these encounters remain, for the majority of them were destroyed in a fire which took place at Lord's in 1825. However, the account of the meeting which took place between the "Hambledon Men" and All England on June 18, 1777, is still in existence. The match was for £1,000, and Hambledon won by an innings and 168 runs. All England, who were captained by the Duke of Somerset, batted first, and though such notable performers as Lumpy, Minchin, Bowra and Yalden were playing they were got rid of for 166. The Hambledon men under Lord Tankerville replied with 403, Aylward running up the record score of 167, a notable feat when one remembers that cricket pitches were not nursed and "doctored" as they are nowadays. In their second innings All England could only score 69, so that the "Villagers" gained an easy victory.

The Hambledon Club was founded by Richard Nyren about 1750, and at first matches were played on Broad Halfpenny Down, but after ten years or so the pitch was moved to Windmill Hill as being a more convenient site. The old ground stood on the top of a hill and sloped downwards all round; in consequence some mighty hits are recorded, and on one occasion Noah Mann, who was the Jessop of those days, actually hit a ten. Windmill Down also "declined every way from the centre; the fieldsmen therefore were compelled to look about them" as John Nyren naively remarks in describing it.

Bowlers Choose the Pitches

In those days there were only two stumps: these were one foot in height but two feet wide, while across the top of them another stump was laid, consequently the ball frequently passed over the top of the wickets or through them. It was not until about 1780 that a third stump was added, while the height was altered to twenty-two ins. and the width to six inches.

These village trundlers, however, had their own methods for getting the other side out, for we hear that "Lumpy," whose real name was Stevens, and who was reckoned the best length bowler in England of his day, would select a wicket to suit him — for in those days it was the custom for the visitors to pitch the wickets on their opponents' ground, and according to Nyren he would always select a point where the ball would be likely to shoot, that is, over the brow of a little hill. Harris, however, who was considered the best bowler of the period, always chose a pitch on which he could make the ball rise, and the batsmen of those days used to have a very indifferent time, for these deliveries of Harris "would grind the batsmen's fingers against the bat, and many a time I have seen blood drawn in this way," says Nyren.

The majority of the players who took part in the Hambledon matches in these days were small local tradesmen, or gardeners and gamekeepers to the Duke of Dorset, Lord Tankerville, or Sir Horace Mann. That is to say, they were cricketers first, and then found a snug employment with one or other of these patrons of the game. How keen they were on the game may be gathered from the fact that Lambert, nicknamed "the Little Farmer," when watching his father's sheep, would spend hours bowling at a hurdle and trying to master the art of "twisting" the ball.

Velvet Caps and Knee Breeches

The teams must have presented a curious appearance, according to our notions, in those days, for the Hambledon men, who used to travel to their matches in a caravan, always played in knee breeches and stockings, and it was also usual to play in buckled shoes. This latter fashion had its drawbacks for fingers were often badly cut or torn by the buckles when fielding.

If the bowlers of those days came to Lord's or the Oval to-day, they would be filled with horror at the sight of our method of bowling. Round-arm or over-arm bowling was anathema to those giants of the game, and the old chroniclers wrote pages deprecating the method of "jerking" or "throwing," as they called it. Swift underhand deliveries were the order of the day then — not the insidious lob, but the straightforward, fast, well pitched ball.

Not only were these men keen cricketers, but they seem to have been devoted friends, and the famous Bat and Ball Inn, with its porch with one wall not built in, where the scorers used to sit, was the scene of many a jovial evening. John Small, senior, one of the soundest cricketers of the day, was also a great fiddler; George Lear — a perfect fielder — and Tom Suter were notable singers, and the cricket meetings usually ended up with a pleasant evening. For, mark you, you had to be a good fellow as well as a useful cricketer to be admitted to the fellowship of the Hambledon men, and the one man who attempted to "sell" a match at Hambledon fell on very evil days!

The departure from the village of Richard Nyren, "the head and right arm" of Hambledon cricket, broke up the famous little coterie in 1787, and put an end to Hambledon's fame; this and the rapid evolution of cricket. But it is right that the Hambledon Festival should be renewed in this age of pageants, even though the players were not "dressed for the part."—Overseas Daily Mail.

Shrubb's Big Task On Sunday; Meets Three Men In Five Miles

The three-man team which will meet Alf Shrubb in a special match race at Kenilworth Park, Buffalo, on Oct. 25, was selected yesterday. The trio which will attempt to beat the famous English runner is composed of Jimmy Moynihan, one of the best runners in the country and holder of numerous trophies won on the track; Bill Davis, who holds the Canadian two-mile record, and Charley Burns, trainer for the Lafayette High School athletes. In addition, two professional runners will be on hand to act as substitutes. At Shrubb's request the distance of the race has been changed to five miles. Shrubb stated that he would have no chance at all running against the three men selected at any distance less than five miles.

Among the spectators at the race on the 25th will be Tom Longboat, the famous Indian runner. Longboat will run in the Star Marathon race at Montreal, Saturday when he will attempt to redeem himself, and immediately after the event is finished he will start for Buffalo, arriving here in time to see Shrubb run. After the race here Longboat will return to Toronto.

Shrubb will have the task of his life on his hands when he faces the three men on the 25th. Davis is numbered among the top notch runners, and in Moynihan and Burns he will have two able aides, and the three are sure to make it most interesting for Shrubb. According to present plans, Moynihan and Burns will run a mile and a half each and Davis will finish out the last two miles. This will mean two good milers against the Englishman in the early stages of the contest, with Davis fighting it out the last two miles of the journey.

No little interest will be taken in the football game to be played before the big race, in which the All-Buffalo eleven will face the Manhattans of Lockport. The All-Buffalo team has been practising faithfully for this game, realising that in the Manhattans they face one of the best heavy teams in Western New York.

The Great Vanderbilt Cup Race Is Being Run To-day On Long Island

To-day the celebrated Vanderbilt Cup race is being run over the Long Island Motor Parkway and will be contrary to general opinion it all automobile speed records are not broken. The best machines in the world will whizz round and round the long, specially prepared course in a mad fight against time. The race was billed to start at daybreak and trains were scheduled to run at regular intervals from New York and Brooklyn all through the night to accommodate the large crowd that always witness this event. Hundreds and hundreds of motor cars and automobiles convey the wealthier class and it some fatality or other is not recorded it is almost short of miraculous. The drivers of the racing cars are the most daring in the business and over this course should make wonderful time. The road has been sprinkled with an oil to lay the dust, resulting in the elimination of this danger and nuisance.

WILL ALF. SHRUBB RUN TO-DAY? HIS THREAT TO DO SO CAUSES EXCITEMENT IN MONTREAL RACE

Montreal, Oct. 24. — Will Alfred Shrubb start in to-day's 15-mile championship road race?

If he does, will he get mobbed?

These are the two great questions which are agitating athletic Montreal to-day.

Who will win the Canadian championship?

What club will win the team championship?

Those two great questions are completely lost sight of, and the new Shrubb proposition is the cause of many wordy wars.

"I don't believe Shrubb has any intention of running at all," said W J Little, one of the chief movers in the race. "He came here on Thursday, caused a sensation, got what he was looking for—a free advertisement — and blew out of town. At any rate, Shrubb is not at his hotel, and could not be found yesterday."

Flanagan's Warning

"Shrubb may start, but he will never finish," says Tom Flanagan, manager of the Irish-Canadians, ominously. "He will be stopped."

He refused to particularize, but further added: "We won't stand for butting in and whip-sawing a man who is engaged in the most important amateur race of the year."

"The King's highway is free," said Shrubb yesterday. "At last I have Longboat where I want him, after waiting two years."

A Chance of a Riot

This is a strong Longboat town, but there is a big contingent of Englishmen here who are strong Shrubb supporters, so the chances of a riot, in the event of Shrubb starting, are bright indeed.

The roads are good and the Indian is in grand shape. The outside runners are arriving on every train this morning. The Halifax team—Homer, Lemerton, Rogers, Wolfe and Downey; the Toronto Central Y.M.C.A. team—Jack Near, Arnold, Knox, and Howard, H M Warwick, and Lister, in charge of Fred Smith; Goerge Black, Percy Sellen, Will Thomas, and Claude Pearce, of the Toronto I.C.A.C., and Chas. Neilson, Jack Roe and Nat Dyment, of the Toronto West End Y.M.C.A., O'Brien of Gananoque, and Fred Simpson, of Peterborough, came in.

That Longboat will win off by himself is admitted on all sides. He is in great form. The way he cleaned up such famous Caughnawaga Indian runners as Deer, Hemlocks, Cross-the-River, in a relay race on the reserve on Wednesday opened the Montrealers' eyes. He is an odds-on favourite. Who will win the team championship is the real question.

The Ontario team fear only the Halifax team, and C H Ashley of the West End Y.M.C.A. says it is between Halifax and Central. Fred Smith says Centrals and Irish-Canadians, but an accurate guess cannot be made till Boby Kerr of the Hamilton team comes. If he has Cotter, Adams, McCuaig, Elliott and Mclody in line, the Hams. will be hard to trim.

"The Irish will be there," says Tom Flanagan. "This is the tid-bit of the year, and we must have it."

HACKENSCHMIDT TEACHING HARVARD STUDENTS TO WRESTLE

Chris Graham has received word from young Hackenschmidt, who is to wrestle Yankee Rogers here next Friday night, to the effect that he is in the best of condition and confident of winning from the clever Yank. Hack. has been for the past three weeks coaching the university classes at Harvard University, and has also been working out in Sandow's gymnasium in Boston. He will be here next week and will endeavour to show the people of Peterborough that the big Yankee is not unbeatable. He realizes that Rogers is a most formidable adversary and a demon at the catch-as-catch-can game, but the cousin of the famous Hack. is not worrying any on that account.

Manager Naylor writes on behalf of his man that Rogers is travelling at a faster clip than ever. If that is true, it is not hard to see that there is trouble ahead for Hack.

HOCKEY TO BOOM IN TORONTO

More Than 100 Teams in the O. H. A. During the Coming Season.

Already the hockey fever has struck the community, notwithstanding the fact that winter is a long way off. Throughout the Province teams are forming, and the O.H.A. this year promises to be bigger than ever before.

The annual meeting will be held in the Temple Building on the morning of Nov. 14, and within the next week or so notices and invitations will be sent out. It is expected nearly a hundred delegates will be in attendance, and these gentlemen will be armed with proxies from every amateur organization in the Province.

From the general interest taken this early in the season, this winter promises to be the greatest ever. With more than one hundred teams affiliated with the O.H.A. in line and all the districts under way by Dec. 15, all will be activity. About Feb. 1 the districts will have completed their schedules, and the play-offs in the various divisions will take place.

At the annual meeting it does not appear at this early date that there will be any opposition to the present officials. Dwight J. Turner will be elected president. — Toronto News.

THE BROWNIES WON BY DEFAULT

The Tigers Failed to Put in an Appearance for Game Last Night.

The Brownie basketball team of the Y.M.C.A. won their game in the Cressman Trophy series by default, their opponents, the Tigers, failing to put in an appearance. The Brownies, however, played a practise game against a team of six men whom they succeeded in defeating. The boys are back in their old time form and as most of the old players are in the city again they will take a lot of beating.

FRED SIMPSON TO RUN AT HAMILTON

Has Decided to Take Part in The Herald Race.

Fred Simpson will run in the Hamilton Herald race this year and figures on carrying off the classic event. Simpson left for Montreal last night and is running in the Independent Harriers' big 15-mile race this afternoon with 111 other runners from all parts of Canada.

On his return from Montreal, Fred will keep in training for the Herald event, in which he was second last year and which he would like very much to carry off.

The local sporting public will await with interest the result of to-day's race at Montreal.

COCKMAN MANAGING GUELPH

Toronto Ball Players Going Into Pro'' Hockey Business.

It is reported from Guelph that Jimmy is at present out on the warpath for material to strengthen his team. The Maple Leaf thirdbaseman has succeeded in getting the necessary backing but he still has some negotiating to do with the Royal City Rink owners. They are said to be asking such stiff prices for the rink that the hockey club could not hope to clear itself.

Upon this hangs the question of whether Guelph will have a professional hockey team this winter or not. The people want the game and are willing to support it. Manager Cockman is going after his business in a way that looks like success, but still there is considerable doubt about the outcome in view of the rink difficulty.—Toronto Star.

Sporting Comment

John McGraw, manager of the Giants, who, with Fred Knowles, secretary of the team, has opened a billiard academy in the Marbridge Building, Thirty-fourth street and Broadway, had a formal housewarming Wednesday evening. McGraw's Academy is probably the finest in the country and will no doubt take high rank in the sporting world at once. The appointments are really superb.—Telegraph.

* * * *

From all appearances the Peterborough Turf Club are going to straighten out that old score of "Walter G," the horse that won one of the races at the Peterborough Fair. When Thos. Hodgins, of Orillia, entered him before the races there was considerable speculation as to his identity, in fact, more than one horseman hinted that he was none other than "Little Hector." It is stated that the owner offered no identification, and during the race a protest was offered by Dr. Leach and Mr. Gerald Dunsford. "Walter G" won the race and first money was paid "Walter G," although Dr. Johnston states that he had given notice to ithhold it until the protest was settled. Due notice was sent Mr. Hodgins, who sent no reply and has not made identification. The thirty days allowed have elapsed, and now it is up to the local club to draw Mr. Hodgins over the coals, and Dr. Johnston states they intend to do so. The fine is $100 with expulsion or suspension. The local club has the sanction of the National Trotting Association.

ARTISTIC PICTURES FROM THE ROY STUDIO
Excellent Groups That Are Being Much Admired.
The Roy Studio has just completed four groups which are all excellent testimonials to the artistic work done by that progressive firm. The picture of the District Cup Champions in curling is one of them and is now on exhibition in McDonald's drug store window. It is being much admired by the passers-by. The other groups are those of the City Hockey Executive, the Board of Management of the Nicholls Hospital, and the five generations representing the Dunford family of Dummer.
They are all splendidly and artistically finished, and are much to be admired. The Roy Studio makes a specialty in the taking of groups.

LIKE THORNS IN THE FLESH
The twinges and the tortures of rheumatism are not due to cold, damp weather as so many people imagine. Rheumatism comes from poisonous acid in the blood. The pains may be started by cold weather, damp weather, or by keen winds. There is only one way to cure rheumatism. It must be treated through the blood. All the liniments and rubbing, and so-called electrical treatment in the world will not cure rheumatism. The acid that causes the disease must be driven out of the blood and the blood enriched and purified. It is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new red blood that they have cured thousands of cases of rheumatism after all other treatment had failed. As a proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do, even in the most severe cases of rheumatism, the case of Mr. David Carrol, a well-known furniture dealer of Pictou, N. S., may be cited. Mr. Carroll says: "I have been a most severe sufferer from rheumatism, and in the hope that some other poor sufferer may find relief from my experience, I gladly write you of the benefit I have received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The trouble settled in my shoulders and down my sides, and at times I was quite unable to raise my arm. I was attended by a doctor, but as I did not appear to be getting any better I sent for a so-called electric belt for which I paid $40. It did not do me any good and then I tried another remedy, but without any better results. A friend asked me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I got three boxes. By the time I had used them all I found the stiffness and pain less severe, and I got another half dozen boxes. When I had taken these every symptom of the trouble had disappeared and in the two years that have since passed I have had no return of the trouble. I believe there is no other medicine equal to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for curing this painful trouble, and I have recommended the Pills to others who have been benefitted by their use."
Dr. Williams' Pink Pills not only cure rheumatism, but all the other diseases due to poor, watery blood, such as anaemia, indigestion, nervous disorders, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, paralysis, and the ailments of girlhood and womanhood, with their headaches, backaches, bideaches, and attendant miseries. Only the genuine Pills can do this, and you should see that the full name of "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
In the Autumn, Rheumatism is so general that all our readers so suffering will be glad to hear that a letter addressed to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., will be to their advantage. Write today.

A RHYING PUNSTER

A pretty deer is dear to me,
A hare with downy hair,
A hart I love with all my heart,
But barely bear a bear.

To guess again of pears,
Although a rake may take a rake
To tear away the tares.

Sol's rays raise thyme, time raises all,
And through the whole holes wears.

A scribe in writing right may write
To write and still be wrong,
For write and rite are neither right
And don't to right belong.

Beer often brings a bier to man,
Coughing a coffin brings,
And too much ale will make us ail,
As well as other things.

THROW AWAY ALL YOUR FEARS

Backache, Gravel and Rheumatism Vanish Before Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Proved Once Again in the Case of Mrs. Fred Krieger, Who Suffered From the Worst Forms of Kidney Disease

Palmer Rapids, Ont., Oct. 13.—Special.—The thousands of Canadians who live in daily terror of those terrible forms of Kidney Disease known as Backache, Gravel and Rheumatism, will be deeply interested in the story of Mrs. Fred Krieger, of this place.

"I was for years a great sufferer from Kidney Disease, Gravel, Rheumatism and Backache," Mrs. Krieger states. "It all started through a cold, but I got so my head ached, I was nervous, my kidneys were heavy, I had a dragging sensation across my loins, and I was totally unfit to do anything.

"Reading about wonderful cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills led me to buy some. After using a few I found they were doing me good and this encouraged me to continue their use. Eight boxes made me well.

"I have been able to do my own work ever since and to-day I am completely cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills gave me health and I feel like a new woman."

If you keep your Kidneys strong and healthy you can never have Backache, Rheumatism or Gravel. Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to make the Kidneys strong and well.

CONFIDENCE IN THE WEST NOW RESTORED

Record-Breaking Harvest Has Already Given Impetus to Active Trade in Canadian West.

The record-breaking harvest in Central and Western Canada has already restored confidence in our markets and a big change has taken place in the general feeling throughout the country, says the Winnipeg Commercial.

The universal depression last year, together with the slump in the grain crops, resulted in anxiety in the wholesale circles regarding the western situation, and the effect was noticeable in the general retail trade.

The West, however, has rallied in better shape than many outside places, and business is going on smoothly. Money is more plentiful, and at better rates.

Although it is rather late in the season for the starting of big industries that have their eyes on the West, we hear almost every day of preparations for the establishing of new concerns, operations to begin either this fall or next spring. In some cases work on such industries can go on all winter. Manufacturers of wire goods, and numerous other kinds of goods are getting ready to open here.

The prompt recovery of conditions in central and western Canada will prove to the outside world that we have here a land of great opportunities. Thousands of immigrants from the United States and Europe are preparing to come in with us, and the districts will be opened up rapidly.

WERE PLAYMATES IN THEIR CHILDHOOD DAYS

Nashville, Oct. 24.—After an absence of three months from Brown County, Jacob Johnson has returned, bringing with him as a bride his sweetheart of boyhood days. He is a native of Cambridge, Mass., and when a mere lad he paid attention to Miss Jennie McCoy. In 1857 his father moved near Woodsfield, O.

Jacob Johnson subsequently was married to Miss Rena Hudson at Woodsfield in 1859, and four children resulted from the union. She died nine years later.

Some months ago his thoughts reverted to the sweetheart of his school days, and communication with a daughter of his former love at Cambridge, Mass., brought information that she was now a widow, living with a son in Toledo, O.

Mr. Johnson visited her at Toledo, marriage followed, and after a visit to early-day scenes in Massachusetts she accompanied him to his Brown County home. The bride is seventy years old and Mr. Johnson is seventy-two.

A LAST WORD

To-day closes a political campaign that is to decide for weal or woe the welfare of the Dominion of Canada and of the County of Peterborough for the next parliamentary term, and possibly for a long period of years.

We are at the turning point in our progress as a nation and equally in our development in this community as a manufacturing centre.

It is now in the hands of the people of this county and of the Dominion at large to choose between progress and poverty—between the forces of development, enterprise and advancement, and those of reaction and retrogression.

For the electors of Peterborough these forces are represented on the one hand by Hon. Mr. Stratton, who stands for all that is onward and upward for this community—whose every personal interest is bound up with that of his fellow citizens; and on the other hand, by a gentleman whose whole career, if he can be said to have had a career, is one of selfishness, of distinct aloofness from all the influences and activities that have made for the advancement of the community in industrial development and material progress.

Unable to present a single claim to the confidence of the electors, based upon anything that he has done or even attempted to do, during a lifetime spent in this community without a single thought that was not centered in self, Mr. Burnham and the evil advisers who have surrounded him, and who are ably helping him to his political doom, have resorted to a campaign of scandal and slander without precedent in the political history of this province.

He and his friends have adopted the devil's quotation of Holy Writ, and read the Commandment—"Thou shalt * * bear false witness against thy neighbour."

During all this contest he has not presented to the public, either personally or through the newspaper of which he is the editor, a single intelligent argument based upon any public question in which the people are concerned.

He has made a skillful resort to those half-truths that are worse than absolute falsehood to misrepresent and abuse his opponent, in the face of facts that, if he were an honest man, would have made him glad to exonerate a neighbour from false suspicion.

He has put forward, as if it were any credit to himself, or any appeal to the intelligence of the electors of Peterborough, what he could glean from the results of the infamous Gamey conspiracy that seemed to suit his purpose, but has never had the manliness to acknowledge that the issue of that matter was the fullest exoneration of Mr. Stratton from all blame.

Mr. Stratton has presented his case to the electors upon an intelligent ground that they can all understand. He has given them reasons that must appeal to their good judgment and cannot fail to convince them that in his candidature he represents, beyond a shadow of question, all those influences that make for their progress and future welfare.

Mr. Stratton has a record of past performance that gives an assurance to the people whom he is going to represent at Ottawa, that their welfare will be his chief concern.

Mr. Stratton has grown up among and with the people of this community, and he has shared their adversities as well as their advantages, and the same practical business ability that enabled him to overcome the obstacles that poverty places in the way of progress has always been exercised in behalf of the public in the large trusts that during the past twenty years the people of this community have confidently reposed in his hands.

Mr. Stratton has been tried and not found wanting as to the ability and fidelity that he possessed, to further the material interests of West Peterborough.

The electors have now to choose between Mr. Stratton, the worker, and Mr. Burnham, the dreamer. Can there be a doubt as to the answer that they will make at the polls? We believe not.

The malignant tongue of slander, that gives a vile expression to the envy that possesses the souls of the men whom the ill-gotten proceeds of the Beet Root sugar deal might be thought to have somewhat sweetened, is all that is presented against him, and we believe that this sour rancour of unworthy men will find no place in the minds of the decent and fair-minded men of Peterborough.

If this city and county are to have an influential and advantageous representation at Ottawa for the next five years—a member who can be depended upon to secure the favourable ear of the Government upon all matters that affect their interests—J. R. Stratton is the man, and a great majority of the voters of this riding are going to so recognize him on Monday next.

Music and Drama

The fortunate composer of "The Merry Widow" has already made £70,000 by this most popular comic opera. It is safe to say that in the history of the stage no such work has attained the same enormous success. A few high-class works, such as "H. M. S. Pinafore," "The Mikado," "The Geisha" and "San Toy," have made small fortunes for their composers and have enjoyed the distinction of being performed in all languages and in all kinds of theatres. But "The Merry Widow" has beaten records not only in this country but also in America and in Germany, Austria, Holland and Norway.

The opera of the ex-bandmaster of an Austrian infantry regiment, Herr Franz Lehar, was first produced at An der Wein Theatre, Vienna, on Jan. 3, 1906.

Any opera that Herr Lehar now writes is willingly bought at his own price. The composer's autograph today is worth five shillings. Three years ago no one would have thought of asking him for it. He was then an unknown man.—London Chronicle.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

The survival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the dawn of the 20th century is something to marvel over, but it is an assured fact. The elaborate renovation of the old play by manager McPhee, of the Downie Company, in a new pictorial dress with up-to-date methods plentifully displayed throughout its half a dozen acts judging from the box office receipts wherever this company plays, furnishes ample proof that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is still potent. Special scenery for every scene depicted, enlarged choruses of genuine negroes from the cotton belt, modern up-to-date specialties, two male and female quartettes, a band of Alabama piccaninnies, a gorgeous cakewalk in a pretty setting entitled "The Palace of Silver Mat," improved light effects and mechanical illusions, will be seen in the Downie production of this famous play. The presenting company in some instances is a double one and contains the names of numerous footlight favorites. The street parade is said to be the longest, richest and best ever given by a theatrical company. Be sure and see it at noon.

FIRE BURNING AROUND CHEMONG

Swamp Near Albert Whetung's Residence On Fire.

The bush fires in the vicinity of Chemong village are still raging. A large swamp between the village and Mr. Albert Whetung's residence is now on fire and this week Mr. Whetung had to remove all his household goods from the house and implements from the driving shed for protection. The buildings are only 150 yards from the edge of the swamp.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

Of all the old plays that are appearing before the public there is none that can compare with the old play of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It is the oldest play on the stage to-day and is as fresh as the latest New York production, and this year it comes to us direct from a big Western trip. The Downie "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Company numbers over fifty people, including some of the finest dancers on the road. The Downie Company prides itself on its band under the able leadership of Mr. Tise Brodick. It has won a name for itself throughout Western Canada. This company gives one of the longest, richest and best parades ever given by a theatrical company.

ARTICLES LOST AT THE MARKET

Market Clerk Has Found Several Which Have Been Unclaimed.

Any persons having lost articles at the market should apply for them at the clerk's office. At present there are several articles awaiting claimants. Almost every Saturday there is a gang of boy who as soon as the farmers' wives depart, invade the main hall for the purpose of picking up whatever articles have been left behind. However, they have always been caught in time and now their actions are anticipated and hereafter they will not be allowed in the hall.

SOME PECULIARITIES IN AN ENGLISH FAMILY

Woman With 20 Children—Nine are Policemen.

The Examiner was informed yesterday by an Englishman gentleman, resident in Peterborough, of an extraordinary case, where an Englishman, an old servant of the family, is the mother of twenty children. No less than nine of the boys are policemen in the same city, a large manufacturing centre, and five others are policemen in another city. Of the six remaining children all girls, four are married, and the other two living at home. Can Lower Canada, with its boasted large families, beat such a record as this?

Otonabee Youth Captured In Middle Of Ploughed Field By Threatening Stranger

Is Waylaid Returning From a Neighbour's Residence — He Escapes Minus Cap and Coat

ARRIVES HOME EXHAUSTED

Reports from the country indicate that several of the "tramp" fraternity have recently been seen and their presence is causing a feeling of timidity among the women and children. Only a few days ago occurred an incident in Otonabee to which is attached a somewhat sensational story. Kenneth Huston, a little boy scarcely twelve years of age, and son of Mr. Archie Huston, was assisting a neighbour living no more than a quarter of a mile away, in picking potatoes, when on his way home he was held up in the dusk by some unknown man, who had it not been for the fleetness of foot of the youth, might have done him considerable injury. The lad called at a half way house which he reached in safety. Given reassurance of a safe journey home he started off through the fields on a slow trot common to boys of his age.

Suddenly in the centre of a ploughed field he was grabbed by the cap by a strange hand. Immediately he was caught by the back of the coat and for a moment or two was held fast. The boy quickly took in the situation and unbuttoning his coat slipped his arms from the sleeves and was away like a flash. He had several hundred yards to go before reaching his home where he arrived almost exhausted from running and fright.

Next morning he found his cap and coat lying in the field where he had been held up by the stranger. The pockets of the coat were turned inside out but there was nothing of value for the highwayman to secure. In a furrow of the field could be plainly seen marks where the unknown had crept on his hands and knees to be in striking distance of the boy.

Canada Looked Upon By United States Congressman As The Source Of Pulp Supply Rapidly Diminishing Across The Line—Canada The Only Salvation.

A CHICAGO MAN'S VIEWS

Duluth, Oct. 24.—Special — Congressman J. R. Mann, of Chicago, who is making an inspection of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota pulp wood industry, in an interview, tonight, said:

"While I am not fully prepared to say so, still it is my belief that the committee in its report will recommend to Congress a revision of the tariff both on Canadian pulp wood and Canadian print paper. From the ground that we have already gone over, it looks to me as if the pulp wood supply of the northwest, at the present rate of consumption, will not last many years. Both Wisconsin and Michigan, which have many paper mills, have to have all or nearly all their spruce timber shipped in from Minnesota. With the plants of the three states working on this limited supply, it is easy to conceive the result.

"Canada seems to be our only salvation, and if we cannot arrange matters so that pulp timber can be brought cheaply to this country, the price of print paper is going to go sky high."

To-morrow morning the committee, of which Mr. Mann is chairman, will examine a number of Duluth men who deal in pulp wood and learn about local conditions.

CLAIM THAT SIMPSON RAN WITH I. C. A. C. DISALLOWED

Examiner Special

Montreal, Oct. 26. — The 15-mile road race team trophy competed for on Saturday has been awarded to Halifax, the claim of Simpson, the Peterborough Indian, who was a member of the Irish-Canadians, being disallowed by the judges. Simpson is a member of the I.C.A.C., but had entered the race individually, and therefore could not be considered a member of the team. Had the claim been allowed it would have been the Irish-Canadians' cup.

Lumberman Was Lost In Woods; Wandered Away From Camp

It is reported that Nathan Luffman, a lumberman from Deseronto, who left Peterborough a week ago in company with H. Boyette, also of Deseronto, to work for the Peterborough Lumber Co. at their camp, 52 miles from here, had an exciting experience. On Tuesday morning he managed to wander from the bunk house and was lost in the woods until Wednesday morning. A searching party composed of Messrs. L. Coons, H. Boyette and others, set out in search of him. When found, it was discovered that he was without hat and shoes, and his feet were badly cut and bruised, but he soon revived.

Rain Benefits Farmers For Ploughing And Putting Out Fires

Early risers this morning undoubtedly must have noticed the odour of burning wood that pervaded the atmosphere. It was wafted citywards in the form of steam or mist coming from the burned districts, as a result of the rain quenching the fires that have been raging in the country. Another beneficial result from the rain is that the farmers will be able to finish their ploughing. So far, this work has been greatly retarded by the dry weather.

Large Barn Owl Caught In Trap By Young Man At Hiawatha

On Saturday night Mr. Robt. Reid showed an Examiner reporter a large barn owl which had been caught in a trap at Hiawatha by Mr. Jack Cowie. It was alive and in a box, and certainly was a fine specimen of the owl family. It was an unusually large bird, and when prepared by Mr. Elcome should make a good appearance. It was being taken to Mr. Elcome, taxidermist, to be stuffed.

Are Older Boys To Blame For A Little Lad's Loss Of Two Fingers

Little Stanley Killingbeck, the six-year-old son of Mr. Jas. Killingbeck, Romaine street, met with a distressing accident on Saturday afternoon at the new church of the Sacred Heart in which he lost the first two fingers of his left hand. It is learned that, with other boys, he was playing near a small derrick and got his two fingers caught in the cog wheels with the result that they were severed. The little fellow informed his parents that some other boys told him to put his fingers between the wheels. He did not cry as he went home and scarcely realized what had happened. He was taken to Nicholls Hospital, where his wounds were dressed.

Semi-Ready Wardrobe

Peterboro's Popular Cravat Store

You say you have two scores of Cravats—where is the man who hasn't a great many? More than he can wear out in years. Then again, where is the man who wears a Cravat until it is worn out? You might as well ask a woman to wear a hat until it is completely worn out, as to insist on a man sporting his neckties until they are thread-bare. Men are and should be, just as particular about their neckwear as women are in their wearables—when they are out of date discard them for their new successors.

We have the finest assortment this fall that we have ever had and almost every day sees fresh arrivals for our Cravat counter. The latest arrival is the Rope Cloth with Satin stripe—something exclusive, catchy and at a popular price

BEJAMIN ALLCORN

There passed away at the Nicholls Hospital on Saturday evening, Benjamine Allcorn aged 27 years. The deceased was brought here from Fraserville two weeks ago, suffering from typhoid fever. In Fraserville he was proprietor of a general store, and did a big business. He was very widely and favourably known, and his death will be generally mourned. He leaves a wife and one child, to whom the sincere sympathy of the community is extended.

The remains were taken to Bolleschein's undertaking establishment and will be conveyed to-day to Cobourg and from there they will be taken to the home of Mrs. Allcorn's father, Mr. John Ball, Baltimore, Ont. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

EXAMINER SPECIAL
WIRE FOR THE RETURNS

To-night the election returns will be bulletined in front of the Examiner office. Arrangements have been made to have two lanterns throwing the results in West Peterborough on the canvas as soon as they are received, as well as those from all over the Dominion. The Examiner has also secured from the G. N. W. Telegraph Company for a special wire in the office, so that the returns from the various provinces will be on the canvasses almost as soon as the votes are counted at the polls.

THE PULPWOOD PROBLEM.

The pulpwood problem is by no means dead. It may be from time to time obscured by what seem to be larger problems; but is is a matter of such vast concern to Canada that it will not down. It is revived again by the contemplated raid of the United States on Canadian pulp supplies in the form of raw material — pulpwood. We should not be blind to the significance of this attempt to build up United States publishing industries at the expense of ourselves.

In a news despatch, published elsewhere in this issue, it will be seen that our American cousins are looking to Canada for a supply of pulpwood to have their printing paper prices from going "sky high." The need of the United States in this regard is our opportunity. Their eagerness to obtain our pulp — shown by their willingness to modify, or wipe out, their high protective tariff — should awaken us to the importance of dealing with our pulpwood supply in our own interests. It as seems probable from the despatch mentioned, the committee, charged with investigating the United States pulpwood situation, recommends Congress to lower or remove the duty on "Canadian pulpwood and Canadian printing paper," Canada must be ready to meet the occasion. Though an export duty should be reluctantly resorted to, yet self-defence and self-preservation justify extreme measures. The Liberal Government of Ontario years ago adopted regulations equivalent to an export duty in the matter of sawlogs, with results that saved the situation. These provided that no timber should be exported from the Province in an unmanufactured condition. The inroads of American lumbermen so far as exporting sawlogs to the United States was concerned, ceased, and a great impetus was imparted to the saw-milling industry, and Ontario got the benefit, from these conditions, in the employment of labour, not only in the actual work of lumber production, but in all the other industries which contributed to keep the industry in operation. We can do the same in regard to our pulpwood; that is, provide that no pulpwood shall be permitted to cross the boundary line of any part of Canada in an unmanufactured condition, and the definite term "manufactured condition" could be extended to the final stage of manufacture—paper. If the United States hopes, by removing the duty from pulpwood in the log to procure a supply here, it should be so arranged that it will do them no good. They must not have it in that form—the form in which there is the least profit. Pulpwood logs may bring a price of $5 to $6 per cord; but this represents a very small amount of what is important to the country—the employment of labour. On the other hand, the price, if attached to a corresponding amount of paper, represents about $35, the difference, in turn, representing the amount spent in labour in this country. The last number of the Pulp and Paper Magazine, in its market notes, says that "at points in northern Ontario, spruce and balsam pulpwood will sell at $4 and $3 per cord, respectively," while mechanical pulpwood is quoted at $24 per ton, delivered in New York and New England mills. If this mechanical pulp had been converted into paper, the profits to Canadian labour and capital would have been something like the difference between pulpwood in the logs, and these same logs reduced to pulp.

The interests of Canada demand that not only should our pulpwood resources be dealt with in a way to secure the highest home profit from their exploitation, but that effective measures should be adopted to preserve and perpetuate the source of supply. Both climatic and economic reasons emphasize the folly it would be to permit our lands to be swept clean of forests.

STORMS PREDICTED FOR EARLY PART OF NOVEMBER

STORMS TOWARDS FINISH

A regular storm period covers the first six days of November. The moon is at first quarter on the 1st, at perigee on the 4th, and on the celestial equator on the 6th. By the 1st the barometer will begin to fall in western sections, the temperature will rise and by the 2nd to 3rd storms will gather and start on their eastward ward march from west to east. On touching Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 3rd, 4th and 5th, rain, wind and thunder storms will pass most parts of the country, with rising barometer, westerly winds and change to much cooler pressing close behind the storm centres, the change to cool or colder appearing in the west-northwest about the 3rd, and passing quite over the country to the eastward by the 7th. Frosts, with some freezing northward, will result during the passage of this high barometer and cool wave.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 8th, 9th and 10th. The full moon falls on the 8th, increasing the probabilities of storm conditions on that date. Low barometer, rising temperature, and rain storms in transit from west to east, will be the natural order on and touching the 8th to 10th. The 6th to the 10th is a probable seismic period. We repeat our urgent request that all readers of this Almanac watch the world's telegraphic news, and make clippings of all despatches reporting storms and seismic disturbanced. Do this habitually all the year round, tabulating them into dates and comparing them with our forecasts. In spite of the fact that the moon is moving to extreme north declination, a high barometer, west winds and change to much colder will come down from the northwest and spread over the country generally from about the 9th to the 12th.

A regular storm period begins on the 13th and extends to the 18th, being central on the 15th. The moon is at last quarter on the 15th and in perigee on the 16th. Falling barometer, change to warmer, southerly winds and autumnal rains will pass over the country from west to east on and touching the 15th, 16th and 17th. There will be but little time for reaction to antistorm conditions between this and the on-coming storm period. Possibly change to cooler may break in about the 17th and 18th.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 19th, 20th and 21st. The moon crosses the celestial equator, veering southward, on the 19th. Change to much warmer, falling barometer and autumnal thunder storms will appear about the 19th, and run their course eastward on the 20th and 21st. The influence of the approaching Venus disturbance, as seen in the November storm diagram, will be felt at this reactionary period, the period coming in with high temperature, and winding up with change to much colder and spurts of early snow in northern parts of the country. The probabilities of severe and dangerous gales over all the northern lake regions are decidedly strong at this and all the November periods, especially from the 15th to the end of the month. Navigators and shippers on the great lakes, who ignore these probabilities, will take desperate chances of paying expensive forfeits.

A regular storm period extends from the 23rd to the 28th, having its centre on the 26th. New moon falls on the 23rd, within two days of extreme south declination on the 26th. This period is under the full perturbing influence of both Venus and Mercury, being intensified by the conjunction of the moon with earth and sun at the very beginning. Abnormal warmth, rapid fall of the barometer and clouds of threatening portent will mark the entrance to this period. From about Wednesday the 25th to Saturday 28th, autumnal storms of wide extent and of unusual energy will make their transit across the country from west to east. Rain, wind and thunder will dominate in southern parts of the country, while sleet, snow and an early cold wave may be expected northward. The high barometer following the storms of this period will push very low temperatures for November far into southern parts of the country. The moon being at extreme south declination in the crisis of this period, will facilitate the flow of boreal currents from the northwest, bringing a real dash of winter to most parts of this and other countries in the northern hemisphere. All who fail to house or protect out-door, perishable products before the on-coming of this storm period will have missed golden opportunities and may count their losses and coddle their regrets.

The 23rd of November is the centre of a seismic period—say from the 21st to the 25th. We mean by this that such phenomena are much more liable on and touching the 23rd. See if reports of earthquakes do not get into current telegraphic news at this period, although the Saturn and Jupiter periods have about spent their force. It will be found that the seismic disturbances take on milder forms and grow less frequent in the absence of these great perturbing forces; at the same time a combination of the Mrercury and Venus equinoxes, as is the case at this period, are known to quicken the seismic pulse of our terrestrial globe, especially when the conjunction of the moon with earth and sun adds its eletric tension to the strain of a combined Venus and Mercury period. Let us all, especially northward, watch and see how far "Thanksgiving Thursday" will miss an old-fashioned sleet and snow storm in 1908. We wrote this forecast, June the 3rd, 1907. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the 26th, 27th and 28th, will tell the story in sleet and snow and cold November rains. The month will merge into December in the midst of cold, marcurial cloudiness, with wintery aspects prevailing over all northern to central pedts of the country. Be ready for it! A preword of caution about December will not be amiss.

The great drouth that has prevailed over most parts of the country for several months practically remains unbroken. A number of readers have written to us, expressing great surprise that "nothing concerning the drouth can be found in the almanac." If such readers will recall what we have said, over and over, for the last thirty years concerning "drouths during the Jupiter period," and then if they will read our forecasts carefully for July, August and September, 1908, they will be surprised that they were taken unawares by the "shortage in general, dfiffused rains" St. Louis, October 14th.

EXPERIMENTS WITH CEMENT BOATS

M. Lambto a Frenchman, in 1850 constructed a concrete boat and five years later exhibited it at the Paris Exposition. This was the first reinforced concrete structure, and in 1855 M. Lambot took out a patent on his invention. His patent claims show that he considered reinforced concrete to be specially well adapted to boat building, says Cement Age, New York. In 1861, Joseph Monier, a gardener of Paris, constructed some water-tanks and vases by forming concrete over a frame-work of wire netting. Monier is usually given credit for the discovery of reinforced concrete, but Lambot's patent shows that this discovery antedated Monier's by several years. The idea of concrete boats seems to have been lost until 1907, when the Signori Gabellini, of Rome, constructed a reinforced concrete barge of 150 tons burden for use on the Tiber and in coastwise trade. This boat has been used continuously since being built and has given excellent satisfaction. Subsequently, a large number of boats and barges of various kinds have been built in Italy and the Italian Government has made many experiments and tests with satisfactory and practical results. The French Government is also investigating the use of concrete for use in its navy. Experiments have been made in this country by a firm of engineers of Kansas City, Mo., with concrete boats for navigating the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers. The models were those of a self-propelled river boat of 100 tons burden and of a 150 ton barge with loaded drafts of 9 1-2 feet, the safe maximum for the present Missouri River channel. The boats were almost without keel, the bottom of the hull sloping from the sides to a very slight ridge line in order to secure a light load dratt. The data gained from these models taken with the calculation of the design of full sized boats of 300 tons and over, show that the difference in weight between steel and concrete, as applied to boat construction, is comparatively small. Concrete offers less resistance to propulsion in water than wood or steel, and no painting is required. The cost of concrete boats is about one-half that of steel boats and the maintenance cost is nothing, for they last practically forever in the water. Since it is a well known fact that concrete improves with age, and especially so when kept in water, the advantage of concrete for boat building becomes apparent. One of the best demonstrations of the power of reinforced, concrete to resist shocks is the trial made by the Italian Government with a steel and a concrete boat. A 1,000 ton concrete boat was rammed by a much larger steel vessel, the result being that the concrete boat suffered less damage than the steel boat. Various trials of this nature have led the Italian Government to consider the armouring of their war vessels with concrete. The use of boats made of concrete seems to be a favourable solution to the transportation problem on American rivers. The great distances between ports and other physical and economic conditions require boats of low initial and maintenance cost.

Since thickly settled countries, such as Italy and France, find concrete boats economical, it is the best assurance that America, with cheap raw materials for making concrete, can profit by their experience.

LECTURE LAST NIGHT AT MURRAY ST. BAPTIST CHURCH

The concluding sermon of the Rev. Elmore Harris, of Toronto, was delivered last night in the Murray Street Baptist Church to an audience of various denominations, which filled to the doors the church edifice. He spoke from the text. "The Great High Priest," and delivered an eloquent and forceful sermon. During the service Mr. Ferguson sang delightfully a tenor solo and the choir rendered splendid music throughout the service.

Dr. Harris was brought here under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. Bible Study department. He delivered nine addresses, beginning last Wednesday night in St. Paul's Church, and all were well attended and greatly appreciated by everyone who had the pleasure of hearing him. On Sunday morning he occupied the pulpit in St. Paul's Church, and in the evening that of the Murray Street Church.

THE ROUGH RIDERS AND COLLEGIATE

Will Meet in an Important City League Game on Wednesday Afternoon.

As a result of Saturday's games in the City League, the Rough Riders maintain their lead, while the Collegiate Institute team are a good second. The two meet on Wednesday afternoon, and the game will have an important effect upon the standing. A win for the Riders will give them a lead that will be hard to cut down, while on the other hand, a victory for the students will result in a tie between the two. The Y.M.C.A. and T.A.S.A.C. have yet to win a game. Following is the standing:

	Won.	Lost
Rough Riders	3	0
P. C. I.	2	1
T. A. S. A. C.	0	2
Y. M. C. A.	0	2

Games this week — Wednesday, Rough Riders vs. Collegiate Institute; Saturday—T.A.S.A.C. vs. Y.M.C.A.

Sporting Comment

"Truly," he said, "we must work. We must not rest upon our laurels. As the President told us, it would be a pity to see an Olympic winner 30 years hence a tramp.

"Yet such things have happened. A cousin of mine, the foreman of a Chicago iron mill, once employed a tramp who had been a Yale baseball champion. Their acquaintance began in a way that showed the tramp still to be game and cheery.

"It was a cold autumn dawn, and the tramp had slept in front of a furnace on a warm stone.

"My cousin, being short of labourers, on his morning tour of inspection, spied the fellow and thought he would give him a job.

"'My man,' he said, 'can you do anything with a shovel?'

"The tramp smiled.

"'Well, I could fry a piece of ham on it.'"—Washington Star.

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Dredging Middle Channel, River St. Lawrence," will be received until November 16, 1908, at 4.30 p.m., for dredging required in the Middle Channel in the River St. Lawrence, between Kingston and Brockville, in the Province of Ontario.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained from the Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the works. Only dredges can be employed which are registered in Canada at the time of the filling of tenders. Contractors must be ready to begin work within twenty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works for ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), must be deposited as security. The cheque will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
NAP. TESSIER,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, October 23rd, 1908.
Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

BLUE WOMEN

Women should understand that melancholia, commonly called "the blues," is in nine times out of ten a sure symptom of some serious female organic derangement and should have immediate attention.

Women whose spirits are depressed, and who are ailing and miserable, should rely upon as is evidenced by following letters.

Mrs. R. Gentleman, 1093 St. James Street, Montreal, Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered from a severe female weakness, and extreme nervousness, and was blue and utterly discouraged. "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking several bottles, I am not only cured, but am an entirely different woman, and on the whole a healthier woman than before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Mary J. Williams, of Bridgeport, Ill., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I have been suffering from a female trouble, backache and headaches, and was so blue that I was simply in despair. I feel it my duty to tell you that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me. The change in my appearance is wonderful, and I wish every suffering woman would try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache. Why don't you try it?

ALL CANADA IS VOTING TO-DAY

Elections Are In Progress In 216 Constituencies.

MARITIME RETURNS FIRST

Four Years Ago St. John and Halifax Results Were Known a Few Minutes After Polls Closed In Ontario —Hamilton and Ottawa Known Before Toronto—Sir Wilfrid Votes In Quebec East.

Toronto, Oct. 26.—To-day 216 constituencies in Canada are hard at work choosing representatives to sit in the eleventh Parliament. Five will vote later. They are: Yale-Cariboo, Comox-Atlin and Kootenay, in British Columbia; the Yukon, and Prince Albert, in Saskatchewan.

The polls opened throughout the country at 9 a.m. and close at 5 p.m., and in an hour the returns from the city constituencies will be complete enough to indicate pretty well who are at the head of the poll.

The first word will probably come from St. John, N.B. Four years ago at a few minutes past 5 o'clock the telegraph flashed the information that Stockton and Daniels, Conservatives, were elected in that city. When the news was known the Toronto polls were hardly closed, but the Maritime Provinces being an hour ahead of us the counting up down by the sea was finished before the ballot boxes in Ontario were opened.

Following close upon the information that the Conservatives had scored first and most decisively the ticker announced the defeat of R. L. Borden and his running mate, Mr. O'Mullin, in Halifax. This offset the St. John news.

Although the returns from some of the Toronto polls began to come in by 5.30 the results in Hamilton, where each party captured a seat, and in Ottawa, which elected two Liberals, were known before the public knew definitely that the five Toronto Conservatives were safe.

And it will be about the same to-day in regard to time. From 5.15 on there will be news for those who watch the bulletin boards.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will vote in his home constituency of Quebec East, and it is pretty generally understood that he will mark his ballot for the Government candidate, who happens to be himself. He has also a vote in Ottawa, where he is also a candidate, but if he wanted to vote in the capital he would have to be there first, as the Ontario system of one man one vote would prevent him using his suffrage there if he had already voted elsewhere. The Quebec law, however, permits an elector to vote in as many places as he has property.

R. L. Borden will also vote for himself in Halifax. He will hear the result in his own city, returning to Ottawa in a few days—to form a Government or to resume his duties as Opposition leader.

Promises Purity.

Kingston, Oct. 26.—Liberals closed the campaign with a big rally in the opera house Saturday night addressed by Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. Wm. Harty, ex-Mayor Mowat and Dr. A. W. Richardson.

Sir Richard spoke for over an hour, reviewing the work of the Government since 1896 and covering the same ground as in his recent speech at Toronto.

As regards the "scandal talk" of the Opposition, he recalled the times under Conservative rule when their conduct would offset even the worst of any Liberal regime. The aim of the present Government was to promote purity in public and private affairs.

Lehigh Shop Strike Off.

Binghamton, N.Y., Oct. 26.—At a meeting of the Boilermakers' Union in Sayre Friday night, presided over by First President Galvin of the International Union of Iron Shipbuilders and Boilermakers, it was unanimously voted to declare off the strike at the Lehigh Valley Railroad shops.

The strike began March 27, and while it hampered the company for a time, it was evident long ago that the strike was lost. The men made application for work as individuals Saturday and will be taken back as fast as they are needed.

Sending Them Back.

Montreal, Oct. 26.—On Saturday 60 undesirable citizens were deported, being sent back on the Lake Erie, Hesperian and Virginian. Thirteen of these were C.P.R. mechanics who failed to make good. The others came from different parts of the Dominion. The majority of those deported were English or Scotch, but there was a sprinkling of foreigners, including a family of six from Russia.

Financier's Sudden Death.

London, Eng., Oct. 26.—John Ennis Searles of New York, well-known in financial circles in America, was seized with a fainting fit while standing on the platform at the Waterloo Station and died in a few minutes.

Mr. Searles, who was about 80 years old, was formerly secretary of the American Sugar Refining Co., and also famed for his benefactions to the Methodist Church.

London, Oct. 26.—(C.A.P.)—The result of Edinburgh University rectorial election was: Wyndham, 828; Winston Churchill, 727; Prof. Osler, 614.

T. E. Kenny Dead.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 26.—T. E. Kenny, ex-M.P., and president of the Royal Bank of Halifax, died yesterday morning.

PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR

THE FRUITS OF THE EARTH

Seem To Be Nature's Provision For Keeping Man Healthy and Warding Off Disease.

Cereals, vegetables and meat supply the elements needed for man's nourishment. Yet fruit — though it has very little food value—has proved to be absolutely necessary for perfect health.

Careful investigation has shown that all the common fruits act on the Liver, Kidneys, Bowels and Skin. These are the organs that rid the body of dead tissue and waste products, and the fruit juices stir them up to more vigorous action, thus keeping the whole body clean and healthy.

But few people eat enough fruit. Realizing this, after several years of experimenting, a prominent Canadian physician succeeded in combining the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes in such a way that the medicinal action is many times multiplied. Then he added valuable tonics and made the combination into tablets called "Fruit-a-tives." They are really Nature's cure for Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness and Stomach Troubles. Mild as Nature itself — but more prompt and effective. Sold by dealers at 50c. a box—6 boxes for $2.50—trial size box 25c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

VENEZUELANS SEIZE SHIP.

British Schooner Trading In Caribbean Is Confiscated.

St. Vincent, B.W.I., Oct. 26.—Word has been received here of the seizure several weeks ago by the Venezuelan authorities of a British trading vessel at Margarita, an island in the Carribbean Sea, belonging to Venezuela, and the imprisonment of the crew.

The St. Vincent schooner Lady Kensington, carrying live stock and vegetables for Trinidad, after sighting the Dragon's Mouth, was becalmed. The schooner was carried far out of her course and while drifting off Margarita was seized by Venezuelan officers. This occurred on Aug. 23, and the crew and passengers have been detained as prisoners ever since.

The owner of the vessel has just received, through the Trinidad agent, a letter from the captain of the Lady Kensington, dated Sept. 25, in which he says:

"We are still imprisoned. Our own provisions have been exhausted and the Government says that it has no food to give us."

The governor of Trinidad has communicated with Sir Vincent Corbett, the British Minister at Caracas.

MAIL BOAT WRECKED.

Little Current, Oct. 26.—The mail steamer Iroquois Saturday morning, from Little Current to Cutler, went on to a rock near Spanish Mills, running at nearly full speed in fog and smoke. She listed over until the promenade deck was under water, the cook stove and lanterns were upset and set fire to the boat. J. & S. Charlton's tug Fraser, working on a boom near by, heard the signals of distress and came and picked up the passengers and crew, who had taken to the lifeboats, three bags of mail were all that were saved. The passengers lost their baggage, and the crew lost everything they had on board. The steamer was a strong, worthy boat, and belonged to T. C. Simms, Little Current.

Eats Apple and Dies.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Alfred H. Calder, a young man locally known as "Slim," met a peculiar death yesterday morning, according to the story told by his room-mate.

After a customary evening's jollification, the two retired to rest at their boarding-house on Williams street. In the middle of the night Calder is said to have asked for an apple which his room-mate gave him. Later on he was awakened by the peculiar breathing of Calder, who expired soon after.

While there is a possibility that Calder choked to death with the apple, Coroner Dr. Baptie is not satisfied with this version of the incident and will hold a post-mortem examination.

Killed by Thresher.

Guelph, Oct. 26.—As a result of injuries sustained Friday night while moving a threshing outfit, George Henlock Young died at the General Hospital between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Young was standing in such a position that the steering rod on the engine which was being moved into the barn, was literally driven through his body. It was said that the accident was due to his losing control of the engine. He was 36 years of age and married, leaving his wife and one son of nine years.

Orville Wright Recovering.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Orville Wright, the aeroplanist who narrowly escaped death in the accident to his aeroplane during a flight at Port Meyer, Va., five weeks ago, will soon be able to leave for him home at Dayton, Ohio. His most serious injury was a broken thigh, and the splint was removed from this yesterday. It was found on measuring the left leg, the one injured, that it is but a quarter of an inch shorter than the other. An X-ray examination of the fracture showed that the knitting of the broken bones has been perfect.

New Hospital.

Seoul, Oct. 26.—A magnificent hospital, built by the Japanese Government, was formally opened here yesterday. It is one of the finest institutions in the far east and includes a school of medicine.

Insurrection Ended.

Tokio, Oct. 26.—The so-called insurrection in Korea is practically ended. The troops are still on active duty, but the insurgents have dwindled to merely a disorderly element.

TORNADO WORKS HAVOC.

Town Reported Destroyed In Terrific Storm In Nicaragua.

Managua, Nicaragua, Oct. 26.—A great storm has prevailed throughout Nicaragua since Saturday morning. Heavy losses are reported, but as all telegraph and telephone communications have been interrupted and the railroads badly damaged, it is impossible to state how far-reaching the storm has been.

Advices received here, however, say that the Town of Rio Grande, on the Atlantic coast, has been destroyed.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 26.—A cablegram indicating that few white persons lived in the hurricane-swept district of the Nicaraguan-Caribbean coast was received here yesterday. This message said the damage had been confined to the Grant River and Prins a Pulca district.

How the natives of this section fared was not known when the cable was sent.

RESERVES ORDERED OUT.

Servia Orders Munitions of War—Filibustering Tug Seized.

London, Oct. 26.—A despatch to The Daily Mail from Belgrade says that the Servian Government has called out all the first reserves and ordered khaki for the troops, three hundred Maxim guns and 400 military automobiles. According to this despatch, King Peter has informed the Turkish Minister that an alliance probably has been concluded between Servia and Montenegro, but that this in no way interfered with the friendship of these countries for Turkey.

Vienna, Oct. 26.—A large consignment of fuses for shells was seized by the Austrian authorities Saturday on the Danube at Linz. The war material was on board a steam tug and was on its way from Bavaria to Servia.

MOTHER AND BOY DIE.

Winnipeg Woman and Son Victims of Coal Oil Disaster.

Winnipeg, Oct. 26.—A terrible accident, which resulted in two deaths, occurred Saturday morning, when Mrs. I. Holmes attempted to light a fire with coal oil. The can exploded, igniting her clothing. Her only son, a lad about twelve years of age, rushed to her assistance, and in an heroic attempt to save his mother was fatally burned himself. Both died later in the hospital.

Fire In G.T.R. Offices.

Montreal, Oct. 26.—Fire broke out early last evening in an upper flat of the new Grand Trunk ticket offices, which they have recently occupied. The fire was soon gotten under control and little damage was sustained.

Unwritten Law Frees Her.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 27.—Setting up the plea of the unwritten law, Mrs. Nancy Murrill was acquitted of a charge of murdering Miss Mary Terry in the Circuit Court at Jackson on Saturday.

Men, women and children attended the session of court each day and applauded testimony favorable to the defence.

Cyrus Brady Resigns.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 26.—Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, has resigned the rectorship of Trinity Episcopal Church here because the Toledo church is not under canon laws.

"It is a matter of principle," declares Mr. Brady, who will accept a Kansas City call. His statement has caused a sensation.

DIAPEPSIN WILL CURE YOUR STOMACH

Will Replace Digestive Juices and Stop Food Fermentation.

Every family there ought to keep some Diapepsin in the house, as any one of you may have an attack of indigestion or stomach trouble at any time, day or night.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lay like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your Pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take one triangule after supper to-night. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debilitating Headaches, Dizziness or Intestinal griping This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin is a certain cure for all stomach misery, because it will take hold of your food and digest it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

Actual, prompt relief for all your stomach misery is at your Pharmacist, waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to cure a case of Dyspepsia or Indigestion.

CUPID A MENACE TO BUSINESS

OTHER FIRMS SUFFER

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Within one year there have been more than 100 marriages among the women employees in Swift & Co's office, Chicago. In certain departments it is almost impossible to keep a woman stenographer. The traffic division seems particularly affected by the movement and it now appears that if F. H. Frederick, the head of this division, is to carry on anything like consecutive work he will be obliged to hire a man to conduct his correspondence. Three of his women stenographers have married one after the other. The last to go was Mrs. J Parke Colburn, who was Miss Adelaide Morin.

Many Weddings—No Divorces

One of the curious manifestations is that the women are affected to a greater extent than the men employees. Through all of the agitation in his office Mr. Frederick himself has maintained his bachelorhood.

What most disturbs the concern is that many of the girls marry men outside of the firm and statistical information on the subject shows that no girl after marrying from Swift & Co., ever has continued in business. And it is a further recorded point that, however many the marriages, the first divorce has yet to be set down.

Various explanations have been offered for the perceptible rise in marriage statistics at Swift's. One is the rule made by the firm not so long ago governing the presentation of wedding presents. Every girl who remains with the firm for six months before violently severing her connection by marriage receives a wedding present of $25 in cash.

The girls say it is simply fate.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS

FULTON'S RENAL COMPOUND

"Kidney trouble" is inflammation of the kidneys without albumen.

In each the real trouble is INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, hence a cure for one must be a cure for the other. There has been no cure for either.

But many kidney troubled people get well.

True—because inflammation of the kidneys unless severe commonly gets well at first. But if it does not yield early and the inflammation persists, the real trouble begins.

You can see why kidney disease has been incurable and why the deaths have risen to over 170 per day—up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known that would reduce inflammation in the kidney tissues.

The old kidney medicines were a misconception, irritating the inflamed kidneys to renewed efforts instead of allaying the inflammation, some of them being actually harmful. Result—physicians have abandoned them.

No matter whether you call it "kidney trouble," "Nephritis," or "Bright's Disease," if it has been hanging on a few months, recovery can be only hoped for through this specific. It has a proven efficiency in nearly 87 per cent. of all cases. It is the only thing known that controls inflammation in the kidneys, which is the real difficulty with kidney troubled people.

Trent Canal Used Extensively In Towing Wood And Stone Down

One Company Brings Down 2200 Cords of Hardwood—Fine Stone Also Towed From Clear Lake.

SOME OF CANAL'S USES

After running on a rock in Lovesick Lake last week, a scow, loaded with 100 cords of hardwood for the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company, smashed a big hole in the bottom and sank. However, instead of disappearing altogether the water did not quite reach to the deck of the scow after it had settled down. The water through the Kawartha chain is said to be lower than it has been in years, and in Lovesick it is similar to the other lakes. (A smaller scow was procured and the 100 cords were taken off in three trips. The steamer Beaver was doing the towing work and finally smashed its wheel and twisted the rudder on a rock and the work had to be stopped for the present.

The Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company have brought down nearly 2,200 cords of the best maple from Deer Bay and Buckhorn Lake. Only 160 cords remain to be brought down, and unless it rains copiously and raises the level of the water these remaining cords will not be towed down until the spring. However, although navigation is practically tied up in the lakes for the present it is felt that before the ice comes the water will be back again.

The local company has piled these 2,040 cords on Aylmer street, covering a lot of two acres. The piles are from nine to eleven feet high and being hardwood of the best quality, it will be some time before local demand uses it all.

Use of Trent Canal

The fact that this company has been able to tow wood through the entire season is one of the benefits derived from the Trent Canal that is almost entirely overlooked by the general public. Moreover the stone which has been used in the new Catholic Church has been brought down in scows, and its beauty in buildings of this kind will be proven to anyone who pays a visit to the church. These are only a few of the benefits the canal will be, and as it is there are hundreds of cords of wood around the shores of the lakes and bays and rivers, still to be cut. The handling of grain and farm produce is another feature which is spreading rapidly and in divers other ways the value of the canal will be demonstrated as advantage is taken of the opportunities which are as yet scarcely realized.

Dedication Services At St. John's Church Recall Past History Of The Parish

Yesterday was the first of the two Dedication Festival Sundays in connection with St. John's Anglican Church, and for the first time the handsome ecclesiastical flag, presenthed by Rev. G. C. Frewer, of England, father of Captain Frewer, now of this city, was to be seen flying to the breeze from the ancient and lofty tower of the sacred edifice. Both services were of a bright and cheerful nature, Rev. Canon Davidson, the rector, officiating, assisted by Ven. Archdeacon Clark, M.A., of Hamilton, who preached sermons very appropriate to the festival occasion at both morning and evening services. The splendid choir, under Mr. Dewey's direction, rendered specially prepared music in a manner that added considerably to the beauty of the services.

These annual dedication festivals are in commemoration of the complete renovation of St. John's in 1882, when on All Saints' Day, 26 years ago next Sunday, the present chancel was added; modern seats substituted for square pews; gallery removed; gothic windows installed, grounds laid out and new organ procured. But St. John's has been a church and Anglican parish from the inception of Peterborough.

For 73 years have its doors been open for public service, and prior to 1835, when the present building was first dedicated to the worship of God, services were for nine years conducted in a log school house. In fact, the history of Peterborough and St. John's are inseparable, and no wonder that its rector and congregation are proud of the sacred building and its associations with the past.

Brief History of St. John's

The following summary of the history of St. John's Church and parish will, perhaps, be found interesting reading:

1818-19 — First settlers arrived in this district.
1821—A house and mill erected by Adam Scott. This was the first building in Peterborough, then known as Scott's Plains.
1827—Religious services begun and conducted nine years in a log school house.
1831—St. John's Church projected and tenders invited.
1835—St. John's Church opened for worship.
1837-8—Canvass for funds in England by Capt. Rubidge, who conducted two emigration parties hither.
1846—Communion plate presented to the church, which is still in use.
1850 — June 1 — Peterborough incorporated as a town. First mayor, Thos. Benson, Esq., a member of St. John's. Population 1,800.
1859—School house erected in rear of church.
1873—New bell placed in tower.
1876—Ashburnham set aside as a new parish, and St. Luke's school house built.
1878—New school house built for St. John's.
1882—St. John's completely renovated, chancel added, modern seats substituted for square pews; gallery removed, gothic windows put in, grounds laid out, new organ procured, church reopened All Saints' Day. A. P. Poussette, chairman Building Committee; R. A. Morrow, secretary committee; J. E. Belcher, C.E., architect.
1889—Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls bequeathed $500 to each of the two Sunday Schools in this parish. Pulpit procured.
1891—All Saints' Church (nave and basement) built and opened free of debt.
1879—Chancel, vestries, etc., added to All Saints'.
1900—Class rooms, basement, etc., added to St. John's School house and opened free of debt. R. M. Dennistoun, chairman Building Committee; J. E. Belcher, architect.
1902—Parish of All Saints' separated from St. John's.
1908—Rectory now being built. Peter Campbell, chairman Building Committee; J. E. Belcher, C.E., architect.

The dedication festival will be continued next Sunday, the anniversary of the opening of the church on All Saints' Day, 1882, after complete renovations.

PROGRESS MADE BY WOODMEN OF THE WORLD

A regular meeting of the Executive Council of the Woodmen of the World was held a few days ago at Hamilton, Ont. The reports show the finances to be in a very satisfactory condition, the net surplus being $245.-829.99. There is a substantial increase in membership over 1907 so far. Two new camps organized last week at West Lorne, Ontario, and Wallaces-town, Ontario and one this week at the city of Kingston, Ont. The death rate is lower than last year. The Executive Council have arranged that upon the death of a member the Funeral Benefit will be paid by telegram. Two new organizers will be put on at once to further the progress of the Order. A report will be submitted at the next meeting as to the advisability of entering the Eastern Provinces.

The public are cordially invited to the Art Exhibit, which will be held by Miss Luella Thexton at the Conservatory of Music on Tuesday, Oct. 27th, from 3 to 6 and 7 to 9 p.m 2d

CARE DISPELLERS

Fritzie Scheff, now playing in Victor Herbert's new musical comedy, "The Prima Donna," is said to always choose the brighter side of everything, and has a little book of care dispellers of which the following are her favourites:

Most women in the world are good women.

Eighty million citizens have not committed suicide.

At least ten thousand bank cashiers have worked faithfully.

Some hotel keepers are considerate.

Most dramatic papers say unkind things because their papers require them to tell the truth.

A great many people have a high regard for women of the stage, even though they may be only chorus girls.

Ten million people made railroad trips in safety last year.

Work Going on Between Mount Julian and Apsley—Picnic Held Recently

Examiner Special

Mount Pleasant, Oct. 26.—A picnic was held on the grounds at Eden Church, at the annual fall closing of the Sunday School. A review of the summer work was gone over first, followed by games and tea with candy, nuts and pop corn at the finish.

The Sunday School lost a good teacher this year by the death of Mrs. John McCauley, who had taken a great interest in it from its opening, in 1900.

Political meetings in the school house have been held in the interests of both candidates.

A Thanksgiving service by the Rev. Mr. Garbutt will be held on the 8th of November, in Eden Church, which will be decorated for the occasion. The ladies intend to have a basket social the next evening, at which a short programme will be given.

William Tucker is putting up the telephone poles between Mount Julian and Apsley, which will bring our northern village in close touch with Mount Julian and the outside world.

Travers Shewn and I. D. Church went up to Toronto to visit friends last week.

A number of the farmers here cut their clover for seed this fall.

Clocks

The man or woman who is thinking of placing a clock in the home or making a present to a friend could not do better than invest their dollars in one of our magnificent clocks. They tell the time correctly, the finish is of high-class order and the prices the most reasonable.

New Models in Kabo Corsets

During the next ten days we shall have displayed upon forms in our Corset Department the very latest models in the celebrated Kabo Corsets.

The styles this fall require a more or less re-moulding of the figure. The slender figure is the thing. If your figure is not naturally slender, you should choose a Corset which will make it appear so. This you can easily do without detriment to your health or comfort if you select a Kabo model.

Now on Display at This Store

The wrong Corset was always disastrous, but with the styles this season an improper selection would be fatal. The Corset is really the foundation of the gown, for on its correctness depends your stylish appearance.

Kabo Corsets are absolutely correctly styled. The models now on display are the very latest and most fashionable that have been produced. But the great reputation of the Kabo isn't founded merely upon style. They are also famous for comfort. Comfortable, stylish and moderately priced. You will do well to fill your Corset needs here.

THIS IS GOOD WEATHER FOR GOOD SEWER WORK

Work is well advanced on a sewer to connect the sewer at the manhole on Park street, corner of Hunter, with the Brock street sewer via Downie street. The trenching is very difficult, immense boulders being frequent. The work is in charge of Mr. Martin Neary, foreman, who has just completed another section in record time. This section extends from Downie to Park on London street, and the stretch of 932 feet through boulder ground, with 14 connections and with an average depth of eleven feet, was completed in nine and a half days.

SWEET PEAS OF PERSISTENT HABITS OF PROFUSE BLOOM

Mr. R. J. Todd has left with the Examiner a bouquet of sweet pea flowers picked this morning, Oct. 26, on his vines, Aylmer street. Contrary to the blooming habits of sweet peas generally this season, these vines have been persistently and profusely blooming for the past four months.

CONSULT OUR OPTICIAN

The Eye is such a delicate organ that it should never be trifled with. This is why our optician has followed the teachings of only recognized authorities on the eye.

Many opticians take half a dozen or more correspondent courses costing from $7.50 to $25. With this limited knowledge it is little wonder that many are wearing glasses that do not suit them—others that do not require them.

If you have eye-trouble you should consult an optician who has a thorough knowledge of every branch of the optical business. Such a man is our Mr. Taylor.

THE BIBLE CLASS LARGE ATTENDANCE

Fifty-one Members Were Present at the Inthon Bible Class Meeting.

The attendance at the Inthon Bible Class is increasing every Sunday. The attendance yesterday afternoon was fifty-one members and three visitors. A membership contest is being started this week and the Inthons feel confident that it will be an easy matter to get two hundred members by the first of the year.

Colonel Bob Howland has his men assigned to various parts of the city and if everybody works as hard and as unbiring as he does and stand by the class motto, "We can if I will," the two hundred members are as good as enrolled. The fellows of Peterborough want to get the habit of going to the Inthon Bible Class at the George Street Methodist Church. You won't be a stranger very long.—Com.

POLITICS CAUSE A BREAK

Examiner Special

New York, October 26 — Opening strong, the Stock Market during the whole week held strong. Prices advanced almost steadily with now and then small reactions. It became known during the week that a great part of the foreign selling on the war scare was short selling and on the advance there were efforts to cover with the result that prices were easily maintained. Thursday was the anniversary of the panic, which started with the closing of the Knickerbocker Trust Company. Out of the fifteen banks which closed within the two weeks that followed, all but two have paid depositors in full and are doing business again. The trial of C. W. Morse and the exposure of his methods in handling the pool in the ice stocks was the feature of the week, and gave opponents of stock exchange some ammunition. Stock exchanges are necessary, as necessary, in fact, as banks and insurance companies. There are some evils, but these are being surely and slowly reduced by the stock exchanges themselves. The New York Stock Exchange is carrying on a quiet investigation of certain firms, and the Consolidated Stock Exchange has wiped out bucket shop connections on the floor of that exchange. Wall Street is opposed to Hughes for Governor, for it is recognized by members of the exchange that he will start an investigation. The members do not fear such an investigation, but they believe that the result of that investigation will be to force the incorporation of the exchange, and the ending of the rule which makes members of the exchange preferred creditors when a member fails. Efforts to stop speculation in stocks will be as hopeless as efforts to stop speculation in all business The evils of speculation can and will be remedied in such a manner as not to hurt the legitimate function of exchanges.

October earnings of the steel coeporations are satisfactory, and show that there is a steady improvement in business. The officials of the different steel companies say that they have many orders contingent upon Taft's election. These reports may be for effect in getting votes, but that they are true there can be no doubt. The business men's parade for Taft is the subject most talked of now in the financial circles. This will take place on October 31, and will be led by the members of the New York Stock Exchange; then the bankers and trust division; then the Consolidated Stock Exchange and miscellaneous concerns. It is now estimated that more than 80,000 men will be in line.

The Standard Oil dividend will be declared in November and will be at the rate of $10 a share. This means that just before Christmas John D. Rockefeller will get a nice little Christmas gift of $2,700,000, and the other members of this clique will receive sums ranging from $850,000 to the paltry $100,000 of John D. Archbold. Last year the checks were received Christmas Eve and gave this party a reason for feeling very happy, despite the fact that the country was then in the very midst of a panic.

Railroad earnings showed some improvement during the week, and business reports were generally encouraging. Crops have been made and the only crop about which there is any doubt is the cotton crop. T. H. Price estimates this at 11,600,000 bales, while other estimates run as high as 13,500,000 bales. At the close, Friday, there was a break.—J. R. B.

BUILDING BRISK IN CANADA

Authentic Information Collected by "Construction"—Interesting Figures.

UPWARD TREND IN SIGHT

The upward trend of building activities, so manifest in the month of August, is rapidly gaining momentum as the season advances

Returns for the month of September from various cities scattered broadcast throughout the Dominion, indicate a decidedly improved tone, which gives promise of continuing unabated for some time to come. A number of these places show an unprecedented building growth, many bid fair to fully overcome the decline experienced earlier in the year, while others are gradually wiping out a large portion of the decrease which fell to their lot.

But by far the most significant phase of the situation is the fact that the reaction is by no means localized. Instead, it has reached almost every section of the country, and a review of available statistics shows without a doubt, a well balanced and healthy condition.

Of the seventeen cities reported in the accompanying table, fourteen submitted comparative figures, which place the aggregate cost of building in these centres for the month of September of this year at $3,233,875, as against $2,424,075 for the corresponding month in 1907, thus showing a gain of 35.33 per cent. more than the splendid advance made in the preceding month.

Nine of these cities report substantial increases, and five show a falling off, though in most cases of moderate proportions. Halifax looms up with a tremendous gain of 937.7½ per cent; Fort William comes second with 471 per cent., while Winnipeg reports the smallest increase, which is 16.14 per cent. The biggest decrease reported is from Regina, at 35.40 per cent., and the smallest from London, which shows a slight loss of .05 per cent.

Despite Regina's recession, which is evedently due to a temporary settling down that often follows an unusually active month such as she experienced in August, the condition in the West is decidedly favourable. Edmonton's showing is exceptionally strong, Winnipeg is on the upturn, and Calgary reports the outlook as "fine." In the East, Halifax is moving forward with leaps and bounds, while St. John, Quebec and Montreal have registered material gains. Between these points the totals of Toronto, Fort William and Windsor tell their own story. St. Thomas, while not sending in figures for the corresponding month of last year, makes known a gain of $50,000 so far this year, over the entire year of 1907. Thus it can be seen that the resumption in building operations is making itself felt in almost every direction.

Reports, regarding prospective work are: St. John, "improving"; Fort William, "very bright"; St. Thomas, "good buildings well occupied"; Windsor, "steady growth"; London, "not very bright"; Vancouver, "for the next three months the outlook is good" Edmonton, "good"; Brandon, "cannot say, think next spring will be brisk"; Regina, "from present indications the outlook for the future is fairly bright"; Portage la Prairie, "good"; Berlin, "fair."

Conditions in Toronto never pointed toward a busier fall, and Montreal's material increase over the corresponding period of last year gives every assurance for great activity for the remainder of the year.—Construction.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. REV. CANON DAVIDSON IN BREDE, ENGLAND

Extract From The Brede Church Magazine.

The Brede Parish Magazine, of Brede, England, contains the following account of Canon Davidson's visit to that parish:

The Rev. Canon Davidson, of Peterborough, Ontario, Canada, who has been over to the Old Country for the Pan-Anglican Congress, recently, paid a short visit to Brede as the guest of the rector, and preached twice in our church on the Sunday, included in his stay. His firm belief in the power of Christian gentleness and love to end all the ills and solve all the difficulties of this generation is very refreshing and inspiring. As a memorial of his visit to us, the rector has presented him with a huge flag of St. George, which is to float, on festival occasions, in the breezes of Canada, from the tower of the Church of St. John, Peterborough, Diocese of Toronto.

MUNRO'S COLTS PLAY NATIONAL

Muro's Colts, winners of the second prize in the recent tournament at the P.B.C. alleys, have received and accepted a challenge from the National Hotel team and the contest will take place to-morrow night. The Nationals team comprises such good bowlers as Tommy Boyd and Ambrose Regan, not to say anything about Vic McCarthy, the genial clerk at the Denison hostelry.

The Colts, however, are not worrying and are confident that they will win easily. The personnel of the team will be the same as in the tournament, viz.—McCrae, Huston, Martin, Bruce and Pete Lang.

The stake will be an oyster supper and the Colts are already enjoying in anticipation, the luscious bivalves, which they predict will be served at the expense of their opponents.

The final game in the Consolation series in connection with the tournament will also be played to-morrow night between Hemstead's United and Geo. Cairns' team, and a big crowd of enthusiasts should be in attendance to witness the two interesting contests.

SHEPHERDS PERISH IN THE STORMS

Two Fatalities Reported in Recent Prairie Blizzards.

HUNDREDS OF SHEEP DIE

Herder Named Donald Cameron Near Cypress Hills Perishes Despite Efforts of Comrade to Save Him—Make Terrible March Through Snow—Maple Creek Man Dies and Herder is Reported Lost.

Medicine Hat, Alta., Oct. 26.—Terrible stories of suffering are coming in from the ranches following the recent storm, which was unprecedented in fury or in the period of the fall at which it swept the country. One death is known to have occurred in the country away to the south of here, and many are feared, as the herders were caught absolutely without warning away on the prairies. One man whose death is reported was Donald Cameron, herder, on Alex. Shaw's sheep ranch near Cypress Hills. He had with him as companion an assistant named D. Fraser. They were in charge of a large band of sheep on Monday afternoon when the storm broke on them. They were unable to locate the camp, and had to abandon the sheep. Cameron became exhausted on the way, and Fraser assisted him for fifteen hours, practically carrying him a great deal of the time. Finally Cameron could go no farther, and urged his companion to abandon him, as therein lay the only hope for his safety. Fraser heroically refused to leave him, and stayed until Cameron died. He then pushed on in search of shelter, and finally reached the D.D.B. ranch, more dead than alive, having been 60 hours exposed to the bitter storm, without food or sleep. A relief party started out and found the body of Cameron where he had dropped and died. Three thousand sheep were drifted into many inland lakes, and only three hundred were saved. The report of the death of Cameron was made by Witchell, whose ranch is located sixty miles south of here. He had a desperate ride, and was in the saddle from Wednesday until Saturday night.

Maple Creek, Sask., Oct. 26.—The blizzard which tied up traffic for two days resulted in the death of Harry Martin of Martin Bros., sheep ranchers. While seeking sheep Martin was frozen to death.

Driven by the storm 2,500 sheep belonging to Iver Wilson went into the lake and perished. Some 500 sheep belonging to Thomas Kerr also perished.

Trains which stalled 14 miles from here for two days pulled in after midnight Saturday morning.

Edmonton, Alba., Oct. 26.—The first snow storm of the season, which swept over the country on Tuesday and Wednesday may have resulted in the death of Howard McConnell, aged 19, of Boyne Lake. McConnell left his home on Tuesday morning to look for stock and has not been seen since. He was only slightly clad and was without matches.

As soon as it was reported that McConnell had disappeared about 25 settlers in the district started out on Wednesday to search for him.

Election and Libels.

Port Arthur, Ont., Oct. 25.—As the results of statements made by J. J. Carrick on the public platform at Kenora and reiterated in Port Arthur, a writ for slander and libel has been issued by Jas. Conmee against him.

The News has also been served with a writ for libel by Mr. Conmee for publishing alleged false statements against him.

Dr. Smellie has also been served with a writ for slander and libel at the instance of Mr. Conmee for statements made against him.

Writs have also been issued against The Times-Journal by Mr. Conmee for publishing alleged libelous matter and against Swan Erborg for alleged slander and libel.

Fight Against Opium.

New York, Oct. 26.—A cable despatch to The Herald from Shanghai says: The Government has ordered the total abolition of the cultivation of the poppy from the end of the year in the provinces of Kingston, Anhui, Honan, Kaischow, Fohkein and Yunnan.

All the powers at Shanghai are in earnest in their pledges that the western nations intend to help China rid herself of the curse which the Occident introduced, and they extol the genuine character of the attitude of China on the subject.

Blackmail Charged.

Woodstock, Oct. 26.—Robert Calwell and J. B. Rounds, a county constable of Drumbo, are under arrest here on a charge of blackmail. It is alleged that two years ago they took $300 from Charles Dazan of Woodstock in a room in a hotel here by threatening him with arrest for murder in connection with a case about that time. Calwell was arrested at Sarnia, and is said to have confessed, and his evidence may be used against Rounds.

CLAIM THEY WERE INCITED TO MURDER

Italian Prisoners at Parry Sound Make Startling Confession.

COMPATRIOT IS ARRESTED

Seperanzo and Pezzano Say Former Had Nothing to Do With Eno Robbery, But That Storekeeper Engineered Whole Affair and Offered Money to Kill Watts—Then Wanted to Be a Constable.

Parry Sound, Oct. 26.—Arising out of what has come to be known as the Eno robbery, some time ago, there are some very startling matters just come to light by a confession which has been made by the Italian prisoners, Seperanzo and Pezzano, confined in the goal here, as a result of which Constables McRae and Madigan went to Byng Inlet and there arrested Joseph W. Moore, an Italian, on a warrant charging him with inciting to murder.

The story told by the Italian prisoners is a remarkable one, and it is understood that other charges may be preferred against the accused man, Moore.

In their confession the prisoners in question state that Seperanzo who was convicted at the recent assizes of shooting at Constables Knight and Madigan and sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment therefor, had nothing to do with the Eno robbery; but they allege that the persons who actually committed the robbery were boarding at the establishment of the accused man, Moore, before the robbery and after, and they go so far as to say that Moore was the instigator of the whole thing. They allege that after the robbery the stolen money was taken to Moore's store at Byng Inlet, and it is understood that Moore has admitted that there was found behind his store a tin containing $400, which some person or other got hold of and away with. As a fact, one of the men originally arrested in connection with the robbery at Eno's was taken at Moore's store.

The confession of Seperanzo went on to state that the Italian, Moore, declared he would get revenge against Murdock Watts for his action in connection with an affray which took place at Byng Inlet, as Watts had prosecuted certain of his countrymen. Seperanzo stated that Moore had offered him $150 if he would go and shoot Watts, and offered him a gun to do it with; and also that Moore repeatedly told him that he wanted to get revenged upon Watts, and that if he (Seperanzo) would kill Watts he (Moore) would take Seperanzo to French River on his gasoline boat and he could go to Port Arthur and escape.

In the course of his confession Seperanzo alleged that Moore had also defrauded his creditors by removing goods prior to the making of an assignment. He also stated where some of the goods could be found.

The most remarkable feature of the case is that Joseph W. Moore, shortly after the Eno robbery, came to Parry Sound and offered his services as a constable for the purpose of tracking down his countrymen, the perpetrators of the robbery, and, being duly appointed, at once seemed to busy himself in the matter and expressed himself as able to effect the arrests very shortly.

The accused man Moore was brought before the police magistrate charged with counselling a person to murder Murdock Watts and was committed to stand his trial.

Mob Suspects Arrested.

Samburg, Tenn., Oct. 26.—The number of mob suspects in custody charged with implication in the murder of Captain Rankin and the assault of Colonel Taylor now number ten. The men taken into custody Saturday include Ed. Powell, who declares that he was forced under threats of death to accompany the mob on Monday night, when the two attorneys were taken from a hotel by night riders.

When court convenes to-day it is promised that evidence will be forthcoming which will assure the indictment of practically the entire band of night riders.

New Formosan Railway.

London, Oct. 26.—The Formosan Trunk Railway, which recently was completed, was formally opened yesterday in the presence of Gen. Prince Kanin of the Japanese army and a large number of officials and specially invited guests. Formosa is threaded throughout by this railway, which extends over a length of 334 miles. Many improvements have been made since the building of the road began, and the island industries have been greatly developed.

Petition For Receiver.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 26.—In behalf of the Ingersoll-Rand Co. of New York, manufacturers of electrical appliances, a petition was filed in the Federal Court Saturday night, asking that a receiver be appointed for the Municipal Traction Co.

Mayor Johnson when asked concerning the matter, said that all bills will be paid and that no receiver would be appointed.

Fire In Morgue Costs $15,000.

Montreal, Oct. 26.—Fire yesterday morning visited the morgue and caused damage to the extent of $15,000. There was but one body in the morgue at the time, that of F. A. Lippert, a C.P.R. telegrapher, who was suffocated by gas in his room Saturday morning. The flames did not reach the body.

Thank the Lord For Rain.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—Welcome rain has fallen almost continuously since Saturday night. For weeks the fields in the districts have been parched, wells and brooks run dry, and rivers dwindled to mere streams. Prayers of thankfulness were offered

Russia Is Determined.

New York, Oct. 26.—The intention of the Russian Government to exhaust every resource in the effort to bring Jan. J. Pouren, the alleged revolutionist back to Russia for trial on charges of murder, arson and robbery was shown when counsel for the Russian Government obtained a new warrant for Pouren's arrest.

Ponren was first arrested in this city in January. He was about to be deported when an appeal was made to President Roosevelt on the ground that Pouren was a political offender, not a criminal, and a rehearsing was ordered by Secretary of State Root. Saturday Mr. Root refused to grant the extradition of Pouren. To-day counsel for Russia secured the new warrant.

Threatened Wife.

Brantford, Oct. 26.—William Taylor, member of last year's Brantford professional hockey team, was fined $50 or three months in jail here by Magistrate Livingston Saturday on a charge of threatening to shoot his wife on Tuesday night last and having a loaded revolver in his possession for that purpose.

The couple have been separated, but Taylor did not cease molesting his wife and was twice warned by the magistrate to leave the city. Taylor did not leave, but, going to his wife's house, flourished a revolver, saying, "Let's have a tragedy and die together." Taylor was also bound over in $1,000 surety to keep the peace in Brantford for two years.

Train Kills Pioneer.

Guelph, Ont., Oct. 26.—Word was received here yesterday of an accident in which Thomas Dunbar, an old man of Mildmay, was killed by a freight train.

The old man was deaf and apparently did not hear the train approaching. He was struck full on the crossing. His horse was killed and the wagon smashed and the unfortunate driver was so mangled that only small portions of his remains could be discovered.

The crossing at which the accident occurred is a particularly dangerous one, and the approaches cannot be seen on one side on account of a high board fence shutting off the view.

Accidentally Shot by Brother.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 26.—Albert Bell, a 12-year-old school boy, was shot and killed by his 16-year-old brother Raymond yesterday, while they were hunting.

Another boy of the party had slipped a cartridge in the rifle, and Raymond, not knowing it was loaded, playfully pointed the rifle at his brother and pulled the trigger.

Distress Foreshadowed.

London, Oct. 26.—(C.A.P.)—Keir Hardie, speaking at Merthyr, said there was distress in every town in Canada.

Rev. Mr. MacLeod had told him there would be 10,000 heads of families receiving relief in Toronto this winter.

Lindsay Won Hard Fought Junior O. R. F. U. Game By 9-6 Saturday; "Y" Lost In Last Ten Minutes

"Y" LEAD NEARLY ALL WAY

First Quarter

Y.M.C.A.—Try, Canniff.5.
Lindsay—0.

Second Quarter

Third Quarter

Y.M.C.A.—0.
Lindsay—Goal from field (Cotton) 4; rouge 1; Total 5.

Fourth Quarter

Y.M.C.A.—Rouge 1.
Lindsay—Goal from field (Cotton) 4.
Total—Y.M.C.A., 6; Lindsay, 9.

The much-touted Lindsay Rugby team hardly came up to its advance notices in the junior O.R.F.U. game played at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon. True, they managed to pull out with an eleventh-hour victory over the Y.M.C.A. by 9-6 after the locals had outplayed the visitors for the greater part of the game, but they failed to show that superiority that was generally expected. The Y.M.C.A. trotted out a team that had never been together before, that had had little or no practice, and with a number of untried men on its line-up, and at that came within an ace of defeating the visitors. In fact the "Y." threw the game away in the last stages by an error of judgment that was very costly and which has been responsible for the loss of scores of hard fought games. With the score a tie and with but five minutes to play, the "Y." had the ball on Lindsay's 20-yard line. A kick to the dead line would have meant one point and undoubtedly a victory, but the Y. preferred to attempt bigger things and tried a short kick to an outside half, with the result that a Lindsay half intercepted the ball and got away for a good gain. Byron Greene made a spectacular dash and then Cotton dropped a goal from the field, giving Lindsay the victory at the last moment.

It was an excellent game of football for the spectators all the way, with plenty of kicking, long runs and incidentally fumbling. Both teams played straight Rugby, end runs, line-bucking and punting being used in turn. Neither had much to offer in the way of trick plays, and the few that were attempted invariably miscarried.

The Y.M.C.A. showed surprising strength, especially on the wing line. They gave their backs splendid protection, tackled well and followed up fast, doing good work all the way. Behind the line they were not so strong. With the exception of Kelly the backs fumbled badly, and as Cotton for Lindsay punted on nearly every down, the failure of the backs to handle the kicks clearly lost much ground for their team. Kelly was the bright particular star of the backfield, his punting being an outstanding feature. He got the ball away fast and kicked splendidly, while his handling of punts was all that could be desired. Evans at full back relieved brilliantly on several occasions.

Geo. McDonald played a splendid game at quarter, handling his team well and doing some brilliant tackling when on the defence. On the the wing line, Hall, Archibald and Walker were especially prominent in following up and tackling.

The Lindsay team was strong and played good Rugby throughout, although they failed to show the class expected of them. Their back division was head and shoulders above their wings, who were slow in breaking through and equally slow in following up. Behind the line, however, they were strong, at least inasmuch as they handled the ball cleanly and made few fumbles. Watson was sure and reliable at full back, and Cotton at centre half played a grand game, his kicking and all-round playing being a feature. He punted magnificently, and in addition dropped two pretty goals from the field, thereby winning the game for his club. Byron Green at right half was in the limelight frequently, getting away with some spectacular runs, one of them in the last quarter having considerable effect upon the final score. Killen played a good game at quarter, and McHugh and Koyle were prominent on the wing line.

Dr. A. W. McPherson as referee and Frank O'Connor as umpire handled the game to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The teams lined up as follows:

Y.M.C.A.		LINDSAY
	Backs.
Evans		Watson
	Halves.
Moore		B. Green
Kelly		Cotton
Staunton		Sylvester
	Quarters.
McDonald		Killen
	Scrimmage.
L. Patterson		McQuorie
Armstrong		Dougan
Shirley		Newton
	Inside Wings
Downie		Murdie
Henderson		McHugh
	Middle Wings
Hall		Koyle
Archibald		F. Green
	Outside Wings
Canniff		Conway
Walker		Coulter

The Play

A slight rain was falling when the game started but not enough to seriously inconvenience the players, although it made the footing somewhat uncertain. The Y. had much the better of the play at the beginning, and in a few moments had Lindsay on the defensive. Good punting by Kelly and following up by the local wings kept the play in Lindsay territory. Finally, with Lindsay in possession of the ball on the ten-yard line, a bad pass was made and Canniff, breaking through, secured the ball and dragged himself over for a try, assisted by Hall. Moore narrowly missed the convert. Score, Y.M.C.A. 5, Lindsay 0.

There was no further scoring in that quarter, and the second period brought nothing in the way of a score, although both lines were threatened at times. Kelly and Cotton kept up a killing duel, and fumbles by the Y. backs kept the play uncertain. Kelly got a minute in this quarter for a high tackle.

Lindsay tied the score in the third quarter although the play continued even throughout. Several fumbles gave Lindsay possession thirty yards out, and after line plunges had been nailed for a loss the ball was passed back to Cotton who kicked a beautiful goal from the field and the score was Lindsay 5, Y.M.C.A. 5.

There was any amount of excitement in the last quarter. With the score a tie, both teams played desperately. The Y. went at their opponents hammer and tongs, and for the greater partt of the half had the visitors on the run. By end runs and line plunges they carried the ball up the field to Lindsay's 20-yard line. Two bucks were tried without success, and as there were only a few minutes left to play, the crowd yelled for a kick over the dead line. However, the Y. tried a short to Staunton and Cotton intercepted the ball, getting away for a good run. Then Byron Green tore loose for thirty yards, and Cotton dropped another goal from the thirty-yard line, putting Lindsay ahead for the first time. Not dismayed, the Y. went back at their opponents and were in drop-kick range of the line. Kelly however punted over, and a rouge resulted. The Y. had still a chance, and when Watson fumbled and then made a poor return of a kick over the line by Kelly things looked bright. The ball bounded back to Green, however, and he tore off a nice run, saving the situation as time was called shortly afterwards before the Y. could get within scoring distance again.

GANS' AND CORBETT'S FANCIES

Former Has Squandered Thousands at Craps—Latter is on the Stage.

Jim Corbett's dad is acting before the footlights. He is really stuck on the theatrical profession and devotes all of his spare time to trying to improve in the art. Corbett thinks the day is not far distant when he'll be hailed as a leading man. Jim Corbett says that no writer of plays has yet been able to produce a play that would enable him, to show theatregoers just how clever he really is. You couldn't get Jim back in the ring with a team of horses because he thinks that such a move would injure his prospects before the limelight. If Corbett has any other hobby it is baseball. He is a pretty fair player himself, but he enjoys footing too.

Joe Gans, the ex-lightweight champion, is a born gambler. He has lost probably $100,000 on games of chance and that's going some. He loves to shoot craps for high stakes and also puts down good stiff bets on the horses. Gans is also very fond of game chickens, and has quite a few choice birds at his Baltimore home. In fact he has fought his strain of birds in some big mains for many thousands of dollars. He is not a piker and never was. If Gans hadn't been such a redhot sport he could have retired with a comfortable fortune.—New York Sun.

SHRUBB DEFEATS THE THREE MEN

Five Mile Race in Buffalo Yesterday Afternoon.

Buffalo, Oct. 26.—(Special—Arthur) Shrubb, the world's champion distance runner, defeated the picked team of three men at Kenilworth Park track, yesterday afternoon. Three miles were run with Aikens and Moynihan, two local men, each taking a mile and a half, and Billy Davis, the Hamilton Indian two mile champion, running the last two miles. Shrubb gained a 100 yards on Aikens and 50 yards on Moynihan, while he simply toyed with Davis in the last two miles. The Englishman spurted the entire last mile and was a half a mile in the lead at the end of the race. The time for the five miles was 26 minutes and 10 3-5 seconds. A large crowd saw the race and a lot of enthusiasm greeted the Englishman at the finish.

T.A.S.A.C.—No score.

Fourth Quarter

Collegiate Institute — Safety-touch, 2; safety-touch, 2; goal from field, Meldrum, 4; goal from field, Meldrum, 4. Total, 12.
T.A.S.A.C.—No score.
Total Collegiate Institute, 23.
T.A.S.A.C.—0.

The Collegiate Institute team scored their second shut out in the Junior City League series on Saturday afternoon when they trimmed the T. A.S.A.C. Juniors by 23 points to 0 in an interesting game at Riverside Park. Although held closely for the first half of the game the students made a runaway race of it on end, scoring twelve points in the last quarter when the T.A.S. went to pieces. The Collegians had it on their opponents at all stages, being superior at all points. However, the T. A.S. were handicapped by the absence of several of their best men and were badly demoralized as a result, the back division being especially handicapped and mufls of punts and bad passes were the order of the day. With the Collegiate backs kicking splendidly and with their wings following up fast and tackling hard and accurately it is no wonder that the Abstainers were badly beaten.

The winners played grand Rugby throughout. They were in the best of condition and though outweighed, put up a superb defence and an effective attack. The wings gave their backs every protection and when on the attack were aggressive and effective, tackling beautifully, while the back division caught, kicked and ran well. Team play was in evidence all the way and the signals were followed out with an accuracy and precision that is often lacking in a team of older players. All the backs played good Rugby, Meldrum's kicking being a feature besside punting cleverly he dropped two goals from the field in the last quarter. Rankin and Gibson worked in some good runs and Fortye looked after all he had to do nicely. Geale played a fine game at quarter, and Capt. Hall, Quinlan and Dobbin were the best of the wings, although all did good work. For the T.A.S. Capt. Fitzgerald at quarter, put up fine Rugby, his line bucking being a feature. Denoon got in the prettiest individual play of the afternoon in the second quarter when he ran 60 yards through a broken field. Had he not been tripped he would have undoubtedly got clean away. O'Brien showed up well on the wing line and the others worked hard all the way.

Dr. McPherson was referee and Chris Graham umpire. Both gave every satisfaction.

Following were the teams:

Collegiate Institute.		T. A. S. A.C.
	Backs.
Fortye		Hayes
	Halves.
Gibson		Denoon
Meldrum		Larkin (O'Brien)
Rankin		Galvin
	Quarters
Geale		Fitzgerald, (Capt.)
	Scrimmage.
Leahy		Kennealy
Kirn		Clancy
Layfield		Milloy
	Inside Wings
Anderson		O'Brien, (Larkin)
Quinlan		Henry
	Middle Wings.
Hall, (Capt.)		McPherson
Giroux		O'Donnell
	Outside Wings.
Dobbin		Orantield
Conroy		O'Hearn

The Collegiate assumed the aggressive on the start, tumbles by the T. A.S.A.C. backs losing ground for the Abstainers. At last the P.C.I. wings broke through and hurled Fitzgerald back over the line for a safety touch. A few moments later Fortye kicked into touch in goal for a point, and then Meldrum kicked over to Hayes who was compelled to rouge, leaving the score at quarter time, 4—0.

In the second quarter Meldrum tried a drop which went wide, the ball rolling to the dead line for a point, and Fortye also kicked over the dead line. Half time score—P.C.I., 6; T. A.S.A.C, 0.

In the third quarter the Collegiate Institute scored a try on a run around the end by Hall, after carrying the ball up the field on line, plunges and short runs, Giroux failed to convert.

The fourth quarter added twelve to the total with two safety touches, and two splendid goals from the field by Meldrum.

Final score—P.C.I., 23. T.A.S.A.C. 0.

SIMPSON WAS SIXTH AT MONTREAL; LONGBOAT WON THE BIG RACE

Fred Simpson made a remarkably good showing in the great fifteen mile road race at Montreal on Saturday, when out of a field of 112 runners, he finished sixth, after running second to Longboat for the greater part of the distance. Simpson seems to have run a far different race than in his other long distance events. He stuck to Longboat from the start and at five miles was a good second. At nine miles he still clung to second place, 100 yards behind, and at ten miles had out down the lead to sixty yards. At thirteen miles he was still second, but he tired badly on end and dropped back to sixth. A despatch says:

Montreal, Oct. 24.—Longboat to-day again demonstrated the fact that he is the champion long distance runner of Canada. He won the fifteen mile road race, organized by the Independent Harriers, on Saturday from a large field of competitors.

About one hundred started in the race, which was over a hard course around the mountain. An immense crowd lined the course and applauded the different runners. Longboat and Abbie Wood, the latter being a local man, were favourites. Longboat responded to the cheers of the thousands who lined the route and ran a strong race, finishing with a smile of satisfaction that spread from ear to ear. His time was 1.25.43 2-5.

Holmer, of Halifax, was far behind Longboat, and third came Abbie Wood, one second behind Holmer. The race for second place, was practically neck and neck, with the crowd yelling for Wood to win out. Sellen, of Toronto, was fourth, and the others came in in the following order: Rogers, Halifax; Fred Simpson, Peterborough; E. Cotter, Hamilton; John Roe, West End Y.M.C.A., Toronto; J. Gordon, Waverleys, Montreal; Black, Irish-Canadian, Toronto; James Robson, Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto; John Near, Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto; Downey, Halifax; George Adams, Hamilton; H. O. Kerr, Central Y.M.C.A., Toronto; Claude Pierce, Irish-Canadians, Toronto; George Gales, Gordons, Montreal.

One of the runners, John Roe, of West End Y.M.C.A., Toronto, was laughing as he came up, as though he had run a few hundred yards, instead of a fifteen mile road racer.

The Irish-Canadians' team won the team race, with Longboat in first place; Sellen in fourth, Black in ninth and Pierce in fourteenth. This gave them a good long margin over the four best of any team. The Halifax team was second.

The day was almost ideal for a race, the only drawbacks being smoke from forest fires and dust raised by autos and wheels which accompanied the runners. Interest in the race was heightened by the assertion of Schrubb that he was going to compete, and the equally pronounced assertion of Flanagan that he would prevent Shrubb from doing so.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR FRIDAY'S BIG WRESTLING MATCH

All preparations have been made for the big wrestling match between Yankee Rogers and Young Hackenschmidt at Brook street rink on Friday night. This go promises to be the warmest ever, as the men have been anxious to meet for some time. Rogers is in great shape at present as he has won three matches during the past week on his tour through the East. He beat Cyclone Burns at Manchester, N.H., on Friday night, and the papers say the bout was a corker. Manager Naylor thinks Yank is invincible, but he is up against a rnag this time, for Hack. is just as confident that he will win. The management have arranged a good preliminary that will set the fans thinking.

TORONTO A. C. CLUB WILL BE HERE SATURDAY FOR SENIOR O.R.F.U. GAME

On Saturday the first local senior O.R.F.U. game of the season will be played when the strong Toronto Athletic Club's team will meet the T.A.S. Athletic Club's seniors. The Toronto A. C. defeated the locals in Toronto a week ago by 30 points to 0, but the T.A.S. went into the game without practice and with a new and untried team. At that the game was not really as one-sided as the score would indicate. Since that game the locals have been practising faithfully, and with another week's work will be in much better shape when time is called next Saturday. There is a probability that Dr. McPherson will be induced to turn out, and if he does, the T.A.A.C. may look out for trouble. Several changes are being made that are expected to strengthen the team. There will no doubt be a big crowd present for the contest.

ROUGH RIDERS OVERWHELMED Y. M. C. A. IN CITY LEAGUE GAME

The biggest score so far rolled up in the City Rugby League was made by the Rough Riders on Saturday when they defeated the Y. M. C. A. Juniors by 45 points to nothing in a game played at Nicholls Oval. Despite the one-sided nature of the score the game was hard fought and several fights were thrown in. The Riders completely out-classed their opponents, especially in the last half when they ran up 29 points. They had more speed on the back division, in fact all along the line and romped through the "Y" for eight tries of which Corkery got four tries; Cahill two, and Porter and Giroux one each. As there were no goal posts, the tries could not have been converted or the score might have been larger. Two safety touches and a rouge brought the score up to forty-five.

Corkery was the bright star of the contest, his long runs gaining ground for the Riders every time he was given the ball. The "Y" seemed powerless to stop him. Cahill at centre half also played brilliant rugby.

Chas. Simon was referee and Wallace Armstrong umpire. The teams were as follows:

Rough Riders.	Y. M. C. A.
Backs.
Laing	Munro
Halves.
Corkery	Ray
Cahill	Seymour
H Quinlan	Long

Improvements To The Crystal; Talking Pictures To Be Shown

Extensive alterations and improvements are to be made to the "Crystal," the popular George street amusement resort, that will double the seating capacity of the theatorium. The building will be extended at the rear and the floor lowered so that it will be possible to comfortably seat 300 people. The hall will be fitted out according to the latest American ideas, and will have a box on each side in theatre style. In addition $1,000 will be spent on a talking machine, so that talking pictures will be shown, instead of the usual motion pictures. These talking pictures are causing a sensation and their inception here will undoubtedly prove most popular.

HUMOUR OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

Unconsciously Expressed in Their Writings on Different Subjects.

AS THE TEACHER SEES IT

To the majority of people perhaps a schoolmaster's life appears monotonous and uneventful, but to one who is apt to look upon the humorous side of things this is far from being the case. Most boys are careless, irresponsible creatures, certainly; but there is a fund of genuine, unadulterated humor in the average boy. A schoolmaster of fifteen years' standing, writes: "I have corrected, I might say, a few thousand examination papers in my time. Some of the answers to questions set are wonderfully funny." The following are specimens:

A boy, aged ten, thus answers the question as to the cause of the Transvaal disturbances: "Kruger and Kamerbulium is one. He is a man of blood Mr. Chamberling has wrote to him sayin' come out and fite or else give up the blood of the English you have took, he is boardutchamn and wicked heethen. Lord Kitchener has sent for his goary hed and to bring back his scanderlus hed ded or alive."

An essay on Gladstone by a boy of eleven, states: "Mr. Gladstone lovd everybody. he loved publicians and sinners and irishmen. he wanted the irish to come to England and have home rool, but Mr. Chamberlain says no, no. so alars he got tha blud up and killed Mr. Parnel. Mr. Gladstone died with great rispect and is buried in Westminster with peaceful ashes."

Rather ambiguous is this description of Queen Elizabeth by another boy: "Queen Elizabeth was a vurgin Queen and she was never marrid. she was so fond of dresses that she was never seen without one on. She was beautiful and clever with a red head and freckles."

The boy writer of the following is decidedly backward in his Tennyson. Concerning the late poet laureate, he writes: "Tennyson wrote buteiful poims with long hair and studied so much that he bet mother will you call me airly dear. his gratist poim is called the idle king. he was made a lord but he was a good man and wrote many boads. he loved our dear Queen so much that he made a poim to heer called the fairy Queen."

Another boy wishes to become an editor. In an essay on "The Choice of a Profession," he gives his reasons in these words: "An Editur is always a happy man because he can read luvelyt akes and artikles all day and pages of sweet luv poems. a good editur has brames, but it must be very sad for him having to read milankolie stories of luv so as to make him almost weep with tears from his eyes. a editur is a rich man because he never pays for artikles and so has all this interlect for nothing."

One could hardly put the following ideas of a certain youth on "Honesty" to a practical use: "It is nobel thing to be a honist man. If you are an honist man you can look the world in the face and never be ashamed of the Devill. it is good to be honist when sum one is lookin' because you may get a reward. I know a church-warding who is a honist man who collects money on Sunday in his black clothes. if you are honist when you are young you may grow to be rich and the lord mare and then or corse it doesn't matter."

This is from an essay on "My Hero": "My here is my father because he is a christyun clergyman. my father says on my son gro up like your father and rispect yourself because nobody else will rispect you. I am goin' to be a clergyman because my father says I am an ass in school and have no brames to get a livin' in bisniss."

Shakspere is hardly appreciated by the young hopeful who writes:—'Shakspere was a famous poit and poschru. he wrote luvely plays called the tame shrew bamblet, and a Scotch piece called Macdoegul. In Shakspere's time some of the plaze were very rude, but now everything is so."

NICK BAWLF IS IN PETERBOROUGH

Nick Bawlf, the brilliant full-back of the Ottawa College Rugby team, is in the city for a few days as the guest of Dr. Herb Sullivan, who was a college chum of his. Mr. Bawlf played with his team on Saturday, when they were defeated by Varsity by 28 points to 19. The Ottawas, he states, did not tackle with their usual accuracy and this was mainly responsible for the defeat of last year's inter-collegiate champions. Bawlf, in addition to being a clever Rugbyist, is a noted sprinter.

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED YESTERDAY

Philomathean Society of the Collegiate Institute Get Under Way.

The annual election of the officers of the Philomathean Society, of the Collegiate Institute, was held yesterday afternoon with a large attendance of the students. The new officers for the year are as follows:

Hon. President—Mr. C. Fessenden.
President—Arthur Roseborough.
Vice-President — Miss M. Armstrong.
Secretary—Miss Fessenden.
Treasurer—John Brightman.

The Collegiate students in the past have derived a great deal of benefit from the society, and with the added facilities which the new building affords them, there should be increased activity in the literary work and friends of the students will look forward to the pleasure of hearing them in their public meetings.

BUSY MAN'S FOR THE MONTH OF NOVEMBER

There is no more important question engaging the attention of Canadians to-day than the great transportation problem and what is being done to enable the abundant products of the farm, forest, fishery and mine to be marketed expeditiously and profitably. The development and expansion of our transportation facilities is the subject of an instructive and timely contribution from Major G. W. Stephens, Chairman of the Montreal Harbour Commission, in the November number of The Busy Man's Magazine. Another article that will be read with interest is "Making Canadian Weather Predictions," by Mr. A. P. McKishnie, who is rapidly forging his way to the front as one of the brightest of young Canadian short story writers. The illustrations are attractive and effective. In both contents and make up the improvements in Busy Man's will be appreciated, while the selections from the leading magazines and publications of the day will be perused during the long evenings of November with pleasure and profit. The department devoted to what the current editions of the world's periodical press present cannot fail to be of the greatest help and convenience to the student, the man of affairs or the general reader who desires instruction along special lines and an acquaintance with what is being discovered, thought and written in the various avenues of activity, progress and development.

THE MAJORITY FOR THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT AGAIN DECISIVE

Plurality is Now Placed at Fifty—Government Majority in Every Province Except Ontario and Manitoba.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—The following are the returns of yesterday's elections, according to provinces:

	Libs.	Cons.
Ontario	39	47
Quebec	51	13
Nova Scotia	11	7
New Brunswick	11	2
P. E. Island	3	1
Manitoba	4	6
Saskatchewan	8	1
Alberta	4	3
British Columbia	1	3
	132	82

Majority 50
Elections to be held—7.

In Quebec the elections resulted in a condition of as you were. The Liberals and Conservatives each gained five seats. The net result of the polling really was the changing of a few seats from one column to the other, and the defeat of Mr. Bergeron, one of Mr. Borden's lieutenants from that province.

The most remarkable reversal of the verdict of 1904 took place in Nova Scotia. That province returned "the solid eighteen" an unbroken delegation of Liberals in 1904, while this year the figures indicate the election of eleven Liberals and seven Conservatives. The other Maritime Provinces make up for this loss by a greatly increased representation of Liberals. Prince Edward Island, which returned three Conservatives and a Liberal in 1904, this time sends three Liberals and a Conservative. New Brunswick gives an answer to the campaign of slander waged against Mr. Pugsley and his supporters by returning eleven Liberals and only two Conservatives.

From the Maritime Provinces as a whole, therefore, there are 25 Liberals and 10 Conservatives.

The Ontario Turn-Over.

The totals for Ontario are 39 Liberals and 47 Conservatives, precisely the same figures as when the House of Commons was dissolved. The general result is the same, but there has been such a shaking up of seats as few expected. Here are the Liberal and Conservative gains in this Province:

Liberal gains—Brantford, Cornwall and Stormont, West Kent, South Ontario, North Perth, Prince Edward East Simcoe, North Waterloo, Wentworth. Total—9.

Conservative gains—South Bruce, North Grey, West Hamilton, Nipissing, North Ontario, Parry Sound, East Peterborough, North Simcoe, Centre York. Total—9.

These are the results so far secured from the various constituences. The assured Liberal victories will be much greater:

Daughter Has Dreamt.

Brockville, Oct. 27.—L. N. Catlin, a watchman on the Cleveland Canal work at Cardinal, was found dying between midnight and 6 o'clock in the morning yesterday. The man was alone, and symptoms went to show that he had been seized with heart failure, from which he never rallied.

A strange feature of the case is that about the hour he is supposed to have been in the agonies of death, his daughter, Flora Catlin, visiting at Hounsfield, was suddenly awakened from a deep slumber by the voice of her father calling her name in agonizing tones. This strange experience was followed by a wire notifying her of his death.

Chinamen Proved Citizenship.

Brockville, Oct. 27.—The courts at Ogdensburg have just discharged six Chinamen who have been in jail for several weeks on a charge of entering the United States illegally. It was presumed they had been smuggled across the river from Brockville, as they were caught on Uncle Sam's property shortly after making the landing on a dak night. They have proved their citizenship.

BROILED OWL.

The Feeling In Camp Before and After the First Nibble.

I told the guides that it would be better to begin supper right away in order that we might not get too hungry before the owl was done. I thought them slow in their preparations for the meal. It was curious, too, for I had promised them they should have a piece of the bird. Del was generous. He said he would give his to Charles; that he never really cared much for birds anyhow. Why, once, he said, he shot a partridge and gave it away, and he was hungry too. He gave it to a boy that happened along just then, and when another partridge flew up he didn't even offer to shoot it. We didn't take much stock in that story until it dawned upon us that he had shot the bird out of season, and the boy had happened along just in time to be incriminated by accepting it as a present. It was better to have him as a partner than a witness.

Wood was gathered then, and the fire blazed. The owl's breast—fat and fine it looked—was in the broiler and on the fire. There it cooked—and cooked. Then it cooked some more and sent up an appetizing smell. Now and then I said I thought the time for it had come, but there was a burden of opinion that more cooking would benefit the owl. Meantime we had eaten a pan or two of trout and a few other things, the bird, of course, being later in the bill of fare. At most dinners I have attended this course is contemplated with joy. It did not seem to be on this occasion. Eddie agreed with Del that he had never cared much for bird anyway and urged me to take his share. I refused to deprive him of it. Then he said he didn't feel well and thought he really ought not to eat anything more. I said grimly that possibly this was true, but that he would eat the owl.

It was served then, fairly divided and distributed, as food is when men are on short rations. I took the first taste—I was always venturesome—a little one. Then immediately I wished I had accepted Eddie's piece. But meantime he had tasted, too—a miserly taste—and then I couldn't have got the rest of it for money.

For there was never anything so good as that breast of young owl. It was tender, it was juicy, it was as delicately flavored as a partridge almost. Certainly it was a dainty morsel to us, who had of late dealt so largely in fish diet. Had we known where the rest of that brood of owls had flown we should have started after them then and there.—Albert Bigelow Paine in Outing Magazine.

A SURPRISING WEDDING.

It Gave a Shock to the Lady Who Was So Anxious to See It.

An elderly American authoress asked me to conduct her to a place where she could see a workman's wedding, as she required it for a new novel, writes the Paris correspondent of the London Gentlewoman. To oblige the lady I took her to the Lac Saint-Fargeau, an establishment at the top of the steep Rue de Belleville.

It was still early when we reached the place, and no brides or bridegrooms were visible as yet. At last two char-a-bancs drove up to the door, and a noisy company alighted, all smoking cigarettes, including the bride, which shocked my friend exceedingly.

The company then sat down to luncheon, and we watched them from a distance, while a photographer took up his position near us. The meal did not last very long and ended in the bride performing a jig; on the table, while the guests danced around her. They then started games, hide and seek, etc., and while the bridegroom had his back turned the bride threw her arms round the neck of a red haired youth.

This led to a fight between the two. The melee became general, the bride pulling off her wreath and throwing it at her father-in-law's head. My friend looked on in breathless excitement, while the guests jumped over the tables and chairs, but when the bride turned a somersault, alighting on the bridegroom's shoulders, the good lady's indignation rose to a high pitch, and it was only then that I told her what I—and the reader no doubt, too—guessed long before, that they were a party of acrobats rehearsing a scene for a cinematograph company.

The Smart Set.

A lady in a town lying under the Rockies was much distressed at hearing a small clique in her town refer to themselves as the "smart set." She appealed to an ex-United States senator and asked him what he understood by the term "the smart set." He replied: "I think I can give you an inkling. In the eastern part of Colorado and in the western part of Nebraska there is a large tract of land known as the 'rain belt.' It never rains there."—Argonaut.

No Police In Heaven.

Small Isabel's particular friend, the policeman on the beat, contracted pneumonia and died. Isabel was greatly grieved until her mother convinced her that he had gone to heaven. Even then she was not quite reconciled. "If heaven is such a good place," remarked the little skeptic, "I don't see what God wants policemen there for."

Australia's Wild Oysters.

Oysters are sometimes regarded as dangerous, but they are not usually considered savage. A Queensland judge, however, has decided that they are wild beasts. Before a royal commission on the pearling industry, which has been sitting at Brisbane, a witness stated that eight years ago she had laid 100,000 shells in the neighborhood of Friday island. The Japanese stole the shells, and the district court judge held that as pearl shell oysters were wild animals there was no penalty for stealing them.—London Globe.

JUGGLERS OF INDIA.

One of the Wonderful Feats They Are Said to Perform.

Two men—one old and emaciated, carrying a native drum; the other young and well fed, fantastically gowned with an overskirt of colored handkerchiefs and a multitude of bells which jangle noisily at his slightest movement, long, ragged hair, altogether a hideous figure.

The drummer begins a weird tom-toming and the other man an incantation. Then he extends a "supra," a bamboo tray used by all natives, on which any one who pleases places a large handful of rice and the same quantity of grain. The two ingredients are thoroughly amalgamated, so that it would in the ordinary way take hours to separate them.

Now the fantastic man with his tray begins. He turns round slowly, gradually quickening his pace (the drummer also keeping time), faster and faster in a giddy vortex, the tray at times almost out of his hands, yet so cleverly handled that not a grain falls out. It is very trying to watch, but in a couple of minutes both stop simultaneously, and the man shows to the wondering spectators two little heaps, one of rice and the other grain, at different ends of the tray, which in his sickening gyrations he has been able to separate by some extraordinary manipulation.

THE SWISS PENSION.

Peculiar Manners at the Boarding House Table d'Hote.

The distinctive thing about a Swiss pension is the table d'hote. The table d'hote has its own set of conventions. You can always tell an old pensionnaire by the way he sputters when he eats his soup, by the way he stabs a piece of bread from the bread basket with his knife and by the keen eye he has for picking out the best piece of meat. By some mysterious system, known only to the maid, she always offers you the platter with the fork seductively placed in the smallest, poorest portion. Your skilled pensionnaire is never caught by this trick. He always removes the fork from the piece indicated and rakes over everything till he finds the best. This is not impolite—in a pension. It is the conventional thing.

In order to prevent any undue advantage the maid has a system of rotation. First she begins at the head of the table and works down the right side. With the next course she begins at the foot and works up the left side. If she forgets where she stopped and begins wrong there is an immediate howl from those who are getting cheated. This causes many bitter and stormy arguments.—Albert Edwards in Outlook.

THREE ARTISTS.

The Wonderful Success of Christy, Fisher and Hutt.

Howard Chandler Christy is said to have "cleaned up" $80,000 in one year, which sum is something more than the combined salaries of all the members of President Roosevelt's cabinet. This may be an exaggeration. It probably is, and it should be. Yet that it is possible for Christy to make such a sum and that it is probable his income for a twelvemonth has climbed well up toward that figure are proved by the fact that his royalties on an edition of one portfolio of drawings, the execution of which probably occupied less than a month, was $13,000 the first year it was out. The advertising value of Christy's name is so great that he has been offered handsome studio apartments rent free if he will only move into them and establish the reputation of the building. Harrison Fisher is another popular artist who has found the public very practically appreciative. His career in many respects has been similar to that of Christy, also his income, though it is doubtful if the latter has ever reached the high water mark set by Christy's star year. Record has it that Fisher's brush brought him $20,000 in seven months at one time.

Henry Hutt is also a member of this class. In ten years he sprinted from a four dollar a week artist's "devil" in a Chicago engraving house all the way to a seat of honor in the real artists' club. While the first years of Mr. Hutt's "career" were somewhat stormy, at least they were proportionately short. He early found himself and fixed a rising scale of prices on his work. This proved an excellent plan, the only change necessary in the programme being a readjustment of the scale in order to frighten off the buyer with a limited purse. The real financial success of these three men—Christy, Fisher and Hutt—lies in their ability to produce. Except when selling stuff on a royalty basis, the prices paid them, while seemingly enormous, are actually not record breaking.—Bookman.

A Story About "Fighting Bob."

The other day at Lake Mohonk a friend of Admiral Evans asked him:

"Admiral, is there any truth that after the battle of Santiago you called out from the bridge of the Iowa to a captain of another battleship, 'Those Spaniards can't fight a thing except water?'"

Admiral Evans laughed and replied: "I will tell you what I really said and what the incident really was. One drizzly day during the blockade we stood in toward the harbor and shelled the shore batteries. It wasn't as exciting as it might have been, for, whether we hit anything or not, I know the Spaniards did not quite come near us. After the shelling was over a press boat lay alongside my ship, and a newspaper man asked if we had been hit. I shouted back: 'They didn't touch us. The Spaniards didn't hit anything except water, and they couldn't have hit that if there wasn't so much of it.'"

Wolseley Is Hard Up.

Lord Wolseley, who used to be known in England as "our greatest general," is in straitened circumstances and has given up his residence, the Farmhouse, Glynde, Sussex, owing to the expiration of his lease, and the furniture and contents of the modest little mansion have been disposed of by auction. The distinguished soldier has received in his time several liberal grants from a grateful country for services rendered to it, but it is understood that his lot has now fallen on rather evil times, the more so as his state of health has prevented him from completing his "Life of Marlborough." Still, the suit of apartments that was granted him and Lady Wolseley at Hampton Court palace remains at their disposal.

Routed by Beggars.

Miss Anna Morgan, heiress to $300,000,000, says a Vienna paper, was driven out of Berlin, where she hoped to study politico-social conditions, by the beggars, high and low, of nobility and otherwise, who no sooner heard of the arrival of the rich American girl than they set siege to her dollars. Individuals, societies, churches, charitable institutions and promoters of business schemes wrote, telegraphed and sent messengers. It all looked funny to the young woman at first, but it became a nuisance, from which she escaped by means of her automobile, in which she hastened to a nearby summer resort.

Sheep Fattening Sheds.

At Aurora, Ill., there are frequently to be seen as many as 50,000 sheep at one time housed in fattening sheds, where they are put in prime condition for the market. Herds numbering 75,000 are to be encountered on the ranches of the far west, but at Aurora so many sheep in one bunch right in the midst of a popular farming district is a novel sight. The sheds at this point have accommodations for 75,000 animals, but there has yet been no occasion to tax the establishment to its full capacity.—Baltimore American.

Equal to the Occasion.

Michelot, the famous comedian, suffered a great deal from the spite of his colleagues and found it necessary to be on the alert at every performance. On a certain occasion he had to scold a servant in one of Moliere's plays, when the "claque," which had been bribed by his rivals, began to hiss.

Michelot was by no means disconcerted. Giving the servant a couple of blows on the ear, not included in the part, he extemporized as follows:

"You vile scamp of a varlet, there is nothing you think of! There you stand quietly listening to the vermin squeaking in the house and never trouble yourself to get the rat poison?"

The effect of this sally was striking. The audience broke out in loud applause, and no subsequent attempt was made to hiss the actor.

CANDLEFISH.

The candlefish is about the size of a smelt and so fat that when dried and lighted it throws off a blaze of sufficient power to be used for illuminating purposes, says Forest and Stream. Before the advent of the white man and his candles these fish were used by the Alaskan natives for that purpose.

The Indians claim that candlefish possess valuable medicinal qualities, and candlefish oil is used by them as a universal cure for consumption. Hundreds of pounds of these fish are buried and left in the ground until they begin to decompose; then they are removed and dumped into a wooden receptacle, a hollowed out log, or, more often, a dugout canoe that has passed its usefulness as a craft. Water is then added and the putrid mass is brought to a boiling point and kept simmering by plunging into it bowlders that have been heated. The oil is thus gradually tried out, and after it has gathered on the surface, thick and clear, it is drawn off and placed in large wooden receptacles. A consumptive patient is liberally dosed with this oil. He drinks it by the pint and is bathed in it several times a day. To meet one of these dirty, sickly, greasy Indians is one of the most repulsive sights imaginable. Nevertheless persons in a position to know say that after several weeks of this treatment a native who once seemed to be in the last stages of the disease becomes as robust and looks as healthy as a perfectly strong man.

THE TARDY GUEST.

He Didn't Tell His Hostess the Truth About the Delay.

Dinner had been ready and waiting twenty minutes. The wife of the tardy guest was very much embarrassed. Just to think that her husband was so rude as to be late at a dinner engagement and keep all the guests waiting! After awhile the belated one arrived, red faced and perspiring.

"So sorry to keep you waiting," he said. "But I was detained at the office with an out of town customer. Just couldn't get away."

The excuse sounded all right and was accepted by the hostess, but it was a myth.

The truth was: Preoccupied, he had gone home from the office at the usual time and found the house locked, much to his surprise. Where in the mischief were his wife and children? he wondered. Why didn't they tell him they were going away? He went all around the house and tried the doors, but they were locked. Then he found a piece of iron in the back yard and broke open a window and crowded in. He crowded out through the window for the evening paper and crowded back. He read the paper, and still the wife and children didn't return.

At 6:03 o'clock he remembered the dinner engagement. While he dressed and rode twenty blocks the guests waited. But others have made the same blunder.

Pie With Knives.

George Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and James Monroe, the first five presidents, each ate pie with his knife. It was not until John Quincy Adams entered the White House that the substitution of the fork for the knife seems to have occurred to any citizen of America. "He contracted the habit while in France," said Mrs. Adams in an apologetic tone to some of her guests, "and he finds it difficult to break himself of it since we returned home." So the first great general of the American army, the sturdy patriot of Massachusetts, the author of the Declaration of Independence, the chief advocate of the federal constitution and the originator of the Monroe doctrine, all ate pie with the knife.—Utica Observer.

THE SAILOR MISSIONARY

REV. "CAPTAIN" ANTLE MINISTERS TO B. C. LUMBERMEN.

With a Ship and Two Land Hospitals Intrepid Minister in the Wild Coast of British Columbia Takes Medicine, Literature and Religion Among the Loggers—The "Cap" Is All Man.

One of the most interesting, sensible and practical efforts in the way of human benevolence may be found on the Pacific Coast, where Rev. John Antle, with a hospital ship, three skilled surgeons, four trained nurses, two hospitals and a third in course of construction, is carrying on a work that is only beginning to be known to the general public. Away in the forests of giant fir trees in Northern British Columbia there is a corps of men several thousand strong engaged in felling these forest monarchs and hauling them to the sea, where they are forwarded to the saw-mills of Vancouver and elsewhere, to be transformed into merchantable lumber, and sent forth to the ends of the earth to be used for the convenience and comfort of men. For years these men were a couple of hundred miles from civilization. The ever-present saloon was the only evidence that men not actually engaged in the logging industry took thought for the lumber-jack—it was a thought, of course, that did not go far on the road of benevolence. When, in their hazardous occupation, they were smitten down by an unmanageable tree, or mangled by a logging train, or nearly cut in twain by a flying cable, they had to die without surgical care or await in agony the chance call of a trading steamer to carry them to Vancouver—a day's journey hence. In that extraordinary aggregation of men were to be found all sorts and conditions of humanity, all nationalities, all grades of education from the Oxford graduate downward, and all degrees of self-control and dissipation. Up to these logging camps sailed a little craft, some five years ago, with Rev. John Antle at the tiller, and his little son Victor, a boy of 12 years, making himself useful amidships. It was a wonderful journey. The entire trip covered upwards of 500 miles and was made in a month on a sea that had hitherto been unknown to the sailor. Into a cove where he had been told a camp was situated, he crept at dead of night with the cliffs on either side, towering hundreds of feet above him, and seeming to mock his diminutive vessel. On another occasion he was caught in a "narrows" between an island and the mainland by the outgoing tide, and his craft was tossed about like a bit of cork, while on it sped like a race horse headed for the winning-post.

As a result of that trip it can be said with perfect truth that the whole northern coast has been transformed as a place of habitation. First of all, there is the mission-ship, Columbia, which is the centre and key of the whole situation. It was built originally as a sailing vessel, with auxiliary gasoline engines. Now the sails are auxiliary and the engine the chief motive power. It is so built that it concentrates many functions in one structure. It is a floating hospital, library, dispensary, postoffice, church and court of justice. It tours about from camp to camp with a surgeon on board picking up sick and wounded men, and hurrying them off to the hospital. It distributes books, magazines, and papers, a service that is greatly appreciated in those lonely wilds. It drops first-aid dressings and instructions with the foremen of camps that save the situation until skilled help arrives. It provides a chapel where services are held and sacraments are dispensed. As the occasion permits, a portable organ is carried up to the camp, and after having a smoke and chat with the men, Mr. Antle sits down and strums a few familiar melodies. In a short time an old violin is taken down and the dust removed, a flute is fished out of a weather-beaten box, and shortly an orchestra of considerable skill and great effectiveness is delighting a camp of appreciative listeners. Then there are a few straight, manly words from the "Cap," as he is called by the men. It is all very simple, all very human, but something has possessed them that they cannot explain. Perhaps it is a far-off home and other days that have been carried back to them by those songs and salutations. At all events, there is warmth in the leave-taking, and there is meaning in the words, "See that you won't stay away so long the next time, Cap." Captain Antle is sometimes described by his friends as half parson and half sailor, but "the Boys" declare that he is all man.

The Columbia is also the centre of the administration of justice, and Mr. Antle, who is a justice of the peace, has done much to keep the saloon business in his territory within bounds. He has also had much to do with suppressing the traffic in Indian girls for immoral purposes, and settlers with wives and families have been taking up ranches there since medical attendance has been procurable, and the services of the church may be had at seasonable intervals. The undertaking has been so successful and the demands for its extension so insistent, that the work has grown beyond all expectations. The hospital at Rock Bay and the hospital at Van Anda have long been severely taxed, and now a hospital is in course of construction at Alert Bay. When this is completed the Columbia will have to give place to a far larger and more powerful vessel, that will accommodate the staff and patients, and will not be stayed by either wind or tide. The upkeep of all this work is largely maintained by the loggers themselves, but the capital expenditure in plant has to be sought elsewhere. Mr. Antle is now on his way to England, where he hoped to be able to secure a ship that will suit his purposes for a sum much less than he could have it built on the Pacific. This will also save about six months in time.

JUBAL AND TUBAL CAIN.

Jubal sang of the Wrath of God
And the curse of thistle and thorn—
But Tubal got him a pointed rod,
And scrabbled the earth for corn.
Old—old as that early mold,
Young as the sprouting grain—
Yearly green is the strife between
Jubal and Tubal Cain.

Jubal sang of the new-found sea,
And the souls its waves divide—
But Tubal hollowed a fallen tree.
And passed to the farther side.
Black—black as the hurricane wrack,
Salt as the under-main—
Bitter and cold is the hate they hold—
Jubal and Tubal Cain!

Jubal sang of the golden years
When wars and wounds shall cease—
But Tubal fashioned the hand-flung spears
And showed his neighbors peace.
New—new as the Nine point Two,
Older than Lamech's slain—
Roaring and loud is the feud avowed
Twix' Jubal and Tubal Cain.

Jubal sang of the cliffs that bar
And the peaks that none may crown—
But Tubal clambered by jut and scar
And there he builded a town.
High—high as the Passes lie,
Low as the culverts drain—
Wherever they be they can never agree—
Jubal and Tubal Cain!
—Rudyard Kipling.

WELCOMING THE SCROLL.

Toronto Hebrews Make Festival of Religious Ceremony.

The cosmopolitan section of Toronto, namely the ward, never witnessed a quainter scene than was enacted recently attending the reception of a Hebrew scroll of the law, which had just arrived from Russia, and a witness of the scene wondered for a few moments whether he was in Toronto or some little village in far off Russia.

The Congregation Havre Lilias Yankor or "the Sons of Jacob," composed of 28 members, had sent to Schedlopka, Russia, for a scroll of the Hebrew law, which was made by Rabbi Schedlopska, and it arrived in Toronto, where it was received in much the same manner as it would have been in Russia.

A procession was formed headed by a band consisting of six musicians, followed by the president, Mr. M. Sigal, carrying the new scroll, which was wrapped up in one of the praying shawls used by Hebrews and protected by a canopy decorated with Canadian flags held by four members of the congregation. This in turn was followed by about 500 Hebrews, men, women and children, each one of whom carried a lighted candle or Chinese lantern, while a large number of people were setting off firecrackers and roman candles.

One man had a can of kerosene oil, and he would occasionally fill his mouth with the oil and blow it upon his candle, causing a great flare up.

The music was of the same character as that which is played at a wedding exemplifying the delight of the paraders in their possession of the new scroll.

The procession passed through "the ward" stopping at each synagogue in turn, when a halt would be made and the paraders to the inspiring strains of the music would form in groups and dance the Russian Cossatski, which, when once seen, would never be forgotten.

The procession finally halted at No. 83 Louisa street, where refreshments were served to the paraders and after the procession had been reformed the scroll was taken to the new synagogue at 93 Elizabeth street, its future home.

Don't Want Too Much.

A woodman who was passing through the forest came upon a bear who was rolling over and over on the ground and uttering the most dismal complaints. Bruin had one eye closed and was covered from head to heels with lumps and knobs and knots.

"What cheer?" gayly cried the woodman as he drew near.

"Bees," moaned the bear.

"But nature gave you a coat of fur to protect you from the sting of bees."

"So she did," answered the bear, "but she also made me fool enough to want honey just the same when I was shedding my coat, and every sting would lift me a foot high."

Saved Him an Answer.

An English nobleman, noted for his wealth and for his disinclination to part with it, once attended a bazaar promoted by the Princess Metternich in aid of a hospital.

"Will you buy this cigarette case?" asked the princess, offering a pretty article to the peer.

No, his lordship did not smoke.

"This penholder, then?" said the princess.

No, his lordship never wrote.

"A bonbonniere surely?"

No, said his lordship, he never ate sweets.

The princess then took up a cake of soap. "I shall not ask you to buy this soap!" she remarked.

Geyser in Yukon.

A geyser has broken out on Eldorado, just below Bay Gulch, Yukon, according to advices from Dawson, and is throwing three-fourths of a sluicehead of water, with no promise of cessation. It has been running six weeks without diminution, and the miners are beginning to predict that it will continue and will form an immense glacier. The origin of this glacier is unknown. How it should happen to break out at this time, especially since no work has been done on the ground, is a mystery. Were the water to appear on some ground where good pay exists, and where the miners are prepared for work, it would be considered a bonanza. As it is, this fine stream is running to waste in the creek bottom. Five years ago a gusher broke out on Eldorado, adjoining claim number three, and carried such an immense head that it formed an immense glacier in the winter.

Americans Investing in B.C.

For the purpose of making investments in timber Grand Rapids, Mich., men are paying attention to British Columbia. They have had agents looking up timber for several months past.

They say that an enormous amount of American capital will be invested in British Columbia timber within the next year owing to the great likelihood of the next congress placing Canadian lumber on the free list. The removal of the duty is a plank in the Democratic platform, while the same step is favored by the leaders of the Republican party.

Fight With Snake.

Mr. P. Gascon of Terminal Park, Montreal, had a hair-raising experience the other night near his home, in the shape of a battle with a snake measuring ten and a half feet. The fight between Mr. Gascon and the viper last over ten and a half minutes, and it was only with the aid of two neighbors, who had come to the shout for help of the terrified man, that the three succeeded in clubbing the monster to insensibility.

This is the first time that a snake of that size has been seen around Montreal at liberty.

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Dredging Middle Channel, River St. Lawrence," will be received until November 16, 1908, at 4.30 p.m., for dredging required in the Middle Channel in the River St. Lawrence, between Kingston and Brockville, in the Province of Ontario.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained from the Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the works. Only dredges can be employed which are registered in Canada at the time of the filling of tenders. Contractors must be ready to begin work within twenty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works for ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), must be deposited as security. The cheque will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender,

By order,
NAP. TESSIER,
Secretary.

Doctor Changes his Mind! Psychine Stands 18 Years' Test.

In the year 1890, 18 years ago, Mrs. G. S. Gesner, of Belle Isle, N.B., was in a sad condition. All her relatives had died of consumption, and there was every indication that she was going the same way. This was aggravated by an attack of Kidney Trouble.

A little while her husband suggested to try PSYCHINE. The doctor who attended said Psychine was worthless; but it effected a wonderful cure. MONTHS AND YEARS after, in a letter bearing date August 15, 1908, Mrs. Gesner says, "I am better than I have been for years. My lungs have not troubled me since I took your treatment. My physician told me I could not take a better tonic than Psychine, and I recommend it to all who are suffering from Lung Trouble and General Debility."

Woman's World

MISS ANNIE S. PECK.

Fearless Woman Mountain Climber and Some of Her Remarkable Feats.

The new champion mountain climber of the world is Miss Annie S. Peck, formerly professor of Latin at Smith college and known the world over as a fearless conqueror of dangerous altitudes.

This daring American, to whom the most inaccessible heights are as playgrounds, recently completed the ascension of Mount Huascaran, the highest peak of the Peruvian Andes, attaining an estimated altitude of 25,000 feet.

The only other peaks in all the world higher than this are in the Himalayas and have never been scaled.

There several years ago W. W. Graham established a mountain climbing record which stood until this feat by Miss Peck. He registered a height of 23,800 feet.

Climbing such a mountain is no parlor amusement. No other sport requires such an abundance of courage, self reliance and sheer nerve, such stoutness of heart, such well developed lungs and such a thoroughly trained athletic physique.

Until one ascends upward of 15,000 feet he does not attain the real dignity of a mountain climber.

The strain is first upon the muscular system, but it affects even more importantly the circulatory, respiratory and nervous mechanisms.

In some persons the heart feels the tax most; in others the nervous system is chiefly affected. Palpitation and "mountain sickness," the latter in all probability a neurosis, are the two chief difficulties that beset the average mountain climber. With some the respiratory organs virtually collapse, producing an almost suffocation.

Weak hearts are fatal to the ambitions of the would be mountain climber. The heart must be not only structurally sound, but well exercised and in good condition, or the strain tells quickly. If one has not nerves of steel they go to pieces once the 15,000 foot mark is passed. The rarefied atmosphere plays havoc with weak lungs even earlier.

Bleeding from the nose and ears is not infrequent, though far less prevalent than the reports of early explorers would indicate it was experienced in their day. A partial suffocation is more often encountered.

So mountain climbing is no work for a weakling. Miss Peck, however, experienced none of these troubles. She has been mountain climbing nearly twenty years. The Matterhorn, pride of the Alps, was among her first conquests. Five years ago she scaled the hitherto inaccessible heights of Mount Sorata, 22,000 feet, the highest peak in Bolivia.

Medicines to Take on a Journey.

There are certain household remedies, substitutes for a physician's services, that should be carried along, even if one is going away for a week only. Of these bicarbonate of soda is one of the simplest cures for indigestion and acid stomach, and half a teaspoonful in half a glass of water may relieve an attack of gastritis. Five cents' worth of this drug is enough to take under ordinary conditions, and it can be easily carried in a pasteboard box.

Peroxide of hydrogen or some other equally good antiseptic should not be omitted from the medicine chest. One cannot be too careful to disinfect a small cut or pin prick, and the slightest abrasion of the skin should have such care. As persons learn more of the principles of hygiene they understand that any open place may harbor a germ which can lead to serious affliction, such as blood poison or inflammation, if not treated antiseptically. Therefore the slightest scratch should be cleansed, washing it well with pure soap and then touching it with peroxide or some other germ killer, such as a very weak solution of carbolic acid—2 per cent, for example. It is inexpensive and, further diluted, makes an excellent mouth wash.

In addition to these remedies a little roll of bandages for emergency should be taken. These consist of strips of gauze an inch or half an inch wide and are very inexpensive. They are especially valuable in binding cuts or sores. A roll of adhesive plaster is also desirable.

The Woman Who Makes Good.

The woman who makes good must be blessed with strength and health and an ambition to learn and take advantage of every opportunity that comes her way, says the Delineator.

MISS PECK, CHAMPION MOUNTAIN CLIMBER.

She must work with all her heart, play with all her heart, above all things avoiding indifference and the enemy to all progress—apathy.

She must select the pleasure that will bring her the greatest joy and choose the work she is best fitted for.

Ordinary hard luck never ruins people. It puts them in a mood to learn a thing or two. Everybody makes mistakes. With some it is a regular occupation, but to make a mistake and wail about it is to make two.

Women often speak of their talents not being appreciated. A talent is next to worthless unless one has the ability to get down to hard, plain, everyday grind.

Then, too, the woman who wins must learn to talk, but not to tell. There is an art—the most consummate art—in appearing absolutely frank to the butcher, the baker and the family cat and yet not revealing any of one's business affairs.

The woman who wins must be able to hold all and hear all, yet betray it by neither word nor look, by injudicious defense no more than by overt treachery, by anger at a malicious accusation no more than by a smile at an egregious mistake. To be able to do this requires a rare combination of tact and self respect. One cannot just slide along in business and win promotion and more salary. A knowledge of the business is necessary to show results.

To make good a woman needs that fine balance, that accurate self measurement, which goes by the name of common sense. It is the one thing on which success depends the most.

Books For Wedding Gifts.

Mrs. Asquith, who is just now in the limelight in England as the wife of the prime minister, always gives books as wedding gifts.

It makes no difference how illustrious the bride may be, she gets a book from the famous Mrs. Asquith. Every one in London who follows her caprices is now following her choice of wedding gifts.

No matter who started it, it is a good thing for any one to take up and stick to. It is easy and not costly to choose a certain thing as a gift and never depart from it.

If you cannot afford silver and gold make it your maxim to give a book or an edition of books on all occasions. It makes gift giving half the trouble that it is when you rush around town to try to get something that may suit each bride.

Whether or not the couple to be married cares for books is not the question. Every one should care for books, and every one must have them. If they are not read they are decorative.

Don't make the mistake of sending a volume of well known poems. It is not polite. You must suppose that every bride has such literature.

If you can send sets of books, Kipling is always a good choice. A set of Thackeray if well bound is always acceptable. Hawthorne is an excellent choice, and uniform volumes on American history are good.

When You Make Preserves.

See that the jars are in perfect order, immaculately clean and supplied with new rubbers. To use old rubbers is poor economy.

If the jars do not screw tight, get new ones with glass tops, reserving the old ones for pickles or jams. Safety from fermentation in canned fruits depends upon the absolute exclusion of air.

Pint jars with wide mouths are more convenient than quart jars for small families.

Use porcelain lined or the best granite ware for kettles, the lightweight granite being preferable.

Other essentials are a long handled wooden or silver spoon, a wooden pestle (a potato masher will answer), pans for sugar, a dripping pan, accurate scales, a grocer's funnel, a small milk dipper, tumblers or jars for jelly and a good supply of coarse towels and jelly bags.

Suffragists' War Song.

The new song and march was first sung by Edmund Cooper at an at home given by Miss Janette Steer, actress and dramatist, at her residence in Sloane Gardens, London.

The following is the refrain:

Rise up, woman!
Stand up for your right.
Rise up, woman!
You're bound to win the fight.
Do not be disheartened.
Sound the warning note.
Strike a blow for liberty
Till you vote, vote, vote!

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health Saving Explained by a Peterboro Citizen Who Knows From Experience

Many Peterborough people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help.

The reason so many use Booth's Kidney Pills is their quick relief for all Kidney weakness. Here is what a Peterborough citizen says:—

Mrs. Geo. Hawes of 857 Water street, Peterborough, Ontario, says: "I had suffered for some time with many painful and annoying symptoms of kidney trouble and although II had tried many remedies and doctors I found little or no relief. My back was weak and a dull, bearing-down pain settled across the small of it and extended into my shoulders and around my sides. I was weak and languid and the least exertion would tire me out. Dizzy spells were frequent and often I would awake with a severe headache. I tried Booth's Kidney Pills through an advertisement at McDiarmid & Jury's Pharmacy. I soon found them to benefit me and continued their use. In a comparatively short time I was as well and strong as ever and without a symptom of the painful and long standing disease."

Falling in Love.

I do not doubt that as the world goes on a deeper sense of moral responsibility in the matter of marriage will grow up among us. But it will not take the false direction of ignoring these our profoundest and holiest instincts. Marriage for money may go, marriage for rank may go, marriage for position may go, but marriage for love, I believe and trust, will last forever. Men in the future will probably feel that a union with their cousins or near relations is positively wicked; that a union with those too like them in person or disposition is at least undesirable; that a union based upon considerations of wealth or any other consideration save considerations of immediate natural impulse is base and disgraceful. But to the end of time they will continue to feel in spite of doctrinaires that the voice of nature is better far than the voice of the lord chancellor or the royal society and that the instinctive desire for a particular helpmate is a surer guide for the ultimate happiness both of the race and of the individual than any amount of deliberate consultation. It is not the foolish fancies of youth that will have to be got rid of, but the foolish, wicked and mischievous interference of parents or outsiders.—Grant Allen.

Know the Sound of Wood.

There was an argument on a cricket field in a village near Nottingham, England, which interrupted the game for some time. The match was being played between the local tradesmen of the village. All went well until the bowler, who was the village constable, a man over six feet tall, sent a ball which bumped up from the ground and hit the village butcher, who was batting and who was exceedingly fat and perspiring freely, on the head. The wicket keeper, a remarkably thin and agile man, who was the village grocer, caught the ball and yelled, "'Ow's that?"

"Hi say now!" roared the fat butcher, who refused to have it so. "But hit 'it me on the 'ead."

"Hi don't know where hit 'it you," responded the umpire, who was the village undertaker, "but Hi knows the sound of wood when Hi 'ears hit, so hout you go."

The Tricksters.

"Political tricksters always give themselves away," said a congressman. "Their methods remind me of the two men who wanted to sell their corpses for dissection. These two men, miserably clad, called on the dean of a medical college in New York.

"'We are both on the verge of starvation, sir,' the spokesman said. 'We are well on in years, and it is clear that we haven't much longer to live. Would you care to purchase our bodies for your dissecting room?'

"The dean hesitated.

"'It is an odd proposition,' he muttered.

"'But it is occasionally done,' said the spokesman in an eager voice.

"'Well,' said the dean, 'we might arrange it. What price do you ask?'

"'Over in Philadelphia,' said the spokesman, 'they gave us $40.'"—New York Tribune.

Not So Bad as She Feared.

"George," she whispered as she crept a little closer and placed her head against his left hand second story vest pocket—"George, I want to ask you a question, a very important one. Why do you allude to papa as a pirate? Surely you must have some good reason for doing so?"

"I have, indeed!" responded George, with a dreamy, faraway look in his eyes. "Pirates board people, you know, and I expect your father, if my plans work all right, to eventually board me."

"Oh, how clever you are, George! Do you know, I was awfully afraid you were going to get off that ancient chestnut about his being such an old freebooter, and I'm so glad you didn't, because all the fellows I've had have said that, and I was longing for something new."

THE word "OXOL" does not mean one food or one preparation. No! "OXOL" is a name given to all goods for horses, cattle, swine and sheep, prepared by Messrs. S. K. and T. C. Windsor, of Australia, New Zealand, England and Canada.

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under the name of

are all of the greatest possible order of merit and may be used by farmers, graziers, dairymen and all owners of stock with the full assurance that these goods have the power in a very short time to double their incomes by feeding, fattening and curing all animals, which to them means money.

Scientific Meetings will be organized by Messrs. Windsor and held throughout the Dominion of Canada, when farmers desirous of improving their knowledge of stock will have an opportunity of doing so and to be instructed on the life of stock from birth to death, free of any charge.

THE WOMEN OF JAPAN.

A Marked Change of Domestic Conditions in Mikado's Country.

Mme. Takahira, wife of the Japanese ambassador to the United States, in an interview recently corrects much misinformation current in this country about the political and social conditions of the women of Japan. "The women of Japan," she is quoted as saying, "are not under the restraint they were many years ago. Our ancestors could scarcely understand the changes which have come. Formerly the women of my country were not acquainted with the privileges which were given to others, but all that is changed now. We go about almost as we please, and we even go to theaters and to entertainments more often than our husbands.

"I am exceptionally fond of music, but when I went to school we could only learn Japanese music as it was taught by our own people. We did not then have the advantage of learning the piano, the violin and other instruments which it is now possible to master.

"Our schools then, as indeed they are now, were conducted by native teachers, but were conducted along European lines. With the years advancement has come to our school system, as it has to those of other countries, and it is now possible for our boys and girls to have many more advantages than formerly.

"A Japanese bride owes much to her husband, and there are certain—what you call them?—commandments which she must obey, but all marriage services have those, I believe, and ours are not so strict, not as much so as they were years ago.

"Our people are learning the advantage of being practical, and, while I believe they still retain their picturesqueness, they are looking more to the steady and real progress of the country and, I think, rarely miss an opportunity to accomplish it."

DAINTY HABITS.

The Passing of the Top Bureau Drawer Superstition.

A word to the wise is sufficient, so, you fastidious, up to date maiden, don't, as you value your soul's peace, put a glove away that is still damp from the heat of the hand or one that has a finger turned in. Moreover, if your gloves have just come from the cleaner's air them well before you put them away. The smell of gasoline may convince the woman who sits next you at the matinee that you have been motoring. The smell of gasoline combined with violet sachet is very like killing the odor of boiling cabbage with the odor of boiling onions.

We are living in a progressive age and pride ourselves on being free from the foibles of the past generation. Mayhap we have come to the passing of the top drawer superstition. If the 1908 maiden can convince herself that she is not old maidish when she refuses to mistake her bureau drawer for a trash basket or a laundry bag, that she is not finicky if she knows that she can stick her hands into her glove case in the dark and be sure of finding a pair of gloves, that she has just as much right to have dainty furnishings for the interior of her bureau as she has to have ribbon wound coat hangers in her wardrobe, then she will have done herself and her sex great service.

Secret of Nervous Balance.

Rev. Samuel McComb has written a few rules to guide a woman in keeping her nervous balance. Here they are:

Cultivate sound, health creating emotions—love, joy, peace, faith and hope.

Allow yourself sufficient time in which to do your work. Hold in reserve a surplus stock of nervous energy by keeping within the limit of your organization.

Do one thing at a time. Prepare yourself in good season for sleep. Trust in the infinite goodness of God, who loves every creature he has made.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

A dainty collar can be made with strips of narrow satin ribbon, edged on the upper side with frills of soft valenciennes lace. Three strips should be firmly stitched to a chiffon foundation. For the jabot portion make strips of ribbon and lace insertion and edge with ruffles of valenciennes.

The worthless fan that has a soiled cover can now be made beautiful with art paper showing little painted frames in which one can place the penny photograph of friends. These covers can also be made of silk, the frame outlines embroidered with gold or silver tinsel. They are merely for souvenir purposes, though something interesting for a girl to make.

In making a shirt waist to lessen materially the difficulty of ironing shirt waist sleeves open the sleeve from shoulder to wrist after joining the underarm seam, hem the raw edges, finish the forward lap with lace and join the sleeve again with buttonholes and tiny flat pearl buttons. The result is not only practical, enabling one to iron a shirt waist in about half the time it takes, but extremely pretty.

A pretty white belt can be made by knitting it in the regular stocking stitch on the knitting needles. Use white silkateen for the purpose and cast enough stitches to make the belt one and one-half inches wide. By making the rosette stitch—one stitch forward, one backward—the belt will have a raised effect and be very handsome indeed. If a wider belt is desired, use a fine grade of silkateen, large needles, and the open mesh will be very pretty. It can be made girdle width and finished with a handsome buckle.

The Retort Matrimonial.

"Madam, did you go through my pockets last night?"

"Sir, you ask too searching questions."—Baltimore American.

BROWN SQUIRREL FUR.

A Famous Furrier Is Now Rushing This Pelt.

Paxton, the famous foreign furrier, is going to put squirrel back on the market this season. He is not going to send it out in its natural shade, which is trying for any one to wear. He is dyeing it a brilliant brown, and it promises to be popular. Whether or not it will be extensive remains to be seen. Of course it will become cheap in the long run, because any of the furriers can dye the natural pelt and squirrels do not come high. It looks remarkably well in its new coloring, for it takes on a high silky luster.

The Canadian rat, which was used before, is also to be deep brown in imitation of seal, and they say that it takes an expert furrier to tell the difference. This will be used for coats this season. They are not only shown in the short, loose jacket shape for everyday street wear, but also in the new directoire coats, which are cut away sharply at the waist and hang at seven-eighths length at the back. These will be worn over long skirts of satin, which are to be very smart for afternoon gowns, and they will be lined with the skirt material. Some are double breasted at the bust, fastened with three antique buttons. The revers are very wide, and the long sleeves are tight. To offset this severity goes an immense picture hat and a frilled stock with a great jabot of lace.

If a girl has any money left over from her coat she will put it into an immense muff. Those for the next season are almost as big as the hats.

FOR TELEPHONE CALLS.

A Convenient Tablet of Leather Made at Home.

For telephone calls a convenient tablet is made of two pieces of leather stitched together on bottom and sides. A heavy white bristol broad is slipped in from the top on which to write names and numbers. Silk cord is used for hanging the case and to ornament the sides, and the front is embroidered in satin stitch with yellow Roman floss. This design is furnished stamped on brown leather. Two skeins of silk will be ample for working.

By Grace of a Yawn.

Yawning, except in polite society, should be indulged in rather than repressed. The reason why? A good, free, unrestricted yawn counteracts the effect of laughing. Just stop and think how often a person laughs and how seldom, comparatively, yawns. The muscles are stretched in one direction while laughing and by constant repetition little lines are formed around the corners of the mouth. Yawning stretches these same muscles in exactly the opposite direction and therefore tends to undo the mischief caused by our good humor. Yawn, but don't stop laughing, or you will be like the woman who at an advanced age had not a line or wrinkle in her face, but whose countenance was entirely expressionless. Dreading these same lines and wrinkles, she had all her life schooled her features to express nothing but joy or sorrow.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl.

A love affair is like a well—so easy to fall into, so difficult to get out of.

A man often thinks he will marry a girl until he discovers that she thinks so too.

Platonic friendship is like perpetual motion—a beautiful theory that nobody has ever been able to make work.

Of course women should marry. No home is complete without a husband any more than it is without a cuckoo clock or a cat.

Many a true word is spoken by accident.

Forget Yourself.

There are days, you know, when things
"don't go"
And living's a dismal affair.
With nerves afret you are all upset
With your worry and work and care.
Then is the time to put on your hat,
And also a cheerful smile,
Skip out in the street some friend to greet—
Forget yourself for awhile!

Make fun of your woes. That always "goes"
With the fellow who sees them, too,
And he'll soon begin to fetch a grin,
So as not to be beat by you,
And if he is gay it will wear away
The troubles which on you pile.
Put worry "in soak" with laugh and joke—
Forget yourself for awhile!
—Spare Moments.

Taking Him at His Word.

The Old Fellow—Well, then, don't butt into it.—Chicago Tribune.

TO TICKLE THE PALATE.

Corn Bread Made With Snow an Epicure's Tidbit.

It is not probable that every one knows that corn bread made with snow is delicious. It is the bread of the epicures.

Naturally it must be made in winter. It is served hot for breakfast or luncheon.

Take a quart of meal and stir into it half a teaspoonful of good suet lard. Add a teaspoonful of salt. Stir in a quart of light, clean snow, doing it in a cool place where the snow will not melt.

Bake it about forty minutes in a quick oven. Do not cut this bread, but break it with the hands into small pieces.

Rich Corn Muffins.—The following recipe makes a rich muffin for either breakfast or luncheon. As the fashion for eating cold bread and toast does not prevail as much as it did all hot breads are restored to favor.

To make these muffins use a cup of cornmeal, a cup of flour, half a cup of white sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two eggs, a cup of milk, two small teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a saltspoonful of salt.

Rub butter and sugar together, add the beaten eggs, the milk and at last the cornmeal and flour, with which have been sifted the salt and baking powder.

This quality will make about a dozen muffins. The method can be changed by using a cup of cream in place of the milk and omitting the butter and using only one egg.

Corn Batter Bread.—Sift the cornmeal, and to a teacupful of it put in twice the quantity of sweet milk. One pint is a good measurement.

Beat in two eggs, although you can get along with one; add half a teaspoonful of salt, and to this add the milk and meal gradually until everything is well blended.

A baking dish should be ready for the batter and placed in a hot oven. It should be ready to serve in half an hour.

ENGLISHWOMAN'S BEAUTY.

Some Ways in Which She Makes and Retains It.

The eyes of the Englishwoman look young. She knows how to make her eyes shine like stars by the use of a little pure borax dissolved in warm water. It takes out the dust and helps the sight.

She rests her eyes frequently. She never sits and gazes sideways upon an object.

The evergreen matron of London when she looks at you has a way of gazing right through you. Her brows are specially effective in this long, lovely gaze. They are dark, glossy and heavy, and they are perfectly molded.

This is because they are painted every night with a simple oily lotion which makes them grow, and they are brushed every morning with a little eyebrow brush, which encourages the roots of the hair to send forth little rootlets.

The teeth of the Englishwoman belong to herself alone. No other country has teeth to compare with them. They are sound and white. The Englishwoman eats cereals. Like the Irish and the Scottish woman, she thinks them necessary to at least one meal. And she chews them, too, for she knows that mastication is necessary to good digestion.

The Englishwoman, who is holding the world's record for keeping young, has certain things in her favor, and one is the habit of leisure. From birth she has been taught to take her time.

The Englishwoman's habits of thought help her out in the work of keeping young. She has the artless, dancing eyed expression of the young girl.

When not busy with social duties, the Englishwoman is pondering on bright thoughts. The nature of your thoughts makes a great difference in your face.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

For the roast of cold lamb course serve an egg salad sprinkled with minced mint leaves.

Happiness, though it may not seem so, is far more dependent upon patiently doing the best we can than upon any temporary triumph we may attain.

Alcohol or a toilet water applied to the wrists and temples is extremely invigorating. A saturated solution of borax is also found beneficial for this purpose.

When all the other changes have been rung on the salad repertory make cream cheese into balls, roll them in powdered nut meats and serve them with mayonnaise on lettuce leaves.

To clean picture frame glasses take a small piece of wash leather, wet it with methylated spirits and rub on the glasses. This will clean them beautifully. Polish afterward with a soft duster.

When a pipe from a lavatory basin or bath becomes clogged with soap take a handful each of common salt and soda, mix and force down the pipe. Leave for half an hour or more, then pour down a kettle of boiling water and flush afterward with plenty of warm water.

Dishcloths must be washed after they have been used if they are to be kept sweet and nice. First wash them in hot soapsuds, then rinse in clean hot water and hang out to dry. One of the nicest of dishcloths is made of knitted soft cotton, which will wash again and again and look as good as new. Another good dishcloth is made of a square of coarse crash hemmed. This is also very easily kept clean.

Impatient Susie.

"Oh, I can't thread this needle, ma!"
Was little Susie's cry.
"Just as the thread is going through The needle winks its eye!"
—Woman's Home Companion.

TWENTY-FIVE LIVES WERE SAVED

Passengers on Steamer Iroquois Had Narrow Escape.

BURNED TO WATER'S EDGE

Ship's Company Aboard Ill-Fated Mail Boat In Lake Huron, Including Seven Women and Two Children, Were Rescued Just In Nick of Time—Tug Fraser Comes to Their Assistance.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—Wrecked on a reef near Spanish Mills in the smoke and fog on the lake, and half an hour later burned to the water's edge, after twenty-five people had been safely taken ashore, the steamre Iroquois on Saturday closed its career as mail boat plying between Manitoulin Island and Cutler. Through the timely appearance of the tug H. M. Fraser, sixteen men, seven women and two children were rescued from dire peril, and some mail bags were saved. The wreck took fire a few minutes after all souls had been taken off, while the crew in a small boat floated alongside their craft burned. Everything but three bags of mail was destroyed, the passengers losing all their belongings.

The crash came while the ship was en route from Little Current to Cutler and passing East Rost, which is about twelve miles from Spanish River.

The boat was going at a high speed, and the fog and smoke from the bush fires made it impossible for the men at the wheel to tell just in which direction the reef was situated. When the steamer hit the rock she ran right up on it, settled astern, and fell over to port.

The crash was terrific, and consternation reigned aboard. The men did not lose their heads, however, and the crew, assisted by the male passengers, properly looked to the safety of the less able ones, who were fearfully frightened. The women and children were carried to the starboard side of the boat, which was away out of the water, and were made as comfortable as possible. The rain was falling in torrents, but they were beyond the reach of the waves, which were rolling heavily on the wrecked ship.

The tug Fraser had passed the Iroquois only a very short time before. Fortunately the ill-fated vessel was able to give steam signals of distress and in less than half an hour's time the nose of the little tug poked its way through the mist to the wreck, much to the delight of the cuddled up human freight to whom the short wait had seemed like many hours.

When the passengers were all taken off by the tug the crew remained to save the mails and were successful.

The boat was in flames in a very few minutes after the wholesale rescue. From the time the passengers escaped from the Iroquois until the time she caught fire not more than fifteen minutes had elapsed, and soon after she had burned to the water's edge. The passengers lost everything they had with them and escaped with only what they had on.

Women Shorter and Broader.

London, Oct. 27.—(C.A.P.)—Robert McKay, Hamilton, Ont., has lost the case brought against him by S. J. Lyons, wholesale costumer, claiming payment for a number of costumes supplied. McKay said he ordered the American model and was supplied the English, which was no use in America, because the women were shorter and broader.

Unions Can't Fine Men.

Boston, Oct. 27.—The supreme judicial court of Massachusetts in making permanent an injunction against several labor unions yesterday ruled in a decision attending the decree, that labor unions cannot impose fines on their members in order to force them to go out on a strike.

Buffaloes.

It is believed that only 2,000 buffaloes are now in existence.

Quebec, Oct. 27—Sir Wilfrid Laurier received returns at the Chateau Frontenac, surrounded by many enthusiastic friends. He made no secret of his pleasure, but had no statement for the country last night.

A Wild West Tragedy.

New Orleans, Oct. 27.—At Gulfport, Miss., a cowboy belonging to a wild-west show, rode into a crowd of negroes, beating them over the heads with a revolver. Policeman Varnadoe started in pursuit of Scely and the two men were lost to view in a cloud of dust. Later their bodies were found, each bearing a single bullet wound and each man's revolver containing one empty chamber.

Seized Indecent Postcards.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—The police have seized some 3,000 postal cards alleged to be indecent and the stereotype plates for printing the same in the printing establishment of David Allan, Notre Dame street. The proprietor was placed under arrest, but as he was a returning office in yesterday's election, he was released on bail.

Bryan Was Kissed Twice.

New York, Oct. 27.—When W. J. Bryan entered the Astor gallery at a reception of the Woman's Democratic Club at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday, he was kissed by two women, in the presence of nearly seven hundred others, and narrowly escaped the embraces of a third. Mrs. Bryan was present. Mr. Bryan displayed some embarrassment.

Eight Hurt.

Lockport, N.Y., Oct. 27.—In a head-on collision between a baggage car and a work train, eight men were injured, the engineer and brakeman of the work train fatally.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Cattle and Hogs Are Higher at Chicago.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 11c to 12½c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 11c to 11¾c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, Oct. 26.—It being election day, receipts of live stock were light—23 carloads, composed of 638 cattle, 1 hog, 340 sheep and lambs, with 25 calves.

Exporters.

Export steers of good to choice quality were quoted at $4.50 to $5, the bulk, however, selling around $4.75 to $4.90. No export bulls on sale.

Butchers.

Picked lots of butchers were quoted at $4.75; loads of good, $4.25 to $4.50; medium, $3.75 to $4; common, $3.25 to $3.60; cows, $2.50 to $3.50; canners, $1 to $2.

Milkers and Springers.

About 25 milkers and springers sold at $44 to $62 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices for veal calves are not as good as they have been. Calves sold at $2.50 to $5.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export ewes sold at $3 to $3.40; rams, $2.25 to $2.75; lambs, $4 to $4.60.

Hogs.

Gunns, Limited, quoted hogs 10c per cwt. lower; selects, $6.15, fed and watered at the market, and $5.90 to drovers, f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending Oct. 24 were 2254 cattle, 739 sheep and lambs, 1770 hogs and 224 calves, while the supply for local consumption this morning consisted of 1200 cattle, 250 sheep and lambs, 600 hogs and 175 calves.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for cattle, and prices were fully ½c per lb. lower than a week ago, owing to the fact that the offerings were much heavier than they have been at any previous market this season, and largely in excess of the requirements of the trade. The average quality of the stock was better than usual, which in many instances cost more money in the country than holders could realize here for them, and in consequence they would not sell; therefore a number will be carried over for another market day. The demand from local and outside buyers was good for the best beeves at the above reduction in values, and there was also some demand from exporters for small lots to complete shipments with, but the trade in common and inferior cattle was slow. Cable advices from Liverpool on Saturday reported trade slow but firm, at a further advance on prices for Canadians and ranchers. Choice cattle here sold at 4½c; good at 4c to 4¼c; fair at 3½c to 3¾c; common at 2½c to 3c, and inferior at 1½c to 2½c per lb. The supply of lambs was much smaller than a week ago, but, notwithstanding this fact, the tone of the market was weaker and prices scored a further decline of ½c per lb. The demand was fairly good, and sales of choice lots were made at 4½c, and good at 4c to 4¼c per lb. There was no change in sheep, for which the demand from exporters was better, on account of the firmer advices from abroad, and sales of choice lots were made at 3½c, and culls at 3c to 3¼c per lb. A fair trade was done in calves, and, as the supply was small, prices ruled steady, with sales ranging at from $3 to $5 each, as to quality.

There were no new developments in the live hog situation, prices being steady, under a good demand, and small supplies, and sales of selected lots were made at $6.10, and rough stock at $5 to $5.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Oct. 26.—Cattle—Receipts, 4500 head; active; good 10c higher, others steady to a shade easier; prime steers, $5.75 to $6.25; shipping, $5 to $5.65; butchers, $4.75 to $5.50; heifers, $2.50 to $5; cows, $2.75 to $4.25; bulls, $2.75 to $4.50; stockers and feeders, $3.40 to $4.50; stock heifers, $2.50 to $3; fresh cows and springers, good, active and strong; common steady, $23 to $65.

Hogs—Receipts, 23,100 head; fairly active and 10c to 20c lower; heavy, $6.75 to $6.85; mixed, $6.60 to $6.80; yorkers, $6.75 to $6.75; pigs, $6 to $6.25; roughs, $5.60 to $5.90; stags, $3.75 to $4.25; dairies and grassers, $5 to $5.65.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 12,400 head; active; sheep steady; lambs 25c higher; lambs, $6 to $6.15; yearlings, $4 to $5.20; wethers, $4 to $4.25; ewes, $3.75 to $4; sheep, mixed, $1 to $3.75.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Beeves—Receipts, 1215; steers opened slow but firm to a shade higher, closed dull; bulls steady; thin cows steady; medium and good cows steady to a fraction lower; steers, $4 to $5.25; oxen and stags, $3.25 to $4.10; culls, $3.50 to $3.65; cows, $1.50 to $3.10; few extras, $4.10.

Calves—Receipts, 2674; veals steady to strong; grassers and fed calves steady; western slow to a shade lower; veals, $6 to $6.25; selected do., $6.30; culls, $4 to $5; grassers and fed calves, $3 to $4; western, $3.87½ to $5.25; dressed calves slow.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 12,700; sheep steady to strong; lambs 25c higher; some early sales 25c higher; closed slow; sheep, $3.50 to $4; culls, $1.50 to $3; lambs, $4.10 to $5.15½; culls, $3 to $4.

Hogs—Receipts, 13,410; feeling rather easier; state hogs, $6.65.

Hogs—Receipts, 24,000; market 15c to 25c higher; choice heavy shipping, $6 to $6.10; butchers, $5.95 to $6.10; light mixed, $5.85 to $6.00; choice light, $5.65 to $5.75; packers, $5.80 to $6; pigs, $5.60 to $6.70; bulk of sales, $5.80 to $6.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Jacob Eaton of Windermere was accidentally shot dead.

Rain has extinguished bush fires near Bracebridge.

W. G. Fischer has been appointed Canadian trade agent at Glasgow.

Edward Bostridge, aged 18 years, of Kingston, was electrocuted while climbing a telegraph pole in fun.

Judge Garretson has denied the application for the dismissal of the indictment against T. Jenkins Hains.

A Buffalo party had to desert a $3,000 auto, which took fire near St. Catharines Saturday night from leaking gasoline, and was destroyed.

Ruth Butler, alias Miller, was arrested by Detective Tipton at the request of the Hamilton police yesterday, where she was sent later in the day, for theft of clothing.

A Gun and a Boy.

Last year, writes Dr. Grenfell, a friend sent me an old gun—a double-barrel twelve-bore breech-loader—and I was able to give it to a lad of 15, whose mother is a widow, and to whom the gun meant not merely a toy, but a livelihood, if he is successful with it. The only condition attached was that it was to come up for inspection every annual visit I made, and to be confiscated, if it showed neglect. The boy is a splendidly-built little fellow, and he had kept the following diary, which, when I called this summer, he handed me to show what he had killed, though he had to be very sparing with his shot, as I could only spare him sixty cartridge cases:

"Arther Nowell receaved his gun from doucker grendfell the 10 of may and kill 2 parathur (partridges) the 11 i woes veary glad of my gun I kill 80 parathur 1 loue (loon) 1 guse (goose) thir wos no hunt a fue (few) ducks an honngs (hounds)."

Burns Strong in Australia.

Tommy Burns, the Canadian pugilist, has made a tremendous hit in Australia. Immense crowds gather to see him. He is forced to make public speeches and to hold great "receptions" on the lawn at his training quarters.

The Sydney Referee, after printing a column or two describing Tommy's popularity, adds the following note:

"The attention paid to Burns drew a protest from Rev. J. Walker at Ballarat during the course of a sermon at St. Andrew's kirk. Mr. Walker deplored the fact that the famous pugilist cut a greater figure in the public eye than eminent theologians or politicians."

An Exception.

"Animals," said the teacher, "frequently become attached to people, but plants never do."

"How about burs, teacher?" queried the small boy at the foot of the class.—Chicago News.

Hard to Tell.

Miss Oldgirl—Do you think Mr. Snifkins is sincere when he writes that he loves me more than tongue can tell? Miss Peachblow—I dare say. He's tongue tied, you know.

Heart Disease and Sudden Death.

A man rushing to catch a train the other day fell dead. In this instance it is fair to assume that the strain on a weak heart might fairly be held responsible. In view of the fierce competition in life and the undue strain to which the masses of men are subjected it is of the highest importance that people known to be affected with heart disease should exercise the greatest care as to overtaxing their physical strength in view of the danger of sudden death, instances of which are so common today. Inasmuch as few people are aware of having weak hearts, a safe rule for all men over forty is to avoid the perils of haste and undue strain, as in lifting, rushing, etc. Another important factor, many people over forty indulging in excessive eating are in danger of arterio-sclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, which results in sudden death from apoplexy, kidney or heart disease. To sum the matter up, people over forty must limit their table indulgence and avoid sudden and undue haste or strain if desirous of attaining a ripe old age.—New York Herald.

Made the Most of His Hats.

When Lord Milner held his first reception at Pretoria the officers and legislators were given to understand that frock coats and tall hats were expected of them. There was only one shop in the place in which silk hats were sold, and this had but four of them. The Transvaal legislators rushed off in a body to buy these four, but the hatter, not being mad, saw his opportunity in their extremity. He knew there was no time to get hats from anywhere else, so he resolved not to sell. He offered to let them out on hire at the rate of 10 shillings for ten minutes. His shop was close at hand. Four gentlemen could present themselves before his excellency. After ten minutes they must silently steal away and hand over their hired finery to another panting quartet. It was done, and the hatter still repeats dreamily as he recalls the moment of his life, "It would not have been fair to have sold them, not fair to my customers and not fair to myself."—Pall Mall Gazette.

STRATTON WINS WEST PETERBOROUGH AND THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT OF CANADA SPLENDIDLY SUSTAINED

Details of the Contest and the Result in West Peterborough ---The Riding Returns To its Old Love---Mr. Stratton Elected by Majority of 344, With Three Polling Subdivisions to Hear From---Speeches and Rejoicings in Recognition of the Result.

MOST MAGNIFICENT IMPROMPTO STREET PARADE

The contest yesterday which resulted in the return of Hon. J. R. Stratton, the Liberal candidate, was conducted with great vigour by both parties. The Liberal workers wrought with a confidence which was justified by the results. As the returns began to come in about 5:30, it was to be seen that Mr. Stratton's election was a certainty, showing that he had gained largely in the city, and the completed returns indicated that he had secured a sufficient lead to make his election sure. As the returns continued to come, the crowds also began to gather on George street in front of the Examiner office and opposite the lantern streets upon which the returns were displayed.

By eight o'clock the street at this point and the pavement for a long distance up and down George street were crowded. As the incoming returns both of the city and county, as well as from the country at large were bulletined and it was seen that West Peterborough was safe and that the Government was grandly holding its own, the enthusiasm became unbounded.

At the Liberal committee room Mr. Stratton surrounded by his workers, addressed a packed assemblage, returning his thanks, and arousing the greatest enthusiasm. The speaking concluded, a procession was organized. The 57th band led the procession which consisted of fifteen or twenty carriages, each one emiting a brilliant blaze of fireworks as they passed through the streets, to the accompaniment of ringing cheers and plaudits. The procession was followed by a grand gathering at the Opera House which was packed with an enthusiastically rejoicing crowd, the ladies occupying seats in the boxes and galleries. Then followed congratulatory speeches, and the reading of returns revealing the sweeping Liberal victory throughout the Dominion.

At the Committee Rooms

At the committee rooms the candidate was given a hearty welcome, speeches also being given.

Upon the uproar subsiding, Mr. J. J. Hartley said that he knew that he only expressed the delight which they all felt that the expectations which they had entertained, had been realized. Mr. Stratton was returned by a splendid majority as our next representative in the House of Commons, and this had been accomplished in spite of the invasion of outsiders who had been brought in here to try and defeat him by a campaign of slander and villification. Mr. Stratton's friends had fought a clean, honest battle. They had attempted to destroy no man's reputation, and their candidate had taken the high ground that he wanted the contest fought solely upon an honest appeal to the people. And what was the result? With one voice the people of this city and this county had declared J. R. Stratton to be their representative for the next five years, and he (Mr. Hartley) would say that in that five years, he felt sure that J. R. Stratton would accomplish more for the benefit of the people of Peterborough than a hundred thousand of such as had run against him. He then promoted Mr. Stratton as their member elect.

When Mr. Stratton was pushed forward by many friendly hands to the front, he was greeted with a tumult of cheers that might almost have been heard in Port Hope, and that certainly must have been heard in the deserted headquarters of the Burnham committee rooms---if there had been anyone there to hear them.

Hon. J. R. Stratton

When the outburst of enthusiasm had subsided, Mr. Stratton was induced to mount a chair, although that eminence was somewhat obscured by the eagerness of the hundreds who were piling over one another for points of observation. After comparative silence was restored, Mr. Stratton said that this was indeed the proudest moment of his life, and he could not in words express his gratitude, not only to the faithful friends who had been at his side during this campaign, but more than all for the testimony that he had received that the people of Peterborough city and of West Peterborough did not believe the falsehoods by which it had been sought to destroy his career. As they all knew, he had endeavoured to conduct this campaign upon intelligent lines. He had appealed to them upon the issues of the day, and had paid little attention to the attempts to malign his character that had seemed to constitute the stock-in-trade of his opponents. To-night he felt that it was, indeed, a proud moment to feel that the people who had watched his course through life, with whom he had grown up and who knew all there was about him, had, by their votes, resented the undeserved imputations by which his opponent had hoped to win his election. He wished to say that he had no feeling toward any man who had voted against him from conscientious conviction. But for those who have, as had been done in this election; sought to destroy his good name, they might be excused for his saying that he would be straining a Christian dispositron if he did not feel, perhaps not active resentment, but a sense of undeserved injury. (Loud cheers.) Deeply grateful to the men around him, who by their loyalty had helped him in what he regarded more than life, his vindication at the hands of men with whom he had grown up in Peterborough, he also felt that some acknowledgment was due to those really Liberal-Conservatives, who from belief that he could best serve the city and county at the present time, and also from resentment at an unfair campaign had extended their suffrages to him. (Applause.) He desired to say that he would go to Parliament as no blind partizan; he would exercise his own judgment, but in all efforts to advance the interests of the city of Peterborough and of the county of Peterborough, he would endeavour by all his influence to aid. While he might have a not unnatural feeling of resentment against men who had maligned him, as they knew unjustly, yet he felt no resentment because he felt that that was an unworthy sentiment. He respected the honest convictions of honest men, and believed that unfair attempts such as had been exercised against him, would meet their downfall. When this campaign came on he had determined, and against the advice of many of his friends, that he would fight it out alone. He did not believe in bringing in outsiders to intertere with their liberty of thinking. He had a confidence that the people who had watched his course of life from almost infancy, who knew him for what he was, could be relied upon to render him justice against all the slanders that might be directed against him, and the result had proved that his confidence was not ill-founded. (Cheers.) He had no ill word to say for his opponent, Mr. Burnham; he only hoped that in the future he would be given an opportunity to devote the whole of his abilities to Home Life. If he did so, his life might be sweetened and he would find the influence that might make him a better man than he had proved towards himself (Mr. Stratton) in this campaign. He, himself, was not of a vindictive disposition. He had no time for malice nor for envy. His life was one of endeavour, and he hoped to be able to prove, by his future career, to every one of his fellow citizens who might have been misled, that he had not deserved the malicious attacks that had been made upon him in this campaign. This was the proudest moment of his life, and it might well be of any man who had been so pursued, as he had been, by envy and malice, but it was a grateful thing to him to know that those who had known him best had rallied to his support. He wished also to thank those moderate Conservatives who, knowing him well, had refused to believe ill of him. It would be the endeavour of his life to demonstrate to those who had elected him that they had made no mistake. (Cheers.) He would endeavour to perform his duty to all, and to retain the confidence which it was such a pride and satisfaction to him to have extended to him to-day. (Great cheering.)

R. R. Hall

Mr. R. R. Hall, who was next called on, as the retiring member, said that he had been proud to know that he had nominated Hon. J. R. Stratton at the last Liberal convention. He had prophesied then that Mr. Stratton would be elected by a handsome majority, and he felt a personal satisfaction and pride now to know that his predictions had been carried out. No public man in this Province or any other had been slandered and abused as J. R. Stratton had been. But when those who had maligned him came here, to the constituency where he was best known, where, in fact, as known to everyone, these ill tongues of malice had got their just due. He was glad to be one of those who were able to join with them in the congratulations that were due and justly due, to Hon J. R. Stratton, and his splendid victory.

Mr. Fred D. Kerr

Congratulated the audience on the fact that the greatest statesman this country had known had been returned to power, and that West Peterborough was going to have as its supporter the ablest, the brainiest and the most trustworthy man the constituency of West Peterborough had ever known. The people of Peterborough West had spoken, and the gentleman who had been long known as their best friend had been given an affectionate tribute of regard and confidence that was not only a consolation and an inspiration to him for the future, but, if he might be permitted to allude to it, to that lady who shared his ambition and who made his home and his happiness. (Loud cheers.) The splendid tribute that had been paid to Mr. Stratton was something of which they all might feel proud, because it showed that a public man, conscious in his rectitude, could overcome all the machinary of malice. (Cheers.)

An Enthusiastic Parade

The result of the election in West Peterborough was marked by one of the most enthusiastic demonstrations ever seen in this city. The crowd went wild with delight when it was seen that Hon. Mr. Stratton was elected by a big majority, and when his photograph was thrown on the screen in front of the Examiner office, the thousands of people assembled there greeted it with burst after burst of cheering, that died away only to break out again when the picture was once more displayed.

At 8 o'clock a grand procession was formed at the Liberal committee rooms on Simcoe street, and proceeded up George street, headed by the 57th Regimental Band beating out a lively march. Hon. Mr. Stratton, with a number of supporters, followed in a cab, and was greeted with cheer upon cheer as the procession made its way along the densely crowded thoroughfare. The victorious candidate had to bow repeatedly in response to the plaudits of the crowd. Following Mr. Stratton's carriage was a long array of cabs filled with enthusiastic supporters, with flags and fireworks, and hundreds more fell in behind. The street was brilliantly illuminated with Roman candles and red lights, and the procession was a notable one.

The procession returned to the committee rooms, where Hon. Mr. Stratton received a magnificent reception. His supporters were wild enthusiasm, and the successful candidate was seized by his friends and carried on their shoulders, amid wild cheers, to Charlotte street, from where he proceeded to theopera house, where a big crowd awaited him.

At the Opera House

John J. Hartley

Chairman of the central committee, after an uproar of enthusiasm had somewhat subsided, on the appearance of the member elect and those who had so ably supported him, said they all were assembled to express the pride they felt in the efforts they had made to give this city and the county the most capable representative they had ever had. (Cheers.) They rejoiced that all the efforts of the men who had sought to traduce Mr. Stratton's character, had fallen upon deaf ears---that the people of West Peterborough had given so emphatic a vindication. But Mr. Stratton really needed no vindication---no one who knew him doubted him---and if there had been no other claim in his behalf, he must have been elected on that alone. Mr. Stratton's opponents had made an appeal that was prompted by malice and envy---that had no foundation in fact---and it was promptly repudiated by the intelligent electors of this riding and the result is the glorious victory they were celebrating. (Enthusiastic cheers.)

Hon. J. R. Stratton

Hon. Mr. Stratton, on coming forward, was forced to stand for several minutes owing to the deafening and persistent character of the applause, but he was finally permitted to say that he felt that this was indeed the proudest moment of his life. When he looked back over this campaign and the methods that had been resorted to by those who were opposed to him, the aspersions that had been undeservedly cast upon him, and the false issues that had been raised, he felt proud and grateful to say that from the bottom of his heart he thanked the people of West Peterborough not only for the confidence they had so nobly expressed in him, but for the influence which they had placed in his hands as their representative, and which they might be assured would be received without fear or favour, without malice or prejudice, but with the sole thought of doing good to the city and county that had been his guiding principle since they had known him in public life. He wished to say that he had no feeling of resentment against any man who had, from conscientious conviction voted against him, and he had even a regard for those who had been misled by the calumnies that had been resorted to in the effort to injure him in this campaign. But he could not be expected to extend the same regard to men who had endeavoured to blast his career by means that they must have known and do know were without foundation. He had felt wounded by these charges of which malice had levelled against him, but he had never wavered in his belief that the people of this city, among whom he had grown up from childhood, and who knew every incoming and outgoing of his life, would ever believe in these slanders. And therefore this magnificent expression of their confidence on that account alone, he felt more deeply than he had words to express. And the satisfaction that he experienced upon their verdict was small compared to that which thrilled his heart when this news went out to his friends outside this county and throughout the Dominion, who had never lost faith in him. He returned thanks to those loyal friends who had so nobly upheld his cause, knowing that it was the right cause, and regretted that it had not been a longer campaign, that they had been compelled to confine it to the short period of six weeks, for he felt that if he had been given the opportunity to fully present the issues of the campaign, his majority in the city would have been 500. He hoped that when another election came around a six weeks' campaign would not be necessary. They would have a Young Men's Liberal Club, where they could meet and discuss the questions of the day, and he had great faith in the wisdom of such discussions, where there were none to make them afraid. By such means, when another election came around, they would not have the spectacle of a General Electric Company not only attempting to influence the minds of employees, but also of coercing their votes. (Applause.) That kind of means to attain a political result did not appeal to an intelligent electorate, and they had just given evidence of it. (Great cheering.) If such means of attempting to influence political results should be continued in this city, the people of Peterborough would see to it. (Great applause.) He had felt from the beginning that the unanimity, the single-heartedness and the determinedness of the men who constituted his committees, was going to win success for him, because they had a single-hearted belief in him. And, while he knew no words to express how deeply he felt their loyal support, which would in the future, be his guide and his inspiration, he also wanted to pay a tribute to those really Liberal-Conservatives who had put personal regard before political prejudice, and because they believed that he had been scandalously attacked, had given him their support line of conduct that ought to meet with the reprobation of all honest men, outside of any political lines. He would say that, while he was their member, and while he could not and would never forget the loyal support that he had received, he would always have an open mind and a receptive ear to any suggestions that any man, no matter what his politics, might make for the advancing of the interests of Peterborough city, and West Peterborough especially. (Cheers.) As their member, he would represent not only those who voted for him, but the whole constituency of West Peterborough. (Loud cheers.) As they would remember, they had had all the great lights of the Conservative party, introduced by Mr. Burnham into this election in opposition to him. They had had Borden, Roblin and Hanna, and the Man from Manitoulin, all here in opposition to his election, and using means which they all knew. Although many of his friends disagreed with the political wisdom of his decision, he had elected to rely solely upon the decision of those who knew him best. Those who knew him through life, who had watched every moment and every progress of his career, these were the men to whom he was content to entrust his future, and if these people did not endorse him, then he did not want to be their member. So far as matters that had concerned his personal repute were concerned, he was always and at all times content to leave his fair name in the hands of his neighbours, who were best qualified to judge him. He never had had any doubt of the vindication that the people among whom he had grown up would give him, on any personal grounds, but he was deeply gratified to feel that, after the full and fair discussion of public matters which he had conducted among them for the past six weeks, they had not only vindicated him against the malicious tongue of scandal, but also in his position as a supporter of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Cheers), who also had been splendidly vindicated at the polls. He had made

THE RESULT.

It is with a sense of solid satisfaction and congratulation, and not of vain-glorious exultation, that the result of yesterday's election in West Peterborough is to be regarded. It has a double significance, a personal triumph and a triumph of principle. From the former point of view it is a splendid vindication of the Liberal candidate. Mr. Stratton, was made the object of systematic, persistent and malignant attack on matters entirely unconnected with the issues relevant to a political contest. Mr. Stratton was attacked, both in his personal and political capacity as having forfeited in respect of both the confidence of the electors of West Peterborough, and it was urged that he had even forfeited the confidence of his political leaders. The verdict of the electors yesterday decisively disproved the first, and the telegrams of congratulations received from leading public men as effectively disposed of the other. The result can be regarded as a triumphant vindication of Mr. Stratton, and a stinging rebuke to the scandal-mongers and slanderers, who made the weapons natural to such a campaign the only ones employed. It is safe to say that never again will West Peterborough be disgraced with such a political contest. The result is to be regarded as a triumph of principle, the principle of legitimate discussion of public issues. It is safe to say that never will West Peterborough see such a political contest waged with almost utter disregard of the public questions germane to a political contest of national import. The result is a credit to the good sense and local patriotism of the electors of the West Riding, who have shown that they are not unforgetful of past services, that they stand by the man that has stood by them, and that they have an unshaken trust in the ability and will of Mr. Stratton to continue with enlarged opportunity and intensified promise of usefulness the faithful and watchful services by which Peterborough and West Peterborough have so substantially profited in the past. They have served their best interests by electing by an exemplary majority, a supporter of the Liberal Government, which has been returned to power with practically undiminished following and fully equipped to continue the splendid work of nation-building it has carried on for the past twelve years. West Peterborough is assured of efficient, live and creditable representation and Canada is assured of another five years capable government.

We have no word of harshness or unkindness for the unsuccessful candidate; the consciousness of the utter failure of the style of campaign he felt called upon to conduct, the utter rout of the forces he called to his aid, is a heavy enough burden for him to bear. The defeated malignity of his local lieutenants, to whom he owes a very large measure of his want of success also stands sternly and, it is hoped, exhaustively rebuked.

THE GENERAL RESULT.

The result of the voting throughout Canada yesterday was the triumphant return of the Laurier Government, by a splendid majority. The Liberal Government will have behind it for another four years of progressive administration a majority of at least fifty. This is a triumphant indication of their past record especially emphatic in view of the conditions obtaining. The appeal was made to the country at a time when a trade depression, operated with the unthinking to the prejudice of the government, and a systematic campaign of slander scandal and baseless accusation continued through a long parliamentary session into the election contest, operated to obscure the real issue, the splendid administrative record of progressive achievement and spirited programme of policy. But this plan of campaign has been sternly rebuked, in West Peterborough, as in the Dominion at large. These owners of the familiar names of the leaders of the slanderbund, the bosses of the programme of mud-slinging (Bennett, Fowler, Pope, Lefurgey, Cockshutt, have been buried beneath their own mud, and the men they especitly sought to slay by slander, Sifton, Turriff and Pugsley, have been triumphantly returned, while Hon. L P. Brodeur was returned by acclamation. Never before has the electorate of Canada administered such a sweeping rebuke to a clique of scandal-mongers; never was the principle of appeal on legitimate issues so expressly vindicated. The general electorate of Canada has served its own interest by returning in power a government, pledged by, both precedent and promise to continue the work of developing the resources, material and national, of the Dominion of Canada.

EAST PETERBOROUGH.

The result in East Peterborough, while it is disappointing is not surprising under the circumstances. The two candidates, while on fairly even terms as to personality, and position of respect in the community, were quite different in advantages. Mr. Sexsmith, the Conservative candidate had the advantage of an intimate acquaintance with the electorate, due to his having run contests in 1900 and 1904, and had also the advantage of the organization facilities this experience provided. Mr. Tanner came into the field at a late hour, comparatively unknown to the great majority of the electors of the riding, and was handicapped by an organization that was obviously somewhat short of perfection. He was also handicapped by having arrayed against him influences which had nothing to do with the merits of the either candidate or the parties they stood for. East Peterborough so far as personal ability is concerned has not gained, but lost by the choice it has made. In other respects it has not gained by sending to Parliament a supporter not in sympathy with the Government of the day, and an advocate of its interests with the lessened influences his political affiliations naturally impart. Mr. Tanner made a splendid fight under circumstances peculiarly difficult and adverse. He is young and energetic; he has made acquaintance with the electorate and his chances for the future have been brightened. At another appeal to the country he will be in a position of better advantage; he will be well known and in the meantime East Peterborough may return to a more amenable state of political sanity.

WOOD LOTS OF JAPAN.

Example Furnished of Tree Growing on Small Plots.

In these times of great drains on the timber supplies, caused by the heavy demand for forest products of all kinds, Americans may see in Japan an example of what can be done in growing wood on small plots.

That country contains 21,000,000 wood lots, about three-fourths of which belong to private persons and one-fourth to communes. The average size of the plot is less than nine-tenths of an acre. They usually occupy the steepest, roughest, poorest ground. In this way land is put to use which would otherwise go to waste and if unwooded would lose its soil by the wash of the dashing rains.

From Japan's wood lots the yearly yield of lumber is about eighty-eight feet, board measure, an acre and three-fourths of a cord of firewood. In many cases the yield is much higher. More than 500,000,000 trees are planted yearly to make up what is cut for lumber and fuel.

With all the care in cutting and the industry in replanting it is by no means certain that Japan's forests are holding their own. If the preservation of the forests is doubtful there, it is evident that depletion must be alarmingly rapid in other countries which cut unsparingly and plant very little. On the other hand, it is encouraging to see what can be done with rough, steep and poor land. The United States has enough of that kind to grow billions of feet of lumber.—Pathfinder.

"Drunk With Thy Beauty."

Charles Dickens once had an argument with a friend about Byron's expression, "Drunk with thy beauty," to which he made great objection. During the discussion the novelist gazed as if enraptured at his host's fair haired daughter, who was in the room. At last he sprang to his feet, struck a dramatic attitude, clasped his heart with his hands and stalked to the window, where he wrote on the white woodwork:

O maiden of the amber dropping hair,
Would I, Byronically, thy praise might utter!
Drunk with thy beauty, would that I might dare
To breathe out paeans, borne upon a shutter!

Voted Twice.

Sir Gavan Duffy, formerly speaker of the legislative assembly of Victoria, was once returned to his seat by a single vote majority. On visiting his constituents subsequently, he was received with a special warmth by an Irish fellow countryman.

"And so," said Sir Gavan Duffy to his friend, "you were one of my supporters."

"No, sir," was the reply. "I was two of them."

The Boss.

"But," exclaimed the man of delicate sensibilities, "will your conscience permit you to do as you suggest?"

"Look here, friend," answered the New York politician, "I am accustomed to be boss even of my own conscience."

Not Modesty.

"Sometimes," said the press humorist, "I think my jokes are rotten. I s'pose that's my modesty."

"No," explained a friend, "that's your common sense."

THE SECOND EMPIRE.

Two Picturesque Episodes in a Period of Unrest.

Walking about the streets, riding on buses, junketing up and down the river in steamboats, I was profoundly struck by the unrest among the people, their intense hatred of emperor and empress. One day I caught a glimpse of Rochefort, carried aloft on the shoulders of a mob of students thronging the Boulevard Saint Michel. I never saw a man looking so helplessly frightened as did the founder of the Lanterne, then in its prime. Whether he feared the police or a fall I do not know, but his terror was abject.

In the summer time the emperor paid a visit to Beauvais. On the chance of getting material for an article acceptable in London I journeyed thither with North Peat, who went down as representative of the Morning Star. The prince imperial accompanied the emperor, who drove through living lanes of people stretching from the roadway to the open windows of the topmost chamber. They came to see, but they would not remain to cheer. The occasion was the presentation of prizes gained at the local Lycee. The head prize was never delivered, the winner, a lad of fourteen, declining to accept it from the hand of the hated emperor.—H. W. Lucy in Cornhill Magazine.

ADJUSTED HIS CANE.

Then the Man From Berlin Explained Why He Did It.

A man stood before a shop window with his cane sticking out from under his arm. A stout, blond gentleman in passing struck the cane smartly with his own, restoring it from its obstructive horizontal position to the proper vertical one.

"Say, what's the matter with you? You're the freshest guy I ever saw. Are you looking for trouble?"

Thus said the man whose cane had been tapped. But he who had tapped it, speaking with a German accent, answered gently:

"Why, sir, I did nothing but restore your cane to its right inclination. Absently you were holding it under your arm. It was jabbing people in the breast, the back, even the eye, and yet you meant no harm.

"Well, I stopped that nuisance which you were unconsciously committing. In Berlin it is the custom always to stop it so. And no one takes offense. On the contrary, in Berlin the correction is received with a smile and a word of thanks. Isn't it so here?"

"No, it isn't," said the other, "but it should be. I thank you, sir, myself, and I apologise."

John Wesley's Prescription.

"Here is a rare little book," said a Methodist local preacher. "It is John Wesley's 'Primitive Physick.' Wesley dabbled medicine, setting a fashion that has not yet died out. Did you ever know a Methodist minister who didn't dabble in medicine?"

The full title of the volume was "Primitive Physick: or, An Easy and Natural Method of Curing Most Diseases." The local preacher said that he had paid $40 for the book, but that as a medical work it was not really worth 40 cents. To show the weakness of John Wesley's doctoring he quoted the following consumption cure:

"Every morning cut up a little turf of fresh earth and, lying down, breathe into the hole for a quarter of an hour. I have known a deep consumptive cured thus."

The Letters He Dictated.

"Well, goodby, dear," said Mr. Trueboy to his beloved spouse. "I must go and dictate those letters—twenty-six of them—so you mustn't expect me home very early."

"All right," was the response. "But I wish you wouldn't work so hard."

Half an hour later Mr. Trueboy entered his club and sat down, with three others, at a card table.

"Just a moment, you fellows, before the first hand is dealt. I've got to keep my word with my wife. One of you just take down what I dictate: 'A b c d e f g h i j k l m n o p q r s t u v w x y z.' There, those letters are off my mind!"

Willie Has Such an Active Brain.

"Was Daniel really such a wise man, mamma?" asked Willie thoughtfully.

"Yes, dear, as wise almost as Solomon, Willie."

"Well, mother, I bet Solomon would have done better than Daniel did, anyway," continued Willie.

"Why, what do you mean, my son?"

"I'll betcher Solomon would have had sense enough to charge admission when he went into the lions' den!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

ASSERTED HERSELF.

The Young Woman Also Had a Few Questions to Ask.

The young woman was being interviewed by her prospective employer. The man bit off his words and hurled them at her in a way to frighten an ordinary girl out of her wits.

"Chew gum?" he asked.
"No, sir."
"Talk slang?"
"No, sir."
"Know how to spell correctly?"
"Yes, sir."
"Use the telephone every other minute?"
"No, sir."
"Usually tell the office force how much the firm owes and all the rest of the private business you learn?"
"No, sir."

He was thinking of something else to ask her when she took a hand in the matter and put a few questions.

"Smoke cigars when you're dictating?"

"Why—er—no!" he gasped in astonishment.

"Slam things around when business is bad?"

"No."

"Lay for your employees when they get caught in a block some morning?"

"No, indeed."

"Think you know enough about grammar and punctuation to appreciate a good stenographer when you get one?"

"I—I think so."

"Want me to go to work, or is your time worth so little that"—

He interrupted her enthusiastically:

"Kindly hang up your things and let's get at these letters."

LOOKING BACKWARD.

What is the Earliest Event in Life You Can Remember?

"I can remember back to my fourth year," said a physician. "I was four during the Philadelphia Centennial of 1876, and I remember two Centennial scenes well. One was a great room full of brass band instruments—horns so big and yellow and shiny that they delighted me. I remember, too, a Turkish coffee room. My father took me into this room. Turks in native dress served the coffee. I liked the place at first; then I saw that it was noisy. The native waiters shouted horribly. I was frightened. I was on the point of tears, but whether I cried or not I can't tell you."

"I can remember back to the time when I was three," said a lawyer. "At the age of three my family took me to Cape May. I saw my father out in the water. He laughed and held out his arms to me, and, all dressed, I ran into the sea to him."

"All of us," said a psychologist, "can remember back to our fourth year. Some of us can even remember back to the second year. It would make an interesting article, a compilation of the earliest memories of a lot of people. The trouble, as a rule, is to fix the date of these memories, so as to be sure of our age at the time."

PUNCTUATION.

Originated by Aristophanes and Revived by Charlemagne.

Punctuation by means of stops and points, so as to indicate the meaning of sentences and assist the reader to a proper enunciation, is ascribed originally to Aristophanes, a grammarian of Alexandria, Egypt, who lived in the third century B. C. Whatever his system may have been, it was subsequently neglected and forgotten, but was reintroduced by Charlemagne, the various stops and symbols being designed by Warnefried and Alcuin.

The present system of punctuation was introduced in the latter part of the fifteenth century by Aldus Manutius, a Venetian printer, who was responsible for our full stop, colon, semicolon, comma, marks of interrogation and exclamation, parenthesis and dash, hyphen, apostrophe and quotation marks. These were subsequently copied by other printers until their use became universal.

Most ancient languages were innocent of any system of punctuation. In many early manuscripts the letters are placed at equal distances apart, with no connecting link between, even in the matter of spacing, an arrangement which must have rendered reading at sight somewhat difficult.

A DRAMATIC CLIMAX.

Effect of One Woman's Pathetic Eyes Upon a Jury.

James T. Brady, who was one of New York's greatest lawyers, was once counsel for a young woman in a case involving an attempt to break a will.

His client sat by his side. She was a very beautiful young woman, whose eyes seemed always to rivet the attention of those upon whom her glance fell. There was a pathetic expression which affected every one. She sat watching the jury during the course of the trial, and at last there was some complaint that she was attempting by means of her glances to excite the sympathy of the jury.

Then Mr. Brady arose and in one of the most touching and beautiful of all the addresses he ever made in court spoke of the blessings which every one who had an appreciation of beautiful things and could see them enjoyed and dwelt for some moments upon the happy lot of the jury who could see the budding of the flowers—it was then springtime—and the charms of nature. Then, suddenly turning to his client, he said, "That blessing is denied my client, for, though she has eyes which seem to look upon you, gentlemen, there is no vision in them, for her sight has been taken from her."

She had been, in fact, the victim of total paralysis of the optic nerve, which had not impaired the beauty of her eyes, but had given to them that singular pathetic expression which she was thus falsely charged with employing that she might secure the sympathies of the jury.

Bad Eggs.

Seated in a dark, cool cellar, a lighted candle in one hand, three eggs in the other, the egg candler talked. "No egg is unsalable," said he. "You can sell an egg when there's nothing left of it but the smell. Who buys it then? The kid glove maker. He beats his kids soft in a yolk bath, and the riper that great foaming yellow bath is the more joyously the kid glove maker splashes about in it. Here's a half dozen fresh brokens, O. K. but for the shells. The confectioners 'll take 'em. This couple is what you might call fair—what your grocer would term 'fresh;' not 'new laid' nor 'best fresh'—only 'fresh.' Such eggs you could stand in a Spanish omelet, but not boiled. We'll split them and sell the yolks to low class bakers and the whites to papermakers for sizing."

Easily Pleased.

If you wish to make a Baganda perfectly happy, all you need to do is to say, "Way wally," which means a sort of supremely earnest "Well done." The moment this talismanic expression has left your lips the native to whom it is addressed will probably fall on his knees, and, clasping his two hands together, will sway them from side to side as if he were playing a concertina, while all the time his face beams with a most benignant and compulsive smile, and he purrs "A—e, a—o, a—e," as much as to say, "My cup of joy is overflowing."—Winston Churchill in Strand Magazine.

Fruitful Comparison.

"That girl is a peach," enthusiastically remarked a spectator.

"Yes," said another, "and she is the apple of her father's eye."

"She and young Binks would make a fine pair," suggested a third.

"But," objected another in the group, "a fellow like Binks would find her something of a lemon in the garden of love."

The cynical bystander who had been listening butted in at this point.

"I don't know the young lady," he said dryly, "but she seems to be very fruitful in her resources."

A Person to Be Avoided.

"Palanquin is certainly a man to avoid. People have told me stories about him which are not edifying."

"Really? You do well to tell me, for I need not now give him back the money he loaned me."

Getting Desperate.

Dolly—There's Miss Oldgirl. She used to say she would never marry until she got an excellent proposal. May—And now? Dolly—Oh, now she's dropped the "excellent."

STRATTON WINS WEST PETERBORO' AND THE LIBERAL PARTY SPLENDIDLY SUSTAINED

In all this contest neither he nor his friends had made any personal attack upon their opponent. They had not gone outside the legitimate domain of political discussion, but had confined their appeal to the electorate to a fair and conscientious discussion of public affairs. In regard to the charges that had been exploited on the Tory stage or in the Tory paper, he did not believe there was any other man who could show a better or a cleaner sheet after being for twenty years before the electors of the county. And he hoped that in the next five years he would be able to show even those Conservatives who to-day voted against him that they had made a mistake. (Cheers.) If any Conservative, or any Independent in West Peterborough had any offer of suggestion or advice that promised advantage to the people of this riding, he would always be glad to welcome them and to advise with them for the good of the county. (Cheers.) In this connection he would say that in any public position with which they had honoured him during twenty years, he had never used any advantage for himself or for any personal ends. If anything in a legitimate way of patronage came up he was always there to give it to his friends. (Cheers.) If there was anything left he would give it to his opponents. (Laughter.) But he did not see the day coming when they would not be able to find the ability and all the qualifications to fill any office among the ranks of his supporters and that he would be able to fill any possible vacancy without going into the enemy's camp. (Cheers.) While he felt to the full all the pride which he could not help but feel, at such a splendid demonstration of personal confidence, he would like all his friends to understand that we should not lose our heads with the spree of victory. (Cheers.) He alluded, in emphasising that the fact of his election was due to the free will of the voters of West Peterborough alone, that his judgment had been some times challenged by some of his supporters, but he had always said that he would never resort to any outside influence, and that those who knew him best should judge him. him. (Great cheers.) But it had been intimated that he (Mr. Stratton) had not been supported by the great men outside, because they were not in sympathy with him. The fact that he had received telegrams of congratulations from nearly all of his colleagues in the Ross administration, should give a quietus to that idea. And, as a matter of fact, during his campaign, he had received offers of assistance from prominent members of the Liberal party, but he had always said he was appealing to the voters of West Peterborough on his own record alone and he wanted no outside interference or assistance. The splendid result justified all his confidence, and he thanked them one and all, and he particularly desired to express to the ladies in the gallery what he felt was due to them for their share in making this magnificent victory, which he believed and hoped would be for the best interests of all. (Great applause.)

Chairman Hartley then introduced Mr. Davidson, as one of the active workers of the campaign, whose personal efforts had been one of the means by which they had attained the victory in which they all so much rejoiced.

Mr. Davidson said the returns showed a victory for the best man that West Peterborough had ever known (J. R. Stratton), and he was not one of those who wanted the victory concealed. (Laughter.) They all knew that if Mr. Burnham had been elected, the Conservatives would have taken good care that they—the people assembled there—should know all about it. Therefore he thought it was appropriate, since it was so well for our city and for our country that they who should let the news be known. (Cheers.) But he didn't believe there wouldn't be anyone left in the Burnham headquarters to hear the joyful noise which they had gathered to put forth. As a worker, one of those who had in a small degree, helped in the result, he simply would call attention to the splendid work that had been done in the outlying towns, and he read the results, the call of Ennismore, North Monaghan, Harvey, Galway, and last, but not least, the city of Peterborough, called forth a hearty tribute. Mr. Davidson read the bulletins as they were received, showing the splendid results for the Laurier Administration, all of which roused the most intense enthusiasm in the immense audience.

Ex-Member Hall

Mr. R. R. Hall, who has represented West Peterborough during the past parliamentary term, received a most hearty greeting on being presented by Chairman Hartley.

Mr. Hall said that six weeks ago he had felt it a pleasure and a pride to nominate as their standard-bearer a gentleman who had so faithfully served their interests in the past, Hon. J. R. Stratton. (Loud cheers.) He had then expressed his belief that Mr. Stratton would be accepted as the best expression of the public mind of West Peterborough, and to-night they had gathered to congratulate one another that he had not been mistaken. (Cheers.) He believed that in the whole history of Ontario no man had been so wrongfully accused or so persistently pursued as their friend, J. R. Stratton, who was triumphantly elected to-night. (Great cheers) He (Mr. Hall) had known Mr. Stratton for twenty years, and, he thought, he had known him as intimately as any man might know a friend, and he had known him always as a simple-hearted and single-minded gentleman in his private life and as a shrewd and successful man in his business life. He (Mr. Hall) knew, if any man could know, the undeserved contumely to which Mr. Stratton had been subjected, and he was proud to think that the base appeal of slander, of scandal, of malice, and of disappointed ambition, had appealed in vain to the intelligence of West Peterborough. (Cheers), and that J. R. Stratton, in the face of all these defamations, was now their member-elect. (Loud cheers.) The good sense and the intelligence of this county had revolted at the aspersions placed upon their honoured friend Mr. Stratton. (Loud cheers), and he was glad to know that a realization of the abomination of that kind of political warfare was being recognized by the country. When he sat in the House of Commons during the past term as their representative, he had revolted against the use to the weapons of slander and falsehood on the floor of the Commons, and he was especially glad to learn that one of the chief and magnicious instruments of that base instrument of political use, had just now gone down to defeat, Mr. Bennett, and that another of his principal colleagues in the criminal assassination of the characters of their superiors had also been condemned by the electors to whom their acts had to be reverted. During this time he had felt indignant and ashamed that such a line of conduct as looked no higher than the vilification of an opponent should be permitted in Parliament, and he felt that in the casting aside of the men he had named, in the triumphant endorsement of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and above all in the unmistakable vindication of his friend, J. R. Stratton, in this election, the public life of Canada was being placed on a higher line. He and they knew Mr. Stratton, and they knew and felt that in spite of all that had been said against him he was their best and their worthiest representative. (Cheers.) While he (Mr. Hall) had represented them at Ottawa he had been the instrument of securing for this county more consideration than many of his predecessors, because he went out earnestly after the things that he thought Peterborough was entitled to and he got them. (Cheers.) And he could tell that his friend, Mr. Stratton, would continue that work for this riding and redouble the energy that he had been enabled to give to it, and they might know that for the next five years the work in their favour would go on in Mr. Stratton's hands with redoubled vigor. (Applause.)

Andrew McFarlane

Mr. McFarlane said he was glad to know that this splendid victory of the man of the people's choice made it certain that Peterborough would retain its old reputation as a good town to live in. He referred to the poster that had a week ago occupied a page of the "Review," intimating that the workers of a great company, which depended upon the good will of the citizens of Peterborough, were to be driven to vote to suit their immediate superior. This method of doing business had met its reward in the triumphant election of their old, tried and true friend, Hon. Mr. Stratton. (Cheers.) As one of the mechanics of Peterborough he (Mr. McFarlane) was proud, and he felt that he could always look back with pride to the part he had played in returning to the Parliament of the Dominion such a good and trusty friend of the mechanics and the workingmen's interests in the community as the Hon. J. R. Stratton. (Loud cheers.)

R. H. Leary

Mr. Leary, who proved to be a very modest and very earnest speaker, said that when they considered the mean and contemptible means that had been resorted to to defeat their candidate, Hon. Mr. Stratton, they should feel pride in the integrity of West Peterborough. Hon. Mr. Stratton had been supported by friends whose loyalty had never been surpassed and the result in North Monaghan was a proof of how nobly and faithfully they had worked. (Cheers.)

W. H. Melarum

Mr. Meldrum spoke of the esteem and affection that, everywhere in the back country, had been extended to Hon. Mr. Stratton, because of the substantial services he had rendered to them, and that were so apparent in the comfort and convenience of their daily lives that they could not well be forgotten. He elivened the audience by the relation of a story of a Scotchman and his antique clock, which was graun' to look at, but wouldna' gae. Mr. Burnham was the clock on this occasion. It was fine to look at, but it "didn'tgo." (Cheers.) He was glad to join them in celebrating the best victory for the interests of the city and the riding of West Peterborough that its people had ever known, in the election of J. R. Stratton. (Applause.)

"The Old Man Eloquent"

William Yelland was next called upon, and recieved a greeting that left no doubt as to his old-established popularity among the people assembled. He said he was proud of the grand victory they had won, and he wanted to tell them that when the time came round in five years again, and they were looking for a candidate for West Peterborough, their old friend, J. R. Stratton, would be elected by acclamation. (Great applause.) Each time Mr. Stratton had come before them he had given such a good account of himself that they always felt compelled to give him a bigger majority, and no wonder — for wherever you could go throughout the county the people pointed to the things that he had done for them. (Cheers.) And when he went to Ottawa they might depend upon it that whatever there was good going there, J. R. Stratton was coming back to West Peterborough with the biggest share of it. (Great Applause.)

F. D. Kerr

Mr. Kerr opened his brief address by repeating the contents of cheering Liberal victories. He recalled Goldsmith's "Sweet Auburn," and wondered how sweet were the feelings of our Auburn of these later days. (Laughter.) He felt delighted that West Peterborough had turned back the slanderous tongue upon itself, and had chosen a gentleman at such proved worth and tried ability as Hon. J. R. Stratton. (Cheers.) He felt proud of the honour that they had conferred upon their foremost citizen and believed that as in the past his work for them would be onward and upward, for himself, for Peterborough, for the Province of Ontario and the Dominion of Canada.

Mr. John O'Brien

Mr. O'Brien said he was only a worker, and no speechmaker, but he felt from the bottom of his heart that he could congratulate the electors of West Peterborough so less than their member elect upon the splendid triumph which they had gained for Hon. J. R. Stratton. (Great cheers.)

Mr. J. J. Duffus

Mr. Duffus in an eloquent address congratulated the riding and its member elect, upon the fact that Mr. Stratton has conducted his campaign upon manly principles, and that he had resorted to no false pretences or slanderous methods as had been done by his opponents. They were proud of their candidate, now the member elect, and of his past career, which promised great things for his future and for the benefit of the city and county of Peterborough.

Mr. Adam Hall

Mr. Hall who received hearty applause from the great audience, said he felt pleased and grateful at the result of the election. He had known Mr. Stratton since he was so high (indicating with the hand). (laughter), and he had never known anything but good of him. He was a noble man, and they had all felt proud to work for him. The short time in which they had been given to organize the campaign had not given them the opportunity that had been enjoyed by the other party, but the loyalty and enthusiasm that had been at the back of Mr. Stratton, and the splendid qualities of the candidate himself, had endeared him to all, all that he was heard to resist, had and made the work of his supporters easier. He believed Mr. Stratton was only entering on a larger career and that his election was the very best thing the people of West Peterborough could have done for their own interests. (Cheers.)

After the reading of some election returns by Mr. Davidson, the audience on call of Hon. Mr. Stratton gave three hearty Cheers for the King, three more for the ladies, and in response to a call from some small boy in the gallery, they split the roof with three times three more for Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Gillette Elected

By Over Two Million Voters

Another Triumph for Progress and Personal Cleanliness

Over two million voters have demanded a change from antiquated methods — from old style razors and new style theories. They show their preference for the "Gillette" at the polls of public approval.

Over two million voters uphold every plank in the "Gillette" Safety Razor platform:—

—no honing, no stropping
—the one razor that is safe
—a clean shave in five minutes
—an easy shave for every face
—adjustable for light or close shave —always ready when you are.

"New Process" Blades are as far superior to any other shaving edge as the "Gillette" is superior to the old fashioned razor.

Twelve blades—in handsome nickel-plated case—one dollar.

Have you voted the right ticket—the "Gillette"? If not, the "polls" are still open at the store just 'round the corner. "Gillette" Razor and "New Process" Blades are sold by leading Jewelry, Drug, Hardware, Cutlery, Sporting Goods and Department Stores, and by the Gillette Safety Razor Company of Canada Limited, 63 St. Alexander St., Montreal.

THE FARMERS' MINISTER.

Hon. James S. Duff Is Popular and Is a Real Farmer.

Hon. James S. Duff, member of the Legislature for West Simcoe, who was this week sworn in as Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, is about to utilize his predecessor, Hon. Nelson Monteith, in appearance and manner, as possible. Mr. Monteith is tall and thin and dark. Mr. Duff is short, "dandy" of complexion, rosy of countenance, and hasn't an angle anywhere about his physical make-up. In Simcoe County, Mr. Duff is known as "the people's Jimmy," and he is very popular with his party at home. West Simcoe is so overwhelmingly Conservative that all the ambitious members of the party there have at one time or another had their hooks out, as it were, for the nomination that would mean certain election to the Legislature. But by the time Mr. Duff had served a term in the House he had made his position impregnable, and all his former rivals now say nice things about him and boost him along, and direct their ambitions to other things—appointments as police magistrates and so on.

Mr. Duff was first elected in 1898, and from the first showed himself capable of holding up his end with his fellows in the Legislature. He was then a rather halting speaker, but he has plenty of confidence and has worked hard to improve his position in the House and in his riding. As time went on he was successful in acquiring the outstanding hall-marks of the Ontario parliamentarian. It became easy for him to reel off such phrases as "at any rate" all in one word, and to refer, on the stump, in a matter-of-fact way, to this and that thing he had dealt with "on the floor of the House"—in short, he picked up provincial political urbanities right and left. And now he has met with his reward, and his friends in West Simcoe and in the Legislature, and even his opponents in his own constituency will be glad that he is now the Honorable James S. Duff.

The new Minister is a farmer in good circumstances near Cookstown, which has always been his postoffice address. He is comparatively young—fifty-two—and looks younger. Behind his joviality which has made him popular, he has a large fund of shrewdness. He will make a careful and, no doubt, a capable administrator. And one thing is pretty certain—there will be no scandals in his Department.

ALL-RED TO THE ARCTIC.

Edmonton Is Boosting Brand New New Country For Sportsmen.

A striking booklet has been issued by the Board of Trade of Edmonton, Alberta, on the All-Red route to the Arctic Ocean. Abundantly illustrated by well-executed sketch maps, the publication gives in detail the mode of travel, distance in miles, passenger tariff, freight tariff, and time-table from Edmonton to Athabasca Landing, Lesser Slave Lake, Peace River Crossing, Dunvegan, Fort St. Johns, Hudson's Hope, Fort Grahame, Finlay River, Fort McMurray, Fort Chipewyan, Fort Vermillion, Fort Smith, Fort Resolution, Fort Rae, Fort Providence, Fort Simpson, Fort Wrigley, Fort Norman, Fort Good Hope, and Fort McPherson, and it is pointed out that to the hunter, prospector, trader, and trapper, and for men of wealth seeking new fields to travel in, the vast country to the north of Edmonton offers untold opportunities in the way of business as well as pleasure. The hunting, the fishing, the shooting of rapids, the magnificent scenery, large lakes, and magnificent rivers, the huge tar beds salt beds, coal beds, etc., offer a novel trip in a delightful and invigorating climate, [illegible] anywhere in anything that India, South Africa, Australia, or South America has to offer. For men of experience in exploring new countries and roughing it, a trip through the country which stretches 2,000 miles to the north of Edmonton would be one that could be taken in the summer months with safety, with the aid of the Northern Transportation Co. and the Hudson Bay Co. Copies of the handbook will be sent on application to the secretary of the Board of Trade, Edmonton, Alberta.

Two Thousand Dollars in Silver.

There arrived recently in Galt, consigned to the Ontario Rag & Metal Co., Chinese currency to the value of $10,000 in Canadian money.

Just what the sum would represent in Chinese currency is impossible to ascertain, but a conservative estimate places the amount at 500,000 tael. A tael is a silver piece worth 63 cents in Canadian currency. There are no taels in the coin in Galt, it being composed of copper and brass pieces graduated from half a tael to one-tenth of a tael.

The shipment of about 9,000 pounds of Chinese coin was received direct from China. It arrived in a score of sacks fastened with strips of tough weed.

The coin has been discarded by the Chinese Government, most of it being worn or defaced. It ranges in size from pieces as small as a Canadian nickel to those as large as a half-dollar, and each coin has a square hole in the middle.

The coin will be sold by the company, to be used in foundries, etc., where an exceptionally fine quality of brass or copper is needed.

Northern Route Good.

Some information regarding the movement of ice on Hudson Bay has been given by Major J. D. Moodie, in charge of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police posts, in a report to headquarters dated July 1, which is of interest by reason of the steps which the Dominion Government is now taking to make of Hudson Bay a commercial route for the export of western produce to Europe.

He tells of the arrival at Churchill of a patrol boat, which left Fullerton on the 3rd of June. The members of the patrol reported that all ice was well off shore until within 100 miles of Churchill, when they found that it was driven in, and the party was detained 15 days near Driftwood Point. A channel broke through the ice in Churchill harbor on the night of June 15, and next day the harbor was practically free of ice at low water. Owing to the continuous northerly and easterly winds the ice had never got sufficiently far into the bay to get out of the river current, and so traveled in and out with the tides.

The report adds, however, that both in the bay and river the ice is loose and in needles, "and a good steamer would have no difficulty in working through."

Forty-Seven Years In North.

Forty-seven long years spent in the north country away from civilization is the record of James Wylie, who came out recently as far as Winnipeg on his first visit since going north. He came from the Orkney Islands in 1862, reaching Canada by way of Hudson Bay. He went from York Factory to Norway House, down Lake Winnipeg to Grand Rapids, up Cumberland river to Isle La Crosse, thence to Portage La Roche on Clearwater, and to Fort Chipewyan. He has been there ever since, working as a blacksmith and gunsmith for the Hudson Bay Co.

He came out this year and was offered a trip to England by the company. He went as far as Winnipeg, but gave it up and returned. Mr. Wylie never saw a street car nor a railway till his visit to Edmonton and Winnipeg.

Ontario's Population.

According to the returns just tabulated, the population of Ontario in 1907 increased by 58,617. The total population is 2,200,383 for last year, as compared with 2,142,746 for the year previous. The rural population stands at 1,045,840, as compared with 1,051,837 for 1906. Urban population has increased from 477,704 to 499,927, and city population from 613,205 to 654,766. Within the last ten years there has been an increase of 300,000 in the population of the province. The assessed values in 1907 aggregated $1,148,981,074, as compared with $1,103,504,688 in 1906, while the taxes collected amounted to $19,529,169, as against $18,021,426. This gives a rate of $8.88 per head for 1907, as against $8.41 for 1906.

Up His Limb.

To the man who has a horse to sell considerable leeway is allowed in the matter of setting forth the animal's merits. "I've got the very horse you want," said Gideon Lane, the Bushby livery stable keeper, to one of the summer residents.

"He has no bad tricks?" queried the gentleman. "Safe for the family?"

"Lauzee, yes," returned Mr. Lane heartily. "Any lady can drive him, and hold a dozen children could get on his back and he'd never notice 'em. Not a trick to his name."

"Ah," said the summer resident, "I don't wish a horse without any spirit."

"Spirit" echoed Mr. Lane. "Well, you just ought to see him on circus day, that's all. And I'll tell you confidentially 'twouldn't be well for too many people to get on that horse at once."—Youth's Companion.

The Jews and Thirteen.

Commenting on the thirteen superstitions in the Oesterreichische Wochenschrift, Jacob H. Ehrlich, a Jewish writer, says: "The number thirteen is surely not a bad one for us. The holy writ tells of the thirteen attributes of the Most High, and we have thirteen feast days in each year. Our great arch enemy, Haman, was hanged on the 13th of Adar. The thirteenth birthday of our sons is a day of joy because on that day the child becomes a member of the religious community. The dream of Joseph was of thirteen—the sun, the moon and eleven stars—and Jacob had thirteen children."

SPLENDID FOR THE OLD FOLKS

Prescription To Relieve Bladder Trouble Which Anyone Can Mix.

IT ACTS ON THE KIDNEYS

Cut this out and put in some safe place for it is valuable and worth more than anything else in the world if you should have an attack of rheumatism or bladder trouble or any derangement of the kidneys whatever.

The prescription is simple and can be made up by anyone at home. The ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy and all that is necessary is to shake them well in a bottle.

Here it is: Fluid extract dandelion, one-half ounce; compound Kargon, one ounce; compound syrup of sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. A few doses is said to relieve almost any case of bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain and scalding, weakness and backache, pain above the kidneys, etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism, because of its direct and positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It gives them life and power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood, relieving the worst forms of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The extract dandelion acts upon the stomach and liver and is used also extensively for relieving constipation and indigestion. Compound sarsaparilla cleans and enriches the blood. There is nothing better than Kargon Compound for the kidneys.

This prescription is safe to use at any time.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Lakefield has not much to be proud of in it's treatment of Mr. E A Tanner. It has had a splendid chance of returning a man to Parliament who would have done credit to his place of residence and to his county, and the citizens seemed to have allowed their petty jealousies to outweigh all questions of public expediency and defeated a man who would have brought honour to his town. Contrast the treatment his rival received in Havelock. Truly the Lakefield people have nothing much to be proud of in the treatment they have accorded to Mr. Tanner.

Yours truly,
A LAKEFIELD VOTER.

HERPICIDE NOT A FAKE

Unsolicted Testimonials Tell of It's Superiority

Alf R. Kelley, residing at No. 2195 Devisadero street, San Francisco, Cal., writes the following: "When I first purchased Herpicide I thought, like the majority of hair preparations, it would prove a fake. I am happy to state, on the contrary, it is all, and even more, than you claim for it. Quite a number of barbers throughout the section in which I travel have called attention to hte new hair sprouting out on my scalp, and inquired of me what I have been using. I tell them 'Herpicide,' also give them your name and address." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes — 50c and $1. INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS

FULTON'S RENAL COMPOUND

"Kidney trouble" is inflammation of the kidneys without albumen.

"Bright's Disease" is inflammation of the kidneys with albumen.

In each the real trouble is INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, hence a cure for one must be a cure for the other. There has been no cure for either.

But many kidney troubled people get well.

True—because inflammation of the kidneys unless severe commonly gets well at first. But if it does not yield early and the inflammation persists, the real trouble begins.

You can see why kidney disease has been incurable and why the deaths have risen to over 170 per day up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known that would reduce inflammation in the kidney tissues.

The old kidney medicines were a misconception, irritating the inflamed kidneys to renewed efforts instead of allaying the inflammation, some of them being actually harmful. Result—physicians have abandoned them.

No matter whether you call it "kidney trouble," "Nephritis," or "Bright's Disease," if it has been hanging on a few months, recovery can be only hoped for through this specific. It has a proven efficiency in nearly 87 per cent. of all cases. It is the only thing known that controls inflammation in the kidneys, which is the real difficulty with kidney troubled people.

After 27 Cars Passed Over His Legs, Brakeman Crawled From Tracks 50 Yds. To Embankment

John MacDermott May Die From Injuries Received on C. P. R. at Myrtle—Fell Between Cars—Showed Rare Presence of Mind

STOPPED FLOW OF BLOOD

John MacDermott, of 180 Dundas street, West Toronto, a brakeman on the C.P.R., was taken to the Western Hospital from the Union Station this morning with both legs crushed so severely that his recovery is doubtful.

MacDermott left Toronto Sunday night on a freight train running east. At Myrtle he proceeded to uncouple some cars from the train, when he slipped and fell, both feet slipping between the wheels. The whole train of 28 cars passed over his legs practically severing them, between the knees and ankles.

When the siding at Myrtle was reached it was so dark and foggy that MacDermott left the caboose, where he was seated and went forward on the top of the cars in order to distinguish the signals. In some way he dropped between the fourth and fifth cars, and the noise of the moving cars drowned his cries.

Although both legs were practically severed from his body, the wounded man kept his presence of mind, and, fearing that another train would come along he managed to drag himself across the lines of track, and up an embankment fifty feet away.

His subsequent actions displayed extraordinary presence of mind. His legs were not quite severed, and to stem the blood MacDermott reached down, and pulling off one of his boots, removed a lace from it, and bound up one of the stumps as tightly as he could. While he was working on the other, a searching party heard his groans, and found him.

He was picked up and carried to the station. This morning he was brought in on the 7.30 train and taken to the hospital in an ambulance.

Conductor Barney La Roche, in charge of the freight train, could tell very little of the accident, nor could a companion of MacDermott, who accompanied him to the city, as the latter was alone when he slipped. At the hospital it was found that the injured man had lost so much blood, and was suffering so severely from the shock, that it is considered improbable that he can recover.

MacDermott has lived in West Toronto only two weeks, his former home being in Fergus. He has a wife and two children, the former of whom was summoned to the hospital at once.

THE AIRSHIP IN WARFARE IN THE AGE OF FLIGHT

The Possibilities of the Airship in Modern International Difficulties Will Perhaps be the Greatest Means of Making People Realize the Awfulness of Nations at War---Peach May Come Then.

What effect will the perfected airship have on warfare? Ever since the creation of the world attack and defence have kept an even balance. No invention has ever yet been perfected by the aggressor, but that the one attacked has been able to invent some resisting device, writes F J Haskin, very interestingly, in an American exchange.

The shield and coat of mail met the arrow and javelin. The stone walls of the fortress met the battering ram. Earth works met the armour-piercing bullet. The ironclad battleship resisted the solid shot. So progress has marked the history of warfare. But the airship will destroy that balance. It will offer attacking facilities that will find no power big enough to resist them, and it is likely to bring a reign of terror that has no equal in history.

Because of its great possibilities in war, the nations of the earth are taking the keenest interest in the perfecting of the aerial craft, and drifting balloons, dirigible balloons and aeroplanes of varying types have had their tryout and have proved their possibilities as world-destroying, peace-compelling factors. In this connection prizes have been offered and bids have been received and other manifestations of great interest in the matter have been shown by the enlightened nations.

The United States Government has named these requisites for the airship which must stand the tests at Fort Myer: It must make 40 miles an hour. It must be easily dismantled, conveniently carried about and assembled, ready for use, in one hour's time. It must be of sufficient capacity to carry two persons with an aggregate weight of 350 pounds and fuel enough for a 125-mile trip. It must stand speed tests over a five-mile course, taking a flying start and going both with and against the wind. It must stand an endurance test of one hour's flight and land ready to go up again, going in all directions in this flight, being at all times stable and under control. In case of failure of the propelling machinery, it must have a safety device by which the occupants may be lowered without injury. It must be capable of ascent without special preparation in any country where military operations are in progress.

It is believed that the navy department will soon name specifications and advertise for bids on a similar craft. It will ask that the ship be able to rise from and alight on the water, and make a speed of 40 miles an hour while carrying a weight of 350 pounds.

Coast Defences Useless

The ships that stand these tests will have broken-down world-old barriers. The new warfare will be terrible and wonderful. Coast defences will be set at naught; fort and castle will be as so much picturesque pasteboard scenery on a playhouse stage; the armies of the world will be useless; the iron-clads will lie powerless at anchor in easy range of pitiless aerial Dreadnoughts. One completely equipped aerial battleship could wipe out several thousand costly vessels that constitute the navies of the world powers and it could also destroy their armies by powerful explosives dropped from the clouds. Were such a destroyer to attack Great Britain, for example, the protection of insularity that country has so long enjoyed would be of no avail, and the annual army budget of $138,000,000 and navy budget of $160,000,000 would have been as utterly wasted as so many cupfuls of water thrown into the ocean.

In the new warfare, aeroplanes as swift as swallows would act as scouts in the skies, sailing at from 40 to 60 miles an hour, and mapping the country at will from a height of 2000 or perhaps 4000 feet. Sharpshooters on lookout towers on the land, armed with guns especially made for sighting skyward, would have some difficulty in winging such birds. On sea the object to be hit moves at about 15 miles an hour. On land it goes slower; in the air, it would move four or five times as fast. On land or sea the object would be following the same plane. The skipper of the skies may change at will the plane on which he moves, and the sharpshooter would find his range ever changing, his shorts going wide of their mark. A war balloon of ordinary dimensions would present to the land batteries about the same surface as that offered by a platoon of cavalry, while an airship would be very difficult to hit because the planes would be tangential to the curve of the flight of the projectile.

New Modes of Warfare

In this warfare with the maps, armed cruisers with maps as guides, may invade the skies of their enemy's country. New instruments which must be a combination of plumb line, range finder and telescope will be used to get the range of city or fortress, and then on these comparatively defenceless places the ship can drop high explosives with terrible effect. The explosives may possibly be towed behind the airship on inexpensive barge-like floats, and these be cut loose and sunk on the besieged country below, so as not to endanger the aerial battleship itself. High explosives of small bulk might be dropped through rifled barrels of a new type of guns.

Secrecy, the one great need for armies in wartime, will no longer be possible with the aerial navy. Every movement will be known to the keen-eyed watchers above, and every move circumvented. In land fighting there has been little change for centuries. It is even said that Caesar might return and manoeuvre an army of to-day and that he would find the physical endurance and the fighting strength of a man no greater than when he crossed the Rubicon and went out to conquer the whole world. What civilisation and art have done is to invent machinery that will increase man's fighting efficiency. The greatest changes have been in sea fighting, a wonderful evolution from the days of the Roman trireme to those of the Dreadnought. To perfect the airship would be to transfer the navy to the skies, and so leave the land at its mercy. From a point 5000 feet high missiles can be discharged, and from this height the seat of the fighting craft can be seen.

There will be an attempt, of course, to make defence keep the balance with attack. The principle that makes wireless telegraphy possible may be utilized to set the air with dangerous currents that will shock the attacking party's ship and explode the ammunition as it goes by. Or the old sun glass may be brought into play, and focussed on the trailer, for explosives, cause an atmospheric convulsion that would make a tornado seem a summer breeze. Captive balloons, swinging high in the air, would be the videttes of the besieged nation, and from specially constructed guns, fed from below with electric power, they could do possible damage to the balloon force of the enemy's service. They could be fitted with searchlights and sweep the heavens tirelessly by night. They could do effective guard work with guns that sprayed bullets or deadly gases.

Work Done by War Balloons

The work done already by the war balloon is notable. A captive balloon at Port Arthur helped the Japanese find the range for their guns, the observations being telephoned into the Japanese lines. Napoleon used a captive balloon at the battle of Fleurus in 1794, and they were used in the Italian campaign of 1859. The Confederates sent them out from Richmond in 1865, and they were a big factor in the Franco-Prussian War. During the siege of Paris sixty-five balloons were sent out, and sixty-five intrepid aeronauts went up—only five of whom had ever made ascensions before. These balloons carried 164 passengers, 12 1-2 tons of postal matter, representing 1,500,000 letters, and 381 carrier pigeons, which carried 100,000 messages and telegrams. The receipts from the letters and telegrams were $200,000, and, as the expense of sending up the balloons was $58,500, the besieged French figured that the $141,500 was easily saved. On this same basis other nations may figure. If the possibilities of helpfulness were so pronounced in 1871, what will they be in 1971?

When the great horror of aerial warfare strikes the hearts of the people of all the world, when they realize what it means to see these great birds of the sky grappling with one another high in the air, whether hurling one to destruction on the earth below, or driving it so far up that the occupants perish in the rarefied air, they will begin to see that as the means of the most terrible form of warfare it becomes immediately the biggest argument for peace.

Hitherto they who have made the wars have been protected, whether a senate, a king, an emperor or a czar. It was easy enough to say: "Let there be war," and remain safely entrenched within an impregnable city. They have always been guarded by army and navy—by men whose lives counted for little in the big scheme of the nation, men who were simply pawns on the chessboard of life. In the light of this new invention, war-making will become a more personal matter, for the old principle will remain the same, the capital city must be taken and the ruler must be captured or slain. Intrepid sailors of the air would seize with joy on the privilege of skimming over the land to drop explosives into the enemy's capital and so make the seat of government as a tale that is told, and the king a thing soon forgotten.

There may be a war or two among the nations having aerial navies before the awfulness of the method strikes in, and a king or two may be killed to make the lesson worth knowing. Then will come the cry for arbitration. Think of the amount of saving in life and property if such a thing as arbitration should come about. It would be cheap to build a few airships at the highest price in order to prove the point. The Civil War cost a million lives and ten billion dollars, to say nothing of the crippling of the resources of the South for nearly a quarter of a century. One airship, hovering over New England's abolitionist centre, or over the homes of southern fire-eaters would have effectually stopped belligerency and have cost the nation a trifle in comparison.

Government Monthly Crop And Live Stock Report

The Census and Statistics Monthly issued by the Dominion Government, gives the following information on the crops and live stock in Ontario and Quebec:

Ontario

In respect of quality all crops in Ontario show a high average percentage, excepting peas and turnips, which have been badly affected by plant lice. There is little cause for dissatisfaction with the yield of any of the crops except potatoes. Good crops of these are, however, reported from the northwestern counties. Tomatoes are grown upon a field scale in the county of Essex, and a large crop is reported, the canning factories not being able to take them fast enough. The month was remarkable for heat and drouth. Until welcome rain fell during the last week of September not a drop had fallen for six weeks, so many correspondents stated, and a similar condition prevailed generally throughout the province. As a consequence the pastures became very dry and live stock suffered, especially horses and cattle. They are likely to go into winter quarters in poor condition, whilst the shortage of roots will add to the difficulties. On the other hand the good supply of well grown corn should be of particular value.

September temperatures of 90 degrees in the shade were reported from a district in the southwestern counties, and deaths of colts from sunstroke occurred in Central Ontario. The dry weather has delayed the sowing and, where sown, the germination of winter wheat for next year.

Quebec

The quality of the grain crops, especially of oats and barley, is fair, but the yield is poor owing to the prolonged drouth, which has affected all parts of the province. Exceptions to this rule are rare. One of them is reported from Bellechasse, south of the St. Lawrence, where a correspondent reports, farmers have not suffering from drouth, the harvest being very good, including oats and potatoes, with no rust on the former or rot on the latter. Another correspondent in the neighbouring county of Montmagny writes that in spite of the bad season of 1907 those who practise mixed farming are in easy circumstances, buying and paying well for both necessaries and luxuries and depositing more than ever in the banks. He says the year 1908 will be better, grain being of better quality and all farm products dearer. Corn, buckwheat and mixed crops are amongst the best crops of the season. Potatoes are also of poor quality. Roots are better, but are under average. The continued drouth during September has dried up the pastures, and farmers will have difficulty in providing for fall and winter feed. Milch cows have fallen off in condition since the end of August.

CONSULT OUR OPTICIAN

The Eye is such a delicate organ that it should never be trifled with. This is why our optician has followed the teachings of only recognized authorities on the eye.

Many opticians take half a dozen or more correspondent courses costing from $7.50 to $25. With this limited knowledge it is little wonder that many are wearing glasses that do not suit them—others that do not require them.

If you have eye-trouble you should consult an optician who has a thorough knowledge of every branch of the optical business. Such a man is our Mr. Taylor.

NEWFOUNDLAND PAYS TRIBUTE

To The Grand Work Dodd's Kidney Pills Are Doing.

Fishermen Regard Them as a Boon to Mankind—Mr. Frank Banfield Tells How They Cured His Backache.

Garnish, Fortune Bay, Nfld., Oct. 26.—Special.—Among the fishermen here, who through exposure to wet and cold are subject to those pains and aches which come from diseased kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills are looked upon as a positive boon to mankind. They are never tired of telling how their backaches and their rheumatism vanish before the great kidney remedy.

Among many others, Mr. Frank Banfield, after years of suffering, has found relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills, and here is what he is telling his friends.

"I find Dodd's Kidney Pills the best medicine for backache I have ever used. I only used two boxes and they cured me of backache I had had for five years. It started through a strain. My father's back also bothered him, and he got some relief from one pill I gave him. They were too precious to give him more. All persons suffering from backache should use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Why do Dodd's Kidney Pills cure backache? Simply because backache is kidney ache, and Dodd's Kidney Pills positively cure all kidney aches and ills. This has been proved in thousands of cases in Canada. If you haven't used them yourself ask your neighbours.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. AN EXPLANATION about thirty-five yards behind Tom, and The Examiner has been asked to publish the following:

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—The notice which appeared in your paper a few days ago, of my sister's demise is so misleading, that I feel I should say a word in behalf of the honourable physicians fo behalf of the honourable physicians of our city. Instead of all refusing, as intimated in the notice, we had only asked Dr. Boucher and Coroner Gray for certificate. We inferred from the Coroner that it would be all right, until the hour of the funeral, when he refused to do anything, so we had no opportunity to see others, hence the postponement. I am pleased to say that we have huymane doctors in our midst, who, when asked, gave the necessary permit, according to the law of righteousness, as also the law of the land.

I think it but just to the relatives who did all they could for their loved one, for me to add the following: For a considerable time she was under the care of the best medical skill in Toronto, but became weaker. When brought to her mother's home she had to be carried, could not turn in bed, only as she was turned. She continued taking the doctor's medicines for two weeks here, but being no better, consented to try Christian Science treatment. With two weeks' treatment she gained a more normal condition, could turn in bed, and could sit up for an hour or more and write letters. All in attendance were pleased with the progress she was making. The last evening she was cheerful and bright, and rested nicely. Early in the morning she seemed to be in distress, and said she felt funny. My sister went for Mr. Todd and Dr. Boucher, our old family physician, but before help could be received from either source the heart had stopped acting. The only one to blame is the evil one (devil), the only author of death, who came as a thief in the night, but he could not and did not destroy that sweet peace and calm trust and confidence in God and her Christ, which she had gained, first through the teaching of Presbyterian doctrine, and lastly by Christian science. Jesus said, "The last enemy to be overcome, is death."

It is evident from the inhumanity shown in this case that there is much of sin to be overcome.

I thank you in advance, and hope I do not trespass too much on your valuable space.

Yours truly,

JAS. C. BORLAND.

A NEW ELEVATOR AT KENDRY

Has Been Begun—Residents Have New Facilities.

Mr. F. E. Wilson, the enterprising grain buyer of Springville, has commenced the erection of a new elevator at Kendry siding on the C. P. R. This will enable him to purchase grain on a much larger scale than in the past. There is now a railway station at Kendry, and with the elevator working the residents of that section will derive great benefit from the combined facilities.

PORTLAND, MAINE, CHILD

Ill, Weak and Emaciated, Restored to Health by Vinol.

Our little daughter, six years of age, after a severe attack of the measles, which developed into pneumonia, was left pitifully thin, weak and emaciated. She had no appetite, and her stomach was so weak it could not retain food. She lay in this condition for weeks, and nothing the doctor prescribed did a bit of good, and we were beginning to think she would never recover.

"At this time we commenced to give her Vinol, and the effect was marvelous. The doctor was amazed at her progress, and when we told him we were giving her Vinol, he replied, 'It is a fine remedy, keep it up.' We did so, and she recovered her health and strength months before the doctor thought she could." J. W. Flagg, Portland, Me.

Vinol cures conditions like this because in a natural manner it increases to appetite, tones up the digestive organs, makes rich, red blood, and strengthens every organ in the body.

Vinol is sold in Peterborough by McDermid & Jury, druggists.

PROF. WARNER IS ILL WITH TYPHOID FEVER

His Lecture to Astronomical Society Has Been Postponed.

Professor Warner, of Cleveland, O., maker of the large telescopes of the world, who was to have visited Peterborough on Nov. 17th, under the auspices of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, Peterborough Centre, is unfortunately confined to his home, recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, and has written, asking for a postponement of date in regard to his visit to the Peterborough Society.

The public are cordially invited to the Art Exhibit, which will be held by Miss Luella Thexton at the Conservatory of Music on Tuesday, Oct. 27th, from 3 to 6 and 7 to 9 p.m. 2d

TORONTO A. A. C. TEAM TO PLAY T. A. S. HERE ON SATURDAY NEXT

Great interest is being taken in the senior O.R.F.U. game to be played at Riverside Park Saturday afternoon when the Toronto A.A.C. will meet T.A.S. A great game should result as the locals will be in much better shape than when they met defeat at the hands of the Toronto club in the Queen City a week ago Saturday. The team will be stronger and they will go into the game with a team that should be much better equipped to meet such a strong team as the T. A.A.C. The latter are confident of winning and will have out their strongest team, including De Gruchy, their star half-back, who was unable to play in the last game, owing to injuries. A defeat for the locals will put them out of the running, while a victory means they will have a good chance of winning the championship. A big crowd should be on hand.

WALL STREET "TIPS."

Best Place to Plant Them If They Come Your Way.

A seasoned Wall street campaigner condenses a life of practical observation in the remark: "Stock market 'tips' are, as a rule, founded on nothing better than guesswork or pure invention. Although usually without value, openly peddled out to the public and not possible to trace to any reliable source, they come clothed in such a garb of mystery and apparent importance that there are always a lot of ill informed persons who will accept them and act on them as on gospel truth.

"Often these so called 'tips' are but the whispered suggestions of some manipulator who was confident that his mysterious, semiconfidential hint would travel and be made the basis of large buying of some stock he was especially anxious should be largely sold.

"It is told of one great speculative magnate of the past generation that when he was approached by the pastor of a rich and fashionable Fifth avenue church in search of means by which he could become suddenly rich he put his lips close to the clerical ear and whispered: 'Buy Pacific Mail. It's a sure thing. If you lose on it I'll make good your losses.'

"The pastor departed gleefully. Some two weeks later he called at the office of the manipulator and deplored the great financial losses he had incurred in following the confidential 'tip.' 'How much were they?' asked Mr. G., and on being told he drew his personal check for the amount.

"The minister took it and after expressing his thanks hesitated a moment and then said: 'But how about my parishioners? You placed no ban of secrecy on me, and their losses have been enormous.'

"The financier smiled grimly as he remarked, 'You see, doctor, those were the fellows I was after.'

"This story may be true or may not, but it points a moral. If you get a 'tip' on Wall street bury it in the back yard and forget it."

A Double Mouthful Bath.

On the occasion of a public reception at Na[illegible], Australia, the eldest children of the town, after being duly complimented by his excellency from County Tyrone on the hearty manner in which they had rendered the national anthem, were solemnly assured that if they put their shoulders to the wheel they would be sure to reach the top of the tree, upon which a comparison turned to me and said, "Sure, it was an axletree he meant, bedad!"—London Spectator.

Equally Cutting.

"Your voice," said the commanding officer, "is decidedly rasping."

"Yes, sir," said the subordinate, touching his hat, "I have been out coughing it with a file of soldiers all morning."

Archimedes.

As a mechanician Archimedes produced the correct theory of the lever and invented no less than forty interesting devices, including the endless screw, the pump, the organ and the "burning glass," with which latter novel weapon he is said to have set fire to the ships of an enemy's fleet from a considerable distance. The story is probably fabulous, but none the less interesting, as exhibiting the faith of the people in the man and as indicating the character of his pursuits.

As engineer Archimedes was looked upon as hardly less than a magician. He produced catapults which threw enormous stones and heavy pikes at long range into the ranks of the enemy or into his ships, and great derricks were built by him with which to lift the attacking craft out of water or to upset it, destroying all on board. His proposal that of the lever meant the production of the inconceivable inventions in machinery and engineering construction, and his own estimate of its importance was expressed by the familiar quotation, "Give me whereon to stand and I will lift the earth." Archimedes was the first and perhaps the most inventive and greatest of early engineers. His lever still moves the world, and his spirit is inherited by generations of the men who have made modern civilization possible.—Cassier's Magazine.

Women in England.

In the seventeenth century, when Englishwomen were still recognized as possessing an economic and political status side by side with Englishmen, there was written an interesting entry in the church warden's accounts of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, proving that one Elizabeth Bartlett was intrusted with the casting of the second bell and that all the women employed thus were paid at the same rate as men for the same work. Another instance is to be found in the records of the Fleet prison, of which the first female warden, appointed in 1217 on the death of her husband Robert, received the same salary "as the said Robart had been accustomed to during his life." There was no talk then of confining the woman's sphere to work that was paid badly.

Quieting Him Down.

A farmer sued a cattle dealer for damages in the local county court.

"When I bought the bull," said the complainant, "he told me it was gentle and perfectly harmless—a child could play with it, in fact. Half an hour after I got the animal home he disabled a couple of my farm hands and then turned on me."

"Perhaps the animal was excited by his strange surroundings," suggested his honor. "Is he quiet enough now?"

"Well, yes; but you see"—

"Ah," remarked the defendant, "then my description was correct, after all. I said if he did get excited at first he would quiet down."

"Yes," responded the plaintiff grimly, "but you didn't tell me I should have to shoot the beggar to quiet him down. That's what I had to do!"—London Scraps.

Malaprops.

The pious old lady who, returning from a visit to the zoo, announced that she "always did enjoy a visit to the theological gardens" and the servant who, describing her master's last illness, explained that the "doctors held a consolation and found that it was something eternal" have found a recent equal in the lady who observed that when she was in Italy she "saw so many people in the garbage of monks with tonsils on their heads."

Veterinaries.

Hippocrates, the "father of medicine," wrote a treatise on the veterinary art, but its true founder was Vegetius, who wrote "De Arte Veterinaria," 300 A. D. But the first attempt to elevate the practice into a science was as late as 1761, when France set the example of establishing the first veterinary college at Lyons.—Exchange.

Heavily Laden.

"This play in its intensity," said the go-out-between-the-acts young man, "fairly takes my breath away."

"I only wish it would!" gloomily remarked the lady in the next seat.—Baltimore American.

Helping Him On.

The somewhat elderly but still handsome and well preserved bachelor had long been an admirer of the young lady, but never had dared to tell her so. At last, however, he mustered courage to say:

"Miss Jessie, I wish I were twenty years younger."

"Why so?" she asked.

"Because then I should be bold enough perhaps to ask you to marry me."

With a charming smile she shook her head.

"I should have to tell you no, Mr. Baxter," she said. "If you were twenty years younger you would be—er—a great deal too young for me."

Missed the Combination.

He is one of those guessing old beaus who think daintily that they're favored with the gentler sex. The other evening he was at a reception with his wife, and they met the handsome Miss Blank, at whom he fired a whole battery of compliments. Then, turning to his wife, he said, "It's a good thing I didn't meet her before I married you, my dear."

"Indeed it is," she smiled sweetly—"for her. I congratulate Miss Blank."—Exchange.

Art of "Dressing."

The art of consummate dress is not the gift of all or even the majority of mankind. One who possesses this gift knows all the subtle effects on angles, from the style and tilt of his hat to the exact width of the point of his shoe.—

LIGHTNING AND SHIPS.

Vessels Are Struck More Frequently Than Is Supposed.

In spite of the popular impression to the contrary, ships remote from the land are seldom damaged by lightning, although some of the most awe inspiring displays of atmospheric electricity are frequently witnessed by those on board of them.

Standing rigging and even parts of the running gear are now made of steel wire, and this substitute for the old fashioned hemp serves the purpose of lightning conductor when the ship is not fitted with such an aid to safety. The electric current is conveyed down the wire rigging and reaches the sea through the vessel's metal hull. Damage occurs only if the current be interrupted on its way down. In a comparatively large proportion of instances the fore royal truck is struck by lightning, that of the main less frequently and the mizzen least of the three.

Very serious casualties under this head occurred to warships and merchant vessels in the days of wooden hulls and hempen rigging. In July, 1802, as thirteen sailing vessels of the East India company were trying to round the cape in the vicinity of Algoa bay, homeward bound, two of them, the Britannia and the Bombay Castle, were struck by lightning. The foremast of each was soon enveloped in flames, and the masts had to be cut away in order to save the ships and their combustible cargoes. A heavy gale was blowing, the night was dark, and the other ships of the fleet, which were have to at the time, were witnesses of this thrilling incident.

Many vessels are now fitted with lightning conductors of approved types but the wire rigging should fail to carry off the electric current. In May, 1890, shortly after a severe thunderstorm, accompanied by lightning and rain, in 2 degrees south, 87 degrees east, the P. and O. steamship Victoria had a sudden increase of deviation amounting to 6 degrees in both the standard and the wheelhouse compasses, and later it was discovered that the lightning conductor on the fore had fused. The ship must have been struck by lightning during the storm.—Knowledge Magazine.

Two Reasons.

"You mustn't play with Mr. Borum's hat, Bobby," said a young lady who was entertaining a caller to her small brother.

"Why mustn't I?" asked the youngster.

"Because you might break it," replied his sister, "and, besides, he will want it shortly."

Her Great Memory.

The gift of memory was being discussed when Alice wisely said:

"Mother's got a good memory. She can remember things a heap further back than any of us children can."—

Couldn't Fence This One.

An instance of the careless, good natured philosophy of the negro may be seen in the little doggerel verse laughingly sung by a black farmer when at the end of a bad crop year nothing was coming to him after his supply bills were paid. He could neither read nor write; he had no money or chance of getting any for another twelvemonth, yet apparently there was no fretting on his part. He took the balance sheet, which was an utter mystery to him, and, pretending to inspect it and following the rows of figures with eye and finger, he gleefully chanted:

"Aught's an aught,
Figger's a figger,
Ev'rything fur de white man
An' nuffin' fur de nigger!"

Then carelessly he stuffed the bit of paper into his pocket, "cut the pigeon's wing" and finally walked away to all appearances with a whimsical enjoyment of the fact that his own penniless condition corroborated the statement of the song.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Put to Flight.

The baby in arms was screaming lustily, and the man in the gray suit could not hide his irritability.

"What on earth, madam," he spluttered, "do you mean by bringing such a howling brat into a public vehicle?"

"It isn't a brat!" retorted the mother, with natural indignation. "And if I'm any judge it doesn't howl half as much as you did at its age, going by the looks of you!"

The man in gray wriggled uneasily under the general scrutiny.

"Baby, see the ugly man!" pursued the infuriated female, pointing at him. "See the monkey-ponkey, gorilla man what might take a first prize at a beauty show for the 'orriblest face? Baby, hush, or the ugly monkey man will"—But the sentence remained unfinished, for the man in the gray suit had bolted.—London Graphic.

Surf Birds.

That birds of the family termed surf birds in the Hawaiian Islands should leave that paradise of the Pacific to go and rear their young in the tundras of Alaska would seem to many an extraordinary proceeding, yet the turnstone and the black bellied plover and the Pacific golden plover make the long journey of about 4,000 miles thither annually.

Why He Loved Spain.

Gioacchino Rossini, who was a great jester, was once seen embracing a Spaniard with great effusion. Asked the reason, he replied, "Because without Spain we would be the last nation."

The Motive.

Lawyer—What took you to the scene of the murder? Witness—The cars, sir. Lawyer—No, no! What motive was it? Witness—The locomotive. Lawyer—You may go.—Pathfinder.

A Doctor's Disadvantage.

"In one way," said a collector, "it is easier to get money from a doctor than anybody else who is slow pay. It is more difficult for him to swear that he hasn't been able to make any collections himself since the first of the year. A doctor's reception room is open to all possible patients. A collector with a grain of ingenuity can find a way to worm out of the men on the waiting list some information as to the terms of payment. After an interview with three or four persons who have paid spot cash for treatment and who have told the collector they paid it takes a mighty nerve on the part of the doctor to insist that he hasn't a dollar to his name."

The Turks and Raki.

"Turks often get drunk. They cheat their religion; the dogs do so," said a conversing Constantinopolitan.

"Mohammed forbade wine to his followers, but raki is made of mastic gum. It was unknown in Mohammed's time, or of course he'd have forbidden it, too, for you can get frightfully drunk on it. I know; oh, I know! It's a white drink, with a sweetish taste, a good deal like gin.

"A Turkish dinner is mostly a vegetarian affair, if you can call raki a vegetable. It consists of such things as lauri, curdled milk spiced and scented and baklalava cakes cooked in honey, sprayed with rosewater and coated with saffron flavored whipped cream.

"With each course you drink raki. If, getting drunk, you get miserable the thing to do is to crush your glass in your hand so as to give yourself two or three cuts. Unhappy Turks, you must know, express their wretchedness by cutting their hands. Look at these scars."—Minneapolis Journal.

Producing Money.

Any married woman can perform this trick successfully. The directions are very simple. First make sure that your husband is sound asleep and that his trousers are carelessly hanging over the foot of the bed. Tiptoe into the room and quietly conduct the trousers and then softly sneak into the dining room. Hold the trousers about two feet above the table and with the thumb and forefinger take hold of the bottom of each pocket, holding the pocket with the mouth pointing toward the table.

You will be surprised to see the vast amount of coin that will immediately appear on the table out of nothing. You know it is out of nothing, for just before retiring your husband told you he hadn't a cent in his clothes. After the pockets are entirely emptied put back the pool checks, keys and other debris that fell out with the money and replace the trousers over the foot of the bed. If he catches you, just say you were fixing up a vest, and then you will have him guessing either that you refer to a tear in his garment or a deal with the landlord.

DR. GRENFELL'S HEROISM.

Newfoundlanders are telling a stirring story of the heroic adventures of Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, who left Battle Harbor for a summer trip on the hospital ship Strathcona for the northern limits of the Labrador mission, having undertaken to prepare a chart of the Labrador coast between Capes Harrison and Chudleigh. He was assisted in the survey by Governor McGregor, of Newfoundland, on board H. M. S. Fiona, which had proceeded to the Hamilton Inlet to await his arrival. In the teeth of a terrific gale Dr. Grenfell fought his way into Indian Harbor in the Strathcona. He found that his steam launch Daryl, stationed there, had dragged her anchor and been washed ashore, and it was only with difficulty that he saved her. The gale, which caused the loss of forty-five fishing vessels on the coast, kept Dr. Grenfell bottled up in harbor until the following day, when he put to sea in an effort to render assistance to the wrecked fleet. He first encountered two schooners driven ashore at Holton Harbor, but not rendered unseaworthy. They were hauled into deep water by the Strathcona and handed over to their respective crews. At Tinker Harbor no fewer than twelve vessels were found hopelessly stranded above high-water mark, the crews having escaped ashore. Promising to call again for the crews on his way south, the doctor again put to sea, and when at King's Bay, some thirty miles further north, he found several more wrecks, and was able to haul four more vessels into deep water. On the way south again the Strathcona picked up sixty marooned sailors and carried them to Indian Harbor, where a mail steamer eventually took them off. Coming out of Hamilton Inlet the Strathcona lost three blades from her propeller on a submerged reef. Dr. Grenfell, though hundreds of miles from a dock, beached the steamer stern first at low tide, and undertook to make a new propeller from such materials as were to be had. Cutting bioler plates to the shape of flukes, they were finally driven on and riveted and then filled with cement to make them solid. This was accomplished working in four feet of ice-cold water, with icebergs around. A junction was finally made with Governor McGregor at Hamilton River, and Dr. Grenfell continued his survey work along the coast.

DOG INTELLIGENCE.

How the Eskimos Train Puppies For Work on the Trail.

The Eskimo begins to train his dog for sledge work before it is a month old. One of the most interesting features of Eskimo villages is the puppies tied to the pole of a tent. They pull on the rope with all their puppy strength in the effort to break away and join in the frolics of their elders.

Not until a dog bred for mail service is a year old is he put in training for the trail. It begins by running ten miles with the team. Then it is dropped out. Next day it runs the same distance. Gradually the distance is increased until it reaches its fifteenth month of life, when it becomes part of the regular service. The life of a mail dog is from three to four years.

No greater punishment can be inflicted than to lay a dog off from service. When unruly they are often threatened with a lay off, and with almost human intelligence they seem to understand the disgrace it implies in the eyes of their fellow workers on the trail. All fight to be leaders. A constant spur to an unambitious dog is "the outsider," who will quickly take away the leadership not only in the mail service, but in teams maintained chiefly for the pleasure of the sport. The intelligence of the Malamute is remarkable, its scent wonderful, its instinct as a rule unerring.

Some dogs are better trail followers than others, as some are better leaders. In a blizzard the best of them lose the trail, but invariably find it. When on the trail they never eat but once a day; then at the end of the journey. After feeding, like weary children, they fall asleep and are never quarrelsome. It requires on an average twenty pounds of food a day for a team of eleven dogs on a hard route. —Philadelphia Record.

STORY OF A DEAD FLY.

How Its Presence Decided the Date of a Manuscript.

A queer story is told about a dead fly settling an important literary question in connection with Robert Louis Stevenson. It seems that some literary men were looking over a book of notes left by Mr. Stevenson, and it was important that they should find out the date when the notes were written—whether he wrote them before or after he went to Samoa to live.

As there was no date attached to the notes, the examiners were much perplexed as to how they might settle the matter, when one of them happened to discover a dead fly between two of the leaves. Now, one of the men was an entomologist—that is to say, he knew all about insects—and he at once recognised the fly as belonging to the Polynesian islands. It was evident, therefore, that Mr. Stevenson wrote the notes at Samoa. In what an unexpected way a knowledge of science sometimes helps us.—Chicago News.

White and Black.

Although white is, strictly speaking, an absence of color, so far as the prismatic hues are concerned, it is the combination of them all and is therefore called a color by the scientists. One of the definitions given by the dictionaries is "the color of pure snow," and another is "one of the natural colors of bodies." It is as consistent to call white a color as it is to call black one. White is a combination of them all, and black is a destitution of them all, and yet it is defined as the "darkest of the colors."

Industrious Princesses.

Sometimes little American girls wish they were princesses and had beautiful toys and nothing to do all day but play with them. But if you were a little girl in the royal family of Sweden you would find things very different, for the royal father and mother do not believe in letting their children grow up in idleness. Instead, they teach them to be useful in many ways. The little Swedish princesses wash all their dollies' clothes.

Knew the President.

At the closing exercises of a Syracuse school a little girl was asked: "Who is the head of our government?" "Mr. Roosevelt," she replied promptly. "That is right," said the teacher, "but what is his official title?" "Teddy!" responded the little miss promptly.—Home Magazine.

A Tale of Football.

During a conference in reference to a change in football rules so as to make the game somewhat less hazardous to life and limb Harold Bain in advocating radical reforms cited the following dialogue between two mothers as in point.

Said the first, "I hear your son has been winning high honors at college."

"Yes," answered the second, "he has indeed. He has been a quarterback, a halfback, a fullback, and now"— Here she paused.

"Well," asked the first, "what is he now?"

"Now," concluded the other, "he is a hunchback."—Woman's Home Companion.

IT BOTHERS HAROLD.

His London Reception Was Cool and He Wants Annexation.

The New York Herald's London correspondent said recently in a cable despatch:

"Considering the facts that I am an English subject it is rather hard to be treated as a rank outsider." Harold D. Richardson said this in a burst of temper at the Carlton Hotel recently.

While Mr. Richardson is for Toronto by birth and inclination, he is for the United States by tendency, and London has not changed his feelings, although he lives there.

"I am treated in London just as though I were a voter in the United States and not a subject of His Gracious Majesty, King Edward. Now, what is the use of being an English subject if you receive no consideration? I am called an American and I think I would be better off to be one.

"If we Canadians all joined you Americans there would be something doing in the North American continent and the English Government would sit up and take notice.

"There will be," said Mr. Richardson, "one great country in the world, and that will be the United States of North America. The United States already is dominant in the world's politics, but the United States of North America will be the boss of it all.

"Canada is an empire that England has overlooked. England lost Australia by peanut politics and it has almost lost Canada, which is much better in my estimation. In that tremendous country in the northeast of Canada where the snow rarely flies and hard times are unknown, the British Empire has missed a large trick, and I am free to say that it should belong to the United States and not to England.

"England does not appreciate what a gem it has there, but I think the United States does, and when this magnificent country of Canada, which can house all the people of the world, and the United States get together and can form a nation of their own, it will make Germany and Russia and France look very sick.

"The territorial expansion which Canada offers for the overflow population of England or Germany or Russia is much greater than the United States can offer, and that is saying a whole lot, because the United States has been the dumping ground for the overflow and refuse of many nations for the last hundred years.

"With this combination of territory and people, no matter what politics is in the United States, this tremendous tract of Canada and the tremendous virility of the United States, there would be no stopping of it by the puny monarchs of Europe.

"England, our mother country, is almost having nightmares because she let Australia get loose and she may probably regret Canada quite as much. I think she will regret it more. However, all Canadians, as far as I know, and all Americans agree with me that the unification of the continent of North America would be an empire making idea that none could object to, not for the promulgation of a Napoleon, but for the amalgamation of the best interests of the people.

"We from across the water are as strangers to our mother country; whether we come from the land south of Hudson Bay or north from the two continents of North and South America, whose inhabitants are unwelcome from North America to England and from South America to Spain."

Slump In Codfish Prices.

Both their deep-sea and Bank fisheries have been very successful, and the result is that the French fishermen are underselling Newfoundland and Eastern Canada this year in Spain and Portugal. Dry codfish is an article of prime necessity in hot countries, where meat will not keep. In the Mediterranean region there had been an extensive trade in dried fish or "bacalao" centuries before the discovery of America. Shetland, Orkney, Iceland, and Norway are now competitors with Newfoundland in this great fish trade. Up to the present time Newfoundland has held its own in the Brazilian market, and they send over a million quintals annually; but even there, where they had a practical monopoly, there is a terrible slump, and prices no longer pay the Newfoundland merchant.

The most wonderful thing about this great harvest of the sea (the codfishery) is its wonderful stability and uniformity. For four centuries it has never failed, and its fluctuations are comparatively insignificant. Newfoundland's other great business, the hair seal fishery, has, on the other hand, experienced the most remarkable vicissitudes—from 700,000 pelts in one season, coming down to almost absolute failure.

Old Quebec Families.

Three hundred families in the province of Quebec claim to possess, in an unbroken line, the original grants of farm land from the crown of France between 200 and 300 years ago. Headed by Cure Gosselin, of Charlesbourg, a committee was formed some months ago, under the auspices of the tercentenary executive, to examine their claims and the title deeds to their lands. With the vote of money allowed by the executive, a medal was struck for each of the families in Quebec. The first 225 were presented recently at a grand seance at Laval, at which both His Grace Archbishop Begin and the other bishops were present, as well as Sir Alphonse Pelletier, the Lieutenant-Governor. Both the Begin and Pelletier families are included in the list. The jewel, which was designed by the Abbe Lofiur of Paris, is a gold cross with a green enamel shield at the intersection of the arms, bearing the motto "Ense Cruco Aratro." It is suspended from a pink ribbon with two greenish gold stripes. The name of each recipient is engraved on the back of the [illegible]

Public Penance.

In [illegible] times persons guilty of grievous and notorious offenses were required to make open confession and, further, to make satisfaction for the scandal given by their bad example by doing penance publicly in a white sheet in their parish church. The sheet was used to show clearly to every one which was the offender. The last time that public penance was done in an English church was on Sunday evening, July 20, 1862, when a man named Haftree, in the church of All Saints, East Clevedon, made an open confession of immorality and promised to perform the penance thus imposed on him by the vicar. No white sheet was used on this occasion. The last case in which one was used appears to have been one in St. Bridget's church, Chester, in 1851, but on that occasion the penance was not public, the church door being locked. In the previous year, however, public penance in a white sheet was done in a country church in Essex, and a similar thing occurred in Ditton church, near Cambridge, in 1849.—Stray Stories.

An Unexpected Check.

A man who won a reputation for cool daring and almost eccentric fearlessness along a thousand miles of the southwestern border was A. L. Parrott, at one time a sergeant in McNelly's company of Texan rangers. One night in 1875, about six months after Parrott left the state service, he was sitting in a house in a little town in southwest Texas playing chess with a friend. It was a warm night, and the chessboard was on a table close to an open window. Parrott had the white men. His queen was in a direct line with the black king, but a black knight was between the two pieces. It was Parrott's move. Suddenly there was a sharp report outside, and a bullet whistled in through the window, hit the black knight and buried itself in the wall. Parrott had been bending over the board, and the bullet was evidently intended for his head. But for a few seconds he did not stir. He saw the black knight suddenly vanish. Then in his peculiar drawling, hesitating way he said, "Check!"

The Stone of Infamy.

In many Italian cities there formerly existed what was called "pietra d'infamie," or a stone of infamy for the punishment of bankrupts. In Venice one stands near the Church of St. Mark, and in Verona and Florence they are near the old markets. On a day in carnival week the old time custom was to have all traders who had become bankrupt in the preceding twelve months led to the stone, and one by one each stood on its center to hear the reading of a report of his business failure and to endure the reproaches heaped on him by his creditors. At the end of a certain time each bankrupt was partly undressed, and three officers took hold of his shoulders and three others of his knees and, raising him as high as they could, bumped him on the stone deliberately twelve times, "in honor of the twelve apostles," the creditors crowing like cocks while the bumping proceeded.

Wigs and Trousers.

The wig went out and gave place to the natural hair, powered and pigtailed, as a result of the movement back to nature which accompanied and preceded the French revolution. But why did the wig come in? Some say that Louis XIII. started the fashion when he began to grow bald, the court imitating him out of a desire to please the monarch. Be that as it may, the wig "caught on" as few articles of costume have ever done, and those who have begun to despair of the masculine leg ever being emancipated from the trouser may find comfort in the fact that wigs prevailed for considerably more than a century in England, whereas trousers scarcely existed a hundred years ago, to say nothing of being the universal wear.—London News.

Mother Earth.

When Junius Brutus and the sons of Tarquin asked the famous Delphic oracle who was to succeed Superbus on the throne of Rome they received for an answer, "He who shall first kiss his mother." As the two princes were hastening home to fulfill what they thought was meant Brutus fell to the earth and cried out, "Thus do I kiss thee, O Earth, the mother of us all!" This is perhaps the earliest recorded instance of the use of the term "Mother Earth."—Exchange.

Diplomacy.

"I'm surprised at you."

"What's the matter now?"

Corroborated.

"Though many people think so who hear me play," said the long haired amateur, with studied carelessness, "I have no intention of becoming a professional musician. I play merely to kill time."

"I knew that as soon as I heard you," enigmatically replied one of his listeners.—Kansas City Independent.

Said What She Meant.

"Oh, I am so awfully ashamed of myself!" said Edith Jones to her dearest girl chum. "When Henry proposed to me last night I intended to say, 'So sudden!' but I quite lost my head and exclaimed, 'At last!'"

HAM'S REFORM MOVEMENT.

C.P.R. Official Decided to Stick to Liquor After All.

In his capacity of vicarious host George Ham, envoy extraordinary of the Canadian Pacific Railway, must needs extend many invitations to partake of liquid refreshments. It need hardly be said that he exercises great discretion on his own behalf on such occasions, for otherwise he would scarcely have won fame for eminent fitness for diplomatic missions.

Yet, there came a time when even he, the pink of discretion, felt the need of reform, and this is the way of it:

In St. John, N.B., there was one particular barber who always got Ham's patronage when he was in that city. One day Ham rushed into his favorite's shop and requested a quick shave.

He noticed that the barber was haggard and that there was a strange look in his eyes, but thought nothing of it until the barber, after stropping his razor, began making vicious slashes in the air with it a few inches above his customer's nose.

"Here! What are you trying to do?" demanded Ham, not daring to move for fear of losing a few fingers or features.

"I'm cutting off the heads off those snakes. Don't you see them?"

"Great Scott, yes!" replied Ham. "Hold perfectly still for a minute, and I'll help you. Watch 'em while I go and get an axe."

The barber was taken away in an ambulance with a fully developed case of delirium tremens, while Ham went for a walk to steady his nerves. Meeting three acquaintances, he greeted them with his accustomed hearty cordiality, winding up with an invitation to have something. On the way to the nearest place Ham suddenly stopped and said:

"Gentlemen, I have just seen a horrible example of what this fool habit of treating leads to. If I buy you some whisky it will only fill your stomach with pains, your mouths with folly, and your consciences with remorse.

"I won't do it. I prefer to retain your esteem. I am going to treat you to something sensible. Come and have a necktie with me."

His three friends entered into the spirit of this chastened form of treat with great enthusiasm. Going into a haberdasher's shop, each of the three selected ties at $3.50 each, the most expensive one in the establishment.

Now, it just happened through perverse Fate that at that particular moment Ham had only $4.85 in his pockets. To make matters worse, the shopkeeper was not only a stranger, but he was cold-blooded and suspicious.

Ham was equal to the emergency. Putting his hand into his pocket as if about to pay for the ties, he suddenly concentrated his gaze upon one of them, and requested leave to see it for a moment. With a great show of indignation he pointed out that the material was not silk, but a cheap imitation thereof.

By judiciously accusing the shopkeeper of attempted swindling he contrived to provoke an angry retort which gave him the desired excuse for stalking out in high dudgeon without making a purchase. Once on the sidewalk, Ham turned to his friends and exclaimed:

"Gentlemen, this reform movement is indefinitely postponed."

NEW CANADIAN TOWN.

Wainwright, Alta., Promises to Be One of Big Towns of the Prairies.

Situated in one of the most fertile farming districts of Western Canada, in what is now known as the famous Battle River Valley, just a short distance east of the Battle River, and upon the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, is the town of Wainwright, in the Province of Alberta. This town is the first divisional point east of Edmonton, and although only a few weeks old, bids fair to be one of the best towns in the west. It has already five general stores, two hardware stores, three lumber yards, all of which are of undoubted standing, and several other business houses of merit to a town of many thousand people. The town site has been carefully selected, and is beautifully situated. The surrounding country is well settled with settlers, chiefly Canadian and American. Both the Dominion Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway have lent their efforts towards building up the town, the former by establishing what will be in a very short time Canada's greatest national park, just to the southwest of the town. It will be known throughout the world as Canada's great buffalo reserve. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway has commenced the erection of a twelve-stall engine-house, and has a large force of men already at work grading for yards and grading Main street. A choice site has also been reserved in the best part of the town, and close to the depot, for the erection of a Grand Trunk Pacific Hotel, which will be a credit to the railway. Building operations are very active, there being several good buildings in course of erection and others projected.

To Canonize Jogues.

Cardinal Cretoni, the prefect of the Congregation of Rites at the Vatican, has instructed his dependents to hurry work regarding the process of canonization of Father Isaac Jogues, the Jesuit missionary who, nearly two centuries ago, suffered martyrdom at the hands of the Mohawks in Canada.

Already very voluminous documents have been sent from the United States and Canada regarding the life and miracles of the missionary. One of the most important of Father Jogues' writings is a description of the awful march he had to take among the Indians before being put to death after the most horrible sufferings and tortures.

The Pope has asked for the narrative, wishing to read it. Afterward receiving Cardinal Cretoni in one of his weekly audience, he spoke to him about it, saying: "How the faith and devotion of such a man dwarfs all our little troubles and puts us all to shame."

"Jessie is engaged to be married."

"The mischief she is! I intended to propose to that girl myself when I got time."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Too Much of a Tease.

Blough and Neighbors were chatting on the porch. Mrs. Blough was in the parlor near the window. Blough knew she was listening and wanted to tease her.

"Had a little experience today," he said to Neighbors confidentially. "Prettiest little girl you ever saw. She was sauntering along the street some feet behind a strolling couple. I was walking faster, and as I caught up with her I couldn't help looking at her, she was so pretty. She caught my look and smiled. I had no intention of flirting, of course, but that smile was irresistible. Then our hands touched accidentally, and we let them linger a minute. She began walking faster to keep up with me, and we passed the couple ahead together. When we got some distance ahead of them I mustered up nerve enough to speak. 'Good evening,' I said, and she replied the same very roguishly."

There was a swish of skirts in the parlor, and Blough turned in time to see his wife vanishing toward the hall.

"Thunder!" he exclaimed. "Of course the little girl was only about six years old, but my wife didn't wait to hear that. She's gone upstairs to cry now, and even if she accepts my explanation it means flowers and a party dress. What fools we husbands be!"—St. Louis Republic.

Sterne's Destitution.

Laurence Sterne, the writer, was the victim of the intensest poverty. A little time before his death, being in a state of destitution, he went one evening to borrow £5 from his friend Garrick. Upon arriving he heard music and knew that a party was going on. He heard the merry laughter and, gently replacing the uplifted knocker, retraced his steps.

We never feel our miseries so keenly as when contrasted with the joys of others, and it is only then that we realise Wordsworth's picture:

And homeless near a thousand homes I stood
And near a thousand tables pined for food.

Another story of this writer does not evoke so much sympathy. It was known that Sterne used his wife very ill, and in talking with Garrick one day in fine sentimental style of conjugal love and fidelity he said, "The husband who behaves unkindly to his wife deserves to have his house burn down over his head."

"If you think so," said Garrick quietly, "I hope yours is well insured."

Political "Pome."

The fight is drawing to its close. The noise will soon be gone. There but remains the last appeal that's due from More Anon, a few brief words from You Know Who as friend speaks unto friend, Justitia throws a final fit, and then we have the end. A "Note of Warning" there may be from Old Subscriber's pen, and Constant Reader may emerge one moment from his den. Vox Populi may raise a wail that pierces heaven's vault, insisting that the time has come when we should call a halt, and One Who Knows may yet, perchance, his stormy voice uplift and ask of all the universe, "Ah, whither do we drift?" But all the fighting has been done. There is no longer strife. So let us cut out politics and lead the higher life.—Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

Most Important Wars.

Perhaps the most important wars, from the standpoint of civilization and progress, were, first, the Greek-Persian war of 490 B. C., in which the oriental wave was prevented from deluging Europe; second, the struggle between the Franks and Moors, which ended at the battle of Tours with the defeat of the Moors, thus saving Europe from Mohammedanism and its stagnation; third, the Napoleonic wars, which shook up Europe, destroying the remnants of feudalism and paving the way for modern democracy, and the American war of 1861-65, which preserved the integrity of the great republic and so made it possible for the United States to work out its splendid destiny among the nations of the earth.—New York American.

Motion Denied.

A man arrested for murder was assigned a counsel whose crude appearance caused the unfortunate prisoner to ask the judge:

"Is this my lawyer?"

"Yes," replied the judge.

"Is he going to defend me?"

"Yes."

"If he should die, could I have another?"

"Yes."

"Can I see him alone in the back room for a few minutes?"—Pick-Me-Up.

A Dull Letter.

"The only news I have to tell you," wrote the Billville citizen, "is that the river has rix an' drowned all yer cattle, an' yer uncle has broke jail; likewise the widder woman you wus goin' ter marry has runned off with a book agent. Outside of these beer things we air all a-doin' well."—Atlanta Constitution.

More Than One.

"I remember your wife as such a dainty and pretty thing, Hunly, and yet they tell me she has turned out a fine cook."

"Turned out a fine cook? She has turned out half a dozen of them within the last three months."

Let us be of good cheer, remembering that the misfortunes hardest to bear are those that never come.—Lowell.

Golden For Him.

Bunker—I see by the papers that Ardupp has just celebrated his golden wedding! Why, he was only married yesterday. Hunks—Yes; but he married an heiress.

Be sure that the wisest persons are the least severe.—Montague.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING PAGE

By Their Lameness, Cuts And Bruises You Know Rugbyists

To be in season just now the young men must have some mementos of the grand old game of Rugby. The young blood of the city, the lovers of the game of the grid-iron are just beginning to get into shape after the first two or three games. They can now take a hard tackle, or have some 160 pounder jump on their ears, or accept a friendly punch in the eye without taking the count. In other words they have been drubbed into condition and the soft spots are disappearing.

However, every Sunday now as the youthful sports make their appearance after Saturday's games, some are limping from a wrenched hip, knee or ankle, eyes are seen with a discolouration, more or less artistically done. Scratches on chin and cheek, the disappearance of the epidermis covering the nose, these and other signs of the fray will be quite common from now until the snow flies. Hence if you are not acquainted with the game you can safely spot a member of a Rugby team by the scars and injuries of which he gives evidence.

A HOWL FROM THE FREE PRESS CONCERNING SATURDAY'S OFFICIALS

The Lindsay Free Press contains a most admirably inaccurate and ridiculous account of the Rugby match played here Saturday between Lindsay and the Y.M.C.A.. That journal seems to have the happy knack of getting everything wrong and the write up of Saturday's game is no exception.

For instance did you ever hear anything like this:

A peculiar feature of the game was that all ten of the officials were Peterborough men. This the work of Mr. McPherson, the referee, in the latter's line of fairness.

Mac played on Toronto University's Dominion championship team, but evidently hasn't travelled enough since leaving school to live down the remembrance.

Come up here soon and eat some real sports, Mac. We may kill you, or we may banquet you. In any case, we'll give you your choice of brandos in coffins or dyspepsia pills, according as we decide your fate. We'll give you a choice, which was more than you gave us.

The work of the officials could not have been improved upon. The Lindsay Post says that Dr. McPherson gave every satisfaction, and the howl from the Free Press is utterly without reason. "Mac" has forgotten more about Rugby than Lindsay will ever know. If Lindsay had lost the Free Press would have undoubtedly informed its readers that the referee and umpire presented the game to the "Y," that the gentleman stole acres of ground for the locals, that the time keepers allowed the game to go on until the "Y" got a lead, that the goal umpires were asleep when Lindsay scored a goal and that the touch line judges invariably cheated them. The sporting editor of the Free Press must have discovered a new line of "hogs."

LINDSAY COMMENTS ON SATURDAY'S GAME WITH THE Y. M. C. A. TEAM

The Warder says of the game: The Y.M.C.A. Rugby team of Peterborough were defeated in their own cabbage patch by the Lindsay team in the junior O.R.F.U. district series on Saturday. The score was 9 to 6 at the finish of a hard-fought contest of the spectacular variety.

Peterborough had heard that the locals were playing good Rugby and the best team available was gathered to down the Lindsay fourteen. The teams were evenly matched, and the ensuing struggle was close. The superior kicking of the Lindsay back division won the game.

A special train, which left Lindsay at 2 o'clock conveyed the team and their followers to Peterborough. There were about sixty supporters and the return trip was a joyous one.

Cotton's work in booting the pigskin was easily the feature of the game. It was "Duckey" who drove the ball between the goal posts twice with drop kicks from the field, one kick being made from the 35-yard line. He also kicked the ball over for a rouge.

A husky lad with the Celtic appellation of Kelly was the mainstay of the Peterborough team. He played centre half and had a "hefty hoof" when it came to kicking the ball. However, Kelly hadn't the drop kick which Cotton possesses, and his belligerent tactics were the cause of his banishment to the lines on several occasions, he being the only man put off during the game.

Peterborough's try was a fluke one at that, but flukes count just as well as hard-earned ones.

The Post says of Saturday's game: In an exciting game of Rugby football Lindsay defeated the strong Y.M.C.A. team of Peterborough on their own grounds on Saturday afternoon by the score of 9 to 6. The game was one of the most exciting ever seen on the Peterborough field, and the large crowd went fairly wild during the game. The Y.M.C.A. has a very strong team and kept the Lindsay boys hustling all the way. In fact Peterborough was ahead until within a short time of the close.

When the Lindsay boys went on the field they seemed rather stage-frightened, and all through the first half they did not play up to their regular form.

In the first quarter Peterborough got going and in very short time they landed a touchdown. This, however, made the locals play all the harder and Peterborough could not score again. After half-time, the Lindsay boys came on fresh and strong, and it was not long before it was seen that the second half would be a hummer. Gradually Lindsay worked their way up towards Peterborough's line and "Duckey" Cotton landed a nice drop kick across the line. This counted 4, and the score was now only 5-4 in favour of Peterborough.

The Lindsay boys now took heart, and in very short order they scored a rouge which tied the score.

Peterborough spectators now began to look serious, and when Conway made a dash for the line with the ball, their eyes opened with wonder and surprise. When near the line, however, he slipped, and was pounced upon by a Peterborough man. It was not long until another drop kick landed across the line, and Lindsay was ahead at last. Peterborough was now playing hard, and for many minutes they threatened to make a touchdown. A rouge was all they got, and the score stood 9-6 in favour of Lindsay until the end.

A small shower was falling throughout the game, which made the ground wet and slippery, besides making the ball heavy and soggy. Both teams played up well, and the return game will be awaited with interest. Lindsay team took down a good crowd, who thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Rugby in Lindsay is now under way, and it is up to the people to patronize their team.

This is a sample of the Free Press style: Lindsay lugged the large and gleaming harpoon to Peterborough on Saturday and eased it into the meaty portion of the Y.M.C.A. of that burg to a refrain entitled "Nine to Six."

What the warriors from the banks of the Scugog did to the lads from the town near the breakfast food factory is a fine tale for local consumption but a large weep for Otonabeeville.

FRED SIMPSON IS SATISFIED; WILL BEAT LONGBOAT NEXT TIME IS HIS CONFIDENT PREDICTION

Fred Simpson arrived home from Montreal on the 4.48 train yesterday afternoon, thoroughly satisfied with his showing in the Independent Harriers' 15 mile race on Saturday, and with the treatment he received at the hands of the hospitable Montrealers. He was given the best of treatment, by Noseworthy, Lukeman and other members of the Canadian Olympic Team, at whose homes he was entertained on Sunday.

Speaking of the race to the Examiner, Fred stated up to the tenth mile he felt confident of victory. He followed in second place behind Longboat until past the ten mile post, and was running easily and well until about the thirteenth mile, when his legs gave out. He had not had much training, eleven miles being the longest distance he had covered in practice, and he was not in shape for the finish. When he was a mile from finish, he asked some one how far he had to go, and was informed that he was 4 1-2 miles from the finish. This deceived him and instead of spurting for the last mile as he had intended, he saved himself and before he knew it he was at the finish. "The next time I go up against Longboat, I'll beat him," remarked Fred, who went on to hope that the Irish Indian would run in the Hamilton Herald race. The following comments from the Montreal Star will be read with interest:

At Three Miles

Simpson, the Indian from Petgboro, was the next to arrive. He was about twelve yards behind Longboat, and seemed quite fresh; he was running very stylishly, but seemed troubled with the dust from the cyclist. Simpson was fifth at Outremont. He had successfully in passing Holmer, Knox and Wood on the next mile, and was still progressive. He looked very much like decreasing Longboat's lead.

The spunky Indian was going in splendid style when he passed the five mile turn, though he looked a little anxious when the crowd yelled at him in encouragement, and told him to look out for Simpson, the Peterboro Indian, who was also running in good trim, and was a good second to Longboat at this point.

Previous to the arrival of the leaders at Lumpkins, a good crowd had assembled to witness the progress of the race, but with the advent of the runners the crowd increased with remarkable rapidity, and was augmented with hundreds of carriages and automobiles, and everything was in a suppressed state of excitement until Longboat hailed in sight, and then a mighty cheer rent the air which reverberated through the little village of Cote des Neiges for a period of five minutes.

"Tom" was in a serious mood, however, and never turned his head, though a pleasant smile lighted up his countenance as soon as he turned the corner and realized that the applause of the multitude was an acknowledgement for himself.

Simpson also received a round of applause, and he spurted at the turn, but Longboat was going at a fast clip and the Peterboro runner could not get any nearer to him.

Percy Sellen was the third man to appear about twenty yards behind, and then came "Abbie" Wood, and Hans Holmer, both of them in fourth place, and running a great race. These two runners were well received and when they made a spurt from the corner the crowd went crazy with delight. Longboat, Simpson, Sellen, Wood and Holmer were the five from which the winners were picked at this point and subsequent events proved that the guessing was of the right kind. These men, though all running fast, appeared to be in good condition and gave the public a chance to witness the combined work of five of the greatest long distance runners in Canada, or for that matter, in the world.

The leader, having passed the eighth mile post, the crowd turned their attention to the next man, who came just about thirty-five yards behind Tom, and who proved to be Fred Simpson, the noted Indian runner of Peterboro. He, too, seemed in excellent condition and was going along at his usual steady pace. On his way down Cote St. Luke road he did not seem to be either gaining or losing any distance between himself and the premier runner.

Simpson was right there for ten miles, but he was a little short in condition. He ran the best 10 miles he ever tore off and was really a sturdy contender. He hung on till he was all in and came home on his nerve. It was when Simpson weakened that Holmer and Wood came on into second and third places.

HACKENSCHMIDT THINKS HE IS BEING SIDE-TRACKED FOR BEELE

The Montreal Gazette of the 26th says, that Fred Beele is likely to be Westengarde's next opponent at Sohmer Park in Montreal, and the great westerner will make Mohl's conqueror go some to win. Young Hackenschmidt claims he was to get the next chance at Westengarde and thinks he is being sidetracked. The management at Sohmer Park say that if BaHek beats Rogers he will get an opportunity to hand the new comer some of his catch-as-catch can medicine, so it is up to him to make good with the big Yankee. The bout promises to be a hummer and a large crowd will undoubtedly see the fastest bout of the season. The Crescent Athletic Club is anxious to make the evening a success and have a couple of real live preliminaries in view.

PASSED RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE

To Mrs. Chatten by Toronto Lodge of L. T. B.

Mrs. E S Chatten, of this city, has received a copy of a resolution of condolence passed by Lady Erin Lodge, No. 52, L.T.B., in regard to the death of her daughter which took place recently:—

66 Riverdale avenue,
October, 1st, 1908.

Mrs. E S Chatten:

Dear Sister,—We, the officers and members of Lady Erin Lodge, No. 62, L.T.B., desire to extend to you our sincere sympathy in the death of your loving daughter, which God has been pleased to call away to join the Angelic Host in the Kingdom of Heaven. Thank God for the victory, the battle of life is done on earth, but in your heart there is an aching for the loving voice you will not hear again. At such times words fail to express our true feeling but we assure you that every member of our Lodge feels for you in your sorrow. May God give you grace sufficient to overcome your sorrow and give you strength to say, Thy Will be Done.

Signed on behalf of the Lodge,
MRS. J. BIRKS, W. M.
MRS. J. CROWE, R. S.

BAPTIST CONVENTION AT THE CAPITAL

Special Train Passes Through City To-morrow.

A special train will pass through the city from Toronto to-morrow at 12.30, bearing about 300 delegates from Toronto and other points en route to the annual Baptist convention at Ottawa. Those going from our local churches are Rev. W C Riddiford and Deacon Wm. Kemp of Park street; Rev. Mr. Webb, Dr. Scott, Mr. P. Downham and others from Murray street. One of the principal things to be discussed is unionism.

THE HIBERNIANS TO GIVE CONCERT

Lecture, Play and Music on Friday Evening.

On Friday evening of this week the Ancient Order of Hibernians will give a concert in St. Peter's School Hall, which promises to be an interesting event. A lecture will be given on Hibernianism by Mr. Foy, a prominent member of the Order. A playlet has been prepared and will be offered besides a musical programme of special merit. The Hibernians have in the past delighted large numbers by the concerts they have given and and this will be up to the usual standard.

HIS CORRECTION.

The American Knew a Little About Shakespeare and English.

An English literary man who visited this country some years ago to lecture frankly declared that he came not expecting to find accurate scholarship among Americans, especially on purely literary subjects, adding affably:

"You have been too busy and useful a nation in practical matters to give much time to the arts and graces of learning."

During the dinner at which he made this remark he criticised Shakespeare, sharply declaring that his metaphors often were absurd, "as, for example," he said, "'Sleep that knits up the ravelled sleave of care.' How ridiculous to to figure sleep as knitting up a torn sleeve of a coat!"

A young American sitting near him said modestly: "I think the word is not sleave, but sleave, the thin fluff of a damaged web. It is a technical expression among weavers."

"In the United States probably!" retorted the critic irritably. "Shakespeare never could have heard it. He meant sleave."

"I believe," persisted the American gently, "the word is printed sleave in all the old editions. It is not an American word, but has been used for centuries by weavers in Scotland and the north of England."

The visitor frowned and then with English frankness said, laughing: "Thank you. I was mistaken. Perhaps I am mistaken about other things and will be corrected before I leave your shores."

Lofty Tibet.

Although the mystery concerning Tibet has been mostly dissipated as a result of the English invasion, the curious nature of that country continues to excite great interest. Think of an inhabited land covering between 700,000 and 800,000 square miles and having a mean elevation exceeding 16,400 feet, which is considerably higher than Mont Blanc! The loftiest peaks reach an altitude of about 29,000 feet, while the deepest valleys, in the higher parts of the plateau, do not descend below 14,400 feet, which is higher than Pike's peak. Toward the south the valleys sink lower, and rice and fruit are cultivated up to 11,500 feet. Here the most important centers of population are found—Lassa, Shigatse and Gyangtse.

They Certainly Keep It Dusted.

Women in all lands are the custodians of speech. They preserve its purity. To them must go much of the credit of the improvement in American English.

Used to It.

She—I suppose it would break your heart if I were to say that I can only be a sister to you. He—Not at all. I'm used to having girls say that.—Exchange.

At the first shot he killed two and with the next two shots he killed two more. The other by this time had made off and succeeded in getting away.

Mr. Goselin is very much pleased over his capture, and intends having their skins preserved.

CAMERA CLUB MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT

Many Invitations Sent to Friends of The Club.

The Peterborough Camera Club intend holding an informal meeting on Friday night, Oct. 30th, at eight o'clock, in the club room of the Y. M. C. A., for which they have sent out several invitations. The club invites all to bring prints for criticism and they will also discuss the holding of an exhibition.

THE WEDNESDAY MARKET DOINGS

Small Number of Farmers But Purchasers Were Numerous.

The Wednesday market seems to work in opposition. When there is a large number of farmers present there are few buyers and vice versa. To-day, for instance, the city people were more numerous than usual, but the farmers were few. Last week conditions were just the reverse. To-day business was rather brisk. There were many cheese factories making shipments and many loads of hay were weighed.

LOCAL DELEGATES TO THE BAPTIST CONVENTION

Those Who Will Represent the Murray Street Baptist Church in Ottawa.

The following delegates to the annual Baptist convention, which opened in Ottawa to-day, are representing the Murray Street Baptist Church: Messrs. V. Eastwood, Porter White, P. Downham, Jas. Ellis and Dr. Scott. They will be accompanied by Rev. Mr. Webb. The delegates expect to be absent eight days.

THANKSGIVING DAY EXCURSIONS

Good going Nov. 6, 7, 8, 9. Return limit Nov. 10th, 1908. Full information from any Grand Trunk Agent. 6d-7z

Died Suddenly From Heart Disease, Although Seemingly Well Two Minutes Before

Without the slightest warning, death came yesterday to Mr. John B. Savigny, one of Otonabee's oldest and best known farmers, and although he had been enjoying his usual good health, heart disease snapped his life thread almost in a twinkling. When one of the members of the family went to the door leading into the yard at noon yesterday to call him to dinner he was found practically lifeless beside a buggy which he had been washing. Only two minutes before, he was engaged at the work and was apparently in his usual good health. At least he had appeared well and strong as ordinarily to one of the family who had seen him only a few minutes before he was found dead.

The late Mr. Savigny is one of Otonabee's pioneer settlers. He was born in the village of Dunse, Berwick County, Scotland, 83 years and 9 months ago. When a little lad of six years he came to Canada with his parents who settled first in North Monaghan, where they lived for two or three years, afterwards moving to Otonabee, where Mr. Savigny has since resided. Thirty-five years ago he was married to Rosanna Stewart, who with the following children still survive him—Bruce in Otonabee, Gordon and Frank at home, and Mrs. W. H. Taylor, Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock from the family homestead, lot 15, con. 16, Otonabee and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery. The deceased was a Presbyterian and a faithful member of St. Paul's church. In politics he was a Liberal and on Monday after casting his vote, walked two miles to his home.

MAGISTRATE DECIDES THAT P. C. ADAMS IS ENTITLED TO REWARD

At the police court this morning Magistrate Dumble had to decide between the claims made by Constable Miller, of Millbrook, and P. C. Adams, as to the reward of $20 for the arrest of John Carroll, charged with stealing a horse from J. H. Fowler.

Constable Miller stated that he had been in town on the night of the day on which the horse had been stolen, had been informed of the occurrence and had been asked if he knew John Carroll. He had replied in the affirmative.

On Sunday Mr. Fowler had come to Millbrook and accompanied the officer to Carroll's place. He was not there, but they found him afterwards and the constable told him he was under arrest. Afterwards they allowed him to go to look for the horse. He had heard nothing of the matter until well on in the week, when he heard that Carroll had been arrested by P. C. Adams.

P. C. Adams told of being sent out with a warrant to arrest Carroll, and of doing so, and P. C. Maharry and Mr. Fowler also gave evidence.

The magistrate decided that P. C. Adams was entitled to the reward, but that Constable Miller should be given $5 for expenses.

A young man was fined $2 for being drunk.

PURCHASING MACHINERY FOR PETERBORO' LUBRICATOR COMPANY

Mr. Pennington and Mr. Currier, who were in Philadelphia the past week in the interests of the Peterborough Lubricator Manufacturing Company, have returned, and are elated beyond all expectations with the way they found everything working. The capacity of the plant there is taxed to the utmost and they are months behind in filling their orders. In their statements to the president and secretary of the company here, they claim that half was never told by Mr. Boerema in regard to the splendid prospects for such a company in Canada. Mr. Pennington is now in Toronto buying machinery for the equipment of the Peterborough factory, which the company hope to have installed at an early date.

A Handsome Display Of Art Productions At Conservatory

The artistic accomplishments of Miss Luella Thexton, who has recently joined the staff of the Conservatory of Music in this city were shown to much advantage yesterday afternoon in one of the music halls of the institution. A portion of her splendid works in art was on exhibition there and during the afternoon and evening a large number of those interested in this department of study called at the Conservatory to see it. From an observation of the array of pictures that decorated the walls and the handsomely painted china in the cabinets one could readily see that Miss Thexton not only possesses a rare and clever ability of discrimination in the selection of her subjects, but that she is also an accomplished and a clever artiste.

As stated above, her work, which has all been done from life and from nature, was seen by many yesterday and many were the complimentary remarks in praise of it. The artiste is an honour-graduate and gold-medallist of the Albert College, Belleville, and it was while residing in that city that the major portion of her work exhibited was done. Her scope in teaching includes oil and water colour painting, crayon, charcoal, pen and pencil sketching, sepia work and china painting—all in their various phases. Among the most admired productions of her artistic hand is a violin with dark back-ground in oils and a bunch of fruit in water colours. In the latter, too, are to be found two handsome pictures of rural scenes that attract the eye. The china painting is most beautifully done and Miss Thexton has with her some splendid specimens of her ability. She is a clever sketcher with pen, pencil, charcoal or crayon to which her many drawings from life give ample evidence and she does her work rapidly.

To be fully appreciated her work "needs but to be seen." She begins her duties at once as teacher in art at the Conservatory. Already she has a number of pupils and as there can be no greater pleasure to the individual than the knowledge that he or she possesses a mind for creative work there is no reason—if this be fully appreciated—why Miss Thexton should not have a large class this autumn and winter at the Conservatory of Music.

To those who visited the institution yesterday afternoon and evening tea was served, Miss Reesor and Mrs. Hodgson kindly acting as the hostesses for the occasion.

BRANTFORD PLAYER IN TROUBLE

Brantford, Oct. 27.—William Taylor, member of last year's Brantford professional hockey team, was fined $50 or three months in jail here by Magistrate Livingston, on a charge of threatening to shoot his wife on Tuesday night last, and having a loaded revolver in his possession for that purpose.

The couple have been separated, but Taylor did not cease molesting his wife, and was twice warned by the magistrate to leave the city. Taylor did not leave, but going to his wife's house, flourished a revolver, saying: "Let's have a tragedy, and die together."

Mrs. Taylor broke away from him and called the police.

Taylor was also bound over in $1,000 surety to keep the peace in Brantford for two years.

Nervous people should take Miller's Compound Iron Pills. Sold by J. D. Tully, druggist, Peterborough.

PROPOSED CELEBRATION OF THE FORESTERS

Regular Meeting Last Night—Anniversary on Nov. 10th.

The regular meeting of Court Stanley, A.O.F., was held last evening in the O.E. Hall, when a large number of members were present. Bro. T. Hendry, Chief Ranger, was in the chair. One candidate was duly initiated into the mysteries of Forestry. The next regular meeting, Nov. 10th, will be the 19th anniversary of the Court and an "At Home" will be given to the members and their friends. A committee has arranged a very choice programme of music, etc. Light refreshments will also be served and the committee has spared no pains in making this the most enjoyable evening in the history of the Court.

PREVENTION OF FOREST FIRE.

The disastrous occurrence of forest fires this season gives new emphasis to the matter of adopting preventive measures. The first point to consider is that forest fires are preventable. They occur chiefly in August and September, but the hot weather and lessened rain of these months do not furnish the cause of these fires, but merely supply conditions under which they spread more rapidly. The cause, with, possibly, but a rare exception, in the case of lightning, is entirely traceable to sparks from locomotives or factories, to railways, railway contractors, and settlers clearing land, to neglected camp fires, and to the unextinguished match. In this supposed age of intelligence, when men can foresee the consequence of their neglect, it is not right that the carelessness of some individuals or corporations should bring upon the country losses constantly to hundreds of thousands of dollars, and, in recent cases, to millions of dollars, and should go unpunished.

It may be difficult to prove the neglect, but the moral effect will be very marked in every railway or settler's clearing and around every camp fire, if a law is passed making it an offence punishable with imprisonment to neglect to maintain a guard over the burning stumps or brushwood, or to leave guarded the camp fires, or to put them out entirely before departing.

The present criminal law relating to neglect only applies to such negligence as shows the party to be reckless, or wantonly regardless of consequences in setting fire to any forest or tree, and is not of general application to all property—Crown domain or private. Under this law there can be practically no conviction. What is wanted is a prescribed course of action for the protection of all forests, and the penalty if it is not adopted.

The protection which the Dominion and Provincial Governments can furnish is by establishing forest wardens in each given number of square miles, similarly to what is now being done in some parts of Ontario, might, with benefit, be enlarged. Their duties, among others, would be to protect the timber and the fish and game, to see that hunters, prospectors and other campers are made aware of, and fulfill, their obligations, and in the case of fires, to secure assistance to prevent their spread. On properties under license to lumbermen, one-half of the cost of maintaining the forest wardens should, by law, be made payable by the holder of the license, and not left to his option, and it should be the right of the Government, and not of the licensee, to fix the number of such forest wardens. Where properties are owned by private individuals or corporations in the midst of the forest, they should pay for this protection in the same way, and the amount to be made, like taxes, a first charge on their land.

Would it be too much to require that every lumberman, by the terms of his license, should be compelled, under a large penalty, to clear up and dispose of his brushwood before breaking up camp at the close of the winter?

Would it be too much to require that the Dominion criminal code be so amended as to make punishable by imprisonment what is now too often, with little or no thought for the consequences, regarded as being but a trifling neglect? Why should not punishment by imprisonment be provided for campers who do not keep gaurd over their fires and completely extinguish them before breaking up camp?

Why should not every settler, lumberman, railway contractor or railway company, when clearing land or right-of way, be under similar penalty for infraction of rules something like the following?: (a) Be forbidden to set fire to any standing tree or to any stump over four feet high, or to any stump or brushwood nearer than twenty-feet from any standing tree or trees, (b) Be compelled to clear away all brush, grass and leaves to a distance of fifteen feet around any stump or collection of brushwood before setting fire to it. (c) Be compelled during August, September and October, if not always, to keep proper persons on watch day and night on the land being cleared, until all fires on the clearing are extinguished.

All mills, factories and locomotives operating in wooded or forest country should, under a penalty, have on their smoke-stacks, spark-protectors of a mesh, to be fixed by the Government. Railway companies, mills and factories operating with steam power in wooded or forest country should, under a penalty, be made responsible for the protection from fire of the woods or forests within a given distance of their respective tracks or buildings.

To those who do not give heed to the tremendous consequences involved in neglect in respect of forest fires, such regulations as suggested may seem harsh, but we must remember that the annual losses by forest fires amount to a tremendous total. We must remember that our forest wealth is of such important nature, not only on a cash basis, but in its relation to our industrail and other development, that it is well worth preserving, and that to secure this result the most drastic measures are justified. The climatic influence of our forests — effecting agriculture and the supply of water-power to our industrial interests also — presents powerful pleas for the adoption of the most effective measures to prevent the loss of life and propertywhich accompany, and result from, forest fires.

A COMPARISON.

The relative popular favour with which governments in Canada have been regarded as revealed by general election results, serves illuminating purposes. In 1878, the Conservative Government had a parliamentary majority of 68. The next election, in 1882, the majority fell off to 37; in the next contest, in 1887, it reached 41; but in 1891, it fell back to 31—seven less than half of what the majority was at the beginning of the Conservative eighteen-year period.

In 1896 the Liberals entered office with a majority of 32; the next election, 1900, the majority increased—by twenty-one—to 53. In the general election of 1904 the Liberal majority was 63, and this election it may be put down as 54. The Conservative Government in its eighteen years saw its parliamentary majority dwindle almost continually from 68 to 31—a drop of 37. The Liberal Government in its seventeen years—come 1913—has increased the lead by which it entered office, having in 1908, a majority—placing it at 54, when all elections are held—of 22 greater than when it came into power in 1896.

The conditions prevailing under the respective regimes present a similar contrast. Under the Conservative regime conditions of national growth and development steadily declined in favourable character, in keeping with the waning popularity of the Conservative Government, as shown by general election results. Since the Liberals came into power in 1896 conditions in Canada indicated a marvellous growth and development, which has continued with only temporary recession till the present time, and under an aggressive Liberal Administration, will continue for at least another five years.

GENERAL ELECTION RECORD

With the eleventh general election since Confederation fresh in mind, it may be interesting to recall the record of the national free fights, known as general elections, since Canada was erected into a Dominion.

For the fifth time since Confederation the Liberals have been returned to power. Eleven general elections have been held.

On July 1st, 1867, under Royal Proclamation, dated May 22nd, 1867, the Provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were confederated, under the title of the Dominion of Canada.

This was the result of a coalition of leaders of all shades of political opinion, John A Macdonald working as loyally for it as George Brown.

Viscount Monck, appointed Governor-General, entrusted Sir John A. Macdonald with the duty of forming the first Government of the Dominion. This Government was practically a coalition one, although George Brown and other Liberal leaders remained out.

It included a number of men of either professed independence or of Liberal leaning, such as Hon. Wm. McDougall, Hon. W P Howland, Hon. Peter Mitchell and others.

At the general election which followed (September, 1867) the Government was sustained by a working majority.

A distinct cleavage soon reappeared between Sir John Macdonald and the Liberals, and the Government became recognized as a Conservative one.

Sir John, however, continued in power, and with the exception of the period between 1874 and 1878, when he was driven out of power by the Pacific scandal, he ruled the country from Confederation until his death in 1891, and left power to his party which continued to the election of 1896.

In 1896 the Liberals under Laurier won, and again in 1900 and 1904 as on Monday.

The following is a summary of the results by provinces of each general election since Confederation. It has been very difficult in each election to get at the exact figures owing to the number of contested and voided elections and other causes tending to complicate the result, but the following figures are close to the truth in every case:

July—1872—Liberals 133; Conservatives 73. Liberal majority 60.
September—1878—Conservatives 137; Liberals 69. Conservative majority 68.
June—1882 — Conservatives 139; Liberals 72. Conservative majority 37.
February—1887—Conservatives 123; Liberals 87. Conservative majority 41.
June, 23—1896—Liberals 122; Conservatives 90. Liberal majority 32.
November, 7—1900—Liberals 134; Conservatives 79. Liberal majority 55.
November, 3—1904—Liberals 139; Conservatives 76. Liberal majority 63.
October 26 — 1908—Liberals 182; Conservatives 82. Liberal majority 50.

Seven deferred elections are yet to be held and no doubt the most of them will go with the Government, substantially increasing the Government majority.

LOSS AND GAIN.

The reduction of the Liberal following in Nova Scotia in this election is not by any means surprising. In every election from 1878 to, and including, 1891, Nova Scotia went Conservative by a majority of about two to one. In 1896, when Sir Wilfrid gained power, the parties "broke even"—were evenly balanced. In the election of 1900 the Liberals gained the standing being two to one in favour of the Liberals. In 1904, the Liberals made a clean sweep, capturing every seat in the province. This was an abnormal condition, too good to be expected to last. In the recess a slight reaction set in and, by the aid of "choice tomatoes"—the euphemistic equivalent of whisky—and money, Colchester was "redeemed," and at the general election on Monday the Conservatives gained five additional seats, making the standing in Nova Scotia to-day—Liberals, 12; Conservatives, 8; very far short of the two to one proportions that prevailed during the whole of the eighteen-year Conservative period. But the net loss of five seats in Nova Scotia is far more than offset by a gain on a division of eight seats in New Brunswick and reversing the standing of the parties in Prince Edward Island, where a Conservative majority of two seats was transferred to the Liberals. The result in New Brunswick means more than a mere numerical gain. It means a rapping rebuke to the policy of slander and defamation. Hon. Mr. Pugsley, the Minister of Public Works, was most villainously attacked by his opponent in the contest, assailed with slanders, self-evidently malicious. They were disproved but not withdrawn. Mr. Pugsley is the Liberal lieutenant in New Brunswick, and the answer to the charges made against him, without warrant, to destroy his influence and prestige, is found in the fact that the seven seats out of thirteen held by the Liberals in the late parliament, have been increased to eleven, giving the Liberals a majority of nine seats in a province where they had only a majority of one in the last parliament.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The defeat of the Liberal candidate, Mr. E A Tanner in East Peterborough, was avenged the same day. Mr. E A Tanner, Conservative candidate in Pictou, N.S., was defeated by about the same majority as his Lakefield namesake—250.

The result of the elections in Ontario is a hint to Sir James Whitney to "get down to his knitting." It shows that the gallant knight of the rotund adjectives does not hold Ontario in the hollow of his hand, when it comes to expressing an opinion in respect of a live and go-ahead government.

AMERICA'S EX-CHAMPION WRESTLER

SAYS:

"After my great wrestling match with J. Mellor, of Stalybridge, at the Crystal Palace, England, for the International Championship, I was covered with cuts and bruises. I applied my favorite balm, Zam-Buk, and in a marvellously short time the abrasions and cuts were healed and I was fit and well again. At another time I had a piece of flesh almost torn completely off my arm above the elbow. I anticipated being unable to do anything with the arm for a long time. To my delight, however, Zam-Buk closed up the wound in two days. In three days it was covered with new skin, and a few days after, there was no trace of the injury. I recommend Zam-Buk for cuts, bruises or skin injuries of any kind.

Yours truly,
HUGH LANNON.

The above testimony given by Mr. Lannon when visiting Toronto shows the great value of Zam-Buk for Indians received in out-door sport.

Football, Football and Lacrosse Players should always keep Zam-Buk handy. It prevents cuts and injuries "taking the wrong turn." It stops the pain and smarting, and heals. It is also an excellent embrocation, curing stiffness, sprains, twists, etc. Used and recommended by Sherring, the Marathon winner; Madrall, the world's second greatest wrestler, etc.

GOVERNMENT MAJORITY STILL 50

Revised Lists Show Few Changes in the Standing.

TEMPLEMAN'S GOOD FIGHT

Victoria Minister Lost Seat by Narrow Majority of Five to G. H. Barnard—Loss of Caldwell's Seat in North Lanark is Counterbalanced by McCool's Victory in Nipissing—Macdonald in N.S.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—The aftermath of the election reveals few changes. There are still several ridings in which the official returns when completed may alter the figures, but, according to the latest returns, the majority for the Liberal Government still stands at 50.

In North Lanark it was at first thought that Mr. T. B. Caldwell had succeeded in retaining the seat for the Liberals, but this anticipation was not borne out by the official returns, and last night the riding was conceded to his opponent, Mr. W. Thoburn, though only by a bare majority.

This change was counterbalanced, however, by the election for Nipissing of Mr. C. A. McCool, who in the earlier reports was stated to have been defeated by the Conservative candidate, Mr. G. Gordon.

So far, therefore, the position of the parties in Ontario remains as at first announced, namely: Conservatives, 47; Liberals 39, though there is an unconfirmed rumor that Mr. W. R. Smythe has, after all, ousted Mr. A. E. Dyment from East Algoma.

HON. R. W. SCOTT.
He May Become Speaker of Senate.

In Nova Scotia the Conservatives have to be content with six out of the eighteen seats, Mr. E. M. Macdonald, the brilliant young Liberal lawyer of Pictou, winning out against his redoubtable opponent, Mr. C. E. Tanner, who was yesterday credited with the victory.

Two changes in the first list of returns are reported from British Columbia. After a stiff fight, Hon. W. Templeman has gone down in Victoria; Mr. G. H. Barnard, the Conservative candidate, with a majority of five, making the only breach in the ranks of the Cabinet, but there is consolation for Liberals in the fact that Mr. Ralph Smith has retained his seat by a substantial majority in Nanaimo.

Though the Manitoba returns are still somewhat doubtful in one or two instances, they point to a gain of another seat by the Conservatives, later despatches conceding the defeat of Mr. S. J. Jackson in Selkirk.

It is not at all improbable that the speakership of the Senate will be given, when Parliament assembles, to Hon. R. W. Scott, the late Secretary of State.

The Senate elects an English and a French-speaking Senator, turn about.

THE VALUE OF COD LIVER OIL

No physician would dispute the value of COD LIVER OIL in nervous and pulmonary diseases, if the nauseous grease did not so derange digestion as to more than counteract the good done by the therapeutic principles of the oil.

In "BRICK'S TASTELESS" there is no grease. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, invigorates the nerves by nourishing them, and CURES Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis. Its timely use is an insurance against serious consequences, as the weakened system is a prey to germ diseases, such as Tuberculosis, Typhoid and Typhus Fevers, and Diphtheria.

"BRICK'S TASTELESS" is put up in eight (8) ounce bottles, retail price fifty (50) cents, and in twenty (20) ounce bottles, retail price one (1) dollar.

More proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restores women to normal health.

Mrs. Henry Clark, Glandford Station, Ont., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years, and never found any medicine to compare with it for sick women.

"I had ulcers and a displacement of the feminine organs, and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me, and also helped other sick women to whom I have recommended it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

Don't hesitate to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about your sickness you do not understand. She will treat your letter in confidence and advise you free. No woman ever regretted writing her, and because of her vast experience she has helped thousands. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 28.—All transcontinental trains are now running through Western Canada. The snow has disappeared and there is a warm wave through Saskatchewan and Alberta and grain continues to be rushed to the lakes in enormous quantities. Freight trains are being operated within sight of each other for the greater part of 600 miles.

Farmer Suicides.

Woodstock, Oct. 28.—James Barber, aged about 50, a well-known farmer of Blenheim, committed suicide by taking poison. He had just returned from a trip to the Northwest, and appeared to be suffering from melancholy, though the cause is unknown, as he was in good financial circumstances.

SOMETHING CAN BE DONE

To Stop the Increase of Catarrh in Peterborough.

Catarrhal troubles are increasing, not only in Peterborough, but all over the country.

Catarrh is a germ disease, and to cure it, germ life in the nose, throat and lungs must be destroyed, and this can be done only by breathing Hyomei.

There is no dangerous stomach dragging when Hyomei is used; no tablet or liquid mixtures whereby the digestion is often destroyed.

Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit its healing balsams penetrate the most remote air cells, destroying the catarrhal germs so that quick recovery follows. The complete outfit costs but $1, and Wm. Madill agrees to refund the money should Hyomei fail to do all that is claimed for it. For sale by Wm. Madill, corner Hunter and George streets.

FOR SALE BY WM. MADILL, corner Hunter and George streets.

PE-RU-NA CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDED FOR COLDS AND CATARRH.

A Prominent Canadian Gives His Experience With the World-Famous Remedy For Catarrh.

Chronic Catarrh Always Begins With An Ordinary Cold.

So Says Dr. Hartman, the Greatest Living Authority On Catarrhal Diseases.

This gives rise to a discharge, or at least a stuffiness of the nasal passages.

Sometimes fever accompanies the first attack, also a feeling of languor, dullness and aching of the bones.

If no attention is paid to it, the mucous congestion is liable to spread down into the larynx, producing hoarseness and into the bronchial tubes, producing a cough.

Even when this occurs, many people pay no attention to it.

Under such circumstances, the congestion is liable to become chronic, producing a condition of the mucous membranes known as catarrh. Catarrh lasts an indefinite time. Catarrh is essentially a chronic condition and does not leave except something is done to relieve it.

CURE COLDS—PREVENT CATARRH.

What should be done when a person catches cold is to take a few doses of Peruna.

But, even in cases where the cold has been neglected and hoarseness or a cough has developed, Peruna can be relied upon to give prompt and permanent relief.

The frequency of coughs and colds in the winter makes Peruna a popular remedy for these ailments.

A number of the best people of various countries have given testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases.

Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice—Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Bard, Isle de La Magdaline, Canada, writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

C. H. Parker, Ex-Warden of Compton Co., Quebec, has been mayor of Scotstown for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Scotstown and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. Read his letter below:

C. H. PARKER.

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I find myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna for colds and catarrh."

If Peruna had no other medicinal value than the promptness with which it relieves common colds, it would be well worth while for any family to keep it in the house constantly.

PETERBORO' HUNTERS OFF FOR NORTH

A Number Leave With Lindsay Party for Morgan's Lake.

The hunting season will soon be open, and from now on hunters will be making for the woods with their dogs and guns in search of the denizens of the forest. The first party to leave for the woods this year from this vicinity is the Kendry-White hunting party, which left this morning for Ravensworth, near the Algonquin Park, where they will remain during the season. The party is composed of Messrs Thos. Rutherford, Frank White, Herb Kendry, Charles Nixon, Frank Houlihan of Peterborough; Jos. Little of Lindsay; Richard Little of Bowmanville, Geo. Pratt of Lindsay. Joseph Little is acting as guide, and T. Bartley of Coboconk will officiate in the kitchen.

The party make up a jolly set, and the men are all experienced hunters. They have the reputation of being able to pull down deer at long distances, and no doubt will have a considerable amount of venison to bring back with them.—Lindsay Free Press.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 458 George street to 287 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons, and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. AN OLD CITIZEN IS GONE

Mr. James Miller Passed Away Last Night in His 88th Year.

In the death of Mr. James Miller last night at 6.30 o'clock, at his residence 189 Dublin street, the city loses one of its oldest and most highly respected citizens. After an illness that was rather extended, the deceased was called to his reward at the grand old age of 88 years. The late Mr. Miller was born in the village of Burwell, Cambridgeshire county, England, in the year 1820. Fifty years later in 1870 he came with his family to Canada at first residing in Millbrook. Two years later he moved to Peterborough and has lived here since then continuously. In the year after coming to this city Mr. Miller first identified himself with the 57th Regimental Band of which he was a valuable member until about 10 years ago.

The surviving members of the family are his wife and the following children—Mrs. Wm. Osborne, London, Eng.; Mr. F. W. Miller, Water street; Mrs. Ed. Avery, London, Eng.; John Miller, Waterford street; Mrs. N. Rouse, Burwell, Neb.; Mrs. Jas. Rouse, Pine Grove, Alta.; Alfred Miller, Nanton, Alta., and Mrs. William Walters, of Douro.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist church and in politics was a Liberal. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, from the family residence, 189 Dublin street, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS

FULTON'S RENAL COMPOUND

"Kidney trouble" is inflammation of the kidneys without albumen.

"Bright's Disease" is inflammation of the kidneys with albumen.

In each the real trouble is INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, hence a cure for one must be a cure for the other. There has been no cure for either.

But many kidney troubled people get well.

True—because inflammation of the kidneys unless severe commonly gets well at first. But if it does not yield early and the inflammation persists, the real trouble begins.

You can see why kidney disease has been incurable and why the deaths have risen to over 170 per day—up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known that would reduce inflammation in the kidney tissues.

The old kidney medicines were a misconception, irritating the inflamed kidneys to renewed efforts instead of allaying the inflammation, some of them being actually harmful. Result—physicians have abandoned them.

No matter whether you call it "kidney trouble," "Nephritis," or "Bright's Disease," if it has been hanging on a few months, recovery can be only hoped for through this specific. It has a proven efficiency in nearly 87 per cent. of all cases. It is the only thing known that controls inflammation in the kidneys, which is the real difficulty with kidney troubled people.

Well Known Insurance Man Passes Away In Hamilton

Mr. Robert Melvin of Guelph, President of the Mutual Life of Canada, Waterloo, Ont., Expired in Hamilton on Sunday.

The public in general will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Robert Melvin, which occurred at Hamilton at midnight on October 17, 1908, at the ripe age of eighty years. In company with Mr. Wegenast, Managing Director, and Mr. Clement, first Vice-President of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada, Waterloo, Ontario, of which he was President, Mr. Melvin had been during the week on a trip to New York in the interests of the company, and on his way home on the afternoon of Saturday, the 17th inst., he took suddenly ill on the train as it was nearing Hamilton, and was not able to continue his journey home. He was conveyed to the Waldorf Hotel, Hamilton, but notwithstanding the skill of the physicians in attendance, he gradually became weaker and died at 11 o'clock the same evening from heart failure. Faithful to the last in the discharge of his duties, it may be truthfully said of him that "he died in harness," serving the company, whose welfare and prosperity he had always so deeply at heart.

Previous to his retirement from business in 1871, Mr. Melvin was for twenty-two years a successful hardware merchant, founder, and agricultural implement manufacturer in Guelph, to whose council board he was elected in 1859. He afterwards was its first reeve, elected by the people and held that position for two years. In 1875 he became mayor, retaining his seat for two years. He retired from municipal honours in 1878. He was one of the first directors of the Mercantile Fire Insurance Company of Waterloo, and served in that capacity for twenty years. He was president of the Guelph Board of Trade, a member of the Board of Health, and a director of Guelph General Hospital. Among other financial affairs with which he was connected may be mentioned the Guelph and Ontario Investment and Savings Society, one of the most successful institutions of its kind in the country, and of which he was president for many years.

Mr. Melvin was, however, better and more widely known by his connection in various capacities with The Mutual Life of Canada, in whose success he always took a deep concern. He was one of its provisional policy holders, and from the very infancy of the company he manifested an active interest in its prosperity, and was, upon the adjournment of the first annual meeting, appointed by the board a director of the company, and served continuously on the board until his death. He was elected vice-president in 1871, and upon the death of its first president, Mr. I. E. Bowman, in 1897, Mr. Melvin succeeded to the presidency, in which responsible position he had served the company with distinguished ability. He was a man of broad and progressive judgment and matured experience, and, in the investment of the company's funds, as well as in other important respects, Mr. Melvin has, during the past 38 years, rendered invaluable services to the company. He regarded the funds of the company as a sacred trust for the policy holders, the widow and orphan, whose interests he had at all times endeavoured to promote and conserve to the utmost of his abilities.

The directors met at the head office, Waterloo, Ont., on the afternoon of Tuesday, the 20th inst., when Mr. E. P. Clement, K.C., Berlin, was elected president, Mr. F. C. Bruce, Hamilton, first vice-president, and Mr. J. Kerr Fisken, Toronto, second vice-president of the company.

FINANCE COMMITTEE MAKES GRANT TO PETERBORO' POULTRY SHOW

A meeting of the Finance Committee was held yesterday afternoon for the purpose of settling several matters and passing accounts before the council meeting next Monday night.

Those present were: Ald. Morrow, chairman; Mayor Rush and Aldermen Neill, Phelan and Bradburn.

Moved by Ald. Neill and Mayor Rush, that the city solicitor be instructed to take action against Conrad Schwardt for the cost of the maintenance of his son in the Victoria Industrial School. — Carried.

A letter was read from Mr. B. T. Huston, secretary, asking for a grant to the Peterborough Poultry Association.

It was moved by Ald. Neill and Mayor Rush that a grant of $50 be made to the Peterborough Poultry Association towards the expenses of an exhibition to be held by the association.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Bradburn and Phelan that $50 be paid to the selectors of jurors, in accordance with the certificate of the clerk of the peace. —Carried.

Moved by Ald. Neill and Bradburn, that the treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque to Mrs. McMahon for taxes paid in error by her on part block west Concession street, and that the city treasurer be instructed to charge the taxes against the property that was assessed for it, if that can be done now.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Neill and Bradburn that no action be taken on the letter of the chief constable regarding an extension telephone in his residence. —Carried.

A number of accounts were examined and recommended for payment. The committee then adjourned.

It's The Tall Timbers For The Nimrods On Monday

The deer hunting season, to which every true sportsman looks forward with eager longing will open next Monday, and the vales and hills of our backwoods will re-echo once again with the shots of the hunters and the deep-mouthed baying of the hounds.

Days of unalloyed pleasure they are indeed, when leaving drudgery and care behind, we start, a right merry and boisterous company, to the woods to indulge in the pleasures of the chase. Pleasures, did I say? Not pleasures, but joys—joys of the fullest and most satisfying nature. For what is there that can compare for sheer, downright, well-sustained ecstasy with the feeling that pervades one as he casts off the shackles of restraint and hies him to the woods for a taste of true freedom? And when to that freedom is added the excitement of the hunt and the pleasures of a congenial circle around the camp fire how much is the joy augmented! The memories of bygone hunting days are, next to those of our courting ones, probably the most pleasant of our lives. Although some amongst us may now be numbered with the "has beens," and prefer to take our pleasures easily, we can all recall the long vigil under sheltering rock or embowering tree and the thrill of pleasure that shook our frame when the first mellow notes of the dogs were borne to our ears, over the distant hills, on a misty morning. The leap to our feet, the anxious expectancy, the crash through the bushes, as our quarry approached—the shot—and the death of the antlered victim!

As true sportsmen let us hope that though we ourselves may not be privileged to go-a-gunning in the wilds, the season may be a good and happy one for those who are yet in the hey-day of their hunting enthusiasm.

Hats of Wonderful Charm and Originality at $6 to $10

A sight of the Hats we are showing at from $6.00 to 10.00 will quickly dispel the idea that a hat must be costly to be lovely and distinctive.

These hats have all the grace and style of the more expensive models, but being made in our own work-rooms we are able to price them for lower than would have been possible if we had bought them ready-trimmed.

Our designers and trimmers have fairly surpassed themselves in the style and beauty which they have put in these charming hats, and in them you get a full measure of value in material, plus

Peculiar Occurrence In Lake Navigation Circles

No Lockages at Young's Point on Election Day—A Record for 40 Years.

OTHER YOUNG'S POINT NEWS

Examiner Special

Young's Point, Oct. 26.—The addition to the school here is almost completed and the second teacher will commence duties the first of the new year.

There was no lockage of any kind at the locks here on Monday, 26th, and that was a record-breaker for the last forty years, during navigation at this time of the year. Mr. P. P Young, the lockmaster, had a rest for one day.

The steamer Majestic will make one more trip to Peterborough and then will be hauled out here on dry dock.

It is a pleasure to learn that Miss Emma Scollard has almost recovered after a lingering illness.

Mr. A Wilson, proprietor of the cheese factory here, has almost completed operations for the season. He will make cheese only two days this week.

Miss Olive Richardson, who was dangerously ill two weeks ago, has almost recovered.

Mr. Robert Charlton, the new blacksmith has been a busy man since coming here. The sound of his anvil is heard continually during the day.

Mr. Samuel Duval has moved from the Douro side of the river back again to the village, and is living in Mr. Pope's house.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brooks and family have moved from the Beach and are living with Mr. and Mrs. P A Kearney.

The Baptis Bros. are rushing the work on the cement pier for Mr. Kilbourn and have one section of the construction completed.

The water here both above and below the locks is the lowest in fifteen years. A steam boat can hardly pass above the locks now. Of course it is the dry Autumn that has brought this about.

THE GROCERY TRADE PROSPECTS

Activity at the Wholesale Warehouses of Messrs. Perkins, Ince & Co. of This City.

While the grocery trade in Peterborough is admitted to have maintained a pretty fair degree of its usual buoyancy during the past season, the prospects for the next few months seem to assume a very much more active condition. Judging by the heavy receipts of merchandise arriving at Messrs. Perkins, Ince & Co.'s wholesale warehouses in this city, this firm must be preparing for a very active trade. That the impetus which the grocery trade generally experiences at this time of the year is very strongly in evidence was fully demonstrated by a casual visit yesterday to the extensive storehouses of this firm. During the past six days, a carload of new goods has been received each day, and still they come. Every section of these commodious warehouses is filling up with the new goods which the present and coming holiday season demands. And what must be most gratifying to the management is that in many lines the goods are being shipped out nearly as fast as they come in—affording the desired room for further shipments to come.

A large proportion of the new goods arriving consists of raisins, currants, canned goods, preserved and evaporated dried fruits, syrups, molasses, nuts, sugar, tobaccos, pickles and relishes, "Sailor Boy" coffee, salmon and other specialties of this popular brand.

THE OFFICIALS WERE ALL RIGHT

Watchman-Warder Says That They Gave the Best of Satisfaction.

The following from the Lindsay Watchman-Warder, in regard to Saturday's officials, should about extinguish the howl in the Free Press:

Dr. McPherson, who refereed the Lindsay-Peterborough Y. M. C. A. game, on Saturday, used judgment and impartiality. He is a good official. "Chubby" O'Connor is a well known umpire and as honest and square as they make 'em. There's no kick coming from Lindsay re the two officials."

As the writer is a member of the Lindsay team, there is every reason to believe that the Soogog bunch were satisfied.

Music and Drama

Across the border the theatrical business has waned to a great extent owing to the Presidential elections of next week and many houses are lying vacant until after November 3, when business is expected to burst forth again in its old time form. It is anticipated that theatrical activity will return to its former sell throughout the country.

George M. Cohan now appearing in a Chicago house in "A Yankee Prince" announces that this is his farewell engagement. It is understood that he intends to take an extended trip through Europe as a well earned holiday. All his friends are doubtful. However, should he carry out his intentions it is easy betting that George will return with material for comic operas to last him the rest of his days.

Easy Money

Twenty-five hundred dollars in 16 minutes! That's some noise. Eva Tanguay received it one afternoon last week for singing and dancing her famous song "Nothing Bothers Me," for one of the new talking picture machines. The last time she sang for one of the machines, about a year ago, she received $100. However, things have changed since.

Songs Must be Original

Professional and amateur songwriters are apt to sit up and take notice of a new announcement coming from Martin Beck, chief of the Orpheum Circuit, to the effect that after this season songs used on the circuit must be original and not available elsewhere.

This rule, which is to be enforced through the song section of the producing department, includes the copyrighting of the song and at the same time eliminates the long-accepted custom of "songboosting."

For many years vaudeville singers have been privileged to accept fees from song publishers whose songs were used by the singers. Sometimes the vocalists have received as much as three such fees and from three companies at the same time.

OBITUARY.

BELLA ELLIOTT

A very sad death occurred yesterday afternoon when Isabella Elliott, relict of the late Rev. A L Adam, passed away after a short illness. The deceased was born in the township of Smith in 1862, and lived at her home until she was married to Rev. Mr. Adam, of the Methodist church, who died in Hastings in 1902. Since then she has resided at 294 Hunter street, where she died. The late Mrs. Adam was well known in the city, and very highly respected, and her death is much to be regretted. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon from the residence of her brother, Mr. E. M. Elliott, 28 Manning avenue, at 3 o'clock, and interment will take place in Little Lake Cemetery.

Those who are left to mourn her loss are one son, George Adam, of the Bank of Commerce staff, here; two brothers, E. M. Elliott, county treasurer, and Ald. Geo. E. Elliott, and one sister, Mrs. J K Moore, of Smith.

Mrs. Adam was a member of the Charlotte street Methodist church.

JOHN NELSON

The death occurred in Lakefield on Monday last, after a brief illness, of John Nelson, a well known resident of that village, at the age of thirty-three years. The deceased was unmarried. He is survived by his mother and two sisters, Miss Nelson, of Lakefield, and Mrs. Sam McKibbon, of Smith. The funeral took place today at Lakefield.

MRS. WM. CROUGH

The death occurred in Ennismore, Monday, of Mrs. Wm. Crough, after a lengthy illness from rheumatism. The deceased was 71 years of age and was born in Emily. Her maiden name was Ellen Scollard. She was widely known and very highly respected.

The funeral took place this morning at 10 o'clock to St. Martin's church, and thence to the St. Martin's Cemetery.

MRS. SAMUEL CALDWELL

Mrs. Samuel Caldwell, of Perrytown, in the Township of Hope, aged 79 years, wife of Samuel Caldwell, one of the oldest residents of the place, died early this morning, after a lingering illness. She leaves surviving her, besides her husband, seven children, viz., Messrs. Willard, of Bowmanville; Samuel E., of Port Hope; Theodore M., and John W., of Peterborough; Charles Albert, of Elmvale; William H., of Earlton, New Ontario, and Walter, residing at home. The deceased lady was seventy-nine years of age. No arrangements have yet been made as to the funeral.

MR. DENNIS MURPHY

At the House of Providence on Monday, there passed away Mr. Dennis Murphy, an old man of over 70 years. He came from Sudbury and had been in the House of Providence about five years. The funeral was held today to the St. Peter's Cemetery.

MRS. O'DONOFHUE

At noon to-day the death occurred at the House of Providence of Mrs. O'Donoghue, at the age of about 75 years. She originally came from Cobourg. The funeral will be held to-morrow morning to St. Peter's cemetery.

MISS MARGARET CONDON

A sad death occurred yesterday evening when, after a lingering illness, Miss Margaret Condon, daughter of Mr. John Condon, 189 Perry street, passed away at the age of 19 years and nine months.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

JEAN BLEWETT TO BE HEARD ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The following is from the London Advertiser: Jean Blewett's readings are delightful past the telling. To hear her is to forget that we are old and out of sorts, that the age is a mercenary one, that sentiment is a weakness, and the love story as old-fashioned as the hills. She has the gift of making us see with the eyes of youth, and hear with the ears of youth." Don't fail to hear her on Friday evening at Charlotte street church. Admission, 25c.

YOU CAN END ALL THE STOMACH TROUBLE

Get Some Diapepsin and Cure Yourself Forever of Stomach Distress.

You haven't Catarrh of the Stomach, or Nervousness, or Gastritis, or Cancer, etc. Prove this by taking Pape's Diapepsin after your very next meal. Convince yourself within five minutes that your actual disease was sour, acid Stomach—food fermentation — that every bite you ate turned to Stomach gas, Stomach poison and Acid, which makes you feel sick and miserable, producing such symptoms as pain in the pit of the stomach, Difficulty in breathing after a meal, Headaches, Belching, Heartburn, Nauseous breath, Water brash, Biliousness, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach and many other bad feelings.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause, of your misery. If the Stomach is sour, your food becomes tainted, and that's why you have these stomach disorders.

Ask your pharmacist to show you a case of Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only 50 cents. Read what this effective Stomach and digestive treatment contains, and how absolutely harmless it must be; how it does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn; absolutely removes every corrupting or tainting element, and will digest all the food you can eat.

Go to your druggist and get some Diapepsin now, then eat anything you want at your next meal, and you will not suffer from indigestion or Stomach trouble. Each bite of food will taste good, and, besides, you will not need liver regulators to keep your intestines and Stomach clean and fresh.

Now and forever rid yourself of the misery of Indigestion and Stomach trouble. Make your meals a pleasure by going to the table with a healthy appetite.

DAIRYMEN TO MEET ON WEDNESDAY

Address in County Council Chambers by Visiting Dairymen.

A special meeting of the dairymen of Peterborough county will be held in the County Council Chambers, the Court House, on Wednesday, Nov. 4th, commencing at 1.30 p.m. It is being held under the auspices of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association. The addresses will be interesting to milk producers, proprietors and makers, and it is to be hoped that the Dairymen, generally, will take advantage of this opportunity to discuss matters pertaining to the dairy business in this district. At this meeting a director will be named to represent this district upon the Board for the year 1909. A large attendance is expected. Mr. G A Gillespie, director for the district will occupy the chair. Addresses will be delivered by Senator Dan Derbyshire, of Brockville; Henry Glendenning, Manilla; G. G Publow, Kingston.

CONSULT OUR OPTICIAN

The Eye is such a delicate organ that it should never be trifled with. This is why our optician has followed the teachings of only recognized authorities on the eye.

Many opticians take half a dozen or more correspondent courses costing from $7.50 to $25. With this limited knowledge it is little wonder that many are wearing glasses that do not suit them—others that do not require them.

If you have eye-trouble you should consult an optician who has a thorough knowledge of every branch of the optical business. Such a man is our Mr. Taylor.

HOW TO ENJOY YOUR PIPE

It is really astonishing, said a Broadway tobacconist the other day, what a small percentage of the millions of smokers in this country know what to smoke, how to smoke and when to smoke. The majority of men are careless smokers, who have scarcely an idea of the elementary facts about the selection of pipes and tobacco, or the methods of smoking which, if observed, would greatly increase their enjoyment, and go far towards preventing injury to their health.

In selecting a pipe, for instance, do not judge by the pretty look. Weigh the pipe and see that it is not too heavy for your teeth. Test the bore and see that it draws well. Also examine it carefully and see that the bowl is not plugged here and there with putty varnished over, or has flaws or cracks.

Many of the finest of briars develop small holes or flaws after being shaped. Manufacturers fill these holes with putty and then colour and varnish. A close examination will show up these patches. Ivory or pure amber makes the best mouthpieces, but are both expensive and liable to break easily, especially amber. The horn mouth piece for the moderate price man is, therefore the best.

When buying tobacco, do not buy the fruity smelling kind. These are mostly doctored, and an average pipeful lasts some ten minutes. The average pipeful of good tobacco should last from twenty to thirty minutes. Tobacco is the least adulterated article of commerce, yet large quantities of adulteration are added, usually to the cheaper sorts. These adulterations include water, oil of aniseed, glycerine, salt, sugar and molasses.

Here are a number of don'ts for smokers, some of which no doubt will surprise a good many men: Don't smoke directly after a meal; There is the almost irresistible craving to smoke, but it is wiser to wait a half hour or an hour. Don't smoke out of doors in a high wind or in cold, frosty weather. In the former case it is dangerous and in the latter it cracks the lips and prevents proper breathing. Don't smoke with the cigar or pipe held at the corner of the mouth. This excites the secretion of more saliva than when the cigar or pipe is held straight in front. And, above all, don't get into the bad habit of expectorating frequently when smoking. It is quite unnecessary, being merely a habit and harmful.

SIGNS OF RAIN

The hollow winds begin to blow,
The clouds look black, the glass is low
The soot falls down, the spaniels sleep,
And spiders from their cobwebs creep.
Last night the sun went pale to bed
The moon in halos hid her head.
The boding shepherd heaves a sigh,
For, see, a rainbow spans the sky;
The walls are damp, the ditches smell
Closed is the pink-eyed pimpernel.
Hark! How the chairs and tables crack
Old Betty's joints are on the rack;
Loud quack the ducks, the peacocks cry;
The distant hills are looking nigh.
How restless are the snorting swinel
The busy flies disturb the kine;
Low o'er the grass the swallow wings
The cricket, too, how sharp he sings.
Puss on the hearth, with velvet paws,
Sits wiping o'er her whiskered jaws.
Through the clear stream the fishes rise
And nimbly catch the incautious flies.
The glowworms, numerous and bright
Illumined the dewy dell last night.
At dusk the squalid toad was seen,
Hopping and crawling o'er the green;
The whirling wind the dust obeys,
And in the rapid eddy plays;
The frog has changed his yellow vest,
And in a russet coat is dressed;
Though June, the air is cold and chill,
The mellow blackbird's voice is shrill.
My dog, so altered in his taste,
Quits mutton bones on grass to feast;
And see yon rooks, how addle their flight,
They imitate the gliding kite,
And headlong downward seem to fall
As if they felt the piercing ball.
'Twill surely rain, I see with sorrow
Our jaunt must be put off to-morrow.

CELEBRATED SKIDOO NIGHT AT ROLLER RINK

Skidoo Night was a great success at the roller rink last night, when a big crowd of both skaters and spectators were present. Everything was 23, including the admission, and the people enjoyed the affair immensely. The prize winners were: Harvey Staunton, Miss Riley, Miss Manhardt, Miss Walsh, Mr. Carson, Mr. Orval Hooper, Mr. Davis.

The next attraction will be the band concert on Friday night, and Hallowe'en sports on Saturday night. Monday night will be carnation night with prizes for graceful skating in couples.

THE word "OXOL" does not mean one food or one preparation. No! "OXOL" is a name given to all goods for horses, cattle, swine and sheep, prepared by Messrs. S. K. and T. C. Windsor, of Australia, New Zealand, England and Canada.

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under the name of

are all of the greatest possible order of merit and may be used by farmers, graziers, dairymen and all owners of stock with the full assurance that these goods have the power in a very short time to double their incomes by feeding, fattening and curing all animals, which to them means money.

Scientific Meetings will be organized by Messrs. Windsor and held through out the Dominion of Canada, when farmers desirous of improving their knowledge of stock will have an opportunity of doing so and to be instructed on the life of stock from birth to death, free of any charge.

GERMAN PRINCE IS A FLYER

Kaiser Wilhelm's Son Sails With Count Zeppelin.

SITS AT STEERING WHEEL.

Henri of Prussia Makes Trip in Inventor's New Dirigible Balloon and is Delighted With Ease With Which He Executes Difficult Feats—Greeted by Big Crowds in Country as He Passes.

Friedrickshafen, Oct. 23.—Prince Henri of Prussia spent several hours in the air yesterday as the guest of Count Zeppelin, who made an ascension in his remodeled airship, at a comparatively early hour. Not only did the prince thoroughly enjoy his experience, but he sat at the steering wheel for many miles of the flight, guiding the movements of the craft and compelling it to execute all kinds of complicated manoeuvres.

Prince Henri's satisfaction at the great flight was unbounded, and he gave expression to it in a telegram which he sent to the Emperor:

"Under Zeppelin's guidance I felt just as safe as in my own flagship."

Capt. Mischke also was a passenger when the start was made, in the direction of Uberlingen, to the northward of Constance. With Count Zeppelin himself at the wheel, the airship rose to an altitude of 600 feet and, moving rapidly against a strong wind, soon disappeared behind a bank of clouds. Soon messages began to arrive from the towns in the Rhine Valley announcing the passage of the airship, but about 2 o'clock in the afternoon a sonorous sound frm the sky indicated that the craft was returning. Soon it appeared above the thronged streets of Constance, where the prince gracefully saluted in acknowledgment of the ovation from the cheering crowds below.

After manoeuvring above Lake Constance in full view of the city for some time the airship made its way toward the Swiss frontier, disappearing in the direction of Tyrol. It returned to its moorings about sunset. Capt. Mischke said that the prince was anxious to remain for a few more flights, but that he was uncertain whether his engagements would permit. The prince expressed himself as astonished to find that the lengthy body of the airship showed only the slightest vibration. He regarded the vertical steering gear as simply perfect.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Fire destroyed 100 cottages at Salisbury Beach, Mass.

Windsor's population has increased 402, to 16,819. The total value of real property is given as $6,068,325, an increase of $418,960.

As a precaution against any disturbance during the visit of the second squadron of the American battleship fleet to Amoy, invitations to Chinese for the reception to the fleet have been limited in number to 400.

London Press Views.

London, Oct. 23.—(C. A. P.)—The Chronicle says Laurier's personal popularity and eloquence and his own high character carried him to the front. The existing preference ought now to be retained, not as bargain demanding a quid pro quo, but "out of gratitude."

The News says the tariff cause is killed and Canada responded to its grand old man's appeal for a chance to "finish his work."

The Morning Post says that at the next Imperial Conference, Canada will be represented by a Government averse from taking any step towards closer union except along the path of co-operation in commerce.

Roosevelt Has Birthday.

Washington, Oct. 23.—President Roosevelt observed his 50th anniversary yesterday very simply. He attended to his executive duties as usual, and, except for the reception of a delegation from the Hungarian Republican Club of New York, in the east room of the White House, and the receipt of a large number of congratulatory messages, some floral tributes and gifts from the members of his family, the day was the same to him as any other day.

King Edward of Great Britain sent one of the first of the congratulatory messages received.

Beaten and Robbed.

New York, Oct. 23.—Accusing a man whom she had frequently met socially of having bound, gagged, beaten and robbed her of $300 in jewelry and $50 in cash, Mrs. Anna B. Plough, widow of a former president of the St. Paul & Duluth Railroad Co., caused the arrest of Elmer M. Swallow, a public weigher.

She said the robbery occurred in her home in Brooklyn last Friday night, only a few hours after she had been playing cards with Swallow.

Spittal Vindicated.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—The council of the National Rifle Association of England have now endorsed the Spittal position of firing at the ranges, and have written expressing regrets that Lieut. Spittal should have been interfered with at a critical period in his Baley shooting by the range officer. The letter of the secretary of the N.R.A. states that there is nothing laid down in the Binley regulations against such a position as that assumed by Spittal.

$1,500 Fire in Whitby.

Whitby, Oct. 23.—Yesterday at noon the evaporator works of the Whitby Fruit and Vinegar Company were partially destroyed by fire. The blaze originated from some unknown cause in the upper story. The building was a frame structure and the roof and walls were burned to the second floor, all below that being saved. About 250 cases of evaporated apples were destroyed, also several small machines. The loss will be about $1,500, with no insurance.

British Emigration to Canada.

London, Oct. 23.—(C.A.P.)—The Board of Trade emigration returns for the year 1907, issued yesterday states that British and Irish emigrants to Canada in that year numbered 117,525. Of these 290 were rejected by the Canadian authorities for the following causes: As paupers or likely to become public charges, 153; for disease, 24; idiocy or insanity, 90; convicts, 4; returned with rejected emigrants, 9; immoral, 10; not stated, 1.

Twelve Killed on Canal.

Washington, Oct. 23.—Information reached the Isthmian Canal offices in this city yesterday concerning two explosions of dynamite which occurred on the canal on Oct. 15, whereby 12 men were killed and 18 were injured, and the second at Mendi, where five men were killed, 10 injured and one missing. All of those killed and injured at Culebra Cut were negroes, excepting W. J. Davis, an engineer, and George Goodley, a crane man.

Took Coal Oil Shampoo.

Kingston, Oct. 23.—Louise Meakins, an English immigrant, went suddenly insane here and had to be taken in charge by the authorities.

She soaked her head with coal oil and was just in the act of applying a match when her rash act was discovered by people in the house.

Recommend Glass Floors.

London, Oct. 23.—Representatives of the Manchester libraries committee, who recently visited a number of libraries in Canada, is a report just issued, recommended glass floors with ventilation openings in the centre, as at McGill University Library in Montreal.

Trusses

Our success in fitting Trusses is phenomenal. Yet it is not to be wondered at. For 48 years, we have studied, tested, examined, invented. To-day, we guarantee to fit every ruptured person with a truss, that is not only easy and comfortable, but also a truss that will retain the rupture.

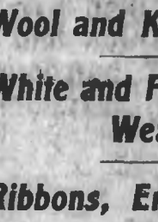
Our ability to help the afflicted, is limitless. Our Artificial Limbs enable those — who have lost one or both legs—to walk, ride bicycle, and even skate. Other helps for Spinal Curvature, Ununited Fractures, and other deformities, are made to order. If you are afflicted in any way, write us for the appliance to help you.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you or make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong and quiet, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the mental, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. You feel yourself a man, and marriage cannot be a failure. We invite all the afflicted to consult us confidentially and free of charge. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard-earned dollars.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.



BEFORE TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING PAGE

MANY CONTESTANTS EXPECTED FOR EXAMINER ROAD RACE

It is less than three weeks now until Thanksgiving Day, and the day of the Examiner Road Races. A number of local foot runners have signified their intention of entering the races, as have also several from outside the city, in the county. The races—five-mile junior and ten-mile senior, are open to any resident of the county who is an amateur and who is registered with the C.A.A.U.

The course for the seniors is from the ten-mile post in Lakefield to the Examiner office, and for the juniors from a distance of five miles on the Lakefield road to the Examiner office. Some of the local runners have been out training, and will be taking jaunts over the road in a few days' time.

Entry forms are given below, and those desiring to participate in the events are asked to fill in the blanks, cut out the forms, and forward them to the Examiner office:

EXAMINER ROAD RACE.

Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 9, 1908.

I hereby express my intention of entering the senior Examiner ten-mile road race, to be run on Monday, November 9, 1908, from Lakefield to Peterborough. Please enter my name among the contestants.

Signed.

Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 9, 1908.

JUNIOR EXAMINER ROAD RACE.

I hereby express my intention of entering the junior Examiner five-mile road race, to be run on Monday, November 9, 1908.. I have not as yet reached my eighteenth birthday. Please enter my name among the contestants.

Signed.

T. A. S. SENIOR HAD FINE PRACTICE AT RIVERSIDE PARK LAST NIGHT

The senior T. A. S. Rugby Club had by far the best practise of the season last night at Riverside Park, when a big squad were out in uniform practising for Saturday's big game with the T. A. A. C. Dr. McPherson was out in uniform and will play centre half on Saturday, and direct the play. He had a new code of signals ready last night, which the squad mastered rapidly and an hour of splendid work was put in, followed by a run of six times around the field. With Dr. McPherson on the line-up the locals will take a lot of beating on Saturday. Among the seniors out were O'Connor, Fitzpatrick, Davidson, Dillon, Deannard, Ecclestone, McPherson, Quinlan, Kelly, Cahill and Craig. The juniors had the following men in line, McGill, Cranfield, Henry, O'Donnell, O'Hearne, Clancy, Milloy, Kenneally, Galvin, Fitzgerald, O'Brien, Menzies and others.

The seniors will hold another practice to-night at seven o'clock and will also workout to-morrow and Friday night. Every player is expected to be at all these practices.

Chicago Cubs Preparing To Hibernate And Enjoy Rest

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The exodus of Chicago's Cubs to hunt their winter quarters began in earnest yesterday and will leave only the residents in Chicago by the end of another week. Pat Moran and his bride left last night for his family home in Fitchburg, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Sheckard also started east and will winter in Columbia, Pa., where Jimmy is proprietor of a furniture store.

Most of the Cubs who remained in town went over to Joe Tinker's home on the west side last night and helped the shortstop and his wife celebrate the fifth anniversary of their wedding with a stack of wooden presents. There is no danger, however, that any of the gifts will go to his head.

Tinker was discharged by Municipal Judge Beitler yesterday in the case of alleged assault brought against the Cub by John Ginocchio of 66 West Harrison street, who was also mixed up in a civil suit to obtain $350 of Joe's coin.

John Evers will depart for the shores of Troy. Manager Chance has his plans made to leave for California next Saturday and will spend the greater part of the winter there.

"Chic" Fraser received a letter from Lundgren conveying the news that Lundy's hired man had jumped his contract for a bush league farm and asking "Chic" to delay his trip to Idaho until a new hired man could be signed for the Marengo menage.

DR. McPHERSON TO PLAY AGAINST TORONTO A.A.C. IN SATURDAY'S GAME

Saturday's senior O.R.F.U. game between the senior T.A.S.A.C. and the Toronto A.A.C., promises to be a grand exhibition of Rugby, and will, no doubt, attract a big crowd of lovers of the game. The locals will be in first class shape for the battle and will go into the game determined upon victory, as a loss will put them down and out of the running. Dr. McPherson, the former Peterborough and Varsity star half, has been persuaded to turn out and will be found playing centre half for the locals on Saturday. His presence on the team will make a tremendous difference in the line-up, and will greatly strengthen the back division, which was weak in Toronto. Other changes will also be made, both on the back field and wing line, which are expected to bolster up the team all along the line, and (with this week's hard practising in signals, they will be in much better shape than at any time this season. The Toronto club will also be in fine condition, as they are playing two practice games this week with McMaster University. Their team will be stronger than when it met Peterborough before, and it will need to be, as the locals will take a lot of beating.

Dr. Vic McWilliams, of Keene, and Chris Graham will likely be the officials.

TURF CLUB HELD ANNUAL MEETING AND OFFICERS ELECTED FOR 1909

The Peterborough Turf Club starts out for 1909 with prospects that were seldom brighter, with a good membership, a strong body of officers and with every promise of a successful future. The membership is now in the neighbourhood of 30, some of whom are young men and all are interested in the welfare of the Club. The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

Hon. President—A H Stratton.
President—Dr. Johnston.
1st Vice-President—Dr. King.
2nd Vice-President—Dr. Leach.
Secretary—Eddie Jones.
Assistant Sec.—Murron Storey.
Treasurer—A A Hollingshead.
Track Manager—Martin Connors.

A Board of Directors comprising eleven members were appointed.

The "Walter G" affair of Fair Day was dealt with and it was decided to give Mr. Hodgins, of Orillia, until Nov. 1st. If he has not replied to the Club before that date, action will be taken against him.

The Club intends to do its best to provide clean races and ideal sport and its meets will doubtless be well conducted.

SHRUBB CHALLENGES LONGBOAT BUT WILL NOT BE ACCOMMODATED

Toronto, Oct. 27.—The following challenge has been issued by Alfred Shrubb, of Montreal: "I hereby challenge Mr. Tom Longboat to a series of three races at ten, twelve and fifteen miles, or such other distances as may be agree upon, and I back myself to any amount agreed on to beat him in at least two out of three of the races."

The great English "pro" climbed into the grand stand at Buffalo Sunday, after he defeated a three man relay at five miles, and made the same crack.

It is just the same with a pugilistic champion who draws the colour line. Every black battler in the country immediately hurls a challenge at him, knowing that he will not accept it. Shrubb is doubtless sincere in his desire to meet the big Indian, but the Indian and the Irish-Canadians have told the game little Englishman in no unmeasured terms that Longboat will not run him at any distance for any money, and Tom Flanagan tried to impress it upon his memory in the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, by a swing to the jaw.

Why doesn't Shrubb shut up and leave the big Indian in peace. Longboat is the champion amateur long distance runner of the world, and Shrubb is the king of the pro. brigade. No one disputes their titles. So long as Longboat desires to remain amateur, Shrubb should leave him in peace.

If Longboat ever turns pro. the first man he will take a whirl at is Alfie Shrubb.

A Canuck After Him

Shrubb's desire to race some good man in Canada may be realized here in Toronto, much sooner than he expects. A Canadian runner, recognized as one of the best in Canada, a man who is considered Longboat's most serious rival in amateur ranks, is considering a proposition to turn professional and run Shrubb 10 to 20 miles indoors here.

If he does run the race whill attract a bumper crowd, for the runner is about as popular as the erratic Indian.

YANKEE ROGERS

YOUNG HACKENSCHMIDT ARRIVES; CONFIDENT OF WINNING BOUT

Young Hackenschmidt arrived in the city this morning from New York for his match with Yankee Rogers in Brock street rink on Friday night. He looks fit and well and speaks most confidently of his chances against the big Yank. He figures out that his speed will enable him to gain the victory over Rogers. "You have never seen Rogers up against a first-rater," he remarked to the Examiner this morning. "Mohl is a strong man and a good Greco-Roman wrestler, but he is not fast enough for the catch-as-catch-can game. I was all around him in my match with him in Nova Scotia last year and won easily, and I think that I will be fast enough to make Rogers look to his laurels."

Hack. has been working out in Brown's gymnasium in New York City and is in fine shape. He always takes care of himself and is generally ready for a battle. He worked out at the rink this afternoon with a number of local wrestlers.

The referee has not yet been agreed upon and will not be picked until after Rogers' arrival. Sporting Editor Hayden, of the Montreal Herald, has been suggested by Manager Naylor, but nothing definite has been decided upon.

Two good preliminary bouts are being arranged and altogether there will be a great night's sport. The main bout should be a corker as both men have great reputations and have defeated most of the top-notchers, and they may be depended upon to put up a hard fight.

TY COBB'S WIFE IS THE RULER

She Says He is Not Going to Japan—Still He Might.

Columbus, Ga., Oct. 28.—Ty Cobb has about decided to listen to pleas from Mrs. Cobb and spend their winter in Georgia rather than on the baseball tour to Japan with the barnstormers. "Ty will put in the winter hunting. You may say so for me, and I speak for him," said pretty Mrs. Cobb, who, will take her husband to Augusta to visit her own folks.

BURNS ANXIOUS TO HAVE IT ALL

His End to be $30,000 Win, Lose or Draw—Will He Ever Meet Johnston?

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 28.—Tommy Burns has sent the following cable to his manager, Billy Neil, who is unable to join him in Australia because he is believed to be at the point of death:

Billy Neil, Monrovia, Cal, U.S.A.: Johnson end, $5,000 and expenses. My end, $30,000, win, lose or draw. Fighting my last battle Dec. 1. Come sure. Rules same as outlined.

TOMMY BURNS.

Neil explains that "rules same as outlined" means:

"That it is to be a 16 foot ring fight to a finish. Men to fight themselves loose—fight at all times. Either can use fingerless kid gloves or soft bandages next to hand, but not both."

Burns' cable shows that there has been some tall bluffing somewhere—sort of a "nigger in the woodpile," as the old saying has it. Mr. Fitzpatrick, who handles Johnson, gave out before leaving England that the terms were "60 per cent to winner and 40 per cent. to loser." This statement was a joke to every one who had heard Tommy's terms when Johnson begged for a match before.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head is the bane of so many lives that here is where we make our great boast. Our pills cure it while others do not.

ACHE

Carter's Little Liver Pills are very small and very easy to take. One or two pills make a dose. They are strictly vegetable and do not gripe or purge, but by their gentle action please all who use them.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister of intending homesteader.

DUTIES—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of Interior

TRAIN FOR BUSINESS

Most men train their brains and almost entirely neglect their bodies. They do not seem to realize that keenness of judgment and clearness of thought depend as much on the body as on the brain itself. Any man can prove this to his own satisfaction by attempting to decide a weighty business problem while suffering with an acute attack of indigestion or a violent spell of biliousness.

The amount of work that the brain can do depends much on the healthfulness of liver, bowels, kidneys and skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. They act directly on liver, bowels, kidneys and skin—and enable these vital organs to rid the system of all impurities. Thus the blood will be kept pure and rich, the brain active, digestion sound, and life made pleasant.

"Fruit-a-tives" are now put up in two sizes—the new 25c box as well as the regular 50c size. If your dealer does not carry them, write Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"BEEHIVE" OFFERING BARGAINS

Building and Alteration Sale is Being Conducted There.

Commencing yesterday and continuing until Nov. 7, the Bee Hive has inaugurated a two weeks' building and alteration sale. One quarter will be taken off the price of everything in the store in order to make room for the builders. The housewives of the city are taking full advantage of the opportunity to lay in a supply of fancy goods and novelties for Christmas. All the made-up goods and fancy materials will be sold at sale price during the Building Sale, and everything from a spool of thread to the finest garment may be secured at a quarter off. This means a great loss to the management, but it is necessary in order to quickly make room for the alterations.

Mantles, skirts, blouses, hosiery, underwear, stoles, storm collars, fur muffs, wool and kid gloves, white and flannelette wear, ribbons, embroidery, laces, children's dresses, and headwear, all may be had for one quarter off. The bargains offered are attracting big crowds of buyers.

CONDUITS FOR ELECTRIC WIRING

Used in the Work in the New Armouries —Safeguard Against Fire.

The electric wiring that is being strung through the new Armouries is according to the most modern ideas. To-day a large switchboard, which will control the entire lighting, was received from the C.P.R. and taken to the ubilding, where it will be installed. It is a marble slab with many switches of various sizes, and was manufactured by Jones and Moore Electrical Co., Toronto. A feature of the work is that all the wiring will be covered. That is the wires are strung through specially prepared pipes of a particular metal, similar to lead in appearance. It is inspected and approved by the underwriters and is a modern conduit for electric wiring. These are found throughout the building, and danger from electric wiring is thus eliminated.

HUNTERS SPECIAL

Miss Daisy Whetung, daughter of Mr. Daniel Whetung, Chemong, met with a painful accident on Monday night while returning to Mrs. Begley's residence, 561 Weller street. She misjudged the step in front of the door and fell on her wrist, resulting in its fracture.

STRATTON'S MAJORITY NOW AT 350

A Gain of Six at Silver Lake—Official Returns at End of Week.

The returns received to-day from Silver Lake, Galway, gave Mr. Stratten nine and Mr. Burnham three out of the twelve votes polled. This adds six to Mr. Stratton's majority, giving him now 350. There is yet one subdivision to be heard from in Cavendish. This is No. 24 at Hugh Cochrane's house. At Austin Ford's home in Cavendish the candidates made an even split, with nine all. Most of the ballot boxes have been placed in the sheriff's hands, but those from the north have not yet been brought down. The official returns will not be known until Friday or Saturday.

MAPLE LEAFS WIN THEIR GAME

Defeated Rustlers at Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

The Maple Leafs outpointed the Rustlers at the Y.M.C.A. last night in the scheduled basketball match for the Cressman trophy, the final score being 58 to 29. The Rustlers were outplayed and outweighed, but nevertheless put up a good fight. The Rustlers were much lighter than their opponents, who combined accurate shooting and fast combination with their weight.

The teams were:

Maple Leafs—R. Best, S. Lang, G. Martin, J. Bowning, J. D. Sutherland.

Rustlers—Hall, Pringle, Lees, Meldrum, Max Dobbin.

There was a good attendance, and increased interest is being taken in the games.

Every player of the T.A.A. seniors is expected to be out at Rivervale Park to-night for practise. The team will work out regardless of the weather conditions. The practise is called for 7 o'clock.

GRAIN TRAFFIC ON WELLAND CANAL

3,690,495 Bushels of Grain Passed Through the Canal During First Half of Month.

25 PER CENT. INCREASE

Port Colborne, Oct. 29—Grain traffic on the Welland Canal for the first half of this month exceeds all previous records. Grain-carrying vessels passing down from Oct. 1 to 14 number 50, and the total number of bushels of grain, 3,690,495.

The half month was ended Thursday night last and the records quoted closed Wednesday night. The number of bushels of wheat carried in the first half of the month comes very near being 25 per cent. higher than the records for any previous 15 days. Following are the lighterages at the elevator at Port Colborne recently:

Neepawa, 26,626 bushels of wheat; Westmount, 21,552; Rosemount, 17,678; Masford, 18,408; Fairmount, 20,363; Glenellah, 16,411; Duneim, 14,945; Dundee, 9,986; Advance, 64513.

COMPLETE RETURNS SHOW A MAJORITY OF 353

Poll at Cochrane's House Gave Mr. Stratton Majority of 3 Out of 9 Votes.

The returns from Hugh Cochrane's House in Cavendish received today give a majority of 3 for Mr. Stratton. The vote stood, Mr. Stratton 6, and Mr. Burnham 3. This makes Mr. Stratton's majority 353 with complete returns in. The official count which will be held this week may alter these figures slightly—not more than 10 or 15 votes either way.

FOOTBALL ABOLISHED; BIG BOYS SPIN TOPS

Angered by Rule Abolishing Football, They Turn High School into a Nursery.

Pueblo, Col., Oct. 29.—Central High School resembled a kindergarten when the pupils, to show their contempt and ridicule for the orders of the school board that the school shall not have a football team, came to school dressed as little children, and thronging toys.

Large boys in short trousers, shirtwaists and big bow ties, carried tops and marbles, and the girls with their hair in pigtails, adorned with big ribbons, nursed big dolls and Teddy bears and played with jacks. Immediately upon the assembling of school the boys commenced spinning tops and rolling marbles on the floor.

Efforts to restore order were unavailing and the senior and junior classes, among which were the chief offenders, were dismissed. The pupils gathered outside the windows of the study hall and kept the school in an uproar by loud yells of defiance. Principal H. M. Barrett finally made a talk to the pupils and they agreed to return to the school and behave.

Members of the school board say that they will remain firm in their decision against football.

RIFLES WILL BLAZE ON THE TRAIL OF THE DEER WHEN THE SEASON OPENS ON MONDAY NEXT

Parties Leaving Peterborough to Enjoy Two Weeks in the Haunts of the Antlered Tribe—Everything in Readiness.

SATURDAY IS GET-A-WAY DAY

It is with genuine delight that the Peterborough lovers of the chase are looking forward to next Monday when the season opens, and they are now making preparations to leave at the end of this week in order to be on the trails on Monday morning. The men believe they are going to have ideal weather, and the thought of getting a bead on a big antlered buck crashing through the brush sets the nerves a-tingling and makes the men anxious to get into the game.

The evenings, too, provide pleasant pastimes, and during the next two weeks the primeval wilderness to the north will resound with songs such as "Everybody Works but Father," "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," "Every Little Bit Added to What You Got, etc.," "In the Evenin' by the Moonlight," "Save up Your Money," and numerous others. And the stories that are going to be told, and the others that will be manufactured as some lone nimrod keeps his watch beside a trail along which Mr. or Mrs. Deer fails to appear.

Deer Lake Club

The Deer Lake Hunting Club, composed of Messrs. J. B. Larocque, R. H. Shepherd, J. Meharry, Louis Howdry, and B. Larocque of Toronto, will leave Peterborough for the vicinity of Deer Lake on Friday morning. The boys anticipate a jolly good time and expect to get their number of deer.

The members of this club held a meeting at the Montreal House a few night ago, to conclude arrangements, and everything is now ready to start out.

Eagle Lake Club

A happy party, probably numbering sixteen or eighteen sportsmen, will spend their allotted two weeks at Eagle Lake Hunt Club are Captain Eagle Lake Hunt Club are Captain J. J. Cottingham, Geo. Fitzgerald, C. Gunsolus, H. Evans, W. White, O. Dumble, R. Sheehy, Felix Brownscombe, H. Lovekin, C. Gunn, Mark Dobson, John Gibbs, T. Parker. They will join Chas. Butcher and "Bessie" Mitchell, who have been back at headquarters during the past three weeks. A friend of Mr. O. Dumble, from Montreal, will be with the party.

Swamp Lake Club

Saturday morning will see the Swamp Lake Club depart for their grounds in the northern part of the county. It is composed of Messrs. Alex. Calder, Ed. Graham, Fred Gobb, Bert Scriver, Thos. Arnott, Geo. Metcalf and Alex. Young.

Bottle Lake Club

There will be nothing slow in the neighbourhood of the Bottle Lake Hunt Club's camp when they get back for their annual sport. They leave on Saturday night as follows: Dr. Amys, Gus Cochrane, M. O'Brien, Arthur Head and J. F. A. Fitzgerald. They will probably be joined later by Messrs. W. Westlake and M. Blewett.

Other Parties

Mr. R. J. Soden will join an Orillia party for a fortnight's sport in Northern Ontario. Mr. J. D. Collins and Mr. W. Black of Cobourg will hunt through the upper limits of Hastings county. Messrs. Thos. and John Brightman have also departed for their annual chase. Mr. Con. Young joins a Lakefield party for the upper extremity of Peterborough county.

For Big Game

Mr. Jas. A. Storey and Mr. R. A. Elliott have gone to Seagram's Falls, New Ontario, where they expect to find big game. Moose are said to be plentiful and their hopes should be realized.

Gladman Party.

Ten members of the Gladman party which consists in all of fourteen hunters, left on the early C.P.R. train this morning for the Parry Sound District where they will spend the next two weeks. Among those in the party are Chas. Gladman, S. Ray, Curtis Bros., G. M. Roger, Dickson Rest, B. A. Lillie and H. Lovekin.

Sinclair-Ellis Party.

Rev. Geo. W. Henderson, at the Charlotte street Methodist church, is hutnign with the Sinclair-Ellis hunting party which left Lindsay this morning for Long Lake, Anson township, twenty-eight miles from Gelert station on the G.T.R. Mr. Dougald Sinclair, of Lindsay, is captain and Guide. The party is composed of the following in addition to Rev. Mr. Henderson:

The Sinclair-Ellis hunting party will leave to-morrow morning for Long Lake, Anson township, 28 miles from Gelert station on the G. T. R. Mr. Dougald Sinclair is captain and guide, and this makes his 29th trip to the north country for a deer hunt. The party comprises D. Sinclair, Johnston Ellis, Lindsay; Wm. Thorndyke, Oakwood; C. H. Hopkins, Ops; Rev. Mr. Irwin, Newcastle; Martin Leverty, Toronto; F. Galbraith, Port Hope; Rev. Shorey, Cobourg, and Less. Veitch of Lindsay will look after the cooking.

After Moose

The Needler-Reesor party left Lindsay for Sudbury, thence to Wanup on the new C.P.R. line, where they will spend three weeks moose-hunting. The party comprises Messrs. B. F. Reesor, Wm. Needler, John Hutchinson, Lindsay; R. Waddell, Peterborough, and C. Needler, Millbrook.

Mr. Ed. Gregory, accompanied by Mr. A. E. Bottum of Bobcaygeon, leave to-morrow morning for Barry's Bay on the Canada Atlantic Railway. They are going with the Robt. Neill party from Peterborough.—Lindsay Warder.

SIXTY WOMEN IN BURNING BUILDING; PRIZE FIGHTER KILLED BY FALL

J. N. Barber, (Special)

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 29.—Fire broke out in the fourth floor of the Neve building this afternoon and about 60 women are believed to be in the building. Many are in the windows preparing to leap. The firemen are using fire nets. One of the firemen fell from a ladder and was taken to the hospital seriously injured. Kid Purcell, a prizefighter, fell from the third floor while assisting thre firemen and was killed.

WORKLESS MEN MADE VICTIMS OF FAKE ADVERTISEMENT

Toronto, Oct. 29—Special.—Wanted—Two hundred men to pick apples; highest wages, and fares to destination. Apply, Simington, 15 Laurier avenue, between 1.30 and 2 p.m., on Wednesday.

The foregoing alluring advertisement, inserted in two evening papers Tuesday night by some individual with a remarkable sense of the humorous, gave over a hundred men, many of them penniless and forced to spend their last few coins on car fare, a fruitless journey for work in the pouring rain yesterday.

The funny person who placed the liner in the newspapers apparently thought he was playing a good joke on Mr. E. Simington, who was married at the home of Mr. G. F. McLean, 15 Laurier avenue, yesterday afternoon. The advertisement requested the applicants to call between 1.30 and 2 p.m., but the first man, poorly dressed and wet through, knocked at the door at 7.30 in the morning. The family, after some difficulty, convinced the disappointed man that he had been the victim of a hoax. Other men continued to arrive in ones and twos in the morning, and during the time fixed in the advertisement they came in groups. Some of the later arrivals were saved the trouble of going to the door by others who stood around the front of the house in shivering, miserable groups, getting a certain amount of grim satisfaction in imparting the news of the hoax to fresh companions in disappointment.

Mr. McLean and the members of his family are naturally very much upset about the affair. They have a fair idea as to the perpetrator of the hoax, and the matter may be placed in the hands of the police.

A STRONG MAJORITY.

The Mail and Empire and the journalistic degenerates that follow the yellow path it marks out, find a morbid pleasure in trying to fight for the shadow that the majority of the Liberal Government is only 45 or 46. As a matter of fact, when the field of battle is cleared and the results arrived at, it will be found that the Government majority will be nearer 56 than 46. But what does it matter? The Government's majority is like Mercutio's wound, "not as deep as a well nor wide as a church door, yet it will serve." Whether the Liberal Government's majority is 46 or 56, "it will serve" to give the country another five years of good and progressive administration. Twenty-six of a majority in one way would be as effective as forty-six or fifty-six. However, a large majority means a strong government, equipped to carry out a strong programme of progress and reform; for there are many things to remedy, as well as create. Under the long reign of the Conservatives, departmental abuses and practices crept in, which, tolerated for a time, have developed into conditions which must be drastically dealt with. The Government in the last parliament grasped the nettle and the work of reform will be continued under the support of a parliamentary majority sufficiently strong to permit dealing with matters with a strong hand. With a generosity, perhaps, more large than wise, official and associated systems, inherited from a former regime have been left undisturbed. If the Liberal Government in the past has erred, it has been in the direction of avoiding the appearance of evil—in avoiding the application of the spoils system. On principle there is much to justify the retention of Conservative officials, of course, always assuming that they are efficient, that they do their duty and are loyal to the political chiefs, who have placed upon them the responsibility of effective administration of departmental and national affirs. That, in many cases, these inherited officials have not been loyal to their chiefs, but have played partisan roles in the interests of the party to whom they originally owed their places — that the have abused their positions and taken courses embarrassing to ministers and obtructive to the proper administration of the public service, is well known. To deal with such conditions a government will not be placed at a disadvantage by having a strong parliamentary backing.

"CHOICE TOMATOES" AND GOOD GOVERNMENT.

The Edmonton Bulletin publishes a fac-simile of a letter written by a Western Conservative "worker" which shows that the Conservative campaign of purity extends from the "choice tomato" belt of the East—Colchester—to the bottled "booze" belt of the West. The following is a literal reprint of a letter written by Mr. H. A. Macdonald, a prominent Conservative in Paynton, Saskatchewan. It is perfectly self-explanatory, and smacks strongly of Colchester confidence in the argumentation value of strong drink, a confidence that does not seem to be lacking in "headquarters," not a thousand miles from the corner of George and Hunter streets. This is the purity letter verbatim et literatim:

Clover Lake Sept. 1st.

(Wm Kennealy Esq.:

Dear Sir,—Seeing that the Dominion Elections are soon coming on, & knowing what a strong supporter your are of the conservative party I thought maybe you would like to do something to help us out here. Mr. Codd the hotel Keeper from Paynton was out here at the local Election with all kinds of Booze, & will Be out again. Now Mr. Kennealy I am a Teetotlar my self. But the Pres. of our association Bought a jug himself & done good work for the party as a Drink goes a long way with people So I thought if you wanted to do something for the party if you could send out a jug or two to our Pres Mr. Wm Clay, Mervin P.O. is his addres, Sask. He will get more votes than any five men out here. Hoping to hear from you favorably as soon as possible. I remain as Ever yours Truly For good Government

H A McDonald,
Sec. 39-50-21, Paynton, Sask.
Clover Lake District.

There are seven Dominion elections to be held yet. Of these, the following, held by Liberals in the late Parliament by the appended majorities, will likely go Liberal; Commox-Atlin, B.C. (acclamation); Kootenay, B. C. (767); Yale-Cariboo (764); Gaspe, P.Q. (1362); Prince Albert, Sask., a new constituency, will probably also go Liberal. Yukon and Chicoutimi, P.Q., will probably return Conservatives. The result will be a net addition of three to the Government majority.

THE IRON PATH OF PROGRESS.

The progress of Canada during the twelve years of Liberal administration has been attested in a thousand and one different ways. In none, perhaps, has it been more marked than in railway development. In every part of the Dominion, railway expansion since 1896 has been phenomenal, but it is only necessary to take the record of the Grand Trunk Company for the past twelve years to realize what has been accomplished under a progresive Government in the direction of forging new links of communication, extending and multiplying the highways of commerce, blazing new trails to the markets of the world, and generally adding to the blessings which flow from an improved and perfected system of transportation.

While the Conservatives were in office, trade was so stagnant that all the double-tracking which the Grand Trunk found it necessary to carry out up to 1896 cost $5,843,669. Since the Liberal Government went into power a sum of no less than $9,089,994 has been expended on double-tracking—which means that the expansion in this one direction during the past twelve years has been nearly double what it was from the inauguration of the system until the Conservatives went out of office.

In the matter of equipment, the development has bene no less striking, the figures showing that since 1896 the enormous sum of $52,963,748 has been spent on new rails, stations, engines, cars, etc.

What this phenomenal expansion has meant to labour may be gathered from the fact that the total pay roll of the Grand Trunk has almost doubled in the past decade. In 1898 (the earliest year with which a reliable comparison can be made) the wages amounted to $9,969,717. In 1907 they totalled $18,274,427, an increase in nine years of 83 per cent. While much of this increase is to be attributed to the larger business handled, a very considerable proportion is due to increases in the rates of wages paid to the various classes of employees, these ranging from 20 to 30 per cent.

It has been said that the difference between Conservative and Liberal administration is the difference between deficits and surpluses. The record of the Grand Trunk Company bears remarkable testimony to the truth of that statement. In each of the three last years of the Tory regime the company were confronted with a deficit, amounting in 1894 to $475,135, in 1895 to $619,206, and in 1896 to $209,149. With the advent of the Liberal Government came a change. The reign of deficits passed away, to be followed by a succession of surpluses, increasing in amount every year. Thus, the amount available for dividend in 1897 was $1,352,798, and it steadily advanced, until last year it reached the tidy sum of $4,100,139.

Even more significant is the comparison between the last twelve years of Conservative administration and the same period of Liberal rule. From 1884 to 1895, inclusive, the amounts available for dividend to Grand Trunk shareholders totalled $8,850,160; from 1896 (including the deficit) to 1907 they totalled $29,812,216, or an increase of 244.7 per cent.—Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Geo. E Foster says the Liberal Government "got a distinct shock" on election day. The Conservative party would give its right eye to be the victims of a similar shock.

Hon. J. R. Stratton has been given a splendid majority in West Peterborough. The fact bears eloquent testimony to the popularity in his home county of one of the best abused men in public life in Ontario.—Brantford Expositor.

NEW SIGN AT NATIONAL HOTEL

Attracts Attention From Charlotte and George Streets by its Brilliance.

Among the extensive alterations and improvements which are being made to the National Hotel is a large new electric sign extending upwards from above the entrance off Charlotte street parallel with the front of the building. It is one of the best signs in the city presenting an appearance after dark which savours of the metropolitan. The letters of the word National lead from the top to the bottom each being illuminated, with the result that the word may be seen far down the street and will certainly catch every eye from the direction of George and Charlotte street. Mr. Denison continues the work of improving the hotel which is showing the effects of the attention it has received. The interior has been carefully renovated and renewed and is bright in its furnishings and thoroughly modern.

A MONTREAL MAN

Run-down, Sick and Despondent Because He Had Failed To Get Help.

RESTORED TO HEALTH BY VINOL

"I was in a very run-down condition. Abscesses broke out on my body and my digestion was seriously impaired. I lost flesh and strength and was in a very bad way altogether. I was under different doctors' care but did not derive any material benefit from their treatment.

"This state of affairs went on for several months and I became very despondent and thought I would never be well again. My attention was then drawn to Vinol and I purchased a bottle from Bryson's drug store. The first bottle did me good so I continued its use, and am to-day as well as ever I was. I also find Vinol a splendid remedy for colds." Alfred J Lann, 1987 Delorimier avenue, Montreal, Quebec.

This is because Vinol is a genuine tonic and body-builder which contains peptonate of iron together with every one of the body-building medicinal elements of cod liver oil, but without one drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work. Vinol acts directly upon the stomach, creates a healthy appetite, and enables the digestive organs to obtain the necessary elements from the food eaten to make rich, red blood, healthy flesh and muscle tissue and create strength.

Your money back if Vinol fails to benefit. McDermid & Jury, druggists, Peterborough.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—The ratepayers on the east side of Concession street, East City, are patiently waiting the pavement that was promised long before three other streets near by were petitioned for. These walks have been laid, but Concession street walk, being in a far worse condition than these, is left. We hope before the workmen leave this part it will be attended to or more will be said later.

Yours truly,
ONE OF THE RATEPAYERS.

A POSSIBILITY

That Became a Fact and Pleases Many People.

A. R. Lewis M.D., in a lengthy article in the columns of the American Journal of Health, says, concerning hair: "Its deterioration is a constant source of worriment to humanity, consequently bald people are readily deceived by 'fake' hair restoratives. The wish that a hair preparation will 'fill the bill' is father to the fancy that it is likely to do so. A rare case in point is that of Newbro's Herpicide, which actually does 'fill the bill.' It destroys the parasite that attacks the hair root, preventing dandruff, falling hair and baldness." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes — 50c and $1. McDermid & Jury and Payne's Drug Store, special agents.

DEATH DEALING WELL.

Score of Workmen at Mexican Oil Plant Are Killed by Fumes.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 29.—Deadly fumes from Mexico's great oil well fire, 60 miles from Tampico have killed more than a score of workmen during the past few days, completely blackened the white paint on the side of the ships, endangered commerce and caused thousands of dollars damage to ranches and other neighboring interests, according to Capt. Michael Henrichsen of the steamship City of Mexico, which reached New Orleans on Monday night.

Battling to save what they could from the wreckage, American mine owners, after spending more than a million dollars, finally succeeded in extinguishing the blaze, but even greater terror than before prevailed then. The flames had consumed the noxious gases, but when the fire was stopped the gases burst forth. Laborers, inhaling a bit of the stuff, dropped in their tracks, dead.

Owners of the well have applied to the Mexican Government and several companies of soldiers have been sent to the scene to take the places of the laborers, who refused longer to remain there.

TEN YEARS FOR ASSAULT.

Brantford Indian Who Shammed Insanity Gets Prison Term.

Brantford, Oct. 29.—Ezekiel Hill, charged with assaulting Mrs. Levi General on the Six Nation reserve, in July last, was sentenced yesterday afternoon to ten years in Kingston Penitentiary by Sir John Boyd.

The jury, after a few minutes' consideration, returned a verdict of guilty.

The Indian never moved a muscle during the passing of the sentence for the crime, which the judge said had been deliberately planned and carried out with cunning.

Mrs. General was attacked during the absence of her husband, and was menaced by Hill, who shot at her and finally succeeded in his purpose.

After his commitment he shammed insanity and was removed to the Hamilton Asylum. The question of his sanity was first settled by a jury Tuesday.

British Coin Frees Russ Prisoner.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 29.—Nicholas Tschaikovsky, the aged Russian patriot, who has been imprisoned in this city for nearly a year, was released yesterday at 3.45 p.m. The fund subscribed in England to cover the bail demanded by the Russian Government for Tschaikovsky's release was received here Tuesday and was deposited in the Imperial Bank yesterday.

Nicholas Tschaikovsky was the first leader in the reform movement in Russia and was known as the "father of the Russian revolution." He was arrested on the Russian frontier Nov. 23, 1907, and at once confined in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul.

Killed In Cement Works.

Belleville, Oct. 29.—Harold Burton, a young Englishman, employed at the Belleville cement works at Point Anne, three miles east of this city, met with instant death yesterday morning, while working.

He was engaged on a tramway when he slipped, falling a distance of about 40 feet. He fell on his head, which was terribly crushed. Coroner Yeomans deemed an inquest unnecessary. Deceased has two uncles here, and intended leaving for home in England next month.

To Face Two Charges.

Windsor, Oct. 29.—John Hardy, who is under arrest at St. Thomas on a burglary charge, is wanted in Windsor and if acquitted there will be brought here for trial. The local police have received Hardy's photograph and he has been identified at pawnshops, where he disposed of goods taken from the residence of Andrew Purocher here.

Acting In Harmony.

New York, Oct. 29.—The Times, in an editorial, sees a happy augury in the fact that five of the signatories of the Berlin treaty are acting in harmony for the first time since the crisis arose, especially as it is unlikely that Germany and Italy acted without Austria-Hungary's knowledge and consent.

A Prince In Steerage.

New York, Oct. 29.—When the Nord Amerika, from Naples, arrived Tuesday one of the steerage passengers, a short, slender built man, swarthy in complexion, who announced that he was Prince Immanuel of Jerusalem, informed the ship news reporters that he had come to the United States to raise funds with which to build a universal university on the site of King Solomon's temple in the Holy City. If his plan is carried out, he said, any one may obtain a university education by correspondence at a small outlay. He was in uniform.

Incendiary Fire.

Cayuga, Ont., Oct. 29.—The barns and outbuildings of Patrick Fagan, a farmer in the Township of Oneida, were destroyed by fire yesterday. Everything was lost, but no horses or cattle had yet been stabled. The loss is a heavy one for Mr. Fagan.

The cause of the fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin and a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Bruce Lonsdale, who has been recently employed by Mr. Fagan. It is said they had a quarrel and Lonsdale left, but is reported to have been seen recently in the neighborhood.

Embezzled $1,250,000.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—William Montgomery, cashier of the Allegheny National Bank, until the discovery of a shortage in its funds of over $1,250,000 early last summer, necessitating closing the institution, was for the second time this week found guilty of embezzlement and abstraction of funds, his speculations in the two cases amounting to $813,000.

The case concluded yesterday involved the abstraction of $144,000 worth of the bank's bonds and as in the first case Montgomery offered no testimony in defence.

Cruelty to a Horse.

Lindsay, Oct. 29.—When Mr. Davidson of Glendine drove into town he put his horse in the Benson House sheds. When he was ready to go home his horse was gone. Making inquiries he learned that a horse was seen traveling at a high rate of speed west. Mr. Davidson tracked the thief and horse to Blackwater. He found the horse tied in a swamp and suffering from inflammation. The horse died after being taken a mile out of Blackwater. A young man by the name of Brooks has been arrested.

Charged With Blackmail.

Hamilton, Oct. 29.—William Huckle, the self-styled chief of the International Detective Bureau, was committed for trial on three charges of blackmail and attempted extortion by Magistrate Jelfs yesterday morning, and John Tierney, who was jointly charged with Huckle, was also committed. The prisoners both entered a plea of not guilty.

Suicides Over Elections.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 29.—Tired of life and full of chagrin at the result of the elections, Edward Griffiths, a rancher living at the Royal Oaks District here, placed a shot gun to his head and blew out his brains. He leaves a wife and three children.

A Knock From Glasgow.

London, Oct. 29.—(C. A. P.)—The Glasgow Herald says if any more concessions are made to Canadian manufacturers it will demonstrate on how precarious ground it is proposed to erect the imperial preferential scheme.

Election Excitement Fatal.

Montreal, Oct. 29.—Alexander Robb, father of the new M.P. for Huntingdon, died Tuesday from heart disease, due to excitement over the elections. He was 83 years old.

Sentenced to Four Years.

Orangeville, Oct. 29.—Convicted on a charge of theft, Clifford Cooper, 14 years of age, was yesterday sentenced by Magistrate Paitullo to four years in the Mimico Industrial School. On Sunday, Oct. 4, while the family were at church, Cooper entered the house of John Wright and stole a lady's gold watch. The lad was taken to Toronto last night.

Subsidized Steamers to Canada.

Wellington, N.Z., Oct. 29.—(C.A.P.)—Sir J. Ward strongly urges that New Zealand should subsidize a steamer service to Canada to prevent the Argentine Republic from seizing Canada's frozen mutton trade.

A large majority assured Ward in the elections that prohibition is expected to be carried in several new districts.

Killed Returning Home.

Winnipeg, Oct. 29.—Walter R. Colgate, a well-known Winnipeger who has been in the insurance business here for the past twenty years, fell from the train at Ignace, Ont., and was killed. Mr. Colgate was returning from a prolonged visit to England, where he had gone for the benefit of his health. He was 45 years of age and unmarried.

Fell From Bridge to Death.

Brantford, Oct. 29.—Robert Knight, aged 15, son of John Knight, Eagle avenue, was killed yesterday morning by falling from the T., H. & B. bridge over the Grand river. He tripped on a nail, and his skull was fractured and neck broken.

ADDRESS ON HOME MISSIONS

HOSPITAL AT WAKAW

There was a large number present at St. Andrew's school house last night to hear Miss McLeod tell of the work being done in the Home Mission fields, and especially in the hospitals. The rain was the only reason why there was not a crowded house, but those who went were exceedingly well repaid. Miss McLeod is a sister of a former physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., and a large number here will remember the family.

The home missionary spoke of the work being done by the Presbyterian Church in the Northwest, and especially in the hospital at Toulon, north of Winnipeg, where Miss Bell, daughter of a former pastor of St. Andrew's Church, is a nurse. The hospitals at Wakaw and Vegreville were also spoken of. In connection with these hospitals, two mission homes are maintained at Ethelbert and Sifton.

Miss McLeod is at Wakaw hospital, which is thirty-six miles from Dane station on the C.N.R. It was started five years ago by Dr. Arthur. Among the number who are assisted by these institutions are Polish, French, Russians, Swedes and Hungarians. Most of them are of the peasant class and the considerate treatment they receive at the hands of both the government and the church is simply surprising to them. In fact the generosity displayed, has created a suspicion that it for some selfish purpose.

The clothing sent out by the ladies is freely distributed, and greatly sought after. While the picture books, etc., sent by the children are much appreciated.

The speaker referred to the work of the church among the Galicians. A number of the young men are being trained in the Manitoba College as ministers to their own people.

In answer to a question Miss McLeod stated that the nurses in the hospitals do attend cases outside the hospitals when called upon.

LOCAL OPTION TALKED OF BY HAVELOCK PEOPLE

On Monday, at Havelock, a largely signed petition was placed in the hands of the clerk of the municipality, Mr. James Bryans, asking the municipal council to submit to the electors a local option by-law. The matter will come up for consideration at the first meeting of the municipal council.

THANK-OFFERING SERVICE HELD AT KNOX CHURCH

The annual thank offering services in connection with the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Knox Church was held yesterday afternoon and was an enjoyable and interesting session. The president, Mrs. MacPherson, was in the chair. Miss McLeod, Wakaw, gave an address on "Missions," which was followed with close attention by the audience.

A duet was sung by Mrs. Patten and Mrs. Parker, after which the meeting was closed with the usual devotional exercises.

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS

FULTON'S RENAL COMPOUND

"Kidney trouble" is inflammation of the kidneys without albumen.

"Bright's Disease" is inflammation of the kidneys with albumen.

In each the real trouble is INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, hence a cure for one must be a cure for the other. There has been no cure for either.

But many kidney troubled people get well.

True—because inflammation of the kidneys unless severe commonly gets well at first. But if it does not yield early and the inflammation persists, the real trouble begins.

You can see why kidney disease has been incurable and why the deaths have risen to over 170 per day up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known that would reduce inflammation in the kidney tissues.

The old kidney medicines were a misconception, irritating the inflamed kidneys to renewed efforts instead of allaying the inflammation, some of them being actually harmful. Result—physicians have abandoned them.

No matter whether you call it "kidney trouble," "Nephritis," or "Bright's Disease," if it has been hanging on a few months, recovery can be only hoped for through this specific. It has a proven efficiency in nearly 87 per cent. of all cases. It is the only thing known that controls inflammation in the kidneys, which is the real difficulty with kidney troubled people.

PROMINENT MUSICIANS ON THE GREAT SHEFFIELD CHOIR

The soloists who are coming with the Sheffield choir were busy fulfilling notable engagements throughout the United Kingdom prior to their departure. Mr. Henry Brearley, the principal tenor, sang before the King and Queen on July 7th last. Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, the leading contralto soloist, appeared before Her Majesty the Queen of Spain, Princess Henry of Battenberg, and Princess Christian on August 20th, last.

The Warden of St. Michael's College writes Dr. Harris, as follows:—"I shall follow with interest the doings of the Sheffield Choir. I have never heard better singing than theirs at your concert in London last year." Dr. Vogt, conductor of the Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto, has addressed an open letter to the people of Toronto speaking in the highest possible terms of the choir. That the people of Toronto are taking a big interest in its visit is proved by the fact that when the sale of tickets opened on the 14th instant at Massey Hall for the concerts to be given there over one thousand dollars was taken in two hours for subscriptions, and this no less than six weeks ahead of the date of the concerts. Mr. Houston, manager of Massey Hall, writes: "Applications from as far east as Kingston have been received at this time for tickets and the interest appears universal."

Dr. Ham, the well known Canadian composer, writes:—"I feel that the Sheffield choir will give us great things at the Toronto concerts." Dr. Coward says:—"We are working most vigorously in every department to prepare for the concerts. Added to all my work, I have to conduct the Newcastle festivals and the Southport festivals, but we shall give of our very best to Canada, a country which I am convinced is deserving of the best England can offer."

Dr. Coward's forceful personality is tireless, and his enthusiasm communicates itself to each and all of the members of his chorus. This is how he succeeds in obtaining ever new effects in the famous works for which his choir is famed, and which surprise even those to whom they are as household words. The Sheffield Choir comes to Peterborough on Nov. 12th.

Barn Raising And Bold Robbery Go Hand-in-Hand

Tweed Young Men Heavy Losers —More Making Merry After Work of the Day.

"JIMS" SUFFER THE MOST

Tweed, Oct. 29.—Special.—Mr. M. H. Howard's Glen Lowis had a successful barn raising on Monday. The boys certainly deserve great credit for the way they worked. The great timbers went together to perfection and much earlier than was anticipated, the last rafter was in its place. But when we remember a "little time" had been promised them we don't wonder they worked with a vim.

The ladies, too, seemed to be on the alert and at the last tap of the hammer supper was announced "served."

About fifty men did ample justice to the good things provided. Willing hands soon cleared everything away, and a good time commenced in real earnest. The music was perfect and as the first strains pealed forth the young couples took their places, then dancing which seemed the very poetry of motion continued unabated for hours.

Never was there a happier crowd. Our cup seemed full when on every act we could see the smile of approval on the genial countenance of our reeve.

Suddenly some remembered their rule of early to bed, and prepared to take their leave, when it became evident that a thief or thieves had been working amongst the rigs, taking everything that could be easily carried off. Robes, coats, rugs and halters were amongst the missing, and whether by luck or not we can't say, but the Jims of the evening seemed the heaviest losers. Jim Finley, the first to prepare to go, missed his coat; but happily for him one of the ladies saw him (in an absent minded moment) place it in a remote corner. However the next "Jim Peck" was not so fortunate as both robe and overcoat were gone out of his buggy. Only just for a moment did he relieve his feelings by a few well chosen words. We can easily excuse him knowing at that moment the altar vows rose up before him and that it was impossible to protect without a robe. Jim Houser who had been enjoying himself it was reminded by some of the more thoughtful that he was to deliver milk at the Victoria, and very much against his will he too had to take his departure, but his buggy was robbed of two overcoats, mitts and rug. Jim Kenney's robe was amongst the missing. Numerous other buggies from Crookston, Sodorn and Madoc were robbed.

Never was such a bare-faced robbery committed and it is sincerely hoped the guilty party or parties will be found and given the full benefit of the law.

The Board of Works Has Meeting; Many Requests For Sidewalks And Sewers Are To Be Laid Over

The Board of Works Committee of the City Council held a meeting last night to clean up the slate in preparation for the regular monthly meeting of the council on Monday next. As usual at this season of the year there were a large number of requests for sidewalks and sewers to be constructed this fall. It is likely, however, that most of them will have to be left until next year.

Those present were Chairman Ald. Phelan, Mayor Rush, Aldermen Morgan, Butler and Tovey.

The Water Commissioners intend laying a water main on Aylmer street, north, and City Engineer T. A. St. Hay, submitted a profile of a grade which he has established. This he suggested should be confirmed by a bylaw to protect the council from damages to property in the future.

It was moved that the engineer's suggestion be adopted, and a bylaw be prepared.

Mr. Paquette presented a duly signed petition for the sewer on Patterson street, west of Park, and he asked that the sewer be laid at once, as he has a couple of tenants now who went to go into his new houses.

On motion it was decided that this sewer be gone on with.

A letter was received from Thomas Guernin, complaining about the condition of the road at the corner of Gilchrist and London streets. He claims that every time it rains the mud and water flows into his place.

Aberdeen Street Sewer

Mr. Taylor was present and asked for a sewer on Aberdeen street to the new house he is building. He said the Water Commissioners would put the water in it the Board of Works would raise a portion of the road so that the Commissioners would not have to dig so deep.

The engineer pointed out that the road will have to be filled to a depth of 19 inches, and the city had not material. It was intended that the crest of the hill be cut down and that material used for filling in.

Mr. Taylor will, however, bring the water from the Normal school to his house this fall, and the council will build the sewer from Aylmer street along Aberdeen avenue to his house.

The request was granted on condition that Mr. Taylor gets the water in.

Private Sewer

Mr. Laplante was present in reference to a sewer on Murray street, south, down a lane to the rear of lot 4. He asked permission to connect with the city sewer. There will be three double houses emptying into it. On motion the request was granted, and Mr. Laplante will pay for the whole cost.

James Graham guaranteed to deliver to the city 200 cords of field stone at a price to be agreed upon. The matter was left over.

A number of petitions for granolithic walks were read, but as the board now has more than it can do, they were all laid over.

ELECTION RESULT AS SEEN BY OTHER EYES

The Lindsay Post of Oct. 27 says: The news of the election of Hon. J. R. Stratton in West Peterborough was received with genuine satisfaction by his many friends in Lindsay. A representative of the Post was in the Electric City yesterday and states that the excitement there was at fever heat. Both sides worked energetically, but early in the afternoon the Conservatives threw up the sponge and admitted the defeat of Mr. Burnham.

When the returns were announced from the city, and it was found that Mr. Stratton had carried it, the scene was indescribable. The climax came, however, when the results from the townships were thrown on the canvas. The people swarmed the streets in thousands, cheering wildly. The parade in the evening was a grand sight, the discharge of fireworks illuminating the heavens and adding a brilliancy to the festivities. During the evening Mr. Stratton was deluged with congratulations from the leading public men of Canada.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITIONS

—All cities over the Province are preparing for their exhibition, and Peterborough is no exception to the rule. It is the time we meet our old and new friends, and those who are not our friends. It is also the best time for the introduction of the newest and smartest cuts in fall suits and where they can be shown to the greatest advantage. The New York Ladies' Tailoring establishment have removed their parlours and workshop from 658 George street to 387 Reid street, opposite St. Peter's Cathedral, for the better accommodation of their patrons and are prepared to take orders in any line of ladies' garments. GERMAN BACHELORS TO BE TAXED

Kaiser's Suggestion Looked Upon Now As More Than a Joke—Married Men Favoured.

WILL LIKELY BECOME LAW

Berlin, Oct. 29.—Bachelors are to be taxed on the bill which the Government proposes to introduce at the forthcoming session of the Diet becomes a law.

The bill is the direct outcome of a suggestion made some time ago by the Kaiser, who in a speech referred to the desirability of imposing a tax on bachelors. At the time the suggestion was regarded as a joke.

The manner in which the Government proposes to tax bachelors is to modify the income tax in favour of married men with children, which will differentiate taxation in such a way as to impose a greater burden on bachelors and also on married men without children than on the heads of families.

The new bill proposes that all those paying income tax on incomes not exceeding two thousand dollars shall be entitled to deduct twenty dollars for every child.

A differentiation in favour of married men with children already exists in Prussia so that the new law will merely bring about an extension of the present system.

The income tax law of 1891 provides that those paying taxes on incomes not exceeding $750 are entitled to deduct $12.50 for every child. The Supplementary Act passed in 1906 extends this in favour of those paying on incomes not exceeding $1,500.

The New "Kabo" Corsets

¶ We have a complete assortment of these famous Corsets. Every model is here in every size. We are displaying the models this week on forms in our Corset Department. You are cordially invited to come and see them. And if you have never worn the Kabo Corset, there is an agreeable surprise in store for you. You will find out what it is when you have worn a Kabo Corset for a few days. And they cost no more than the inferior sort!

NOTICE

The committee in charge of the Sheffield Choir concert, on Thursday, Nov. 12th, beg to announce that in view of the possibility of cold weather on that date, they have decided to have the choir appear in the Opera House instead of the Brock Street Rink, as originally stated. As a consequence the price of seats must be maintained at a somewhat higher figure on account of the smaller seating capacity of the Opera House than that of the rink.

The committee wish to say that the visit of the choir is undertaken, not with a view of making money, as the immense expense in connection with the project precludes any such possibility. Should there be any surplus it will be handed to the Children's Aid Society. The subscription lists which will entitle to first choice of seats, are in the hands of Mr. D. Hughes-Charles. P. Campbell, J. Crate, R. Gliddon, W. Stocker, W. F. Nelson, Geo. Ball, Herbert Gillespie and others. Already about 500 seats have been signed for and the outlook is for an audience which will tax the seating capacity of the Opera House.

DICKENS IN TORONTO

This will interest literary folk. Isn't it a trifle significant.

On May 12, 1842, Charles Dickens, the novelist, wrote a letter from Montreal to his biographer, Foster, in which he said:

"We have been to Toronto and Kingston, experiencing attentions at each which I should have difficulty in describing. The wild and rabid Toryism of Toronto is —I speak seriously—appalling."

Charles Dickens didn't have any difficulty in sizing up Toronto even as far back as 1842.

The above extract can be found on page 123 of Forster's "Life of Dickens."

SOME Y. W. C. A. NOTES OF INTEREST

Shakespeare Class Will Meet This Evening—Study of MacBeth.

Mr. A. Mowat's Shakspeare Class will meet this evening at 8 o'clock. The first study from Macbeth will be given. All young women are invited.

The Bible Circle, at the meetings of which "Women of the Bible" are discussed, will hold a regular meeting to-morrow evening at 7.30. "Rebecca" will be studied. We cordially invite you to join us.

On Sunday afternoon at 4.15 Miss Palmer will address the mothers' meeting. This is a bright half-hour service.

First Aid Class—Dr. Greer will lecture on "First Aid and Home Nursing," continuing his lectures of last winter. This class will be formed on Thursday evening, Nov. 5, and will meet each Thursday evening.

We ask all members of the Association to reserve next Tuesday evening for the masquerade party. Join with us in making this a jolly night.

LOCAL ADVERTISING AND ITS VALUE

Hints and Suggestions to the Progressive Merchant.

From the Canadian Grocer.

Our correspondent in his letter this weeks has some remarks to make on the value to the retailer of local advertising that are sound and to the point. We would like to see more attention given to this phase of the grocery business, and to that end invite our friends to give us their experience and suggestions. Given two grocers in a small town—one of them a regular advertiser in the local paper, and the other advertising spasmodically or not at all—and it is not a difficult matter to pick the winner with precision. To the retailer who is just starting in business, this method of announcing himself a candidate for trade is the surest, safest; and in fact the only away which can be relied upon to attract to himself the attention of the people he most desires to reach. The initial expense to which he will be put is merely nominal compared with the amount of money he would waste by sitting down and waiting for business to come to him. Let him at the outset engage a small space in his paper and fill it with new copy every week, as he can afford. Nothing so surely illustrates the progressiveness of a man as the amount of advertising he is able to do.

Dairy Industry Netted $442,971 In Peterboro' County Last Year

Statistics Showing Importance of Canada's Cow—One of Our Best Money-Getters—Price Increased

CONDITIONS NOT IDEAL

Interesting figures relative to the dairy business are found in Bulletin VIII issued by the Dominion Government wherein the census of the manufacture of butter, cheese and condensed milk in Canada is given for the year 1907.

A comparison by provinces shows that in Eastern Canada attention has been largely diverted from cheese making to butter making. In each of the five eastern provinces there is a decline in the production of cheese, whilst in three of them there is a large increase in butter-making. Against the decrease in quantity of cheese produced has, however, to be set an increase in price, owing to which Ontario, the largest cheese-producing province, shows as in the case of all Canada, an increase in total value for 1907 as compared with 1900, notwithstanding the decrease in total production.

The statistics of this bulletin were compiled from returns from 3,518 butter and cheese factories and seven factories producing condensed milk and cream. The value of land, buildings and plant is $8,564,440 and of working $1,641,787; the number of persons employed in factories during the year was 6,586 and the amount paid for salaries and wages was $1,811,875. The quantity of butter made in factories during the year was 45,930,294 lbs., with a value of $10,949,062; the quantity of cheese made was 204,788,583 lbs. with a value of $23,597,639; and the quantity of condensed milk and cream made was 12,176,136 lbs. with a value including all products of condenseries of $910,842. The value of all dairy products at factories was $35,457,543 in 1907, $33,257,674 in 1905 and $29,731,922 in 1900.

Butter and Cheese

The value of butter in 1900 was $9,240,972 as compared with $10,949,062 in 1907 an increase of $3,708,090, or 51.21 per cent. In 1900 the average price per lb. was 20 cents and in 1907 it was 24 cents. The quantity of cheese produced in 1900 was 220,833,269 lbs. and in 1907 it was 204,788,583 lbs., a decrease of 7.83 per cent. The value was $22,221,430 in 1900 as against $23,597,639 in 1907, an increase of 6.19 per cent. The season of 1907 was not a good one and the production of butter and cheese in that year was therefore less than it otherwise would have been and the price per lb. was higher. The price per lb. in 1900 averaged 10 cents and in 1907, 12 cents.

Ontario's Showing

Ontario, the largest cheese-factory province, turned out 8,862,618 lbs. of butter in 1907, as compared with 7,559,542 lbs. in 1900, a gain of 1,303,076 lbs. or at the rate of 17.24 per cent. The value of this product in 1907 was $2,120,467, as against $1,527,935 in 1900, the increase being $592,522 or a percentage of 38.78 Cheese production in Ontario fell from 131,967,612 lbs. in 1900 to 129,693,010 lbs. in 1907, a decrease of 2,274,602 lbs. or 1.72 per cent. But whilst the value of the larger quantity in 1900 was $13,440,987, that of the smaller production in 1907 was $15,106,030 or $1,665,043 more —a percentage increase of 12.39.

Peterborough's Record

The number of factories in this county is 40, of which the value of the land, buildings and plant is $84,350.00; the working capital is $26,707.00. The number of persons employed is 73, who receive in salary and wages $27,250.00. There were 144,316 lbs. of butter manufactured, at a value of $36,661. Of cheese there were 3,510,097 lbs. returing the handsome sum of $406,310. The value of the cheese and butter output from this county was valued at $442,971.00.

Cheese Factories Close For The Season; Butter Should Be Cheaper

Someone has whispered that the price of butter is going to take a slump, and the average housewife is hoping that this forerunning hope will be realized. The fact is that the cheese factories are on their last week's manufacture, and beginning with next week, the farmers will keep the milk at home, and in consequence the amount of butter for market sale is bound to increase. It is only natural to expect that the price of butter will be loosened, and will drop from its 30-cent position, which it has long held. A prominent dairyman stated to-day that it was very probable that the price of butter would take a swoop, and the citizens should be on the lookout for any weakening of the present price.

The cheese factories have had a favourable season, although in some respects it might have been better. However, there seems to be a spirit of satisfaction pervading dairy circles as a result of the large make of cheese. Just at present the yield of milk is small, and the offering at the next and the concluding meeting of the cheese board will show a considerable falling off. It is hoped that the expected decrease in the price of butter will be experienced very shortly.

PEDDLER IS CHARGED WITH THEFT OF VALISE AND BATHING SUIT

Jas. Reid, a man of sixty years of age, who says he is a peddler and that his people live in Toronto, was arraigned on a charge of stealing a valise and bathing suit from Mrs. Mary English, who keeps a boarding house at 251 George street. Reid was unable to plead. He informed the court that it was all a blank to him, but he elected to be tried by His Worship.

Mrs. English testified that Reid had come to her place on Friday night and had taken a room there. Yesterday morning she told him to leave the house and he promised to do so after dinner. She was on George street between four and five o'clock in the afternoon, when she saw the prisoner with a valise she recognised as her property, in her hand. She had followed him to the corner of King and George streets, where he had turned west on King street. She had telephoned to the police station and on coming out saw Reid on King street without the valise. She identified the valise produced in court as his.

"Have you any questions to ask?" inquired the magistrate of the prisoner.

"It's all a blank to me," replied Reid sadly.

P. C. Newhall testified to having arrested Reid in Lawson's restaurant on Charlotte street last evening at six o'clock. The prisoner was under the influence of liquor, but judging from his remarks the officer concluded that he was the man who had stolen Mrs. English's valise. Last night the officer searched along King street until he had the valise where it had apparently been thrown over a fence unto Mr. Peter Hamilton's property.

The prisoner made a plea for leniency, saying that he had no recollection of the affair, and that he had never been in court in his life before.

At the request of the chief he was remanded for one week.

Fair Directors Will Visit The Hilliard Farm On Saturday

Next Saturday morning the directors of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society will drive up to the Hilliard property for the purpose of examining it, with a view to taking it over for exhibition purposes. There are about one hundred acres in the area, which, it is understood, will be given to the society by the city. However, there is a great deal of work to be done in the way of improvements, and the location may not appeal to the directors.

The present fair grounds are very favourable for the demands of the society, and the rental is said to be very small. But there are drawbacks which prevent the directors from making the progress they desire. For instance, the buildings are not what they want, and the directors are not in a position to make the improvements they would like, since they do not own the property. They feel that to bring the Peterborough Fair up to the standard aimed at, they should have land of their own. On Saturday, therefore, they will consider the advisability of taking over the Hilliard farm.

A RARE TREAT

The public are promised a rare treat on the occasion of the appearance of Miss Jean Blewett, the popular Canadian Authoress and Poetess. She comes to Peterboro under the Auspices of the Young Ladies Mission Circle of Charlotte St. Church, on Friday evening, Oct. 30th. No one should miss hearing Miss Blewett in her interesting repertoire. id—75

SEVENTY PLACED UNDER ARREST

Tennessee Night Riders Are in Jail and Four May Swing.

RINGLEADER IS CAPTURED

Burton Has Made Startling Confession of Details of Two Murders and an Attempt to Lynch Col. Taylor—Judge Harris Protects Home With Dynamite Mines — Two Women Were Whipped.

Samburg, Tenn., Oct. 29.—The suspected ringleader of the night riders in this section is a prisoner at Camp Nemo. His name is Carrett Johnson.

Not less than 70 men alleged to have been connected actively with the night riders in this vicinity are under arrest, and the authorities believe enough evidence has already been collected to hang at least four men.

The confession of "Ted" Burton is the sensation of the day, both here and at Union City, and it is believed that he has not yet told all he knows about the killing of Capt. Rankin.

John F. Cockran, the man captured after a chase on the lake, has confessed that the night rider outrages have included the whipping of women. One woman was whipped for leaving her husband, another for being of ill-repute.

Burton, one of the alleged leaders of the Night Riders, who lynched Capt. Rankin, killed a detective who pursued them and sought to slay Col. Taylor, has made a complete confession.

"I was with a crowd of 100 men and boys who live around here," he said, "and the night we laid the plans to lynch Rankin and Taylor all of us gathered on the banks of Reelfoot Lake and talked over the plot.

"All of us had been told that Rankin and Taylor were responsible for the passing of the law stopping our fishing in the lake. That made us mad, because most of us hadn't any other way to live, and so we decided to get rid of them."

In order to avoid lynching by the night riders, who fear his testimony, Judge Harris of Tiptonville, whose life has often been threatened, has planted mines on the approaches to Tiptonville, which can be touched off by a system of electric wires at any point. No one dares approach his house without permission, for the mere turning of one of his electric switches will touch off a mine where he chooses.

LEVIED BLACKMAIL.

One Drumbo Man Admits Charge—Another Is Accused.

Woodstock, Ont., Oct. 29.—J. B. Rounds of Drumbo appeared in the Police Court yesterday, charged with having been a party with Robert Colwell, who has pleaded guilty to obtaining $300 by blackmail from Chas. Damm of this city on Christmas night, 1906.

Damm's story, supported in many particulars by Colwell, who was placed on the stand by the crown, was that Colwell and Rounds took him into a back hotel room and that Colwell told Damm he was under arrest for the murder of Fuller, Colwell's son-in-law, but that he could get off for $300. Damm said he paid Rounds $17 at once and paid Colwell $300 a few days after.

Rounds denied connection with any crooked transaction and denied any conspiracy to defraud Damm. Judgment was suspended until Friday, when Colwell will appear for sentence.

New Style Aeroplane.

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 29.—Frank J. Heinfelt has made a successful flight of 500 feet with an aeroplane materially different from that of the Wright Brothers, in that in this machine the single plane principle is used, the Wright machine having double plane surfaces.

Although hitherto unknown in the aeronautic world, Heinfelt has built three previous machines, paying his expenses out of his slender salary as a stenographer. His motor was given him by a friend, who took it out of an old automobile.

The flight was terminated by a lack of skill on the part of the manipulator, who brought the machine to the ground too suddenly, breaking one of the wings.

FRENCH MORE POLITE.

Earl Grey Tells Convention That Ontario Can Learn in Quebec.

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—The National Council of Women opened its annual meeting in Ottawa last night with a public meeting in the Normal School auditorium, at which His Excellency Earl Grey presided. Nearly 100 delegates from local councils throughout Canada are in attendance.

Earl Grey in his address last night declared that the French-speaking population of Canada were better mannered than the English-speaking population and Protestant Canada could take many lessons in politeness from Catholic Quebec. He urged women of Canada to devote more attention to training children in habits of courtesy and good manners.

Dr. P. H. Bryce, chief medical officer of the Department of Immigration, in an address on public health, advocated joint municipal and the Government action to prevent the growth of congested slum districts in Canada by paying more attention to the housing problem among the poor and the settlement of immigrants on the land rather than in great centres of population.

Lord Milner on Tariff Reform.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Professing the belief that within a few years at least Great Britain would adopt a policy of Imperial trade preference, Lord Milner, speaking as the guest of the British Empire League last night, urged that nothing should be done by those self-governing states, which had adopted the principle of preferential trade, to hamper the progress of the movement in the Motherland. Lord Milner also took occasion to deal shortly but emphatically with the attitude of the people of Great Britain towards Canada. It was not on account of any unfriendly feeling that the advances of the colonies with regard to preferential trade had not been accepted. The Opposition in Great Britain was an intellectual and logical one and did not proceed from any unfriendly spirit. Lord Milner left for Ottawa last night.

Made Easy Money.

Buffalo, Oct. 29.—Robert B. Otis, son of the president of the Atlas Manufacturing Co. of New Haven, Conn., according to his story, was arrested here on Tuesday for securing money under false pretences. He admits that he has made at least $50 a week for a year "working" cities in this country and Canada. He declares that in Toronto he found plenty of easy money. His game has been to call upon prominent families, learning first some of their family connections in other cities, and during the conversation state that his pay check had gone to another city, and he would like to obtain the loan of ten dollars for transportation.

Bulgaria Peaceable.

Sofia, Oct. 29.—The 14th National Hungarian Assembly was convened for its autumn session yesterday afternoon. The speech from the throne was read by Emepror Ferdinand, and was eminently pacific in character. He defended the recent course of his Government.

"Peace and prosperity are inscribed on the banner which was unfurled at Pirnovo, Oct. 5, and I count upon my valiant and progressive people to assist me in the defence of our righteous cause of securing peace and spreading the work of civilization in the Balkans."

Assaults Attorney-General.

Winnipeg, Oct. 29.—An aftermath of the bitter election contest here took place yesterday afternoon on Main street, when E. L. Howell, K.C., son of Chief Justice Howell, attacked Hon. Colin Campbell, Attorney-General, who has now sworn out a warrant for Howell's arrest.

The matter arose from a conversation over the 'phone between Howell and the Attorney-General last Saturday night, when the former demanded admittance to two Liberals arrested and placed in the provincial jail on bribery charges.

A Pioneer of Clinton.

Clinton, Oct. 29.—In his 93ad year Mr. Edward Dinsley, the oldest resident of the town, and one of the earliest settlers in Huron county, died at his home Tuesday. He was interested in several business enterprises in the pioneer days and helped to build up the town. He had been a continuous resident, and leaves a large family, several of the boys occupying prominent positions in the United States, and two daughters living in town.

THE JURY COMES TO NO AGREEMENT

No Verdict Is Found in Kimball Murder Case at Chatham.

JUDGE CONDEMNS AFFAIR

Mr. Justice Latchford In Address to Jury Charges Strongly Against the Chief of Police, Who Shot Prisoner Healey as He Was Escaping —Prisoner Says Gun Went Off by Accident Climbing Fence.

Chatham, Oct. 29.—After several hours' deliberation the jury in the case of Elliott J. Kimball, formerly chief of police of Leamington, charged with the murder of Wm. J. Healey, before Justice Latchford, decided just before midnight yesterday, they could not agree. The case went to their hands at 5.20 p.m. Tuesday. Kimball shot Healey while the latter was running away to avoid arrest for jumping a board bill.

Kimball himself was the last witness examined. He stated that the shooting of Healey was purely accidental, the revolver being discharged through a jar on the fence he was climbing over. Other witnesses testified that after the shooting Kimball had remarked that he had shot the man, who was getting away from him. None of these witnesses could remember having heard him say that the shooting was accidental.

Both Prosecutor Arnoldi and the solicitor for the defence, O. L. Lewis, K.C., made long addresses to the jury. Mr. Lewis emphasizing the fact that both the crown and court had barred evidence pertaining to Kimball's good character.

His lordship Justice Latchford made a strong charge against the prisoner. He belittled the prisoner's statement that the shooting was accidental.

"The character of Healey has nothing to do with it," he continued. "The lowest character in this country is protected by law. The unfortunate woman, Mary Wellington, whose illegal actions caused the shooting of this wretched man, says that she warned Kimball that Healey was dangerous, but we do not hear of Kimball using his gun till Healey ran away from him. Many constables appear to be under the misapprehension that they can shoot down a fleeing man. There is no law in this or any other civilized country which allows them to do so, and the sooner constables get this erroneous idea out of their heads, the better it will be for them."

Justice Latchford said that there were three verdicts the jury could bring in—murder, manslaughter, or not guilty. If they believed Kimball's story in the face of all the other evidence they then might bring in the latter verdict.

On opening the case the attorney for the defence objected to the charge of murder, but the court overruled, stating that the grand jury had decided upon that charge and he would have to abide by its decision.

The prosecution argued that, notwithstanding that Kimball was an officer, his case should be considered in the evidence the same as an ordinary citizen.

Attorney for the defence elicted the fact that Miss Mary Wellington had lived with Healey as his wife. In this connection she said that she had known him about a year. She had been intimate with him about three weeks. They had lived together as man and wife in Leamington and Tilbury. Healey had led her to believe they were married by showing her a false marriage certificate which he said was signed by a minister.

The woman who made the complaint which had caused Kimball to attempt the arrest testified that she had told him that Healey was a desperate man and would likely resist arrest.

The court commented that this warning had probably had its effect on Kimball and led up to the shooting.

W.C.T.U. Raps Uncle Joe.

Denver, Col., Oct. 29.—The National Women's Christian Temperance Union convention yesterday adopted with practical unanimity, a resolution commending the efforts of the churches to defeat the re-election of Jos. G. Cannon as a member of the Congress.

STUMPING NEW YORK.

Both Bryan and Taft Are Making a Whirlwind Tour In the State.

New York, Oct. 29.—Wm. J. Bryan was in excellent spirits when he started on his trip up the state yesterday. "I've had a delightful and busy time during my stay in New York," said he, "and I have learned something. I have learned that we waste a great deal of time in sleep. Before I had always supposed that a man must have eight hours sleep a night, but I find that you New Yorkers thrive on five hours."

Midweek of the last week of the Presidential campaign finds the political battle at its height and the "heavy artillery" of the two leading parties at work, chiefly in New York city and state. Both Presidential candidates and the Republican vice-presidential candidate are in or near this city.

Both nominees for the Presidency and both the nominees for governor made speaking tours in and near the city Tuesday.

Mr. Bryan broke all campaigning records by delivering more than twenty addresses in New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City, and was listened to by nearly 200,000 persons.

Mr. Taft made a trip through the Hudson River Valley, speaking at several towns on the way and closing the day with great meetings in Schenectady, Troy and Cohoes.

Gets $2,000 For Arm.

Brantford, Oct. 29.—Lloyd Brown, who sued the C.P.R. for unstated damages, was awarded $2,000 by the jury. Brown was stealing a ride on a freight train near Galt last October and was put off by the conductor, falling under the wheels and losing his right arm.

The jury held that the company was to blame because the conductor put Brown off while the train was in motion.

Bank Clerk Arrested.

Brockton, Mass., Oct. 29.—David E. Wilson, aged 22, of London, Ont., alleged to be a fugitive from justice from Chesterville, Ont., was arrested at a lodging house here yesterday by Inspector James H. Grace. Wilson was taken to Boston yesterday afternoon for arraignment before the U. S. Circuit Court. The allegation is that Wilson who was a bank clerk at Chesterville, broke into a general store next door and stole a large amount of cloth, neckties and other furnishings. In his room, it is claimed, cloth and furnishing goods valued at about $200 were found. Under a corner of the carpet was $500 in bills.

ROUGH RIDERS DEFEAT P. I. C. TEAM BY ONE POINT IN HARD FOUGHT AND WELL PLAYED GAME YESTERDAY

Battling it out in the midst of a downpour of rain, on a field that was treacherous everywhere and in spots a veritable quagmire, the Rough Riders managed to defeat the Collegiate Institute fourteen at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon, in the City League series, by the remarkably close score of 6 points to 5, after a game that was in doubt until the last whistle blew. It was a desperate, and at the same time a well played game. The conditions were anything but favourable to good Rugby. The going was slippery and the ball slimy, but in spite of that both teams handled the oval cleanly and there were few fumbles. In fact, the form shown by both teams was remarkable under the circumstances and the couple of hundred spectators forgot the discomfort occasioned by the disagreeable weather in the excitement and the excellence of the play. A big crowd of Collegiate students were on hand, including a coterie of girls, who cheered vigorously for the school team.

The Rough Riders succeeded in pulling out ahead, but without attempting to detract from their victory it must be admitted that their opponents had at nearly all stages a shade, and on some occasions a good deal more than a shade, the better of the argument. Forced by the weather conditions to adopt a style of play that favoured their heavier opponents, the Collegians carried out their tactics with a degree of success that was surprising, considering the difference in the weight of the two line-ups. It was almost impossible to call into play a running game, so that the students were compelled to use close methods and they worked well. By fine plunges, by the quarter and halves and end runs, in which their wings were used to carry the ball, they made consistent gains. On one occasion they carried the ball from mid field for a touch by a series of short gains in which end runs by Hall, Dobbin and Conroy were a prominent factor. This onward march the Rough Riders seemed unable to stop, and Hall finally went around the end for a well-earned touch down.

On the other hand, the try scored by the Rough Riders was more the result of chance than of good playing on their part. Laing punted to Gibson, who caught the ball at his own thirty-five yard line, and in attempting to return, kicked low with the result that his kick was blocked and Heffernan fell on the ball. The school claimed that it was "dead," but Giroux took the ball from Heffernan and galloped over for an easy touch down, having a clear field before him. The Collegians objected to the try, but they were overruled by the officials.

As has been said, both teams played grand Rugby. The school had the better team play and tackled better, but the Riders played a hard game with every man working at high pressure, and the struggle was a decidedly interesting one all the way. The school was the first to score. Hall getting a touch down in the middle of the first half, and the Riders scored a rouge before the half was over, leaving the score at the breathing spell 5 to 1, in favour of the school. The only score in the last half was a try by the Riders, which gave them the victory by 6 to 5.

Where every man was playing his part and playing it well, it was a difficult matter to pick out the individual stars. All did fine work and it was a game long to be remembered. Laing, for the Riders, did grand punting, considering the wet ball, and Cahill played a fine game at full back, catching and running nicely. Porter bucked the line well, and Giroux at centre scrimmage and Hayes and Heffernan on the wing line played brilliant games.

For the school the work of Hall, Dobbin and Conroy in carrying the ball, was especially conspicuous. All three gained ground time after time by swift dashes around the end. Quinlan played a splendid game, tackling and following up nicely. Geale hit the line cleverly, and, in addition, distinguished himself by some pretty tackling. All the backs did good work, especially Gibson, whose magnificent tackling was a feature.

J. D. Clarke was referee and Chris Graham umpire, and both gave satisfaction.

The teams lined up as follows:

Rough Riders.	P. C. I.
Back
Cahill	Fortye
Right Half
H. Quinlan	Gibson
Centre Half
Laing	Meldrum
Left Half
Corkery	Rankin
Quarter
Porter	Geale
Scrimmages
L. Giroux	Leahey
Hollingshead	Kirn
Inside Wings
Eastwood	Layfield
Forson	Anderson
Hayes	M. Quinlan
Middle Wings.
Pugh	H. Giroux
Coughlin	Hall, captain
Outside Wings.
Heffernan	Dobbin
Sheffield	Conroy

Referee—Jas. D. Clarke.
Umpire—C. G. Graham.
Timer—Nick Bawlf, Ottawa College.

The school kicked off at 4.30 o'clock, defending the south goal and play was in Rough Rider's territory from the start. The game was hard fought from the beginning. Runs by Cahill and kicks by Laing relieved the pressure and carried the ball back to centre several times when the school looked dangerous, but the students were not to be denied. Getting the ball at centre they proceeded to march down the field with line plunging and dashes around the end by the wings. The Riders seemed powerless to stop them and a ten yard penalty given for a Rider offside did not help matters. The school lost the ball on the "R. R.'s" 15-yard line, owing to slowness in scrimmaging, but they regained a moment later and Hall was sent around the left end, getting clean away for a pretty try, which was not converted.

The Rough Riders were not dismayed and came right back at the Collegians. Good kicking by Laing gained ground for them and then Porter bucked for a good gain. Cahill got away for a brilliant run and only a fine tackle by Gibson averted a try. The Collegian's line braced and held the Riders for two scrimmages without a gain. On the third Laing kicked over the line to Fortye, who was downed before he could get out with the ball.

In the second half the play was of the same desperately fought nature. Neither side had much advantage for the first few minutes, when the play raged around mid field. Then Laing punted to Gibson and the latter's attempt to return was blocked and as already explained Heffernan got the ball and Giroux went over for a try, which was not converted, putting the Riders in the lead for the first time, and as it afterwards developed winning the game for them.

The school made a brilliant rally and a grand effort to win out. Following the tactics adopted in scoring their first try they carried the ball down the field with short but steady gains until the Riders' thirty-five yard line was reached. From this point Meldrum attempted to negotiate a field goal, but kicked into his own wing line instead and it was Riders' ball on an offside. The Rough Riders by line kicking carried the pig skin to centre, only to lose it and then Hall by a brilliant run, gave the school a chance. However they were held for downs on Riders' twenty-five yards line and their opportunity was gone, as time was called before they could work within scoring range again.

The game cinches the championship for the Rough Riders, who have yet to meet with a defeat. They played good Rugby yesterday, and their victory over such a team as the school is a creditable one, while the Collegians are to be congratulated upon their plucky showing.

One thing is certain, that there is an abundance of material for future senior teams being developed.

MANY CONTESTANTS EXPECTED FOR EXAMINER ROAD RACE

It is less than three weeks now until Thanksgiving Day, and the day of the Examiner Road Races. A number of local foot runners have signified their intention of entering the races, as have also several from outside the city, in the county. The races—five-mile junior and ten-mile senior, are open to any resident of the county who is an amateur and who is registered with the C.A.A.U.

The course for the seniors is from the ten-mile post in Lakefield to the Examiner office, and for the juniors from a distance of five miles on the Lakefield road to the Examiner office. Some of the local runners have been out training, and will be taking jaunts over the road in a few days' time.

Entry forms are given below, and those desiring to participate in the events are asked to fill in the blanks, cut out the forms, and forward them to the Examiner office:

SENIOR EXAMINER ROAD RACE.

Thanksgiving Day, November 9, 1908.

I hereby express my intention of entering the Senior Examiner ten-mile road race, to be run on Monday, November 9, 1908, from Lakefield to Peterborough. Please enter my name among the contestants.

Ball Players Return To Their Professions For Winter's Work

The major league ball players have for the time being stepped down and out from public attention, but even at that their post-season and winter work is chronicled. Some of them have trades and professions, as will be seen from the following:

Christy Mathewson, the premier twirler of the Giants, has recently branched out in the insurance business; John J. McGraw, manager of the New York National League Club, runs a billiard parlour. Johnny Kling the Cubs' catcher, is also an enthusiast of the cue and ivory balls and controls several such parlours. Roger Bresnahan is a detective in Toledo.

Pitcher Joe McGinnity has an iron foundry in Indian Territory, and when he isn't playing ball he devotes his time to managing his business. Luther Taylor, also a slab artist on the payroll of John T. Brush, runs a general store in his home town, and he is by far the most popular citizen of the place. Stony McGlynn, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, spends his "idle moments" as an officer of the peace in York, Pa. Addie Coss, the Cleveland pitcher, is a sporting writer. Harry Joss, a White Sox twirler, studied dentistry at Georgetown University, and when he isn't pulling teams out of a hole he's extracting teeth. He is not alone in this, for Mike Powers, the Philadelphia Athletics' catcher, is also a dentist. Napoleon Lajoie is president of a publishing house, while Carr and Bradley are business men.

Fred Clarke, manager of the Pittsburg Pirates, owns a ranch in Kansas. Clarke Griffith, one time manager of the Highlanders, also has a ranch in Montana. But of all the occupations in which the ballplayers engage, the oddest is that of Roy Thomas, the Buccaneers' centre fielder. While travelling around the circuit, and in winter as well, he solicits orders for a wholesale undertaking establishment. Honus Wagner, admittedly the greatest batter of the age, owns a farm and passes much of his time thereon, and he makes it pay well, too.

T. A. A. C. TEAM ARE CONFIDENT OF BEATING LOCALS HERE SATURDAY

Great interest is being shown in the senior O.R.F.U. Rugby game on Saturday afternoon when the Toronto A.A.C. seniors will clash with the T.A.S. Athletic Club's seniors. The Toronto club is bringing down a strong team and are confident of victory. They realize that a defeat will throw their chances of winning the championship into jeopardy and are therefore not taking any chances by being caught with a weak team. De Gruchy has recovered from his injuries and will be seen on the half line, and other changes have been made that are expected to strengthen their line-up. They will find in the locals much more formidable adversaries than on the last occasion when the two teams met. The T. A. S. were in no shape for a hard game when they met the Toronto Club before and encountering the T.A.A.C. on their own grounds with the thermometer at summer standard it was no wonder that they were trimmed. There should be a different story to tell on Saturday as the locals with Dr. McPherson on the half line and other changes made in the line-up will take a lot of beating. The team has been practising faithfully and will go into the game determined to win, knowing that a loss means good-bye to their championship chances.

There should be a big crowd on hand. The locals are being put to a heavy expense in bringing the Toronto Club here and it is hoped that the citizens will show their appreciation of their efforts by turning out in large numbers. It should be understood that there is no charge for the grandstand.

No officials have been agreed upon as yet. Chris Graham has declined to act as umpire and the Toronto Club do not seem to favour the choice of Dr. Vic. McWilliams as referee.

HACK SHOWS GREAT FORM IN TRAINING WORKOUT YESTERDAY

Young Hackenschmidt had a work out at the Brock Street Rink yesterday afternoon, in preparation for his match with Yankee Rogers, at the Brock Street Rink to-morrow night, and those who saw him in action say that there is trouble ahead for the big Yank. They call Hack a marvel of speed and say that he has the science of the game at his finger tips. He himself feels no anxiety over the outcome of to-morrow night's big bout. He realizes that Rogers is a crack wrestler, but confidently expects to beat him.

There is much speculation in the city in regard to the match. The greater part of the wrestling fraternity seem to regard Rogers as almost a certain winner, but those who have seen Hack perform are not so confident, and believe that the big Yank will have troubles of his own in disposing of the New Yorker.

Yankee and his manager, W. B. Naylor, are expected to arrive to-night. Mr. Naylor writes to state that the man is in the best of condition.

Two good preliminaries have been arranged. Ned Fitzpatrick will go on in a handicap wrestling bout against Jack Wilson, undertaking to throw him twice in fifteen minutes. The conditions should produce a lively bout, as both boys are in good shape.

A. C. Yokome and Bill Landry, who played for the Athletic ball team during the past season, will also look up in a preliminary bout that should be a corker.

Indications point to a record crowd being present as there is much excitement over the coming bout.

THE ROUGH RIDERS ARE CHAMPIONS

Have Not Yet Met With a Loss in the City League Race.

Yesterday's victory of the Rough Riders over Dr. McPherson's pets, the Collegiate Institute, gives the championship to the Rough Riders, who have won four straight games without a loss. The default of the Y.M.C.A. leaves the standing as follows, giving the "Y" games as victories to the team which they were scheduled to play:

	Won.	Lost	Play.
Rough Riders	5	0	1
Collegiate Institute	3	2	1
T.A.S.A.C.	2	2	2
*Y.M.C.A.	0	6	0

*Default.

The Rough Riders and Collegiate Institute have each one game to play with the T.A.S.A.C. which will end the league series.

T.A.S. TEAMS PRACTISE TO-NIGHT

Every Player is Expected to be Out at Riverside Park.

A practice of the T. A. S. senior Rugby team will be held at Riverside Park to-night at 7 o'clock, and as this will be the last practice before Saturday's game with the T.A.A.C., it is important that there should be a full turnout of players. The team will be picked to-night from those who are at practice, so that no member of the team can afford to stay away.

GAME WILL BE CALLED AT 2.15 O'CLOCK

Saturday's Struggle is Due to Start an Hour Earlier Than Billed.

The Y.M.C.A. juniors have defaulted Saturday's junior city league game to the T.A.S.A.C. juniors, so that the senior game between the T.A.S. seniors and the T.A.A.C. will be the only game at Riverside Park Saturday. The Toronto club has requested the locals to have the game called early in order to enable them to catch the 4.48 team for Toronto. It has therefore been decided to start the game at 2.15 o'clock instead of 3.15 o'clock as announced on the posters. The public is asked to note that fact.

RUGBY

There will be no high tackling from Peterborough football team in the next few years. Dr. A. W. McPherson, the ex-Varsity player, now stationed at the Electric City, is referee of most of the Rugby games played there, and any such tackles qualify the guilty player to a few minutes' rest on the touch line.—Toronto Star.

• • • •

Fred Whitcroft, the manager and captain of the Edmonton team, challengers for the Stanley Cup, is visiting his old home in Peterborough. He says he is going to have a good team out west this year, so look out for them when they come east.—Toronto Star.

• • • •

The Y.M.C.A. senior Rugbymen practise to-night at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.15 o'clock

Sporting Comment

Glenn Warner says he intends that his Carlisle Indians must use their American names in the line-up. If he didn't he would have some artistic ones in Man-Afraid-of-a-Bear, Dave Wounded-Eye, Dave She-Bear, Joe Two-Hearts, Harry Cree-for-Ribs, Tall Crane, and the veteran Little Old Man.

• • • •

Messrs. Martin, McRae and Laing of Munro's Colts have challenged Messrs. Dela Fosse, Bruce and Huston of the same club to a series of nine bowling games at the P.B.C. alleys. Three games will be played each night.

—St. John's choir will meet for practice at 8 o'clock tonight in the Guild room. Next Sunday is All Saints' Day, and the anthems, "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears" and "There is a Blessed Home," will be rehearsed to-night. All choristers are asked to assemble punctually at 8 p.m.

New City Manager

Mr. T. W. Robinson of this city has recently been offered, and has accepted the position of city manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company. Mr. Robinson will be interested in the company's new business particularly, and we bespeak for him good results as the company is without doubt in a leading position among the life companies on the continent. The district manager is to be congratulated on u enlisting the services of Mr. Robinson in the city business of the Canada Life.

Wall Paper Wants

—Now is the time of all times to put on wall paper. Everywhere the country over the busy housewife, with a handkerchief round her head, and broom or scrubbing brush in hand, is carrying on the annual war on dirt of all kinds. From the backyards of thousands of peaceful Canadian homes issue forth sounds as of musketry, which sounds in reality are merely testimonials to the muscular skill of Mrs. James Householder in making the dust of twelve months fly from the carpets. The walls are being re-decorated in view of the approaching holiday season, and the Peterborough Bookstore is brimful of the prettiest new designs of the season. A. H. Stratton & Co.

Hunted Bear Crosses Road In Front Of Manvers Man And Frightens His Horse

About four o'clock a few evenings ago a Manvers farmer, while driving to Lindsay, had the unusual experience of seeing a black bear cross the road in front of him near Clabo station.

He was driving along leisurely in his buggy, and fancied he thought he heard rifle shots in the neighbouring woods. He concluded it was the work of small boys on squirrel hunt. Imagine his surprise, however, when Mr. Bruin emerged from the woods and crossed the road in front of him on a brisk trot. His nerves became unmanageable, and threatened to run away, being frightened at the appearance of the bear on the scene. Having no firearms, the Manvarine could do nothing but allow Bruin to go his way unmolested. He met two men on the road near the station, and told them of his experience. They promised to get down their trusty rifles and give chase, but as darkness was setting in, it is not likely that they disturbed the shaggy visitor.

It was rumoured that the bear had been shot, but the report could not be verified.

DEATH SUMMONS NOTED FINANCIER

Distinguished Career of the Head of the Royal Bank.

Mr. Thomas Kenny, who died at Halifax on Sunday, was president of the Royal Bank of Canada ever since its incorporation, some 38 years ago, holding the chief executive of a Canadian bank for a longer period than probably any gentleman now living in the Dominion.

The late Mr. Thomas Edward Kenny was the eldest son of the late Hon. Sir Edward Kenny, and was born at Halifax in October, 1833, being thus 75 years of age at the time of his death. After receiving his education at Stonyhurst College, England, and at St. Jervais College, Liege, Belgium, he returned to Halifax and commenced his business career in the firm of T. and E. Kenny, of which he afterwards became the head. He also became president of the Acadia Sugar Company. His banking career is connected altogether with the Merchants Bank, now the Royal Bank of Canada.

In 1886 Mr. Kenny was appointed a member of the Royal Commission on Railways, and in the general elections of the following year he was returned by Halifax to the House of Commons. He continued to occupy the seat until the year 1896, when he was defeated. So conspicuous was his ability as a legislator that on the death of Sir John Thompson, in 1894, he was offered a seat in the Cabinet, which he declined.

Thomas E. Kenny was the only one remaining of that galaxy of financial lights who brought into active existence what is now the Royal Bank of Canada.

OBITUARY.

LORNE SPILSBURY HILLIER

A very sad death occurred yesterday afternoon when, after a short illness, from rheumatism of the heart, Lorne Spilsbury, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hillier, and grandson of Mrs. W. Spilsbury, Perry street, city, passed away at the age of seven years and nine months.

The funeral will be held from the home of his grandmother, Mrs. W. Spilsbury, 267 Perry street, on Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery, and it will be private.

MR. PATRICK O'CONNOR

Last night at St. Joseph's Hospital there passed away one of the oldest and most respected residents of Ennismore in the person of Mr. Patrick O'Connor. He was born in Ireland 76 years ago, and for sixty years he resided in the township of Ennismore, where he was well known to everyone. Mr. O'Connor was married 33 years ago to Hannah Cosgrove, who survives him. His sons are Maurice in the United States and John of Ennismore, and his daughters, Mary at home and Lillian in Saginaw, Mich. His surviving brothers are Maurice and Cornelius of Ennismore and James of Hamilton, and John of Downeyville, and he has one sister, Mrs Jno Scollard of Ennismore.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning from his residence, lot 11, concession J, Ennismore.

BAPTISTS CONVENE AT OTTAWA

Rev. Dr. Gordon of Montreal Makes Forceful Plea for Church Re-union.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—The Baptist Convention, in session here until November 3rd, held its opening meeting on Wednesday night in the First Baptist Church. This convention represents Quebec and Ontario and will be immediately succeeded by a Canadian Baptist convention.

Rev. Dr. A. A. Cameron welcomed the visitors and paid some complimentary remarks to the workers of the church. Rev. Dr. J. A. Gordon, Montreal, the retiring moderator, gave an address and took for his subject the great question of Christian Reunion. Mr. Thos. Urquhart, Toronto, was nominated for president to succeed Dr. Gordon, of Montreal.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Gordon, Montreal, president, occupied the chair, and D. W. Karn, first vice-president, Woodstock; Rev. C. J. Cameron, Rev. Dr. A. A. Cameron, Rev. J. Higgins were on the platform.

The last of the delegates came in last evening at 6.30 and a large number was present at the opening meeting. The meeting opened with short prayers and singing by the congregation.

Rev. Dr. Cameron introduced Rev. J. Higgins, who offered up prayers for the delegates, after which Dr. Cameron gave his address of welcome in behalf of the 1,200 Baptists of Ottawa. He said that the Baptists were not so numerous, but were making great progress and especially in this city. This was evident to all since the last convention twenty years ago. His welcome was replied to by Rev. Dr. L. S. Hueston, of Windsor, second vice-president. He returned hearty thanks for the kindness shown them since their arrival, especially for the welcome tendered by Dr. A. A. Cameron. He also referred to Ottawa's religious, moral, political influence on the people and that Ottawa stood out alone in this respect.

Dr. Hueston was followed by Dr. Gordon in his retiring address on Church Re-union. He said this was to be much desired, continuing: "We live in an era of organizations. In labour we have unions, in commerce we have trusts, and in politics federation."

Dr. Gordon is personally optimistic as to the outcome of the issue and gave a lengthy treatment on Organic Union for the advancement of God. "It has been said," said the reverend speaker, "that the Baptist Church is one of the strongest points to overcome," but he did not thing this to be the case. Dr. Gordon thinks that the church should return to the Angelical period. The indebatable subjects were, he stated, that there is a visible institution on earth known as Church and Baptism and the Lords' Supper by all but the Quakers. Baptism, he said, was debatable if as to the infant but not to an intelligent subject.

J. H. Cameron, secretary, read the nomination report. It gave Thos. Urquhart, Toronto, president; Rev. J. C. Sycamore, 1st vice-president, Hamilton; Mr. Albert Matthews, 2nd vice-president, Ottawa; and Rev. C. J. Cameron, Toronto, sec.-treas. Committee of arrangements: Rev. R. B. McKay, Rev. A. A. Cameron, Rev. W. F. Parker, Rev. Mr. McFaul, Mr. A. Ardley, Rev. J. Hueston, Mr. Stenebaugh, D. W. Karn, Scrutineers: Rev. J. D. Welch, chairman, W. C. Weir, Rev. Mr. Sheldon, Rev. J. T. Marshall, Rev. W. F. Roberts, Rev. Chas. Duncan, Rev. W. P. Reekie.

OVERHANGING SIGNS IN LINDSAY

Chief Vincent Says They Have to Come Down.

It looks as if the town of Lindsay is up against the same proposition that troubled Peterborough for so long—the overhanging sign bylaw. Mr. Bert Naylor, the popular barber, received a notice this morning from Chief Vincent that his sign projected over the sidewalk more than two feet, and it would therefore have to come down.

Mr. Naylor stated that he would bring the matter up before the Council on Monday night next, and would ask to have the sign remain as it is. He claimed that he could point to twelve other business men in town who had signs projecting out as far as his, and if he was compelled to take down his, these merchants should also be forced to follow suit.—Lindsay Free Press.

HUNTING RULES AND REGULATIONS

Deer Hunting Season Opens on Monday Partridge Protected Until 1909.

NO HUNTING ON SUNDAY

Following are the rules and regulations covering the hunting of game and fishing this fall:

No person may hunt, take, kill or destroy—

Any deer except between the 1st day of November and the 16th day of November.

Any grouse, pheasants, prairie fowl partridge, or woodcock except from the 15th day of September in any year. Partridge are protected until Sept. 16th, 1909.

Any quail or wild turkeys, black or grey squirrels except from the 1st day of November to the 1st day of December in any year.

Any swans or geese except from the 15th day of September to the 30th day of April in the following year.

Ducks of all kinds or any other water fowl except from the first day of September to the 31st of December in any year.

Hares except from the 31st day of October to the 31st day of December in any year.

No beaver or otter shall be hunted, taken or killed, or had in possession before the 1st of November 1910 and thereafter no beaver or otter shall be hunted, taken or killed, or had in possession of persons between the 1st day of April and the first day of November nor shall any trap, snares or guns or other contrivances be set for them during such periods.

No muskrats shall be shot during the month of April nor shall any muskrat house be cut, speared, broken or destroyed at any time.

No person shall on the Lord's Day hunt, take, kill, or destroy any game or use any gun or any other engine for that purpose.

BIGGER JOB FOR LAKE.

Inspector-General of Militia May Take Imperial Appointment.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—Major-General Lake, Inspector-General, may leave Canada at any moment for the purpose of taking up an important post in the imperial service. Gen. Lake, who is a brother of R. S. Lake, M.P. for Qu'Appelle, has been in Canada since 1904, and some years earlier served a term as quartermaster-general. He had that rank in 1896, and it had come to light that Sir Fred. Borden tried to get him appointed general officer commanding in 1898, the War Office refusing on the ground that he was too junior for the position. Major-General Lake on coming to Canada in 1904 as chief of the general staff, organized the new method of administration by a militia counsel, and has shown great efficiency. He has held the post of inspector-general for about a year.

One Wife Deported.

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—The immigration authorities at Washington have ordered a temporary division in the family of Robert Hu Tong Bosman, the Hong Kong millionaire, who was refused admission because of his belief in polygamy and because he was accompanied by two wives. The Government has ruled that Bosman may stay in this country with one of his wives, but the other must be deported.

Hope Given Up.

London, Oct. 30.—Wreckage picked up in the North Sea confirms the fears that the schooner Yarmouth foundered two days ago while crossing from the Hook of Holland to Harwich.

The Yarmouth was a channel freighter belonging to the Great Eastern Railroad Co.

She carried a crew of 23 men, and it is believed that they all perished.

Votes For Colored Men.

London, Oct. 30.—(C.A.P.)—At Durban, South Africa, the national convention decided to propose the enfranchisement of colored people, subject to severe education and property test. It is anticipated a majority of whites in the Transvaal, Orange River and Natal will not accept unless it is energetically supported by the Imperial Government.

Physician Drops Dead.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 30.—Apparently in good health and in the act of making a medical examination, Dr. Edwin S. Hutchins dropped dead of heart failure beside the operating table in his office.

The patient on the operating table rushed out for a doctor.

Schooner Ashore.

Norfolk, Oct. 30.—The Charles S. Hirsch, a four-masted schooner, lumber-laden, bound north, was driven ashore on the North Carolina coast yesterday, and probably will be washed to pieces. Six of the eight men in the crew were rescued.

Guilty, Though Not Betting.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 30.—Eighteen whites were fined $75 each yesterday for looking on a Chinese gambling game. They were caught in a raid Wednesday night.

Bet on Steel Company.

Montreal, Oct. 30.—A wager of $3,000 to $1,000 was made on the Stock Exchange yesterday that the Dominion Steel Co. will win its case before the Privy Council.

MAJORITY NOW 51.

Lemieux and Hunt Are Elected to Swell Liberal Ranks.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—The Liberal party adds two more to its majority—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Postmaster-General, was yesterday elected in Gaspe, Que., over W. Flynn by 1,300 plus.

In Chicoutimi and Saguenay, A. B. Hunt (Lib.) was elected by several hundred over Girdar (Ind.).

In Quebec the Liberals number 54. The Government majority is now 51.

Dawson City, Y.T., Oct. 30.—Four candidates are already nominated for the Federal election, on Jan. 13, the Liberals having brought out T. J. Congdon and Robert Lowe, M.P.P., and the Conservatives George Black and J. A. Clarke.

Another influential section of Liberals have asked W. W. B. McInnes to run, but his answer is not yet received. There is likely to be an independent in the field.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 30.—A recount of ballots in the Templeman-Barnard contest began yesterday morning before Judge Lampman. The press were excluded and the greatest care taken to exclude all not directly concerned. Up to noon seven out of the 25 boxes had been gone into and argument was heard, but decision will not be given on disputed ones until the end.

Yardman Will Return.

Brantford, Oct. 30.—Joseph Maguire, yardman Grand Trunk, who admitted partial responsibility for the recent wreck at Mount Vernon, where three men were killed, and who got out of town before the warrant was issued fo his arrest, will return and testify before a coroner's inquest, which has been further adjourned for that purpose.

Attacked and Robbed.

New York, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Sarah Dickale was attacked in her apartment in West Ninetieth street yesterday by an unknown man, who fractured her skull with the butt of a revolver and tied her to the plumbing in the bathroom while he ransacked the house. He obtained, it is said, jewels and plate valued at $2,000 and escaped.

WINNIPEG MAN CURED OF RHEUMATISM

Remarkable Case of Cure After Specialists Failed.

Winnipeg, Man.—A prominent resident of this City, who for personal reasons does not wish his name mentioned publicly, but who permits us to show his letter to interested enquirers, writes to say that he was suddenly taken with excruciating pains in the back and side, which were pronounced by his physicians as Rheumatism. Hot applications were at once resorted to, the usual medicines administered, supplemented by electrical treatment, but all to no purpose. In his desperation he took Gin Pills on his own account, and in a few hours after taking the first Pill the pains commenced to subside. He continued taking them and in 48 hours he had not an ache or a pain left.

Gin Pills are sold at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Send to us if your dealer does not handle them. Sample box free if you mention this paper.

LONDON GAMING DENS

The Way the Police Descend Upon Them in a Raid.

SKILL, CUNNING AND DARING.

Absolute Secrecy is Maintained by the Officials, and the Policemen Are Kept in the Dark Until the Last Moment—Getting Into the Club.

The police have recently carried out some sensational raids on big gaming clubs, and it may be interesting to learn how these raids are effected. This is how it is done in London: As soon as the detectives' suspicions have been confirmed they apply to the commissioner of police for a warrant to enter. The warrant authorises certain officers mentioned by name to enter the club in the name of the king. Ordinary policemen are not permitted to carry out a raid, but the detectives can call upon them for assistance at the critical moment.

Absolute secrecy is enforced right up to the moment of entry. There is no excitement at the station on that day, and the men on duty have no suspicion of what is in the wind. Plans of the house are drawn carefully studied by the raiding officers, for the doorkeeper of the club is prepared at the slightest alarm to send a warning to his customers, and every vestige of gambling apparatus will mysteriously disappear and the raid fail. A carefully planned ruse, therefore, has to be evolved which will disarm suspicion.

During the day a body of "reserve" policemen will receive a communication from the station that they will be required to parade at a certain hour, and they meet with no idea of what is expected of them. They are drawn up in line, and after names have been called over they are dismissed from the station one by one, with the injunction to be in the immediate neighborhood of a certain street in a couple of hours and not to get near the spot before the prearranged moment.

The first officer to appear on the scene is the one in charge of the raid. He is always disguised and usually looks like a well dressed man about town. He passes the club carelessly, but it is sufficient for him to learn from a confederate inside that gaming has commenced. A policeman then saunters to the corner of the street and stays there as though he were on "point" duty. Then, not till then, is the information of the precise club to be raided secretly conveyed to the attacking force in their hiding places, while the club, unconscious of its impending fate, pursues its gambling.

The first difficulty to surmount is to get past the burly doorkeeper. If this is not successfully done the raid will end in failure. Presently the sound of a drunken song is heard in the distance, and two apparently rough looking men come staggering along. As they near the entrance to the club they begin disputing and soon come to blows. The doorkeeper peeps through the wicket and orders the men away. One of the men rushes at the wicket and challenges the doorkeeper to "come outside like a man" and at the same time shouts out something about the character of the house. The combatants continue fighting, and the officer at the corner comes along and orders them away. The men return, however, to "have it out with the doorkeeper." The noise increases, attracting homeward bound gentlemen in evening dress, who gather round and urge the men on.

The doorkeeper by this time becomes alarmed, for the rowdy crowd will frighten away his clients. Perhaps just at this moment a member of the club arrives and seeks admission. The door is opened with the utmost caution to admit him. Before he has time to fasten it the two officers hastily secure the member and rush upstairs. The two combatants were disguised policemen and the onlookers detectives.

As soon as an entrance into the club has been effected the constable at the corner sounds his whistle, and before the sound has died away the whole neighborhood is alive with police. If the house boasts of a trapdoor on the roof, the flash of lanterns will be seen up there, the men having been concealed among the chimney pots since it was dark. The front door is secured, and the police form a guard around one house, so that escape is impossible.

Meantime the scene upstairs is one of the wildest excitement. The gamblers, intent on business, had not noticed the scuffle in the passage, and the first intimation they get of the state of affairs is when the door is thrown open and the officer in charge calls on them to regard themselves as his prisoners. Then they realise their position. The tables are overturned, and card counters and money roll all over the floor as the members endeavor to escape. They make for the street door, but, balked in this direction, hurry to all parts of the house to hide.

The crestfallen members of the club are conveyed to the station, each in the custody of two officers. Then the house is searched for the gaming apparatus. Every inch of the place is examined, for gamblers have remarkable contrivances whereby they can hide their apparatus in the event of being raided. Tops of tables are knocked off, flooring taken up and walls searched for secret cupboards. Yards of chalked string are regarded as prizes, and with these and more apparent proofs the case is ready for the magistrate. The evidence is laid before him, and the proprietor and members are charged and the sentence passed or a heavy fine imposed on the prisoners.—London Tit-Bits.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Gray hairs will have their way when they get a good start, and nothing will stop them except sometimes scalp massage.

An important beauty consideration is the poise of the head. It should be tipped slightly backward so as to make the eyes seem larger. Lowering the chin causes wrinkles and also has a tendency to form a double chin, which is a special bugbear of every woman, thin or fat.

The virtues of a few drops of essence of peppermint are well known, and one writer even asserts that it will gradually cure stomach troubles. It is a most harmless remedy to give to children who do not seem to assimilate their food. A few drops on sugar is the easiest way to give it to children unless you can make the large white mint drops.

Glossy hair generally indicates that it has been well and carefully kept—that is, shampooed every few weeks, thoroughly brushed with the usual fifty strokes every day and the scalp massaged regularly. Brilliantine is not used so much to impart a gloss to the hair as to keep short hairs from blowing about the face.

For burns and scalds there is nothing more soothing than the white of an egg, which should be poured over the wound. It is softer than collodion as a varnish for a burn and, being always at hand, can be applied immediately. It is the contact with the air which gives the extreme pain. White of egg excludes the air and prevents inflammation.

If a double chin has made its appearance, one of the best exercises for remedying it is to lift the head as high as possible, then from the point of the chin with open hand press firmly down, keeping the head thrown backward at the same time. Bathe the chin and throat frequently with cold water. Another method is to apply some good skin food, pick up the flesh in tiny folds and roll it firmly between the thumb and forefinger, this having a tendency to dissolve the excessive fat cells.

HUNTING FOR BARONET

DISAPPEARANCE OF SIR ARTHUR CURTIS TO BE INVESTIGATED.

Again After a Lapse of Ten Years Friends of English Nobleman Who Vanished in 1898 on His Way to the Klondike Are Demanding That Affair Be Looked Into — Several Maintain That He Is Not Dead.

One of those dramas which furnish the romance to so many of the houses of the Old World aristocracy is said to lie at the back of the demand which has just been made upon the provincial authorities of British Columbia to resume, after the lapse of ten years, the investigation into the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Sir Arthur Curtis, third baronet of his line, who vanished in June, 1898, with an Indian guide while on his way from Ashcroft, on the Canadian Pacific Railroad, to the Klondike. Six months later Lady Curtis applied to the courts in London to presume her husband dead, and, although no definite evidence was produced that he was really dead beyond the fact that he had wandered away from his companions and had disappeared from view without leaving any trace, the decree was granted, and not long afterward Lady Curtis, whose boy, Roger, had thus become fourth baronet, married Col. R. M. Brady, of Bunrana, Donegal, nephew and heir to the baronetcy of Sir Francis Brady, and by whom she has several children.

The young baronet came of age a couple of years ago, and there is reason to believe that he is just as little satisfied as are other people of the fact that his father is really dead. He is not living with his mother or stepfather, but is understood to be on this side of the Atlantic, and it is assumed by many that it is he who is the relative who has urged the British Columbia authorities to resume the investigation. The only other remaining member of this house of Curtis is his granduncle, Septimus Curtis, now nearly 90 years of age, and who is at home in England.

The expedition with which Sir Arthur Curtis was traveling when he disappeared was commanded by Roger Pocock, founder of the Legion of Frontiersmen, and in his book entitled "The Frontiersman," published a couple of years ago by Gay & Hancock, in London, he devotes a chapter to this episode in his life. He speaks very highly of Sir Arthur Curtis, whom he refers to under the initial "C," and relates how he, being out of sorts, spoke roughly and brutally to Curtis without any reason.

Taking all the blame upon himself, Pocock declares in his book that he gave utterance to words that could never be withdrawn or forgiven, and that during the same night Sir Arthur wandered away into the woods and was never seen again. He relates that for ten days he and his party sought Sir Arthur without finding any clew, and that then, their provisions having run out, they were obliged to abandon the hopeless quest. Pocock describes in his book how he had considerable difficulty in disposing of the ugly rumors that he had murdered Curtis, although he certainly did regard himself as morally responsible for his death, and brings the chapter to a conclusion by referring to reports that Sir Arthur had subsequently been seen alive in England. He likewise adds that he knows nothing positive of the body of the missing baronet ever having been found.

Another member of the expedition—G. W. Cole—a veteran miner, likewise expressed the conviction in the press of Vancouver and elsewhere in Canada, that the baronet was not dead. He declared that he had heard Sir Arthur say that he meant to slip away from the expedition, and claims that Curtis told him that when he got to the Klondike he would change his name. G. W. Cole added that it was nearly impossible for a man having an Indian guide to be lost in the country beyond Mud River, where Sir Arthur vanished.

One is tempted to ask what motives can have prompted the relative of the missing baronet to ascertain whether he is still alive. For if that could be established, his wife's marriage to Col. R. M. Brady would become, ipso facto, invalid, and the children born of the union illegitimate. The object, therefore, is scarcely one that can be considered as altogether friendly to Lady Curtis.

It is said that in the remote regions of Northwestern Canada are to be found to-day the clews to many disappearances, as mysteriously as that of Sir Arthur Curtis, of men bearing well known names once prominent in English life, who have in consequence of financial troubles, of some unfortunate romance or some scrape of one kind or another preferred to disappear, starting an altogether new existence in the New World, completely obliterating their past. Long is the list of men who have thus vanished, among the best known cases being those of Sir Roger Tichborne, of the elder brother of the present Earl of Aberdeen, Viceroy of Ireland, and of the ex-Duke John of Austria.

Only in a few instances have people who have thus vanished reappeared upon the scene. James B. Roche, for instance, next brother and heir of Lord Fermoy, and father of Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden of New York, was lost, like Sir Arthur Curtis, in the Klondike, while on the way from the Canadian Pacific Railroad to the Klondike gold fields. His companions, after searching for him for several days, found a skeleton, which they rashly assuming to be his, bore with much difficulty to the nearest town, interred it in the local cemetery, and set up a tombstone, on which a long list of virtues were attributed to him. Roche, who happened along in full life some weeks later, saw the tombstone, caused it to be photographed, and now carries about its picture in his pocketbook as a post-mortem testimonial of his excellent character.

The Sherlock Holmes of The Slater Shoe

HE was not disguised!

And, he modestly disclaimed being the great "Sherlock."

He protested that he was not even "the Doctor."

But, he was a sure-enough S. H. Sleuth and knew how to interest an uninterested Client.

'Said he could do us some good if we would sit up and listen.

'Said there were only 9 Stores in Montreal that had genuine Slater Shoes to sell, but there were over 20 Stores claiming to sell them.

'Said he could prove it.

'Said he could give us names and dates, witnesses and full particulars.

'Said he would need a month, may be, to properly cover the City and procure the evidence.

He got the job,—did that Sleuth,—and his Assistant.

And, we're mighty glad he got it.

Because, we had no idea how widely "The Slater Shoe" was being substituted and fraudulently misrepresented.

His typewritten report and evidence make startling reading.

Shoe Retailers who would not steal a dollar to save their lives deliberately lying to steal a Market built up around "The Slater Shoe" brand through years of effort, square-deal, quality, fixed-price and continuous advertising.

Good Churchmen who did not hesitate to "equivocate" in order to steal a march on the intelligence of their customers by tricky quibbles on the word "Slater" to sell other Shoes than "The Slater Shoe."

Salesmen who thought it clever to deceive their Customers into thinking they were being shown "The Slater Shoe" when the Shoes shown had never been within a mile of the Slater Shoe Factory.

Here and there were some honest men who frankly said, "No, we don't keep 'The Slater Shoe,' but we have Shoes which we consider just as good," etc.

Other fairly honest men who said, "No, we don't keep them, and wouldn't if we could," etc.

All honor to the "Square Heads," friends or foes, who came out candidly and said: "No, we don't keep the Slater Shoe," even if they damned it in the next sentence.

But, what of the 28 Montreal Shoe Retailers, or their Salesmen, who, when asked by Sherlock for "The Slater Shoe" (they never had a pair of), said:—

"Oh, yes; we have Slater's make of Shoes!"

"Oh, yes; we have Frank Slater's Shoes!"

"Oh, yes; we have George Slater's Shoes!"

"Oh, yes; we have Ben Slater's Shoes!"

"Oh, yes; we have Slater's Strider Shoes!"

"Oh, yes; we have Slater's Invictus Shoes!"

Now, Reader, we have no fault to find with any retailer who tries to sell his own Shoes against "The Slater Shoe" in fair, square, open competition.

We do not even lift an eye-brow at the man who finds it necessary to talk down "The Slater Shoe" in order to sell his own.

But, what we do object to is the dishonest attempt to deceive consumers into thinking they are getting the genuine 1909 "Slater Shoe" when they are being offered something entirely different from it, staged perhaps for the very purpose of deception.

Any Retailer, or Salesman, who will countenance such tactics is not to be trusted.

He will "do" his Customers in other ways if he will "do" them in that way.

And, our "Sherlock Holmes Records" prove that many Shoe Dealers in Montreal are ready to "do" Customers in that way if the Customers will stand for it.

This is why we will, in future, play up the Slate feature of our trade-mark more prominently, although the Courts have ruled that we (The Slater Shoe Co., Limited) have exclusive right to the use of "The Slater Shoe" name as our brand.

Observe that no Shoe is a genuine "Slater Shoe" unless it bears the Slate mark on it with the Makers' price stamped on it to prevent possible overcharge.

Therefore,—when you want the genuine 1909 Slater Shoe, you will forestall deception, make fraud more difficult, and help along the Square Deal, by asking for it as—"The Slater Shoe," and observing that it is branded with a Slate.

Slater Shoes are made from the most carefully selected materials. Always have been. Always will be. Also, they are made by the wonderful machines of the Goodyear Welt system in their most improved form, insuring comfort and durability.

P.S.—Our "Sherlock Holmes" is now working up evidence in other cities. His book of experiences, giving names, dates and particulars of interviews with Substituting Dealers will make interesting and amusing reading. Do you want a copy when published?

The only dealers in this City who can supply the genuine Slater Shoe are as follows:

EFFECT OF CLOTHES.

Women Uplifted or Degraded by Beauty or Ugliness of Apparel.

That clothes have a tremendous influence on the feminine mind has always been acknowledged, but it has remained for the ultra modern experiments to prove that this influence is a vital one and can be turned to account in reforming the criminal and insane.

The poor demented creatures who fill our insane asylums are compelled to wear the institution's "wrapper," a hideous garment which would destroy the beauty of a goddess.

Several writers who have been taking up the subject lately are maintaining that if the insane women were allowed to wear pretty clothes the effect upon them would be quieting and helpful.

The wrapper takes away their self respect and makes them feel that they look hopelessly ugly, and they do not care how they behave when they have it on.

On the other hand, when some of them have been "dressed up" they have immediately shown a tendency to have better manners and behave quietly with a decorum entirely foreign to them in their ugly garments.

Of course these experiments have not been made on the violently insane.

A French magazine recently published a long article claiming that experiments had been made in a certain reformatory for women which went to prove that the worst type of women criminals can be controlled by the power of clothes.

The rules of this institution provide that the inmates shall dress according to their behavior. This means from prison stripes for the sulky and unmanageable to house gowns of lace for those who prove themselves worthy to wear them decorously and with appropriate manners.

The article goes on to say that no prisoner ever wears the stripes longer than the first week. Immediately she begins to feel the degradation of them and aspires to be the best dressed woman in the prison.

These women are shut off from the world and see no one but their fellow criminals, and yet they remain contented, many of them, for years because they are allowed to dress according to their satisfaction.

The simple deduction from all this is that properly gowned all women would be "perfect" ladies—i. e., good and docile and obedient.

The conquering spirit of clothes—who can deny it in the face of the following pathetic little anecdote?

It is said that a box of old clothes which had been sent in charity to a certain poverty stricken home where a little girl lay very ill contained a half wornout pair of colored, beribboned dancing slippers. These caught the sick child's fancy, and she immediately began to take an interest in living.

With the one idea in her mind that when she got well she could wear those slippers on the street the poor little bit of femininity conquered her malady.

He Knew His Mamma.

Neighbor—Bertie, your mother is calling you. Bertie—Yes'm, I know it, but I fancy she don't want me very badly. Neighbor—But she has called you seven times already. Bertie—Yes, I know, but she hasn't called "Albert" yet.

THE word "OXOL" does not mean one food or one preparation. No! "OXOL" is a name given to all goods for horses, cattle, swine and sheep, prepared by Messrs. S. K. and T. C. Windsor, of Australia, New Zealand, England and Canada.

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under the name of

are all of the greatest possible order of merit and may be used by farmers, graziers, dairymen and all owners of stock with the full assurance that these goods have the power in a very short time to double their incomes by feeding, fattening and curing all animals, which to them means money.

Scientific Meetings will be organised by Messrs. Windsor and held through out the Dominion of Canada, when farmers desirous of improving their knowledge of stock will have an opportunity of doing so and to be instructed on the life of stock from birth to death, free of any charge.

ABOUT GRASSHOPPERS.

A Menace to Crops When They Appear in Great Numbers.

The boys who walk through the fields and see a few grasshoppers jumping about little think perhaps that creatures apparently so harmless actually eat people out of house and home sometimes in the west. They come in great [illegible]s and multiply into greater [illegible] than overrun the country and eat the crops.

They were so bad in a certain county of Utah a few years ago that they defied all the efforts of the farmers to get rid of them, and the result was that all the crops were destroyed. The following year the farmers adopted a novel means of fighting the pests. They arranged a series of entertainments to be given in the several towns of the county, admission to which might be had on presentation at the door of a half bushel of grasshoppers as a "ticket"—dead grasshoppers, of course.

The notion caught and spread like a prairie fire, and at the first entertainment 150 people appeared, each with a half bushel of the pests. That county saved its crops.

THROWING STONES.

Why Girls Are Unable to Compete With Boys in This Pastime.

It is hardly worth while to tell you that girls cannot throw stones like boys. You have all seen them try it and perhaps have laughed at their efforts, which was wrong, of course, but natural, for it really is a funny sight. But it is likely that you did not attribute their failure to the right cause. You thought perhaps—that is, you boys thought—that it was merely a girl's awkward attempt to imitate a boy, but in that you were wrong, for it is a physical impossibility for a girl to throw with the free movement of the arm that a boy has because her collar bone is larger than a boy's and is set lower.

This comes from a physician in a girls' college who has made a careful study of the matter, impelled thereto, it may be, by the [illegible] of the girls, who were ambitious to equal or excel the boys in this physical accomplishment as they have done in many others. In any sport where this free use of the arm and shoulder is not required a girl may excel, but she may as well give up all hope of ever throwing stones the same way as boys do. In spite of all this we find a girl now and then who can throw almost as far. —Chicago News.

"Mr. Funny Looking."

This queer looking man can be made the cause of lots of fun if he is put together correctly. To make him get a piece of cardboard 10 by 7 inches. Fasten the outer edges together with mucilage. Then make two holes in the sides wherein to stick two cardboard arms, with hands on the ends. These arms and hands are first drawn on the cardboard and then cut out. Now draw a comical face on the cylindrical part and cover the bottom of the cardboard cylinder with a round piece of muslin, gluing it on securely. Drop a big marble or small ball into the inside and place the funny manikin on a slightly slanting table. The marble rolling about will make "Mr. Funny Looking" a ridiculous object.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Beating His Rival.

"What are you crowing about? Griggsby's airship showed itself superior to yours in every respect."

"Yes, but as mine was tested on a fine day the photographs turned out perfect, and Griggsby made his ascent when it was too dark even for a time exposure."—Puck.

Not In a Position, Etc.

I'd like to tackle any game.
I'd like to prove my heart is true.
I'd like to give some one my name—
And all because of I-O-U.

And yet, so minus is my stack,
Your dad I dare not interview.
Alas, alack, I must hold back—
And all because of I-O-U!
—Kansas City Times.

DAINTY WAYS OF COOKING APPLES

It is a poor housewife who has the apples at her disposal and will not see to it that her family table is abundantly supplied with the king of fruits, cooked or uncooked, and that liberal provision is made at the same time for the lean wintry days to come.

For cooking a moderately tart apple has the preference. Sweet apples require a much longer time for baking or boiling and never reach the same stage of tenderness. Just now the Red Astrakhan is in perfection, and jelly made from it is exquisite in color and delicious in flavor.

Apple Jelly.—Wash the apples clean, cut out all imperfections, but do not peel or core. Put into an earthen jar, set in a pan of hot water or cook in the preserving kettle with just a little water to keep from sticking to the pan until mushy and tender. Be careful that you do not let the apples stick and scorch. Cover closely to keep all the steam in. When ready pour into a jelly bag and let the juice drip through. To every pint of the juice allow a scant pound of sugar. Put the sugar in shallow pans in the oven, leaving the door open, so the sugar will not get hot enough to melt or turn yellow, and put the juice in a clean kettle over the fire. Cook the juice just twenty minutes from the time it reaches the boiling point and add the sugar, which should be hot enough to hiss as it strikes the hot juice. Stir until dissolved, remove the spoon, boil a moment longer, then turn into glasses that have been rinsed in hot water. This jelly will be firm, clear and of a deep rose pink. It may be left unflavored or flavored with a little pineapple cooked with the apples, with lemon juice or rose geranium. For the latter simply lay a rose geranium leaf in the bottom of the glass in which you are to pour the jelly and turn the hot jelly over it. The addition of a quince for every dozen apples also gives a fine flavor to the jelly.

Apple Jam.—To every pound tart apples, pared, cored and chopped, allow three-fourths pound sugar and the juice of the finely cut yellow rind of a lemon. For each three pounds of apples add a heaping teaspoonful of ginger. Stew together for an hour, stirring frequently with a wooden spoon, turn in pots or jars, cover carefully and keep in a cool, dry place.

Useful and Artistic.

The brass watering pot has taken its place in the house and is very attractive. It is not only useful, since so many flowers are grown indoors, but decidedly ornamental. These pots are not expensive, ranging from $2.50 up, according to the amount of decoration upon them.

A Witty Toast.

The most famous wit of the Emerald isle was a celebrated lawyer, John Philpot Curran, who was outwitted on one occasion by a woman. The following story, taken from a volume of biographical reminiscences entitled "Mrs. Brookfield and Her Circle," furnishes an amusing example of how Curran was once outdone:

A brisk young widow in some part of Ireland used to preside at the table of a coffee house patronised by Curran. Her name was Honor, and one day there was some disputed charge.

Curran slyly winked at the friend who happened to be dining with him and proposed "Honor and Honesty."

"By all means," added the widow briskly, holding her glass to be filled, "let us drink to Mr. Curran's absent friends."

Collects Menu Cards.

The emperor of Austria is a man with few hobbies. One of them is the editing of an official court journal. Another is the collection of menu cards, and his stock, which is continually being augmented by contributions from other monarchs, is a very wonderful one. A rare specimen is that which was used at the dinner given by the czar to President Faure some years ago. This "card" is a square of perfect black marble beautifully painted by a famous French artist, the names of the various dishes being lettered in ivory.

FASCINATED BY THE STARS.

Astronomers Never Weary of Studying the Heavens.

Few problems which the astronomer has undertaken to solve possess such a fascination as ascertaining the extent of stellar space. Newcomb estimates the number of stars visible in the most powerful telescopes as more than a hundred millions. They are most abundant near the Milky way and least numerous at the points most remote from that amazing girdle, at what are called the "galactic poles." It is now known that the enormous differences in the brightness of the stars do not furnish a key to their distances from the earth. Big ones—a few many thousand times more brilliant than the sun—and little ones are mixed in fairly definite proportions. At least those of the six largest magnitudes are thus distributed. Further investigation is needed to determine whether the rule holds good for the stars which are apparently smaller.

Professor J. C. Kapteyn, a leading English astronomer, lectured a week or two ago in London on the progress made with the study of the distance of the stars. A limit beyond which it will eventually be impossible to go, he believes, has not been reached, but he thinks that their arrangement has been approximately determined for an imaginary sphere having a radius of 2,000 "light years." For various reasons it is considered undesirable to employ "miles" in indicating celestial distances. A more convenient term is a phrase representing the length of the journey taken by a ray of light in a year. This is about 65,000 times 93,000,000 miles, or upward of 6,000,000,000,000 miles. The nearest of the fixed stars is three and a half light years away from the sun. If the boundaries of the universe were 2,000 light years distant they would be almost inconceivably remote, but these figures are not accepted by experts as final. Professor Newcomb has expressed the opinion that "nearly all the stars" are within the limit of 3,300 light years. Professor Kapteyn, basing a calculation on the rate at which the fainter stars seem to diminish in number with distance, deems it possible that the universe may have a radius of 30,000 light years! To express this distance in miles one needs to write "18" and add sixteen ciphers.—New York Tribune.

Standing Armies.

The nations that most neglect their military forces today are those that suffer most from militarism, tyranny and revolutions—the Latin-Americas.

The nation that has most astonished the world by its enormous progress along all lines has been the one that has in recent years turned most of all to military life—Japan.

The European nation that today is making far the greatest strides in industries and the world's progress and commerce is the one that keeps the greatest standing army of the world—Germany.

The nation that through distrust refused to keep a standing army has been wiped out—Poland.—Army and Navy Life.

To Soar Like an Eagle.

Professor Marcel Deprez in a paper before the Academy of Sciences in Paris announced that he has solved the problem of the stationary hovering in the air of a body perfectly free and heavier than air, thus imitating the power of eagles, vultures and other birds able to remain in the air, ascend and descend without beating their wings.—Popular Mechanics.

Noiseless Dishes.

Up on the Alps a new hotel is advertised as the ideal resort for those who want a complete rest cure. All the plates, dishes, cups and saucers are made of papier mache, so that guests will be spared the clatter of a restaurant, and as the material is so light guests will suffer the least possible fatigue in lifting the cups to their lips.

RICH COUNTRY.

Prof. Gwillim Speaks of Resources of Northern British Columbia.

J. C. Gwillim, professor of mining in Queen's University, Kingston, recently completed a tour through the Telkwa, Bulkley and Babine country in northern British Columbia on behalf of the Trail smelter. His impressions as regards its agricultural and mining possibilities are rather favorable.

"The Telkwa-Bulkley-Babine country is a great district southwards of Hazelton. The valleys are broad, but not flat-bottomed as many people expect. They are low rolling slopes, partially or totally wooded. The growth upon these valley slopes is extraordinary, and no fall frosts had occurred up to Sept. 10 in the main Bulkley valley," said Mr. Gwillim.

"All grass, stock and root crops seem to do very well. There seems to be a future for stock and dairy products with hay and oats [illegible] exports to the coast and north country. The conditions southward toward Nechaco, and southeastward toward Babine lake appear to be equally favorable for a large farming community.

"Concerning mineral resources, ores of lead, silver and copper have been found over a very large territory, but little has been done in the way of development. The distances are great and at present the transportation is all by pack animals. A wagon road is being built from Hazelton to Aldermere, a point sixty miles south; from this trails of twenty and thirty miles branch off into the mountains on either side. The country is a favorable one to prospect, but development and cheap transportation must come about before there will be any production of large tonnage.

"Any one entering this district at this stage should receive easy terms and plenty of time to develop mineral properties because the cost of development will be great, and also experimental, and the time of realizing from ore production cannot come until the Grand Trunk Pacific is on a shipping basis."

Willow Grouse In City.

The capture of a willow grouse on one of the principal business thoroughfares of Victoria caused some talk recently. It was late and the streets practically were deserted. A gentleman had just passed out of a restaurant when he was astonished to see a bird, which looked remarkably like a grouse at first sight, dash itself against the window pane and fall at his feet. He picked it up, wrung its neck, and then took time to examine it. Being himself somewhat of a follower of the simple life as interpreted by local disciples of Nimrod, he recognised that it was a grouse of the willow species. Agreeably astonished, and realizing that he had had a most unusual experience, he recounted it to his friends. Many of the latter put it down as a yarn which would have to be accepted with the proverbial "pinch of salt." But when he produced the evidence and related the details again with a wealth of exact detail the story was given credence and circulated as being another of the season's wonders.

First Relic of "Jones."

One of the first evidences to be found of the steamer J. H. Jones, which was lost two years ago with all hands, was left here recently by the steamer City of Meaford, says The Owen Sound Times. It was the name board of the ill-fated steamer and could be easily recognised by those who knew the boat when she was above water. The board was picked up at some point along the northeast shore and handed by the captain of the City of Meaford to the officials at the office of the Dominion Transportation Co., where it has attracted a great deal of interest. Though the officers of the City of Meaford did not give the exact location where the sign board was picked up, its finding on the northeast shore confirms, in the minds of some [illegible] men, the conviction that [illegible] went down near the Christian Islands, and that her machinery gave out and she drifted from her course off Lion's Head in the gale to some point near the islands, where she foundered.

A Helping Hand.

Among the contributors to a minister's donation party was a small but very bright boy belonging to one of the families of the congregation. After obtaining his mother's permission to spend his money for anything he pleased he went to the village store and returned home with a neat package. In it was a pair of suspenders, and attached to them was a card upon which was written in a scrawling hand:

"For the support of our pastor."

TENDERS FOR DREDGING

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Dredging Middle Channel, River St. Lawrence," will be received until November 16, 1908, at 4.30 p.m., for dredging required in the Middle Channel in the River St. Lawrence, between Kingston and Brockville, in the Province of Ontario.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

Combined specification and form of tender can be obtained from the Department of Public Works, Ottawa. Tenders must include the towing of the plant to and from the works. Only dredges can be employed which are registered in Canada at the time of the filling of tenders. Contractors must be ready to begin work within twenty days after the date they have been notified of the acceptance of their tender.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works for ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00), must be deposited as security. The cheque will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender,

By order,

LINDSAY SECTION

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received at this office until 16 o'clock on Tuesday, 17th November, 1908, for the works connected with the construction of the Lindsay Section of the canal.

Plans, specifications, and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after the 19th October 1908, at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages Schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which Schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered, unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $10,000.00 must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Examiner Special

Fraserville, Oct. 28.—It is with much regret we report the sad death of Mr. Alcorn, loved and respected by all. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved wife and relatives. The funeral was held yesterday at Baltimore.

The dry weather still continues and ploughing is done with much difficulty; therefore the farmers are not getting on as well as they would otherwise.

Mr. Will Cruickshanks has been quite ill, but we are glad to report he is improving nicely.

The foul supper at Centreville on Thanksgiving Day will be a big success. Come and have a good time.

Mr. David Luck, who has been ill for some time, is improving.

Mrs. Roddy is visiting friends in Peterborough and vicinity.

EXCITEMENT IN HAVELOCK OVER ELECTION IN EAST RIDING

Examiner Special

Havelock, Oct. 27.—There was rejoicing in the Sexsmith Conservative camp last night, when they learned that John A. Sexsmith, the boy from Belmont, had succeeded at last after a struggle of twelve years, in getting a seat for East Peterborough. Mr. Tanner did well for the time he had to conduct his campaign, while Sexsmith has been preparing ever since he was defeated in 1904.

A large crowd gathered at the town hall to get the returns. At first it was doubtful if Sexsmith was elected, but in a very short time some of the most enthusiastic Conservatives had his majority in their imagination figured up to about 700. Then the returns for Ontario started to come in, and as a large number were Liberals the Conservatives started to complain that false reports were coming in, but they soon found out it was true.

Then a medium of kids and dogs paraded the town with torches, with Mr. Sexsmith prominently exposed in a handsome rubber tired rig, which gave him a slight idea of what is in store for him. The youngsters kept up a continual yell for Sexsmith and Laurier, and the last sight of them was on the outskirts of the town, where the inhabitants were awoke by the noise.

Mr. Sexsmith will certainly have room enough on the Conservative side of the House, according to the Liberal majority.

Mr. Sexsmith got a majority of 101 in Havelock, while the Conservatives figured at 150.

Price Of Milk In Havelock Was Raised To 7c. But Dropped To 6c.

Examiner Special

Havelock, Oct. 28.—Messrs. Fred and Jack Linton, of Campbellford, were in town on Sunday.

Mr. Ivan Clancy, of Toronto, visited friends in town on Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Harry Andrew, of Toronto, is spending a few days the guest of friends in town.

Mr. Harry Toman, of Peterborough, spent Sunday at his home here.

Miss Denmark, of Campbellford, was in town on Friday, the guest of Miss Carrie McKelvie.

Mr. Maines of Tweed, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Ormiston, on Sunday.

Miss Dema Johnson, of Norwood, was the guest of her sister, Miss Mollie Johnson, on Friday.

Miss Laura Kelly, of Victoria, spent Saturday and Sunday in town the guest of Miss Stella Armstrong.

Mr. Denmark, of Campbellford, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Miss Bessie Rose visited friends in Norwood last week.

Miss Carrie McKelvie was in Norwood on Monday, the guest of friends.

Mrs. Calligan, of Toronto, is the guest of her brother, Mr. Clem. Timmerman.

A Thanksgiving dinner and concert will be held in the Presbyterian church on the evening of Nov. 11th. Rev. Mr. Thornton, of Cobourg, will be present and will assist in the programme. This is the annual dinner and has always proved a huge success.

Miss Margaret Macdonald, of Peterborough, is the guest of her auntie, Mrs. Dineen.

Some of the local milk dealers in town raised the price of milk from five cents a quart to seven cents, but finding that their customers were decreasing in number, have lowered it to six cents, which seems a little more reasonable.

Mr. A Sinclair of town, will hold a shooting match for geese and turkeys at the park on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 9th.

Scarlet fever has broken out to quite an extent in town. The local physicians had to, every day, for one week, examine the school pupils. However, the disease seems of a very mild type.

A national song "Canada our Homeland," has just been published by Nordheimer's, Toronto. The words are by Dr. A D Watson, the well known author, and the music is by Lonnie Rees, A.T.C.M., Toronto. Mr. Rees is a brother of Mrs. J C Buchanan, of town, and is well known in the vicinity, having visited frequently at "Elmview Farm."

Mr. C E Lanigan, formerly of the Sovereign Bank staff here, has accepted a position as general salesman for the State of New York for the Crown Ribbon and Curtain Manufacturing Company, of Rochester, N.Y.

Miss Mollie Foley, of Cordova, spent Sunday and Monday at her home in town.

Mr. and Mrs. S Huble, of Glen Ross, were guests at "Maple Lodge," Preneveau, last week.

Miss Gertrude Spurr, of Glendale, West Va., who was the guest of her sister, Mrs. C A Ghent for a few days, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. F Wright have moved into one of Mr. Joe Knox's new residences on Donald street.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance, who have resided in town for the past two years, have moved back to their own home on the outskirts of the village. Mrs. Higley will move into the residence lately occupied by them on Orange street.

Mrs. (Rev.) A. Hagar of Norwood who has been the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vanarnam, for the past few weeks, has returned to her home.

Mrs. Peake of Toronto is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Warren at "Maple Lodge," Preneveau.

Much excitement was aroused in town over the elections, especially in the evening, as the returns came in. The town hall was crowded with people eagerly and anxiously awaiting the results.

FUNNY HOLIDAY FADS.

The Conventional Method Is Not the Only Means of Relaxation.

It has been said that Englishmen take their pleasures sadly. There is no doubt that it is true in the case of a man who has a mania for copying epitaphs from tombstones. Every year when his holidays come round he spends them in visiting as many village churchyards as he can crowd into a day's march. He usually either leads off, or finishes up, with a day or two in the London cemeteries. There is a man living not many miles from Stoke Newington who suffers with tender feet. He invariably spends his week's holiday sitting in the garden all day with his feet in a foot-bath, with a packet of sea salt or a bottle of Sanitas beside him, much to the amusement of the neighbors on either side.

Another man, a postoffice official, being a slave to the clock all the year round, makes it a practice for the first week of his annual leave to stop all the clocks in his house and spend the whole week in bed. He has a supply of newspapers and tobacco brought to him every day. This he declares is the happiest week of the whole year.

The writer is acquainted with a commercial traveler who for years has regularly sent his wife and children to the seaside during his summer holidays, while he himself stays at home whitewashing the ceilings and painting the doors and cupboards of his house.

In one of our large Government offices there is a clerk conspicuous for the amount of superfluous fat that nature has endowed him with, who always engages a room at some seaside hotel facing the sea, and sits at the door from morning till night, only moving to go into meals. He usually comes back and boasts that he never left the hotel once until he took a cab to the station for his return journey.

Yet another example of eccentricity is that of a lady of independent means, who every summer rents a small cottage for about a month in some secluded country village for the sole purpose of giving her cats a holiday. She generally takes about ten or a dozen away with her in a large crate.

REAL SEA WAVES.

London Theatre Gets Wonderful Effect In Melodrama.

The thunder of surf can now be heard and the onward surge of foam-crested breakers is seen on a London stage in the new spectacle, "The Sands of Dee," which is playing at the Hippodrome.

It is the first time that real waves have been produced upon a stage, and recently the secret was disclosed.

From a great tank, seventy-nine feet above the stage, five tons of water were suddenly released. The water fell, a solid mass, and struck against a sloping plane built at the back of the stage. It rebounded in the form of a great curling wave, which surged knee-deep across the stage, just as an Atlantic breaker races over the flat sand of a Cornish bay. The spray flew high up into the air. Hardly had the wave subsided when another five tons of water was set free and the performance repeated.

When the spectacle is presented, the actual fall of water is screened by scenery, and only the waves—nine in number—are seen. In "The Sands of Dee" the heroine will be bound to a danger post on the sands by the villain and is rescued from the incoming tide by the hero just in time to save her from drowning. The villain himself is engulfed by the waves.

Chamberlain's Henchman.

As a lad of nineteen, Mr. Jesse Collings, who recently celebrated his golden wedding, went to Birmingham to gain fame and fortune with a solitary five-pound note in his pocket. His mother was the daughter of an agricultural laborer who brought up a large family on a wage of 8s. a week, and Jesse joined the firm of Samuel Booth & Co., Birmingham, in the humble capacity of junior clerk. A few years later he was head of the firm, and in 1866 entered the political arena and was returned as Parliamentary representative for the borough of Ipswich. Jesse, as he is affectionately addressed by his intimates, when member of Parliament specially interested himself in small holdings. In this connection he has been much associated with the noted phrase, "Three acres and a cow." This, on one occasion, led to an amusing incident. Mr. Collings was discussing a housing scheme for the East End of London, and was arguing that each building should be composed of three rooms, when the irrepressible Dr. Tanner evoked a roar of laughter by inquiring "And where would you put the cow?"

The Christian Era.

The Christian era was not introduced as a basis of reckoning time until the sixth century.

Silver Dollars.

A million silver dollars would occupy, in round numbers, 120 cubic feet. Therefore a room or rather a box six feet long, five feet wide and four feet high would accommodate them comfortably.

How to Engrave Eggshells.

Make the drawing of any figure or design you please upon the egg in melted tallow or any thick oil. Then immerse the egg in strong vinegar. When the egg has remained for some time in the vinegar, it will be found that the parts untouched by the tallow have been eaten away, leaving the design in relief.

Humor

A WASTED JOKE.

He Meant to Worry His Wife, but He Didn't After All.

"I don't think I'll try any more practical jokes on my wife. They don't pan out well."

"Elucidate."

"You see, she has a habit of hoisting the window in our room every night. As I usually go to bed last, she depends on me to hoist it. Sometimes I forget it, and then there's a wild squabble. Frequently she wakes me up in the night and asks me to see if it is open. If I don't, she nags at me until morning.

"A night or two ago I resolved to give her a hard scare. I rolled up a lot of old newspapers into a long bundle and laid the package down by the window. Of course she was asleep and didn't hear me. Then I opened the window a little way and crept into bed. Some time after midnight she nudged me and said:

"'Jim, I'm sure you didn't open that window. It's like a bake oven in the room. Get up and see.'

"So I got up, went to the window and threw the sash as high as it would go. As I did so I gave a little shriek and then flung my bundle down to the walk below. It struck with a dull thud, and I dodged behind the curtain to await developments. The room was very dark, and I couldn't see my wife, but I heard her raise herself to a sitting posture. Then she spoke.

"'Poor old Jim!' she quietly said. 'He's tumbled out of the window in his raggedest nightshirt. What a spectacle he'll be when they find him in the morning? Then she lay down again and went to sleep."

"What did you do?"

"Stood there shivering for a minute or two and then sneaked into bed."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In Fine Trim.

"I see Hi Hoskins is back from Noo York," drawled the old postmaster at Bacon Ridge. "How does he feel?"

"In fine trim," responded the village loafer.

"In fine trim, eh?"

"Yes. While he was in that town he had his nails trimmed, his hair trimmed, his whiskers trimmed, and before he could get away he had his pockets trimmed. Hi says Noo York is a blamed trim town."—Detroit Tribune.

Airy Persiflage.

Mrs. Cuppotes—How could a woman ever bring herself to marry an aeronaut? He's so flighty.

Mrs. Waypher—Yes, and too often he lacks ballast.

Mrs. Marmalayde — Then, too, he looks down on ordinary people.

Mrs. Chillicon-Kearney — And again he moves in the higher circles, and you don't.—Chicago Tribune.

To the Limit.

Women had decided to wear even larger hats.

"Not impracticable at all," they explained. "The center doors of the new cars are twice as wide as in the old ones."

Men wondered, but were helpless.—Philadelphia Ledger.

About the Size of It.

"Anyway," said her husband's wife, "you can't accuse me of prolonging arguments."

"That's right, my dear," replied his wife's husband. "You merely set your foot down on it, and that covers the entire ground."—Chicago News.

Accurate Enough.

"I want a perfectly accurate thermometer," said the suburbanite.

"Here's one that will just suit," said the dealer. "I'll guarantee that it will go higher in summer and lower in winter than any other in the neighborhood."—Pittsburg Post.

Golf More Important.

"Will you come round again tomorrow?"

"Dunno. I'd arranged to get married tomorrow. Perhaps I can postpone it."

Her Tongue.

"Put out your tongue," said the doctor.

After the lady had done so she asked, "Is there anything the matter with it?"

"No-o. Worn some, that's all."—Minneapolis Journal.

One Sure Thing.

"Do you think men will ever really learn to fly?"

"I hope so. If they don't it's going to be mighty lonesome for the ladies who go to heaven."—Pick-Me-Up.

Change of Scene.

Redd—I suppose you don't go to the same place every day in your automobile?

Greene—Oh, no; we're in a different court nearly every day!—Yonkers Statesman.

More than one best?

When you ask your grocer to send you the best flour, he sends you—his best. When you know the best flour and order by the name, the choice is not left to the grocer. Many grocers handle as their leader. They have found it the safest flour to recommend because its results are sure and its purity is unquestioned. If your grocer's best is not Royal Household, insist on his getting it for you. The benefit will be mutual.

Royal Household Flour

THE UNEXPECTED HAPPENED

And They Did Not Get So Far Ahead of Their Wives After All.

During the Exhibition in Toronto, a certain Presbyterian minister and his wife, from a staid Scotch settlement in Western Ontario, came to visit friends on Bloor street for the fortnight. The days were well filled with shopping and "exhibitioning," but one evening—a Wednesday evening, too—there arose the question of where to go.

"We've been to an organ recital, an illustrated lecture and a talk on China," said the hostess thoughtfully. "See here!" she ejaculated, lowering her voice significantly, "let's go to Shea's—there's no harm in it—and when you're going back to that dead-and-alive place for the rest of the year, I think you need a little diversion."

"But what would I say to John?" said the minister's wife, after a few half-hearted protests.

"John—bless me—I don't know," said Mrs. A——. "I believe he's taken my husband to prayer-meeting. We'll go, anyway." The women had been chums at boarding-school, and the prospect of Shea's seemed like an old-time escapade. Therefore, to Shea's they went, and were enjoying the fourth number on the program when Mrs. A—— frantically clutched her guest's arm.

"Will you look at those two men—there? It's your John and my Henry—and I believe your husband is wearing one of Henry's coats."

Just at this moment the smiling husbands caught sight of the two women and bowed their heads in confusion. The rest of that program was as a painful dream to John, who had been a firm disciplinarian, and had more than once expressed disapproval of certain frivolous tastes displayed by his wife. And it was all in vain afterwards for John to assert quaveringly that he thought a minister should see those things in order to be able to warn others.

DISTINCTION FOR CANADIAN.

Sydney, N.S., Girl Is First to Win Oxford Musical Degree.

Miss Burchell, of Sydney, Nova Scotia, is the first colonial girl to win the distinction of having passed the final examination for the Degree of Bachelor of Music, Oxford University. In 1903 she passed at Oxford the "Preliminary (Arts) Examination for Students of Music," and the First Examination for the Degree of Mus. Bac. For the Second Mus. Bac. examination candidates are not obliged to go to Oxford. They are required to submit for examination a musical exercise of their own composition. This must be a vocal work with accompaniment for a string band. The following movements are expected: a five-part chorus, a song or duet, an unaccompanied vocal quartette, and a five-part fugue. The work may be either sacred or secular. Miss Burchell chose a sacred subject, giving it the title, "The Light of Men." She had the good fortune to have her first work accepted by the examiners.

The Third (Final) Examination was successfully passed in May of this year.

In April Miss Burchell passed the examination for Associateship of the Royal College of Music, at that institution in London. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales is president of the Royal College.

Miss Burchell studied under Mr. Peter LeSueur, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., formerly music master of the Methodist College, St. John's, Nfld.; and under Dr. C. W. Pearce, Mus. Doc., Cantab., F.R.C.O., of Trinity College of Music, London.

She is the daughter of Mr. H. C. Burchell, C.E., of Sydney, N.S., formerly Government engineer of Newfoundland, and afterwards director of public works, British Honduras.

To Look For Castaways.

H. M. S. Algerine, now at Esquimalt, is preparing for a cruise to Christmas Island, scene of the Aeon wreck, and other islands of the South Pacific. Until a few years ago a cruise was made annually to the islands of South Pacific to investigate the possibilities of castaways being found on an unhabited islands and to renovate graves, etc.

With the addition of Algerine at the Esquimalt station, the practice is being revived.

Enquiries by salvage companies regarding the possibility of solving the steamer Aeon, wrecked on Christmas Island, have disclosed the fact that the engines have broken away and the hull is breaking. No hope of salvage is entertained. The Canadian-Australian line agents say the steamer Manuka will undoubtedly call at Christmas Island, as instructions to that effect will be cable from Sydney, to which port the survivors of the Aeon will be taken.

Room For Settlers.

Reports received from British Columbia land surveyors sent out to examine and survey land along the route of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway represent that the area fit for settlement is very much larger than was generally supposed. From present indications, all the land along that railway in this province, with a few isolated exceptions, will be taken up by actual settlers within a short time after the road is built. When the enterprise was projected it was thought that the British Columbia section would not be traffic-producing. There is, however, as a matter of fact, every reason to believe that it will be the seat of many and varied industries.

Kitten Came to Life.

A Toronto resident recently immersed three young kittens in a barrel of water, with the intention of drowning them. They were taken out after some time, apparently dead, and were buried. Next day one of the kittens was found lying comfortably beside her mother, alive and well. The old cat, it was ascertained, had scratched up the grave and secured the only kitten which had any life in it and had brought it back to health and strength.

A COURSE OF OX.

Try It as an Antidote For the Ills of the Strenuous Life.

In the choice of motor power allow me to suggest the ox. The horse leans forward to pull and even helps himself along by bobbing his head. He jerks a load out of a hard place by plunging bodily against the collar, stopping and lunging again. He strains through a hard place and then starts suddenly forward at his release. He works himself into a lather, and you, if you are the right kind of person, cannot help feeling for him and assisting him with inward stress and strain.

The ox does not bob a horn. He simply journeys, and the load goes along. When he comes to a tough place his pasterns do not bend down, he does not squat to pull, he does not pinch along on the toes of his shoes, he seldom blows, and he does not know how to sweat. He does not exert himself at a patch of woven soil and then hurry up when he is past it. The chain becomes stiffer, and the yoke sits solider to his neck, and that is all. There is no sign of effort. The earth may grit its teeth and crunch as it swallows the plow, but the ox stalks on his way. With the share deep or shallow or lifted entirely and hanging from the axle, whether he is plowing earth or air, it makes no difference to him. His most ponderous task is still himself, and he heeds no incidentals.

He is out for a stroll. He does not allow work to interfere with the even tenor of his way. His tendons are rigged to his outstanding rump bones like so much spar and tackle, and he goes along by interior leverage. Inside his old woman hulk is the necessary engine work, and he will neither go slower for this thing nor faster for that. There is much about him besides his disposition that is self contained. He is the antithesis of the automobile. To ride on his back is a cure for indigestion; to ride behind him is a rest for the mind. A course of ox is an antidote for the ills of the times.—Charles D. Stewart in Atlantic.

A BRIER PIPE.

Get One That Is Smooth Inside the Bowl, Says a Smoker.

A collegian who prides himself on the sweetness and color of his brier wood pipes and pretends to know a lot more about them than any ordinary smoker spent half an hour in a tobacco shop making an addition to his already large collection.

Some pipes he discarded because of the grain in the wood. There was too much stripe or too much birdseye, he remarked. When he found one which suited him he put it aside until he had gathered three or four which apparently were all right, and then came his final test to pick out the best of them all.

He held each with the bowl toward the light, then slowly rubbed his little finger inside. Two he discarded, then repeated the operation with the others until only one remained out of the discard. That one he bought.

"Want 'em smooth inside," he explained. "A brier pipe roughly finished inside the bowl isn't worth bothering with. I wouldn't take one for a gift; wouldn't take the trouble to try to break it in, for it will never be any good. It won't cake up right, and it'll never be nice and sweet.

"I've got a theory that when the inside of the bowl is rough all the little edges and points of wood char and burn the first time you smoke it, and a burnt pipe is no good. That's why I always take a pipe that has a bowl as smooth on the inside as on the out.

"Then it doesn't char, but cakes up evenly and gets good in a little time. Maybe the theory is wrong, but it has worked out well in my own experience, and some of my friends who have tried it agree with me."

Franklin's Press.

The press upon which Franklin worked in London in 1725 is preserved in the patent office at Washington. It is a clumsy structure almost entirely of wood and is known as the Ramage press.

Goldsmith's Actor.

Lord Nugent was one evening very eloquent to Goldsmith in praise of M. (a bad actor). "But, my lord," said Goldsmith, "you must allow he treads the stage very ill—he waddles."

"Waddles?" said Lord Nugent.

"Yes, he waddles like a goose. Why, you know we call him Goose M. Well, and then, you know, when he endeavors to express strong passion he bellows."

"Bellows?" said Lord Nugent.

"To be sure he does—bellows like a bull. Why, we call him Bull M. Well. Then," continued Goldsmith, pursuing his triumph, "his voice breaks, and he croaks."

"Croaks?" said Lord Nugent.

"Why, the fellow croaks like a frog. We call him Frog M."

"But M. is a good actor."

"Why, yes," said Goldsmith, "barring the goose and the bull and the frog and a few other things I could mention, and, not wishing to speak ill of my neighbors, I will allow M. is a good actor."—"Memoirs of the Earl of Nugent."

The Gypsy Life.

"Just as soon as my husband and I have $500 saved up besides our fare we are going back to England," said a woman player. "Then we are going to buy one of those gypsy wagons they have over there. They are too awfully jolly for words, don't you know. They are quite wide, have bunks, a cunning little kitchen and sitting room. You wander through the country all day; then at night you stop, cook your supper, sit under the trees and sleep out in the open or in the wagon, just as you choose. Many of my artist and theatrical friends have them and just wander from place to place. It is an ideal way to live; beats houseboats or bungalows. If you have ever slept out in the open and watched the stars over your head you feel smothered in a bedroom. I played through Australia, and we went from place to place in a big wagon, sleeping out of doors at night."—New York Times.

Ballooning Among the Clouds.

It has been my lot to see in arctic regions some hundreds of thousands of icebergs close at hand, and I have always believed them to be the most beautiful objects on earth, but the clouds of the sky, close at hand, are almost as beautiful. If you mount above one of these majestic things, swiftly overtopping one by one its folds and wreaths, and if remembering how high it is you look down and see only small green patches of earth through holes in the cloud carpet below, you have a little thrill of conception of how lonely a man would feel falling away down there and not being able to see the spot where he must alight. It is a safe little thrill, however. You know that you are not going to fall. Such dizziness as some persons feel in standing near great heights on the earth is almost unknown in ballooning.—Albert White Vorse in Success Magazine.

Madrid's Trying Climate.

Queen Victoria's complaint against the terrible summer heat and equally trying winter cold of Madrid, the Spanish capital, precipitates the question of the advisability of moving the government to Barcelona. Madrid is situated unfavorably from almost any standpoint. The surrounding plateau is treeless, exposing the city to the scorching south winds in summer and the frigid breezes that descend from the snow covered Sierra Guadrarama in winter. In contrast with this uncomfortable situation Barcelona's equable climate, due in large part to her position on the Mediterranean, appeals strongly to the Spanish lover of ease. Barcelona has long been the commercial center of Spain.

"British Unfairness."

One American who got back from the Olympic games recently was with Hayes, the Marathon winner, in a party of Americans the evening following the race. On the subject of "British unfairness" he tells a story Hayes told that night.

"I was just entering the stadium," said Hayes, "and I slowed to a walk, thinking it was all over and I had lost. A policeman stepped up alongside of me and, touching his hat, said: 'You'd better 'urry on, sir. The other chap's fallen down.'"—New York Sun.

One Industry of the Tasky Ant.

Out in Burma and the far east, where sandalwood is worth its weight in silver, the pestiferous ant is a valuable assistant to the loggers of that precious timber. The hard and fragrant heartwood alone has value, but as the tree grows this valuable heart is overlaid by a soft and worthless layer forming two-thirds of the trunk. When a tree is felled and cut into lengths the loggers let the timber lie. At once the ants begin work upon the soft wood, which is sappy and sweet enough to attract them. In a few weeks, less than a month in the case of the largest butts, the ants deliver the heartwood free of all the worthless sapwood.

Explaining.

"Aha, Mose! What are you doing with those chickens?"

"Is dem yo' chickens, boss?"

"You got them out of my coop."

"What kinda chickens is dey, boss?"

"They are Rhode Island Reds. What are you doing with them?"

"Why, boss, I done bought some Rhode Island Reds f'm a man yestiddy, an' I come ovah to git some o' yo' ahs chickens to see ef mine was lak yo' ahs. Ah doesn't lak tu git cheated, boss."

Broke the Bank.

The king was in his counting room counting out his money,
For the queen was at the seashore heading every letter "Honey."
Send another hundred." And the poor king was disgusted
To find when she'd been gone a month the counting room was busted.

JIMMIE'S BEAUTIFUL DREAM.

When Jimmie's turn had come to bat
He heard a mighty shout.
The bases were all nicely filled,
And not a man was out.

Jim gave the plate a sounding whack
And caught the pitcher's eye.
The pitcher turned all sorts of shapes,
Then let the spit ball fly.

Jim swung the bat with giant force
And hit the ball just right.
You should have seen it split the air
And disappear from sight.

Then Jimmie started for his run—
He flew just like a bird—
But when he tumbled out of bed
He hadn't got to third.

Meteorological.

Little Carleton was a child of the south, having been born in Mexico, and lived there until he came to "the States" with his parents when four or five years of age. But, though unacquainted with the American climate, he had been brought up on good American customs and foodstuffs. The first sight of snow excited him greatly. After looking out of the window earnestly he turned and exclaimed:

"Oh, Aunt Betty, see the popped raindrops!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Reassured.

"G-g-good evening," said the young man, who had come to speak to the girl's father.

"Good evening," replied the old gentleman. "You look a little nervous. How do you feel?"

"Flattered," replied the young man. "I was afraid I looked scared to death."—Minneapolis Journal.

Real Danger.

"There is the danger signal out on those ropes," warned the life guard.

"And is it really dangerous out there?" asked the bashful youth in the oriole bathing suit.

"Well, I should say so! Sixteen summer girls have proposed to young men out there during the past month. It is leap year, you know."

In the Future.

ELECTION TALK IN THE UNITED STATES

Republicans Charged With Getting Money From Wall Street.

STRAUS REITERATES CLAIM

President of Democratic Business Men's League Declares That Bribery Fund is Largest in History of Country—Operators on Stock Exchange Forced to Put Up From $500 to $5,000.

New York, Oct. 30.—The charge recently made by Nathan Straus, president of the Business Men's Democratic League, and subsequently denied by Treasurer Sheldon of the Republican National Committee, that Wall Street men are being assessed $500 each by the Republican committee, was reiterated by Mr. Straus in a speech before the Commercial Travelers' League yesterday. He declared that Republicans in New York this year "have the largest corruption fund they ever had." He said he was ready to prove that statement.

"I am ready to prove now that they not only have levied a tax of $500," said Mr. Straus, "but that they have a sliding scale which runs up to $5,000. I am ready to prove this and the newspapers won't dare print what I say here."

More than 100,000 members of trades' unions in this city have failed to respond to the appeal of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to endorse the candidacy of Wm. J. Bryan. Some unions have repudiated the Gompers' circular of appeal officially. Other trades' unions have simply ignored it.

Speaking of the trusts at Cohoes yesterday, Mr. Bryan asserted that Mr. Taft had not attacked a single trust, because, he said, every trust magnate was supporting him, "and out of the funds the Republicans are prepared to buy every vote that can be bought."

Mr. Bryan vehemently declared that the Republican party was going backward instead of forward with respect to labor. He characterized the promise of a revision of the tariff as an attempt to perpetrate a fraud on the people.

His audience appeared to be practically unanimous for the guaranteeing of bank deposits as indicated by the number of hands raised when he put the matter to a vote.

Albany, N.Y., Oct. 30.—David Bennett Hill, for 12 years at odds with the Bryan wing of Democracy, quitted the quiet of Wolfert's Roost Wednesday night and arrayed himself with Wm. J. Bryan.

The meeting in public of Bryan and Hill was planned by a master of stagecraft. The hall was jammed. The American flag was everywhere, women were in the boxes, the crowd regaled itself with patriotic songs and the music of a band. Suddenly the band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner." Slowly the curtain rose and disclosed Hill and Bryan sitting side by side, smiling. For a moment there was a dead silence. Then pandemonium broke loose. Hill said that he stood for Mr. Bryan and what Mr. Bryan stood for.

Boy Negligent; Charge is Murder.

St. John, N.B., Oct. 30.—Chester Urquhart, aged 14, of Covered Bridge, York County, is under arrest on a charge of murder.

Urquhart and George Clary, another young boy, were out shooting on Oct. 16 when a bullet from the prisoner's rifle penetrated Clary's neck, inflicting a fatal wound. The coorner's jury returned a verdict of culpable negligence against Urquhart.

Judgment Against C.P.R.

Chatham, Ont., Oct. 30.—Before Justice Latchford, at the High Court session just concluded, judgment was given for $1,000 to the McDonell estate against the C.P.R. The case was the outcome of the killing of the late Augustine McDonell a year ago, the death resulting, it was alleged, through a defective C.P.R. crossing.

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLE

SIMPLE RECIPE GIVEN

Here is a prescription that anyone can mix at home. Any good prescription pharmacy can supply the ingredients named at little cost; being compound of vegetable extracts, it is harmless and inexpensive. Best of all it does its work well, relieving even the worst forms of bladder trouble, frequent urination, backache, kidney complaint, and by its direct action upon the eliminative tissue of the kidneys makes those most vital organs rid the system of waste matter and uric acid which causes rheumatism.

Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

Former sufferers often state that one week's use shows curative results in nearly every instance, and such symptoms as lame back, frequent desire to urinate, pain in bladder and even chronic rheumatism are generally relieved within a few days, the pain and swelling diminishing with each dose.

ENGLISHMAN CHOSEN.

Bishop of Stepney May Succeed Late Bishop Carmichael.

Montreal, Oct. 30.—By the unanimous vote of the diocesan synod last night the Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Bishop of Stepney and Suffragan to the Bishop of London since 1901, was declared elected to the Bishopric of Montreal.

This vote confirmed a seventh and final ballot in which the Bishop of Stepney had received a practically unanimous vote. The figures of the seventh ballot were as follows: Clerical vote—Right Rev. Bishop Lang, 89; Principal Bexford, 4; Dean Evans, 3; Dean Farthing, 4; Archdeacon Ker, 1; Rev. Osborne Troop, 1. The lay vote polled 70 for Lang and 7 for Farthing.

The following cablegram was sent to the Bishop of Stepney: "The Synod of Montreal, consisting of 107 clergy and 300 lay delegates, have unanimously elected you bishop and earnestly hope you may accept." A reply from the bishop is expected tomorrow.

The name of the Bishop of Stepney was sprung as a surprise on the synod and came after the stubborn duel between Dean Evans and Dean Farthing. The supporters of both these clerics precipitated a deadlock and the laymen refused to support Dean Evans, while going solid for Farthing. On the other hand, the clerical vote supported Evans, although Farthing had a slowly increasing number of adherents.

The question as to whether Bishop Lang will accept is regarded dubiously in both cleric and lay circles here, as he is in direct line for preferment as coadjuter to the Bishop of London.

NATIONAL COUNCIL BUSY.

Women Favor Further Restrictions in Immigration.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—The National Council of Women of Canada yesterday discussed immigration, international disarmament, cheap theatres, objectionable literature, the white slave traffic and other matters relating to the moral influence of Canada. Reports were presented favoring further restriction of undesirable immigration. An improvement in the class of domestic servants arriving from the old country was noted in the report of the committee. There was a complaint from the Maritime Province delegates that few of the servants from Europe remained in the east, the majority being ticketed through to the provinces farther west. It was recommended that an effort be made to have a larger share of this class of immigrants assigned to the east.

Eleven For Acquittal.

Chatham, Oct. 30.—Elliott Kimball, who is held on the charge of murder in connection with the shooting of W. J. Healey, is being held in custody pending instructions from the Attorney-General's Department. The crown will press the prosecution at the Spring Assizes.

It is understood that the first vote taken after the jury retired was 7 to 5 for acquittal, the five being in favor of a verdict of manslaughter. The case was then fought out and the final vote stood 11 to 1 for acquittal, one of the 12 refusing to give in and holding out for a verdict of manslaughter.

Thawed Out Dynamite.

Guelph, Ont., Oct. 30.—Foolishly leaving a quantity of dynamite, 14 sticks, near a bonfire to thaw out, almost caused the terrible death of a half dozen workmen who were engaged in the laying of a pipe line for the new waterworks system. Angelo Addario, a workman, sustained severe injuries.

WOMEN CHAINED TO THE GRILL

Suffragettes Make Another Sortie into British House.

SEVERAL GET JAIL TERM

Demonstration in London Results in Arrest of Thirteen — Two Women Fasten Themselves With Fetters to Grill in Commons' Gallery and Have to Be Filed Loose Before They Can Be Ejected.

London, Oct. 30.—All the suffragettes, with the exception of two, who were arrested Wednesday night during the disorders in and around the House of Commons, were yesterday morning arraigned in court and fined $25 each. They refused to pay and were consequently sentenced each to one month's imprisonment. Of the two exceptions one was a girl under 21 years of age and the other a woman who secured an adjournment to lodge a charge of assault against the constable who arrested her.

The length to which suffragettes will go to attain an object and to strikingly bring their claims before the nation, was illustrated in the House of Commons when it was discovered in the midst of a consideration of a bill, that two women had chained themselves to the iron grill in the gallery. Their chains had to be filed and portions of the grill cut away before they could be ejected.

The House was considering the Licensing Bill, when a suffragette from the gallery shrilly demanded that women be allowed to vote, and thrust through the grill a placard on which were printed the precise demands of the suffragettes. Mr. Reinnant, speaking on the bill, attempted to continue when a man threw down a bundle of papers and cried, "I am a man, and I object to injustice to women."

Attendants made a scuffle in ejecting this disturber. Over the sounds of this incident rose greater disorder in the gallery. It was discovered that two suffragettes had chained themselves to the grill and were shrieking out: "We demand votes for women." Excitement rose, and the members left their seats to watch the gallery. An attempt to pull the women away was ineffectual, and a run was made for files. Parts of the grill were cut away and then Muriel Matters and Helen Fox, the suffragettes, were led away, their chains filed outside, and they were put out of the House, not being arrested, as their acts were not illegal.

At the same time the police made a sortie into a bunch of suffragettes that started a harangue before a crowd in front of the equestrian statue outside and arrested 13.

The galleries have been temporarily closed.

Still Smarting.

London, Oct. 30.—(C.A.P.)—At a meeting of the council of Bradford Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Illingworth moved that the council endorse the resolution adopted at a meeting in Leeds, which protested against the false statements contained in an article published in Industrial Canada. Mr. Whitely contended that by keeping the matter before the public they would only be assisting the cause of those Canadians who are seeking higher duties put on British goods. After some discussion the resolution was agreed to, Whitely voting against.

Accidentally Shot.

Huntsville, Oct. 30.—While driving from Utterson to Windermere, a young man named Jacob Eaton was shot and instantly killed.

Eaton, in company with his brother and a companion, all employes of the Utterson Lumber Co., and Eaton, who was lying down, either accidentally discharged the weapon with his foot or the jolting of the wagon set it off.

Barrison Sister Killed.

Vienna, Oct. 30.—One of the famous five Barrison sisters was instantly killed yesterday in an automobile collision near Rosenheim, Bavaria. She is the first of these sisters—who created a furore in all the capitals of Europe and in the United States—to meet death.

Suicide Power of Suggestion.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 30.—T. Griffiths, proprietor of the St. George's Inn, Esquimault road, shot and killed himself yesterday. He had been reading accounts of the suicide of a farmer of the same name shortly before he suicided.

THE REPORT FAVORS SOCIALISM

Baptist Report However Condemns Propaganda Methods.

MOVEMENT REVOLUTIONARY

Home Mission Annual Review at Ottawa Convention Says Organization of Working Classes is Christian in Its Spirit But That Danger Lies in Teaching It to Masses of Foreigners in Big Cities.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—In the home mission report laid before the Baptist convention yesterday there were reference to Socialism.

"In its varied forms," said the report, "labor unions, trades unions, professional associations and farmers' clubs, Socialism represents an emergence of a world-consciousness and world-conviction that at the present day social and economic conditions are not right; that the race cannot reach its highest development under these conditions; that the principle that should regulate social and business life should be co-operation and non-competition."

Every one of the basic principles of the movements were embodied in the constitution of the church, but the dangers arising out of the work of the so-called Socialistic leaders in such a place as Toronto were emphasized.

"There are constantly forming in the very heart of the city new communities of foreign peoples," said the report. "These people are scarcely landed in the city before the Socialist leaders are after them. The new principles taught them are revolutionary rather than reformatory." It was emphasized that the church should endeavor more and more to cope with this evil.

The total income of the home mission board last year was $32,000 and for this year $36,790.

WHOLESALE FARMING.

Company Will Operate Huge Property In the West.

Winnipeg, Oct. 30.—A remarkable project which seems incredible of realization is outlined by A. B. Exley, who styles himself "General Manager of the Anglo-Canadian Land, Grain & Stock Co.," which was recently incorporated at St. Pierre, South Dakota, with a capitalization of two and a half millions, and with the avowed intention of colonizing five hundred thousand acres of land in the Canadian Northwest and working it entirely with English labor, as a single enterprise. The company hopes to establish itself in the neighborhood of Vermilion.

Ad. Writers' Get Busy.

Barcelona, Oct. 30.—The Barcelona municipality has offered a prize of $1,000 for the best poster design for advertising Barcelona as a winter resort, and the mayor of the city has especially invited the competition of American artists. The poster must be 1.25 by 0.90 metres, with space for the words "Barcelona Ciudad de Invierno." The designs must reach the "Secretaria de la Comision de Attracciones de Forasterros" before Dec. 15, 1908.

Promised $5,000 Hush Money.

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—E. A. S. Blake, the contractor convicted of attempting to bribe John M. Kelly to qualify on the jury to try Abram Reuf and vote for Reuf's acquittal, made a full confession in court yesterday.

He told how after he was arrested Frank J. Murphy, Reuf's associate counsel, promised him $5,000 if he would keep quiet.

Ends Life Far From Home.

St. Thomas, Oct. 30.—At San Diego, Cal., Allen Binns of Elgin County, Ont., committed suicide. He was in St. Thomas at the time of the explosion of a pail full of rubbish and powder on the doorstep of ex-License Inspector W. McClellan, on Aug. 8 last, and confessed to knowing all about it. He was accused of a similar crime at San Diego.

ORDER FAVORS SMITH

Barnardo Avenue To Be Opened and Graded Across The G. T. R. On The Old Chemong Branch.

THE TOWNSHIP MAY GO AHEAD WITH THE WORK

The Board of Railway Commissioners have made an order at last in favour of the Township of Smith permitting Barnardo Avenue to be opened and graded across the Grand Trunk Railway's right of way on the old Chemong road. Negotations to this end have been under way for a long time. It was desired to open the thoroughfare and grade it but permission could not be obtained. Now, however, that the Railway Commissioners have issued an order the difficulty has been removed and the township authorities can go ahead with the work.

IMPROVEMENTS RECENTLY MADE TO THE NATIONAL

Extensive changes just completed at the Hotel National have added greatly to the appearance, capacity and convenience of the Charlotte street hostelry. The exterior has been repainted in white giving the building a much more attractive appearance. On the west side the name of the hotel has been inscribed in block letters. An illuminated sign has been created in front of the hotel and other changes have been made that effect a complete transformation in the exterior.

Inside other changes have been made many of the rooms have been renovated with new paper, carpets and fittings and the halls have been also repapered with the result that the interior is much more cheery and comfortable in appearance.

LUMBER CAMPS PREPARING FOR A MONSTER CUT

The Cavendish Lumber Company, Lakefield, is busy and expects to bring out of the woods between seven and eight million feet of logs. They have two camps, besides two jobbers busy cutting in Cavendish and Anstruther. The Peterborough Lumber Company have three camps cutting this season, under the supervision of Mr. A. Simpson. The foremen of the camps are E. Windover, E. P. Cresswell and N. Windover. They expect to bring out three million feet.

RECLAIMED BY A KISS—THE ONLY ONE RECEIVED BY WOMAN DURING LOVELESS LIFE OF SIXTY YEARS

Mrs. J. K. Barney's Story of Her Experience as a W. C. T. U. Worker in a Trip Around the World.

PRISONS SHE HAS VISITED

The statement is frequently made that truth is stranger than fiction and as one listened to Mrs. J. K. Barney's address in the George street Methodist school room last night, her lecture on "Prisons of the World" was replete with experiences which one could scarce imagine. Her address was given under the auspices of the W.C.T.U. and this society gained many new friends and admirers by her story of wonderful things she has accomplished which are only an instance of the influence of the work of the W.C.T.U. in all parts of the globe.

Her account of how she won for Christ one particular woman in the Invalid Depot—or Poor House for Women, as it would be called here—in Hobart Town, Tarmania, was graphically told. Mrs. Barney was to hold a meeting at this institution and on going there found the inmates, almost without exception, wretched-looking creatures. As Mrs. Barney said they were the very refuse of human life. Their features were scared and hardened by the misery and suffering of a long, loveless life of hardship and deprivation. On being asked to join in the service many refused and one of them even struck Mrs Barney a blow, the effects of which she felt for weeks.

The service was begun and after a number of favourite hymns were sung the women gradually joined in the group even to the one who delivered the blow, although considerable persuasion was needed. However, she refused to bow her head while a prayer was being offered up and remained steadfast in her determination. After a long painful silence, during which Mrs. Barney said they were waiting only for her, it was only when she said that God was waiting that the woman acquiesced and her will weakened before the first flash of duty.

A Pitiful Story

Afterwards Mrs. Barney found her alone and in deep thought. Only by many requests was the unfortunate woman entreated to give voice to her thoughts and she said she wanted Mrs. Barney to do something, but she was sure it would be refused. After many promises that it would be done at at all possible, the woman with much hesitation said that she wanted Mrs. Barney to kiss her. She had never known through all her life, from the age of 7 to 70 years one kiss of love. Her father crazed with drink had kicked her mother to death and her life had been long and full of misery. Unloved, uncared for and surrounded by nothing good, she had grown up and at three score ten one kiss of love was all she asked. By this means, by proving herself a true sister Mrs. Barney turned the old woman's mind into the right channel and her desire to "go where you're going" was fulfilled as far as Mrs. Barney could effect it.

Many Sacrifices

Sacrifices on every hand, unceasing labour, continued prayer and Christian charity were a few of the assets that made Mrs. Barney's trip around the world a success. She travelled 35,000 miles in the fourteen months in which she laboured in every clime and held hundreds of services with the people of Palestine, Ceylon, Australia, New Zealand and many other places, frequently requiring an interpreter. Her experiences would fill whole books and so unusual were those she related last night that she was heard with greatest interest.

The school room was well filled and everyone was delighted with the address. Rev. E A Pearson occupied the chair. During the evening Miss Reesor sang very acceptably "Close, Close to Thee," Mr. McCann playing the accompaniment.

GREATER NUMBER OF DEER HUNTERS THIS SEASON THAN EVER BEFORE

From all appearances there will be more hunters in the woods this season, beginning Monday next, than there have ever been before. Throughout the whole of Ontario the showing is just the same as in this district. The old veterans are going back almost to a man, and their number is being augmented by many who are just breaking in. The number of deer licenses are reported in excess of all past seasons and the ranks of the deer and moose should be largely depleted by the 15th of November.

FORMER RESIDENT OF PETERBORO' PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY IN OTTAWA

Examiner Special

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 30.—J. R. McNeil, a prominent merchant tailor, died here yesterday afternoon rather suddenly. A couple of years ago he had met with a serious accident, falling down the cellar stairs at his shop and sustaining a fracture of the base of the skull. Although the injury was one from which few recoveries are ever made, Mr. McNeil seemed to have regained his perfect health, and was apparently free from any after effects. It was this blow, however, which finally caused his death.

Deceased was a former resident of Peterborough.

He will be buried to-morrow, the Oddfellows, to which he belonged conducting the funeral.

SPECIAL POLICE TO BE ON DUTY TO-MORROW NIGHT

To-morrow night is Hallowe'en and Chief of Police Roszel is not unmindful of the fact and istaking precautions accordingly to prevent lawless conduct and destruction of property. A number of special police will be on duty for the occasion, and the youngsters are warned against committing any act contrary to law as they are almost certain to be caught. A harmless amusement will be tolerated, but there must be no destruction of property, tearing down fences, or signs, pulling off gates or other such pranks as have been played in other years.

OTHER HUNTING CLUBS WHO ARE GETTING READY FOR THE NORTH

The Turtle Lake hunting party leave on Saturday morning for the north. The members are as follows: J C Baisdon, G A Baptie, W J Baptie, Dr. S J Gibson and C Young, Peterborough; D Garvey, Smith; and F A Milbourn, Montreal. The party built a fine hunting lodge this autumn and are in good shape for the hunt. Mr. Jackman, Lakefield will act as the chef.

The Pencil Creek party consisting of W H Casement, A J Kidd, R G Cotton, C S Tanner, W Adams, W. Preston, Dr. J R Fraser and G Ridpath, left on Thursday morning for Cavendish township, where they will spend their hunt. A new hunting lodge was erected by the party, and a big time is expected.

Messrs. W Miller, R Miller and D Miller of Warsaw, and W J Charlton, of Douro, will pitch their camps at Rock Lake.

$3000 IN WOOD BLAZE

Mr. J. Johnston's Property In Smith Catches Fire From Adjoining Swamp—Valuable Timber Lost.

DAMAGE REPORTED TO REACH $3000 FIGURE

Where fire spread from adjoining property into Mr. J. Johnston's wooded land in Smith, it is said to have caused a loss to the latter of some $3,000.

It is learned that a small fire in a swamp on Mr. J. McKibbon's property spread into that belonging to Mr. Johnston. A large tract of fine hardwood suffered, with a loss estimated as above.

THE ALL SAINT'S FOWL SUPPER WAS GREAT SUCCESS

The ladies of All Saints' church excelled themselves last night in the provision of a most excellent repast on the occasion of the annual fowl supper in connection with that church. Before six o'clock the guests began to arrive and very soon every available seat was occupied around the festive board. The ladies looked after the requirements of all who attended in an admirable manner and they were certainly kept busy. The tables were spread in the basement. Mr. J. John kindly supplied the coffee for the supper.

When the several hundred persons in attendance had done justice to the magnificent repast, a brief but splendid musical and literary programme was rendered.

Miss Reesor's solo "The Lord is My Shepherd' was most beautifully sung and greatly appreciated. Mr. Gordon Wright's fine baritone voice was heard to much advantage in "The Flight of Ages" and the tenor solo "Two Ottes' by Mr. James Browne was also a delightful portion of the programme. Mr. J M Johnston sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and his solo was greeted with much applause. Mr. R Gliddon had charge of the programme, the fine quality of which made up for any deficiency in length.

G.T.R. ORDERS TO RUN LIGHT AS WATER IS LOW

It is learned that the G. T. R. headquarters have issued orders to trains coming into Peterborough from the east to run light between Hastings and this city. The reason is that the water is so extremely low that it is very scarce between Belleville and Peterborough and to provide against running out of water the above instructions have been handed out.

ELECTRIC SIGN FOR NATIONAL WAS MADE BY TURNER & SONS

The new electrical sign that has been placed above the Charlotte street entrance of the National Hotel is the work of Messrs. J J Turner & Sons, the home of some of the city's best illuminated signs. The design is not only very effective but is a novelty in this city. It gives the hotel a decided city-like appearance.

MASONIC RECEPTION AND OFFICIAL VISIT

District Deputy Grand Master at Peterborough Lodge To-night.

An emergent communication of Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, A. F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic Hall this evening. The special business is the reception of the District Deputy Grand Master of Otonabee District, No. 20, the R. W. Bro. A. H. C. Long, who is paying this lodge an official visit. A large attendance of the fraternity is expected.

GRASS HAS GROWN RAPIDLY SINCE RECENT RAINS FELL AND CATTLE ARE BECOMING FAT AND SLEEK

Pasturage in a Few Days Showed Great Improvement—Cattle Will Go Into the Barns for the Winter In Splendid Condition.

FIRST FALL OF SNOW DURING PRESENT SEASON

Today a few flakes of snow fell. It was the first indication since last winter that there was any left in the clouds above. It was somewhat difficult to recognize the fact that there really was a downfall of the beautiful—so few and far between were the flakes. But nevertheless it came and marks the first snow fall of the season of 1908-1909.

HALLOWE'EEN CONCERT

Among the many attractions arranged for to-night none will be more enjoyable than the Scotch concert at the Conservatory of Music. The greatest interest will centre in Barclay Macdonald Robertson of Montreal in his inimitable readings, "The Christening" and "Kissed in Tunnel." Then the various Scotch selections by the orchestra, and the "Auld Scotch saags' and choruses by a choir trained specially by Prof. Gliddon, together with vocal Scotch selections by artists of high merit. Among the numbers will be "A Mac Stekin' Onto His Nurse," and "I'm Too Young to Marry Yet."

OTONABEE AN EXAMPLE

Otonabee is the quick change township of this county. It holds first place for the rapid manner in which things grow. Not long ago like the other broad acres throughout the county, the land was very dry and through prolonged drought the pastures lost their verdure and became parched and unfit for grazing. Within the past two weeks, however, there has been a copious fall of rain and almost in a night the fields took on their former greeness. A well known implement man who has recently been through Otonabee states that the cattle have picked up wonderfully on the new pasturage and will go into the barns for the winter sleek and fat. In fact he says he has never seen them better and it speaks well for the quality of beef that may be obtained during the coming months.

Investigation shows that Otonabee is not alone in this respect for the whole county reports splendid pasturage for the farmers' cows. As a result it is scarcely too much to expect easier prices in butter, ate., on the local market.

LEG BROKEN IN A FOOTBALL GAME; MR. STROUD'S BROTHER INJURED

Mr. W. H. Stroud has received word of a painful accident to his brother in a football game at Ottawa. The injured boy was a visitor in Peterborough and at Stony Lake during the past summer.

The Journal says: Walter Stroud, of 227 Daly avenue, had his right leg broken at the ankle in a football match at Lansdowne Park yesterday and will be laid up for some weeks. The injured player was attended by Dr. Graham, of Ottawa South, and is now resting nicely in the hospital.

Stroud met with the injury in a flying tackle during the Collegiate vs. Ashbury College game, and it was purely accidental. Stroud was making a run around the end when he was tackled and thrown heavily to the ground. The players formed up to continue the play, but it was then found that Stroud was unable to rise. An examination revealed the break and a physician was summoned. The score at half time stood a tie and in the second half neither side tallied and play had to be stopped on account of darkness. One of the players of the Collegiate team fainted twice during the game, but is now fully recovered.

ONE OF NORWOOD'S PROMINENT CITIZENS HAS PASSED AWAY

Peterborough citizens who were acquainted with Mr. W E Roxburgh, Norwood, will regret to learn of his death at his home yesterday morning. Mr. Roxburgh has lived in Norwood for many years and was one of the most prominent public men in that village, having been connected for a long time with the Board of Education and the East Peterborough Agricultural Society. His influence with these organizations and others was of a most beneficial character, and he has always been respected by those whom he served. In business he was a prominent grain dealer and shipped many thousand bushels from Norwood every year. He was assisted in his business by his son, Mr. John Roxburgh of Norwood. He was about 74 years of age and had been ill some time.

His sons are Rev. Frank Roxburgh, Smithville, Ont.; John, of Norwood, and Gerald, an electrical engineer in Winnipeg, and one daughter, Mrs. (Judge) Stewart, Calgary. Mr. Roxburgh was twice married. The funeral will be held in Norwood tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

DRAY WITH LOAD OF POTATOES WEIGHED 14,551 POUNDS AT MARKET

This afternoon the habitues of the market were given a wild surprise and at the same time a subject for renewed conversation when a team of horses belonging to the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co., drew on to the scales a dray of potatoes which strained the apparatus to the extent of 14,551 lbs. 7 tons and 551 lbs. The potatoes were for Jas. R. Bell and were brought to the city from Harwood. The actual weight of the potatoes was 11960 lbs the dray making up the remainder.

There were 130 bags averaging 92 pounds, a record that will hold for some time in market annals.

Former Premier Of Province Of Manitoba Passes Away

Death of Hon. Thos. Greenway This Morning at Ottawa—A Remarkable Political Career.

A RECENT APPOINTMENT

Ottawa, Oct. 30th—Honourable Thos. Greenway, one of the most noted political figures of the country passed away here this morning from apoplexy.

The late Mr. Greenway first came into general prominence when in 1875, at a critical period of our political development, he was elected to parliament as an independent Conservative from the constituency of South Huron, following the unseating and disqualification of the late Hon. M. C. Cameron. Upon taking his seat in the Commons, he gave a veneers' support to the government of Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, and was subjected to no small amount of opposition on that account from the Conservative press.

He removed to Manitoba in 1878, and was one of the most prominent pioneers of that young province, establishing a great stock farm near Crystal City, and by its means giving a character to the herds and stables of the Prairie Province that was of great and direct benefit to the settlers.

He was soon called upon to take a place in the political affairs of the Province and was returned to the Legislature in 1879 for the constituency of Mountain, which he represented almost to the close of his life. He became premier of the province in 1888, and held that place until the beginning of the present century. Most of the great public works and educational and benevolent institutions of the province were organized or instituted under his direction of Provincial affairs. Retiring from Provincial politics, he represented the county of Lisgar in the House of Commons, and but recently had been appointed to the Board of Railway Commissioners of the Dominion.

Perhaps no better tribute to his memory can be given than to recall the estimate which Mr. J. S. Willison now editor of the Toronto News, made of his character and public services. Mr. Willison wrote—"A man of resolute will, and clear sound judgment, who has proved by his steady, strong and persistent course in his adopted Province that he had the qualities of a successful political leader."

PROPERTY IS RENTED

Hilliard Farm Cannot Be Obtained For Fair Grounds —Lease Given to Mr. Mitchell For Five Years.

THE COMMISSIONERS RESERVE RIGHT TO SELL

The City Trust Commissioners state that it is useless for the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition directors to visit the Hilliard farm to-morrow as intended. The farm was rented to Mr. Thos. Mitchell a month ago, and a five year lease has been given him. This transaction makes it impossible for the directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition to obtain the property for that length of time. The Commissioners have reserved the right to have erected public institutions on the property, so that the Isolation Hospital and the Hilliard farm may still be associated in discussion.

OBITUARY.

VERNA MAY CLARRY.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E Clarry, will sympathize with them in the loss of their infant daughter, Verna May., who passed away last night at the age of five months. The funeral was held this morning, and the remains were taken to Brooklyn, Ont., on the noon train for interment.

MRS JOS. NEWMAN, SR.

The death occurred last night of Elisabeth Love, relict of the late Jos. Newman, at the residence of her son, Joseph Newman, Smith Township. The deceased was seventy years of age, and was born in the Township of Kingston. Forty-eight years ago she was married to Jos. Newman, who died ten years later. The only child is Joseph Newman, of Smith. For years the family residence was at Bobcaygeon, but during the past year the deceased was living with her son.

The funeral will be held from the home of the latter on Saturday morning at 10.30 o'clock and proceed to Mount Pleasant.

RAILWAY SUBSIDIES.

While general popular sentiment is opposed to the subsidising of railways, there are two sides to the question. It is understood that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy of the C.P.R. says that if the Government will make it a general policy to cease the granting of subventions to railways the Canadian Pacific will forego its claims. Without canvassing the bona fides of this statement it may be recalled that it is made after the C.P.R. system has been completed and has become, in a sense, self-supporting and independent of assistance, this great railway is in the position of obtaining all the capital it requires to make extensions and its system is so complete, and, so to say, self-contained that it can finance a new line and count upon its paying from the beginning. Besides this great railway company has been helped by the funds of the country to such an extent that its surrender of a claim to further process serves to show that even a railway corporation can reach the point of satiety. No one can ignore the necessity of transportation as a medium of development. There may easily arise conditions that urgently indicate new railways to contribute to, and indeed to perform, a much needed work of development. If it is to the interest of an existing railway system to undertake the work in order to provide a feeder for its traffic, and if the means are not otherwise available, the Government may be fully justified in extending assistance in the way of a subsidy. The proposed line might not promise enough traffic to make its operation profitable as a business undertaking, but it might perform a work in national development which would invest it with the character of a national enterprise and therefore, as legitimate an object of Government aid as a canal system or a transcontinental railway system. Besides the conditions attached to government assistance to railways makes the contribution an investment, which apart from the benefit a new railway would confer in opening up new country, bringing new resources into commercial relations to the country at large and contributing to the prosperity and advantage of new communities, would represent a fair return. The condition attached to any bonus given by the Government, requiring service in the way of mail transport represents a reasonable interest on the funds advanced by way of bonuses. While it may be generally held, and soundly held, that the days of bonus-giving are past and should be past, it seems that a hard and fast prohibition would in cases which might easily arise, work a hardship and prove a detriment to national interests. A man in millions of cases might profitably take a resolution of abstention from strong drink, but he would naturally make the reservation—except for medical purposes. The same idea might enter into the consideration of the abolition of the railway bonus system.

NO DINGLEYISM FOR CANADA.

It is doubtful if any one cause had more influence in preventing the realization of Mr. Borden's hopes than the attitude of the Conservative leader towards protection. His policy in this particular did not help him in the cities, and in the rural constituences it was a handicap. The foremost exponent of the policy in Ontario went down to defeat in the city of Brantford in the person of Mr. Cockshutt, and a number of Mr. Borden's followers in rural ridings found it wise to formulate tariff planks of their own which were at direct variance with that laid down by their leader. In North Ontario Major Sharpe, and in North Simcoe Major Currie, both declared for lower duties on certain lines of goods largely consumed on the farm Mr. Shaffner, who was re-elected by a large majority in Souris, Manitoba, is on record in Parliament in favour of lower duties on agricultural implements, and Mr. Quinn, who made such a strong run in the overwhelmingly Liberal riding of North Oxford, took the same stand as the successful Conservative candidates in North Simcoe and North Ontario.

Mr. Borden was not able to carry even some of the strongest of his own party candidates with him in this matter, and there can be no doubt that his own personal declarations formed one of the strongest factors in repelling voters who might otherwise have been disposed to incline towards him. The day when a winning issue can be made in Canada out of a Dingley tariff has gone by.—Toronto Star.

WHAT LAURIER HAD TO FACE.

The sweeping victory of Laurier in 1904 was attributed by his opponents in part to the fact that the Liberal party had control of all the Provincial Governments except two—British Columbia and the Northwest Territories (non-party). At the present time the Conservatives control New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba and British Columbia. Never before has there been so avowed an alliance between the Federal and Provincial party organisations as was effected for the purposes of the Opposition campaign. For the first time a Federal leader stumped the country with an entourage of provincial premiers and cabinet ministers, to the exclusion of his Ottawa lieutenants. The alliance was thus openly proclaimed from the platform, and it was cemented by methods known only to the operators of the several party machines.

The premier of New Brunswick made a sorry mess of his work by his attack upon Mr. Pugsley, based on the "doctored" affidavit of a blackmailer. The recoil so floored the Opposition that it saved only two seats in the Province. In Ontario nearly every member of the Whitney Government took the stump, and Provincial officials actively promoted the Conservative interest. The result is a blow to the prestige of the Whitney administration. In Manitoba and British Columbia, however, the provincial governments "delivered the goods." This was especially the case in Manitoba, where the Roblin-Rogers machine worked day and night—mostly at night—in every riding in the province. That prince of manipulators, the Honourable Bob Rogers, has long challenged Mr. Sifton's ascendancy in the west, and threw every resource of the most powerful party organization in Canada against the Liberal candidates. It is no secret that Mr. Rogers was slated for the ministership of the interior in the expected Borden cabinet. It was certainly through no fault of his that the scheme went agley.

Considering these forces arrayed against him, Sir Wilfrid's triumph is more overwhelming than appears on the surface.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Mail and Empire calls Toronto the "centre of intelligence" of the Dominion. Why it hasn't even brains enough to control its street railway.

The Toronto Star, hastily remarks that the majority was close enough in Centre Toronto to make the Conservative candidate's hair Bristol. It was equivalent, however, to Robinette of a good Liberal representative.

The evidence accumulates that the Province of Manitoba was stolen from the Liberals at the recent elections. This shows the necessity of Dominion legislation dealing with the voters' lists question in that machine-dominated province.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been in receipt of all sorts of congratulations from all sorts of sources, from Great Britain, Australia Newfoundland and the United States, the latest was a cable from Premier Bothoa, Pretoria, received yesterday.

Hon. Clifford Sifton thus accounts for the "flop" in Manitoba: "Stuffed voters' lists were the principal cause of the adverse results in Manitoba, in Winnipeg and in Brandon. Other sinister influences were at work, not necessary to mention at present."

On October 21—five days before polling—the Toronto News argued a majority of 46 for the Conservatives. This was pretty close—to the total number elected in Ontario, and only 36 wide of the real Conservative majority in Ontario—10, which is one more than that party had in the last Parliament.

OWES CURE TO ZAM-BUK

Prominent Manager's Telling Testimony.

Mr. D. R. Gourlay, advertising manager for the well known piano firm of Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, Toronto and Winnipeg, is amongst the prominent men and women who testify to Zam-Buk's great curative power. He writes to the company as follows:

"Gentlemen,—I have pleasure in stating that upon the recommendation of a relative I purchased a box of your remedy (Zam-Buk), and by a few applications entirely cured a very severe sprain of the back. While not given to indiscriminate use of, or believer in, patent medicines, I can conscientiously recommend Zam-Buk.

"Sincerely yours,
"(Signed) D. R. Gourlay."

That is just where Zam-Buk proves its superiority! It is treated by men and women who have tried it, as altogether different to ordinary preparations. Doctors, hospital nurses, trainers, matrons of convalescent homes—all give Zam-Buk a good word; and better still they use it. Zam-Buk is as good for muscular stiffness, sprains, rheumatism and sciatica as it is for skin troubles. Hockey players and athletes in general find it invaluable. For eruptions, pustules, scalp sores, itch, eczema, ulcers, boils, abscesses, blood poison, cuts, burns, bruises and abrasions, it is a speedy cure Takes the soreness out of wounds almost instantly, and kills all disease germs, thus preventing festering and inflammation. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. 6 boxes for $2.50. Send 1c. stamp for trial box.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Hogs Take a Drop at Buffalo.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—London cables for cattle are steady at 11c to 12½c per pound, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 11c to 11½c per pound.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the railways, were 163 carloads, composed of 2621 cattle, 2350 hogs, 2127 sheep and lambs, 81 calves and one horse.

Exporters.

No export steers were on sale; had there been any the prices are quoted at $4.75 to $5 for good quality; bulls, $3.75 to $4.25.

Butchers.

A very few prime picked butchers' were reported at $4.75 to $5, the latter price being reported paid for two cattle. Out of 2621 cattle there were less than forty that sold over $4.25, and not more than 100 were reported sold over $4 per cwt. Geo. Rowntree bought 305 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Company as follows: Butchers' at $3.50 to $4.75, but few at the latter price; cows, $2.25 to $3.70; canners and bulls, at $1 to $3; feeding steers, $3.50 to $3.90 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report a slightly improved trade in stockers and feeders this week, especially for anything with quality. Good quality feeders, 1000 lbs. up, are in demand, and look like selling higher from now out. The common kind, as usual, are hard to cash, altho the market got a better clearance on the common kind this week than last, in all probability being due to lighter receipts. Messrs. Murby bought about 400 head this week at following quotations: Best feeders, 950 to 1050 lbs. each, at $3.85 to $4 per cwt.; best feeders, 800 to 900 lbs. each, at $3.25 to $3.50; best stockers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.25; common and medium stockers, $1.85 to $2.50.

Milkers and Springers.

For good to prime quality milkers and forward springers, there was a strong market at $45 to $70 each, eight cows being sold at the latter price during the week. Common to medium cows sold at $25 to $35 each.

Veal Calves.

About 100 veal calves sold at $3.50 to $7 per cwt., but very few brought the higher figure.

Sheep and Lambs.

A moderately large run of sheep and lambs sold at steady prices for sheep, but lambs were a trifle firmer. Export ewes sold at $3.25 to $3.40; rams, $3 to $3.50; lambs, at $4.25 to $4.60 per cwt.

Hogs.

About 3650 hogs from all sources arrived on the market. Prices were reported unchanged by Mr. Harris at $6 for selects and $6.75 for lights.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

Veals—Receipts, 750 head; active and 25c lower; $5.50 to $8.25; a few at $8.50.
Hogs—Receipts, 5100 head; fairly active and 10c to 25c lower; heavy, $6 to $6.15; mixed, $6.00 to $6.10; yorkers, $4.75 to $6; pigs, $4 to $4.50; roughs, $5 to $5.25; dairies and grassers, $5 to $5.60.
Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 7600 head; sheep active and steady; lambs slow and 15c lower; native lambs, $4 to $6; Canada lambs, $5.50 to $5.75.

New York Live Stock.

Calves—Receipts, 241; veals steady; no trading in western calves; feeling weak; veals sold at $5 to $9.25 per cwt.; grassers and fed calves, $3.25 to $4.
Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 3771; sheep, unchanged; lambs, slow but steady; sheep sold at $3.50 to $3.70 per cwt.; culls, at $2 to $2.25; lambs, $5.25 to $5.15; culls, $3.50.
Hogs—Receipts, 5719; feeling steady.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 2000; market steady to strong; steers, $4.40 to $7.60; cows, $3 to $5; heifers, $2.50 to $4.65; bulls, $3.50 to $4.50; calves, $3 to $8; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.65.
Hogs—Receipts, 30,000; market 5c to 10c lower; choice heavy shipping, $6 to $6.20; butchers', $5.90 to $6.10; light mixed, $5.75 to $5.50; choice light, $5.90 to $5.90; packing, $5.50 to $5.90; pigs, $3.50 to $4.25; bulk of sales, $5.50 to $5.80.
Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 20,000; market 10c to 20c lower; sheep, $4.20 to $5; lambs, $4.75 to $6; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.15.

Girls In Fire Panic.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 30.—Panic increased by the sight of bursting fire works, caused scores of girl employes in the eleven-storey Neave Building, corner of Fourth and Race streets, to leap from the windows during a fire yesterday; at least 20 of them being hurt, several seriously, while one of the firemen was also badly injured.

Peel Township May Go Dry.

Guelph, Oct. 30.—Peel Township, Wellington County, may be dry next year. A strongly signed petition has been granted by the Township Council and the bylaw will be submitted in January.

The Official Figures Give Mr. Stratton Majority Of 333

The returns for West Peterborough as officially given out by Sheriff Hall, returning officer, to-day, give Mr. Stratton a majority of 333. Some of the returns telephoned to the press on the night of the election were either erroneously given or incorrectly heard which accounts for the difference. The official returns are:—

BURNS KNOCKS BRITONS.

Says Workingmen Drink More Than American Brethren.

London, Oct. 30.—John Burns, the Labor leader and president of the local Government Board, drew down upon his head the anathemas of the Laborites when in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon he intimated that the main disadvantages under which the British unemployed labored, as compared to the unemployed in America, was that the Britons drank more than their transatlantic confreres.

Mr. Burns repudiated the suggestion that the difference lay in the fact that the American unemployed had money in their pockets.

"I have been in America three times," he said, "and the only difference I saw between the unemployed in America and those of this country was that the former, for a short time after losing work, were better dressed. Many of them do not drink so much as do many British unemployed workmen, but British workmen have an advantage in the number of days they are idle."

Loud cries of "It is untrue," "It is a shameful comparsion," greeted Mr. Burns' statement.

Army Reservists In Canada.

London, Oct. 30.—(C. A. P.)—Mr. Haldane states that 3,153 army reservists reside in Canada.

Severed Head Startles Farmer.

Adrian, Mich., Oct. 30.—A dried human head, apparently cleanly severed from the body and with the mouth stuffed with rags, rolled out of a pile of sacks yesterday in an outbuilding on the farm of the late Samuel Bryant, where threshers were working.

Bryant, who has been dead for six months, lived alone on his farm for several years after having had trouble with his wife.

Close examination indicates that the head was severed probably by a saw. Dr. Wilcox declared it could not be the head of Bryant, but neighbors are unanimous in saying it is.

Two Hundred and Eighty Prisoners.

New York, Oct. 30.—Two spectacular raids of alleged pool-rooms were made yesterday by the police at different places on the east side of the city. In the aggregate 280 prisoners were taken and in addition, it is said, a considerable quantity of gambling paraphernalia was confiscated.

At both houses raided it was necessary to use axes to gain entrance, and at one of them the heavy doors were impregnable and it was necessary to breach the wall of the building. Not one inmate of either house escaped arrest.

THE EXAMINER'S SPORTING PAGE

MANY CONTESTANTS EXPECTED FOR EXAMINER ROAD RACE

It is less than three weeks now until Thanksgiving Day, and the day of the Examiner Road Races. A number of local foot runners have signified their intention of entering the races, as have also several from outside the city, in the county. The races—five-mile junior and ten-mile senior, are open to any resident of the county who is an amateur and who is registered with the C.A.A.U.

The course for the seniors is from the ten-mile post in Lakefield to the Examiner office, and for the juniors from a distance of five miles on the Lakefield road to the Examiner office. Some of the local runners have been out training, and will be taking jaunts over the road in a few days' time.

Entry forms are given below, and those desiring to participate in the events are asked to fill in the blanks, cut out the forms, and forward them to the Examiner office:

Thanksgiving Day, November 9, 1908.

I hereby express my intention of entering the Senior Examiner ten-mile road race, to be run on Monday, November 9, 1908, from Lakefield to Peterborough. Please enter my name among the contestants.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR HARRISON-HOAGLAND HANDICAP RACE HELD ON THANKSGIVING DAY

Arrangements have been completed for the nine-hour heel and toe contest between Champion Hoagland and Jim Harrison, on the 9th of November, Thanksgiving Day. Hoagland has sent along his part of the side bet and Harrison has covered the amount and signed articles, so the lovers of the walking game will have an opportunity of witnessing a great match when they meet. Harrison is sure Hoagland cannot beat him one mile in nine hours, as the champion tried his best to get away on the local man when they met in the walk at Port Hope and failed to get a lap in six hours.

The match will take place in Brock Street Rink and will, no doubt, draw a great crowd, for both men are favourites here.

LOCALS CONFIDENT OF GIVING TORONTO CLUB HARD BATTLE TO-MORROW

To-morrow's big game between the Toronto A. A. C. and the T. A. S. Athletic Club's seniors will start sharp at 2.15 o'clock, and indications point to a big crowd and one of the finest games seen on the local grounds in years. Both teams will be strengthened for the game, the T. A. S. by the presence of Pete Flett, hailed by the Toronto press as the king of half backs, and the locals by Dr. McPherson, who was a star with the old Peterborough and afterwards with Varsity. Flett returned to-day from a visit to New Brunswick, and will be on the line-up of the visitors to-morrow. McLennan, an old Varsity player, will be at inside wing for the visitors and they will have other well known Rugby men on the team, including Les Morrison, Mara Cookes Sale and Clarke, formerly of the Toronto Argos; Nasmith, of Varsity; and Grushy, of Upper Canada College.

They locals are in the best of shape they have been this season. They were out in full force last night and had a rattling practice at Riverside Park, under the watchful eye of D. McPherson, whose coaching has rejuvenated the team so that there should be a surprise in store for the T. A. A. C. when they strike here to-morrow.

Back—Kelly.
Centre half—McPherson.
Right half—Craig.
Left half—Quinlan.
Quarter—Lundy.
Scrimmage—O'Brien, Clarke and Grudy.
Inside wings—Deannard and Dickson.
Middle wings—Fitzpatrick and Davidson.
Outside wings—O'Connor, captain, and Crough.
Spares—Hall, Cahill, Hickey Denoon and Dennis.

It is to be hoped that a big crowd will be on hand. The team has been practising industriously and are confident of defeating the visitors, who may find their Canadian championship aspirations suddenly extinguished to-morrow. At any event it will be a great game and lovers of Rugby cannot afford to miss the struggle. The public is asked to note that the game will be called an hour earlier than stated on the bills, in order to give the visitors an opportunity to get away on the afternoon train for Toronto.

The local club maintain that Dr. Vic McWilliams, of Keene, is to referee the battle. The T. A. A. C. are objecting, but the T. A. S. management say that they had to submit to Dr. Wood, of the T. A. A. C. in the game in Toronto two weeks ago and that the visitors will have to accept the local choice here to-morrow.

T. A. A. C. HAVE ACCEPTED THE CHALLENGE OF THE ARGONAUTS

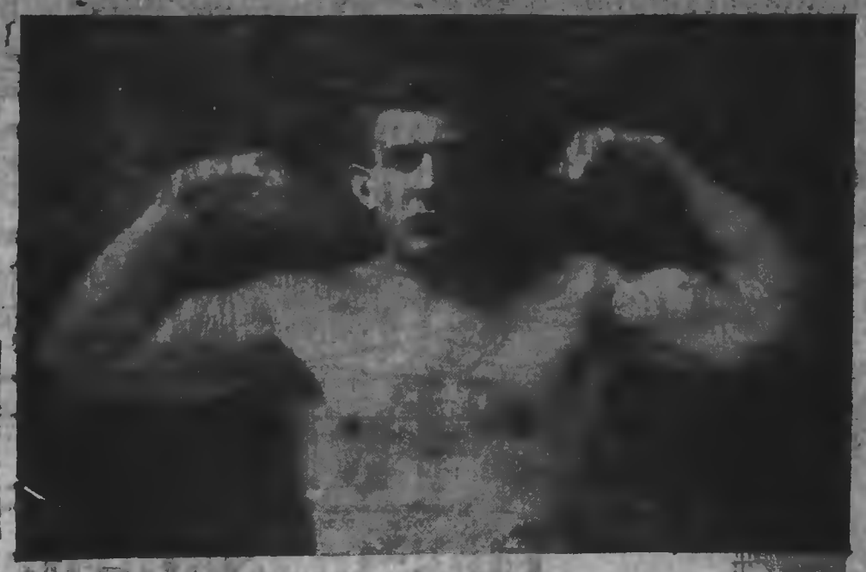
Toronto, Oct. 29.—The following open challenge was issued to-day through the morning papers by the Argonaut Rugby Club:

"On November 7 the Argos close their league season here with Montreal, thus giving them an open date on November 14, and if T.A.A.C. are anxious for a game on that date they will be accommodated by the Argos. T.A.A.C. will likely accept Argos' offer, as they have been looking for the Soldiers' scalps all season. Both teams have their admirers, and the game will probably be a heavy betting proposition."

The date suggested by the Argonauts, November 14, conflicts with the game at Varsity field between Varsity and Queen's, which will likely decide the championship of the Inter-Collegiate Union, and which will be the game of the season in college circles.

On behalf of the Toronto A.A.C., Dr. W. O. Wood, the secretary, to-day accepted the challenge of the Argonauts, but in view of the counter-attraction of November 14, and the fact that T.A.A.C. has a game in prospect for that date, suggested that the game between the Argos and T. A.A.C. should be played either on November 9 (Thanksgiving Day), or on Saturday, November 21. Both of these are open dates in Toronto, and it should be to the advantage of both clubs to play then. The Thanksgiving Day date looks best, and a record crowd would surely attend the game, which would be for the city championship.

The Argonauts will consider the T. A.A.C. suggestions, and will give a final answer to-night.



YANKEE ROGERS,
Who makes his fourth appearance in Peterborough to-night.

ROGERS HAS NO DOUBT OF THE RESULT OF TO-NIGHT'S WRESTLING BOUT; INTEREST IN PRELIMINARIES

Yankee Rogers and his manager W H Naylor arrived in town this afternoon and both are quite confident of putting the "kibosh" on Young Hackenschmidt. Rogers says that after he gets through with Hack, he will be like his famous cousin, when he met Gotch, just have a hazy idea of what happened. He admits that he will have to put his best efforts to work to do this, but he is in such good condition, that he does not fear the result.

Hackenschmidt is quite confident and thinks Rogers will not be so windy after the match, for he depends upon his speed to get away with these giants that he is meeting all the time. He thinks Rogers no exception and that he will go the same as all on them when he puts some of his holds on the Yank. Bill Landry and A O Yokome are on for the first preliminary and this bout promises to be a peach as both are quite confident. They will mix it up from the gong. Landry has the advantage in weight by about 20 pounds.

Ned Fitzpatrick is tackling a tough proposition when he undertakes to put Jack Wilson's shoulders to the mat twice in fifteen minutes, for Wilson is the slipperiest bach of muscle in the wrestling game in this town. Fitz, thinks this is a good way to train for his match with Burridge and will go after Jack and do his best to get the two falls in the time limit.

The management will have the rink heated and quite comfortable for the fans to witness the sport. The advance sale has been good and a great crowd is sure to be on hand for the fun.

The first bout will be called at 8.15 and everything run off on time.

THE CHIEFTAINS MEET THE TIGERS TO-NIGHT

The Tigers and Chieftain basketball teams come together to-night at the Y.M.C.A. at 7 o'clock. The line-ups are as follows:

Chieftains—
Hall
Munro
Milburn
Kirn
Turner.

Tigers—
H Staunton
P Weatherstone
D Loomis
P Wallace
S Laing.

RUGBY

Dr. A. W. McPherson, of the Varsity champion Rugby team of 1905, will play on the half back line for Peterborough, against T.A.A.C. on Saturday, in the senior O.R.F.U. game.—Toronto Star.

YOUNG HACKENSCHMIDT,

BIG PREPARATIONS MADE FOR PORT HOPE ATHLETIC MEET

The big indoor meet of the Y. M. C. A. Harrier Club of Port Hope, which will be held in the skating rink Friday evening, Nov. 6th, will be a grand evening of sports for the people of Port Hope, Words has been received from Toronto, Peterborough, Belleville, Kingston, Trenton, and Toronto University, says the Guide, that they are sending their best men for the races. Bobby Kerr the world's champion runner, will run a 50 yds. and 220 yds. dash. This event will be worth the price of admission.

In connection with the above, it is quite likely a number of Peterborough runners will be on hand to capture a few of the prizes. Peterborough is now classed among the best of them so far as sprinters, middle, and long distance men are concerned and it certainly should be represented at Port Hope next Friday night.

PETE FLETT, STAR HALF, WILL BE ON T. A. A. C'S LINE-UP TO-MORROW

Pete Flett, the best half back seen in Canada in some years, will be home to-morrow from Edmunston, N. B., where he has been putting in a two months' holiday with his friend, L. W. Reade, who has the contract for building a portion of the railway in that city.

Pete, in a letter received a day or two ago, stated that he intended leaving immediately for civilized parts and expected to be home some time this week. He says he's as hard as nails and eager to get in the game again.

The report of earlier in the season that he was going to hold down a job in Montreal on the G.T.P. is a new one to him. Pete will turn out with the Toronto A. A. C., of which he is a charter member.

McLennan, the ex-Varsity inside wing, showed up splendidly against McMaster for T.A.A. on Tuesday. He will likely be a fixture. Col. is a brother of Biddy McLennan.—Toronto Star.

LONGBOAT WILL START IN THE HERALD [ROAD RACE]

Nobody can figure out what Tom Flanagan's next move will be. Now he has entered Longboat in the Hamilton Herald road race, in spite of the Onondaga's announcement of some days ago that he would never run another race.

If the Indian refuses to take his manager's advice and never run again, it is a certainty that he will not run professional races with Hayes, Dorando and Shrubb. "You can say for me, and make it as emphatic as you like," said Flanagan last night, "that Longboat will never, never join the professional ranks as long as I have anything to do with him and can prevent it. It would be the end of him entirely," asserted the Irish mogul.

Flanagan is obstinate. Many of the friends of the Indian have called him up and communicated with him in various ways to try to make him see the light—to convince him that the Indian has more medals, cups and glory than any long distance runner anywhere, and that it is high time that he were getting a little money for himself against the "rainy day." "Nothing doing," says Flanagan.—Toronto Globe.

TWENTY-TWO COMPETE IN JUMPS IN "Y GYM."

Twenty-two Peterboro boys competed in the standing broad jump last night at the Y.M.C.A. These events are becoming more popular with the boys each evening and the results are anxiously awaited.

The standing is as follows:

	Points
A McWilliams	11
S Mamwell	11
M Laing	9
F Halpany	8
B Tayler	8
W Davidson	8
D Foster	2
R Patterson	1
G Hutchinson	1

Next event is running high jump.

The Toronto A.A.C. seniors will leave on Saturday morning for Peterborough, where they expect a hard game from the locals.—Toronto Star.

PRINTER LEAVING FOR BARRIE

Mr. A. Bolwell Secures Position With Gazette of That Town.

Mr. A. Bolwell, who has been an operator on one of the machines in the Examiner news room for the past two and a half years, left to-day for Barrie, where he has secured a position as compositor with the Barrie Gazette. Mr. Bolwell while in the city has made a large number of friends who will regret his departure. He was a member of the Typographical Union and always took a deep interest in the affairs connected with it.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolwell left at noon to-day for Barrie.

HOW TO CARE FOR NEW MEADOWS

"As a result of several years' experience, I am strongly of the opinion that one of the places to apply manure is on the new meadows," said John Fixter, the manager of the Macdonald College Farm, at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., to a representative of The Dairyman and Farming World, who recently visited the College. "For several seasons," said Mr. Fixter, "I had considerable trouble getting a catch of clover and grasses. The thought came to me that very a mulch applied to the fields immediately after the grain crop was harvested it would help the newly-seeded fields.

"I have tried this for four years with splendid results. Last year I applied manure in this way on 25 acres, and this year we harvested two splendid crops, that I expect will turn out at least four tons to the acre. This hay is in stack and will be weighed as soon as our barns are ready. The more I see of this top dressing the more I am inclined to think that it would be a far better plan for those farmers, who have difficulty in getting a catch of hay and clover seed, than applying the manure to corn and root fields.

"When spreading the manure, put on as light a coat as possible. If you have a manure spreader, set the spreader to spread eight to ten tons an acre. A light dressing is much better than a heavy one, as it allows the young plants to get through and it leaves more manure for the other fields.

"When I have followed this plan, I have secured about a ton to the acre more hay, and I have had a heavier sod for pasturage purposes. This heavier sod, also, provided more plant food to be plowed under for the growing crops. The extra hay secured about paid for the manure used, while the extra sod turned under benefitted the hoed and grain crops that followed."

INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS
FULTON'S RENAL COMPOUND
"Kidney trouble" is inflamation of the kidneys without albumen.
"Bright's Disease" is inflammation of the kidneys with albumen.
In each the real trouble is INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, hence a cure for one must be a cure for the other. There has been no cure for either.
But many kidney troubled people get well.
True—because inflammation of the kidneys unless severe commonly gets well at first. But if it does not yield early and the inflammation persists, the real trouble begins.
You can see why kidney disease has been incurable and why the deaths have risen to over 170 per day up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound there was nothing known that would reduce inflammation in the kidneys tissues.
The old kidney medicines were a misconception, irritating the inflamed kidneys to renewed efforts instead of allaying the inflammation, some of them being actually infantile. Result—physicians have abandoned them.
No matter whether you call it "kidney trouble," "Nephritis," or "Bright's Disease," if it has been hanging on a few months, recovery can be only hoped for through this specific. It has a proven efficiency in nearly 87 per cent. of all cases. It is the only thing known that controls inflammation in the kidneys, which is the real difficulty with kidney troubled people.

A FEW WORDS FROM "SOIL-TILLER"

Many a "soil-tiller" living in towns and cities finds himself up against problems which do not bother his country cousin. Two of the advantages which the country man has over his city brother in soil cultivation is ready access to the manure pile and to a rotation of crops. No matter how much he may wish to carry out a system of rotation of crops, it is often impossible for the city man to do so for oftentimes more than one-half of his lot is planted to potatoes and sometimes they will be grown on the same spot for several years in succession, with no manure applied to the land.

Eight years ago, I made up my mind to see if it were possible to make the land grow its own manure and a crop of potatoes also. Having a piece of ground about 60 x 40 feet, which had grown potatoes for eight years out of 12 and which seemed to be sick of this crop, as the yield was becoming smaller every year, I started sowing clover seed as soon as the crop could be taken up. By the first of June of the following year, I had a crop of clover a foot high. I dug this in and planted early potatoes that already had sprouted. They soon came up and yielded a better crop than I had had for several years. I continued doing this for five years in succession, during which time I did not use a bit of manure. The fifth crop was the best of all.

I finally came to the conclusion that it was possible to make land grow its own fertilizer and a crop besides. At the present time, I have a fine crop of potatoes, this being the 16th crop in 20 years. On two occasions, I did not wait till the crop was taken up but sowed the clover between the rows. I was able to do this as I always work on the level system. It pays every time to turn under a good crop of clover.

ENOCH ARDEN FAR IN THE SHADE

Wealthy Farmer Starts Out to Kill Rival But Will Act as Best Man—Chase Over Three States.

AGREES TO GET DIVORCE

Chicago, October 29 (Special) — The love stories of Enoch Arden and John Ruskin — one a fable of romance, the other a true story of how a famous English writer and philosopher gave his wife to another man, has been outdone by Sherman Kime, a wealthy farmer living near Petersburg, Ind., whose remarkable story of self sacrifice reached here.

Kime left his home several weeks ago in search for the young wife who had deserted him. Armed with a revolver he sought out the man who had broken up his home for the avowed purpose of killing him.

Across three States Kime tracked the woman, and finally he came upon his rival in a cabin in the forests of Arkansas.

There, disguised in such a manner that he was unrecognizable, with murder in his heart and his hand gripping the handle of his revolver, Kime talked with John McArnold, wrung from him a story of love so great that it melted the heart of the avenger and spurred him to a sacrifice more sublime than either the two great romances of fact and fiction mentioned.

Learn's Wife's Secret

There Kime learned the secret of why his wife had suddenly left him to return to her former home in Arkansas, revealing a capacity for love which he had never believed the woman possessed.

When the story had been told Kime revealed his identity, shook hands with McArnold, relinquished all claims to his wife, promised to return at once, and obtain a divorce, and, as a crowning act of generosity, offered to give the pair financial assistance as soon as they were married.

Mrs. Kime and McArnold were schoolday sweethearts. Their marriage was prevented by the girl's parents, who moved North when she was sixteen years of age. She met and married Kime. But always in her heart she carried the image of her boyish sweetheart. McArnold, learning of her marriage, was also wedded.

A few weeks ago young Mrs. Kime learned that McArnold's wife had died, leaving him helpless with a young baby.

"He needs me, I can't remain away any longer," she declared. The young woman then disappeared.

Starts in Search

Kime, posing as a stock buyer, then started in search of her. He finally found her at the home of her sister in Arkansas. She confessed to him her love for McArnold. Kime continued on his way until he reached the home of his rival.

"I fully intended to kill him," said Kime. I had arranged to disappear. I don't think the police would ever have caught me. But I talked with McArnold and heard his story of hard luck. I could not bear him any ill-will. They had met and loved before either had known me. I saw how things were and how much better it would be for me to give her up. I loved her better than life, and I could not cause her further grief. I told McArnold he could have her. So I came home and am now suing for divorce."

Kime declared that his act of generosity had done much to heal his sorrow.

"I have written to them telling them that I am going to act as their best man," he declared.

"It won't be very jolly for me, I guess, but I'll do the best I can. I believe in doing things right when once I get started and I am going to buy them a farm and I wish them long life and prosperity."

TRUE ECONOMY

Lies in Saturday Bargain Sale Specials!

Economy is not in saving money. Rather in spending or investing it so as to effect a savings. The savings is the economy of the investment. Many conditions govern the economical use of money—investing at the right time—at the right place—in a judicial way—in the right goods. We offer an easy way to comply with these requirements to the people of Peterboro and surrounding country. How?—simply by the underprice selling in all lines we do every Saturday. Our offerings are all seasonable—new goods, new styles. Each means economy in the shape of a clear-cut saving to the purchaser. Come to-morrow—learn to economise in the truer way.

Ladies Auxiliary of Y.M.C.A. Hold Their Annual Meeting

Financial Statement Shows Balance on Hand—The New Officers Elected.

SECRETARY GAVE REPORT

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. was held in the Association parlour on Monday evening, Oct. 5th.

Mrs. Wm. Davidson, the 1st Vice President, was in the chair. The meeting opened with singing and scripture reading and prayer by Mr. Hassard. After the regular meeting had been disposed of, the annual reports of the secretary and treasurer were presented and adopted. It was decided to hold a monthly meeting on the third Monday of themonth.

The following was the report of the secretary—Though the meetings have been less in number during the year just closed and the average attendance smaller, (this is noted with regret), and while there have been nomeetings of social character and no entertainments given at all, still the work of the Ladies' Auxiliary has quietly been going on. The chief cause of regret that we have been called upon to experience was the resignation of the President, Mrs. E. F. Mason, which was tendered in April last. Her regular attendance at meetings, the keen interest shown by her in all of the work and her general faithfulness were so much appreciated that the withdrawal has left a vacancy hard to fill, although Mrs. Davidson, the first Vice President has performed her part very acceptably indeed since then up to the present time, It is a cause of thankfulness that no removals or deaths among our members has been recorded, while some new members have been welcomed.

During the year there were seven regular meetings and three special meetings held with an average attendance of ten members, showing a decrease of two when compared with the 2 previous years. The work accomplished has consisted of the replenishing of domitory supplies, many new curtains and the renewing of table linen, and replenishing of dishes, cutlery, and kitchen utensils in the pantry.

Early in August last Mrs Yeigh of Brantford, the Provincial President, visited our city and as she was desirous of meeting with the members of the Auxiliary, a meeting was called but as many were absent from town, it being the holiday season, there were only three members present to confer with her.

The above report is respectfully submitted by

ESTELLA MEDD,
Secretary of L. A. of Y. M. C. A.

THE SHEFFIELD CHOIR

A feature of the coming visit of the Sheffield Choir to Canada has perhaps been lost sight of. The undertaking of bringing so large a body as two hundred people across the Atlantic for a flying visit involves such a tremendous outlay that no possible profit can result from a tour. This is a fact fully appreciated by Dr. Coward, the conductor, and the members of the Sheffield Choir, and most of all by Dr. Charles A. E. Harriss on whom the financial responsibility rests. He has decided that rather than try to make both ends meet by charging a higher scale of prices, to make these prices as popular as possible, and it is for that reason that tickets are being offered in the present reasonable scale in all the ten cities which the choir visits. There is no question that the public response to this consideration will be very great, and crowded houses will everywhere welcome the finest body of singers in Europe.

The concert will be held here in the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening, November 12th.

"THREE TWINS"

If the "Three Twins" now playing at the Herald Square Theatre indefinitely, never does any more good in its career it has accomplished one worthy object that in two hearts at least will endear it forever.

Young Wilton Hanson, the son of Edward A. Hanson, a wealthy woollen merchant, recently offended his father by marrying a saleslady in one of the well-known New York department stores. The irate old gentleman, without even seeing the girl, had his son's name stricken from his will and fully made up his mind to leave his considerable fortune to charitable organizations.

The old man being a widower and extremely lonesome, the other night strolled into the Herald Square Theatre with the double purpose of seeing the "Three Twins" and forgetting his son. He was in an extremely receptive mood for any excuse to be reconciled to his boy, and this excuse was given to him before the playwas half over,

At the end of the first act, Miss Stella Tracey sings a song filled with sentiment and beautiful thought, called "Cuddle Up a Little Closer, Lovey Mine." During the action of this song "the seven ages of cuddling" are graphically depicted by actors made up to reprenent the various ages from the cradle to old age, and in each picture they appear in couples lovingly clinging to each other.

When the last stage, in which an old man clinging to the arm of his grown son, appears, Mr. Hanson, breaking down and crying softly, left the theatre. He immediately sent for his son, changed his will and now all is well.—"Entertainer".

"THE WOLF"

Hamilton Evening Times, Thursday, October 15th, 1908:

Another one of Eugene Walter's plays was presented at the Grand last night. It was "The Wolf," and it was witnessed by a large and critical audience, Hamilton's theatregoers having evinced a deep interest in Mr. Walter's works. The play is a powerful one, and is of peculiar interest to Canadians, the scenes being laid in the vicinity of Hudson's Bay and the characters being familiar ones. The story tells of one, Andrew McTavish, a Scotchman callous to sentiment through early domestic troubles, living the life of a hermit with his daughters far off in the woods. The inroads of modern science bring an American engineer to the spot for the purpose of building a railway and opening up the country. He is absolutely devoid of principle, but possesses the winning, sleek ways of his ilk. A splendid hero is Jules Beaubien, a French-Canadian of the woods, who rescues the girl from him.

The staging of the three acts was very fine, the scenes of the northern woods being exceedingly realistic.

The best work, perhaps, was done by Severin De Deyn, in the role of Jules Beaubien, a French-Canadian. Henry Dugan handled the difficult role of villain very cleverly, and his work was appreciated. Mr. Geo. Nichols as McTavish, the Scotch settler, and father of the heroine, acted well. "The Wolf" altogether is a very powerful play.

ADDRESS GIVEN BY MAYOR RUSH ON SINKING FUND AT CONVENTION IN MONTREAL

How Some Municipalities Get Into Difficulties—Work of the City Trust Commissioners.

MUCH DISCUSSION FOLLOWED

The October issue of the Canadian Municipal Journal contains in full an account of the eighth annual convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities held in Montreal from July 16 to 17th. It will be remembered that Peterborough was represented by His Worship Mayor Rush who opened the question of sinking funds by an address which is printed as follows in the above mentioned magazine and which was followed by a lengthy discussion:—

The consideration of sinking funds raises the question of whether it is advisable to issue instalment debentures or straight term debentures with sinking funds to redeem them at maturity.

The advantage of the straight term debentures is that they sell better, for private investors as a rule do not like instalment debentures, by which they are paid each year a portion of the principal sum borrowed. Yet the instalment debentures save the municipality all the trouble, expense and risk of handling and investing sinking funds, which in some municipalities amount to a large sum. In addition, where sinking funds are raised by taxation, the sums received each year cannot very well be invested immediately at as high a rate of interest as is paid on the debentures, and when debentures are maturing, money must be kept on hand to redeem them, so that there is usually a loss of interest on the sinking funds compared with the rate paid on the debentures. Taking this into account, and taking into account the expense and risk of handling sinking funds, a somewhat lower price could be taken for instalment debentures without loss to the municipality.

Some Municipalities have got into difficulties owing to sinking funds not having been raised, or, after being raised, having been diverted to other uses, and in spite of the severe legal penalties for this, difficulties still occasionally arise from this cause. In our municipality we have no danger of this owing to a peculiar system that we have had since 1861. We have a body known as the Peterborough City Trust, composed of five members appointed by the Council, one of whom retires each year. To this body is entrusted the care of the real estate owned by the city and the whole work of investing the Sinking Funds and paying off the debentures. They make a demand upon the council each year for the amount they need, and this the council must raise and hand over to them, and they do the rest. In this way there is a body of trustees out of the council who see that the necessary amounts are raised and who also see that the money is properly invested and retained for the purpose for which it is intended. We have found this system to work well.

In Ontario, however, the Government has taken a step which makes such a system as our trust unnecessary and also removes almost all the disadvantages of the straight term debentures as compared with the instalment debentures. At the last session of the Legislature an Act was passed which enables municipalities to pay the sums necessary for sinking funds into the treasury of the Province, where they bear interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, compounded, until such time as the debentures are payable. In order to avail itself of this provision, the by-law creating the debt must provide that the annual amount to be levied on account of the sinking fund shall be paid by the treasurer of the municipality to the treasurer of Ontario. The amount payable in any year to the credit of the sinking fund which, under the provisions of the by-law, has to be paid to the treasurer of Ontario, shall then be deemed a debt due to him, and in default of payment he may sue therefor in his own name as for a debt due to the Crown in any court of competent jurisdiction. By these provinces the Treasurer of the Province is placed in a position to see that the sinking funds are levied and raised and that they are paid over to him to be held for the redemption of the debentures. The municipalities will no doubt take advantage of these provisions of this Act, as by it the sinking funds will be profitably and safely invested without trouble, and as they do, all danger of sinking funds not being raised or being diverted from their proper course will be avoided. The Act is an excellent one for the municipalities, and also for those who invest in municipal debentures, and should enhance the value of the debentures and make them more readily saleable.

In those Provinces which have not an Act such as this, I would commend to the Municipalities the Peterborough system of Trustees; but the plan of the Province of Ontario, by which the Treasurer of the Province acts as Trustee is a still better one, and it might not be out of place for this Union to recommend it.

Wall Paper Wants

—Now is the time of all times to put on wall paper. Everywhere the country over the busy housewife, with a handkerchief round her head, and broom or scrubbing brush in hand, is carrying on the annual war on dirt of all kinds. From the backyards of thousands of peaceful Canadian homes issue forth sounds as of musketry, which sounds in reality are merely testimonials to the muscular skill of Mesdames Householder in making the dust of twelve months fly from the carpets. The walls are being re-decorated in view of the approaching holiday season, and the Peterborough Bookstore is brimful of the prettiest new designs of the season. A. H. Stratton & Co.
